Dear Sir,—In your edition of July 24th you discussed the Burleigh question in an able manner and with a great deal of what you said I perfectly agree, but you appear to be under a misapprehension. You speak about paying $120,000 for a lease partially expired. This is not the title that the Central Ontario Power Company offer the City of Peterborough. The Central Ontario Power Company are the fee simple owners of the property in the main. Their predecessors in title owned the whole water power. The Government only expropriated sufficient to build the dam and the Company are the owners of the bed of the river, most of the banks and all the riparian rights from the dam down to Stony Lake. In settling with the Government the Company took a lease of the Government dam and all the Government rights in lieu of damages while the owners of other powers along the river received large sums in the way of damages. The true position of the title is that about nine-tenths of the power property belongs to the Company now, in fee simple. The other tenth is under the lease from the Government, which has still fifty years to run. The lease, by itself, would be worthless, and the Government will never be in a position to lease their portion of the power to anybody else, as it would be entirely worthless to anybody else. If the city of Peterborough purchases Burleigh, they get the control of it for all time to come, and it has all the water of the Otonabee River and twenty-seven feet of head, the natural reservoirs of Lovesick Lake above it, and Stony Lake below, and will thus be enabled to develop fifty per cent. more power than any other power on the Otonabee River. The people must also consider the economy of development and operation of a large power. It would pay the City of Peterborough better to pay a couple of hundred thousand dollars for Burleigh than to take three or four smaller powers together, and incur the expense of their development and operation. However, it is for the City to say.

Yours truly,
R. J. McLAUGHLIN.

MANY ATTENDED THE TENT SERVICE

Again last evening the tent on the property adjoining the Customs House in which evangelistic services are being held, was well filled. The meetings have been very encouraging and much good is being done. Mr. F. C. Moore had charge of the meeting last night, and short but interesting addresses were delivered by Messrs. Whalen and Cox.

SALVATION ARMY COLONY COMING

Arrangements Between C. P. R. and Salvation Army for a Settlement in Alberta.

Arrangements are approaching completion for the settlement of a large number of British emigrants upon a large tract of land in Alberta, well watered and provided with railway facilities by the Canadian Pacific. The project is a joint enterprise of the company and the Salvation Army. It is approved of by the government, and a sum of $300,000 has been allocated for purposes connected with the scheme.

It is intended to limit the selection to the most promising class of immigrants, and as there is no difficulty in finding them, some fifty families will probably be settled upon the land in question before the end of the year. These new farms are to be cut up into small sections. They will not be open only to experienced farmers, but to persons of intelligence who are able and willing to make farming a success under competent advice and instruction. The Salvation Army authorities report they have half a million on their books, persons of good character, who are eager to face life under new conditions.

Kidney Suffering IN THE SPRING

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak Kidney Action—Prompt relief by using DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

No organs of the body are so susceptible to the quickly changing temperature of spring as the kidneys. Sudden cold waves mean chilling of the surface of the body, closing of the pores of the skin and over crowding of the kidneys at a time when they are already overworked in an effort to free the system of the accumulated poisons of winter.

The tired draggy feelings you experience and the weakness and pains in the back tell of a poisoned system and defective kidneys.

There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease.

There is a reason for this. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby effect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the whole excretory system.

In this combined action Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unique. There are no substitutes or imitations which possess this principle.

Mrs. F. O. Bacon, Baldwin's Mills, Que., writes: "I was very sick last spring. The doctors said I must go to the hospital for an operation but I didn't want to. My liver and kidneys did not act and I suffered terribly. I then began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and nothing else, and am now fully cured and doing my own work for a family of seven."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MR. ERNIE GIBSON HAS NEW DOUBLE EUPHONIUM

Similar to That Mr. Ed. Cronk Purchased Some Time Ago.

Mr. Ernie Gibson, of the 57th Band, has recently received a double bell euphonium of the Beuscher True Tone manufacture. It is exactly the same as that which Mr. Ed. Cronk purchased early in the Spring through Mr. J. M. Greene. The second horn enables the player to bring in trombone effects. They are beautiful instruments and Mr. Gibson, who is a pupil of Mr. Cronk, is making splendid progress and is a valuable member of the bass section of the 57th.

Painters Strongly Protest Against Municipal Work Being Let By Day Labour

To-day's Sessions Were Very Profitable and Largely Attended—Convention a Gratifying Success—Many New Arrivals This Morning—Prof. Nelson's Address.

BAND CONCERT TO-NIGHT

The number of Master Painters and Decorators attending the convention here was largely increased to-day by arrivals on the night and early morning trains. There are now several hundred visitors in the city and in spite of the mid-summer heat the sessions bring out large numbers. There is apparently much interest taken in the demonstrations and the lectures, and it is the opinion of the visitors that the convention is a fine success. The sessions continued throughout yesterday afternoon, and again in the evening until ten o'clock. This morning, with increased numbers, business was recommenced and even greater enthusiasm was displayed. President Robert Booth arranges everything in a careful manner and there are no delays or monotonous lapses.

The painters, in many cases, are accompanied by their wives, and the presence of the ladies lends a decided charm. This morning they presented the men with a buttonhole bouquet of carnations. This afternoon they were taken for a drive around the city, the guests of Berry Bros., manufacturers of varnishes at Walkerville, Ont., who have a fine exhibit of their products in the display room. The busses left the Oriental Hotel at 2 o'clock, and the ladies had a most enjoyable drive and were afforded a good opportunity of seeing Peterborough's principal show points.

Afternoon Session.

At two o'clock yesterday President Booth took the chair and called the meeting to order. A letter of regret was received from ex-President Brooks, of Windsor, and read to the convention. It expressed his inability to be present through the death of his eldest son and business partner.

The convention passed a resolution of condolence to Mr. Brooks and his family.

Mr. W. J. Bolus, of Toronto, gave a demonstration of cut out work, which proved exceedingly interesting. Cut out work is in the paper hangers' department and is the cutting out of the pattern of the border and hanging it without the straight line effect as was the custom in the past.

Another interesting paper on "Painting on Cement," was read by Mr. E. J. Linington, of Toronto, president of the Toronto association.

At the conclusion of the paper a free discussion was indulged in on the two subjects and many of the delegates took part.

The question drawer was next. This is an important feature of the convention as the delegates bring all their troubles to the experts in charge of the question drawer for the purpose of having the difficulties overcome. The drawer was in charge of Messrs. John Dewer, Pittsburg; S. N. Hughes, Toronto; W. E. Wall, Toronto.

Evening Session.

The evening was taken up with the completion of the question drawer features, which was in charge of experts. This proved extremely interesting and much valuable information was given out.

J. W. Faircloth & Co., and Hughes & Co., of Toronto, through Mr. Pringle, gave a demonstration of glass manufacture, taking up the stained and leaded glasses. He showed how the different effects were secured and gave the delegates a lot of valuable information.

The meeting adjourned about ten o'clock.

Late Arrivals.

Among those who arrived during the night were:

W. J. Bolus, Toronto.
Wm. Bax.
J. Crysler, Toronto.
Jos. Matthews, Bracebridge.
Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Karn, Berlin.
Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Eckhart, Campden.
L. B. Home, Toronto.
Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Sawell, Waterdown.
Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hill, Truro, N. S.
J. H. Smith, Toronto.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swain, Galt.
W. B. Scott, Toronto.
A. D. Throop, Cobourg.
Malcolm Sinclair, Toronto.
Fred T. Brooks, Hamilton.
J. M. Faircloth, Toronto.
Thos. Pierreont, Rochester.
John Giorloff, Ottawa.
W. J. Casson, Ottawa.
G. Higman, Ottawa.
H. H. Dilling, Bowmanville.
C. W. Plet, Ottawa.
Thos. E. Childerhose, Orillia.
P. W. Kelson, New York.
H. M. Stevenson, Toronto.
G. A. Pringle, Toronto.

A Fine Address.

One of the finest addresses of the convention was enjoyed this morning. Prof. Nelson, taking the subject "Tinting in Water Colour and Relief Work," dealt with it in a comprehensive manner, and by illustrating his points in an entertaining and thorough manner the address proved to be one of the most profitable so far delivered.

A paper on "Period Decorations," prepared by President Booth of London, and read by Jas. Phinnemore, of Toronto, was also instructive. The Question Box brought out many questions, which were answered by experts. The morning session to-day was highly educative and was greatly appreciated by the visitors.

Important Motion.

Of the business done during the morning session an important motion was passed, as follows:

Moved by Jas. Phinnemore, Toronto.

Seconded by Stewart N. Hughes, Toronto.

That, in view of the fact that our Dominion and Provincial Governments, as well as most of, if not all, our civic councils are undertaking to do the painting and decorating of institutions, etc., under their control by day labour, this Canadian Master Painters' and Decorators' Association of Canada, assembled in convention at Peterborough, believe that this is not in the highest and best interest economical of the citizens at large, and do hereby protest against this method, and petition the said governments to let all this work by tender, giving preference to local concerns where said work is required to be done.

Thumb-Nail Sketches.

H. G. Hawkins, of the editorial staff of the Painter and Decorator, Toronto, is present at the sessions, and the next number of the journal will contain a detailed account of the business transacted. G. N. Simpson is looking after the advertising work for the same journal.

E. H. Brown, of the Painters' Magazine of New York, is also one of the recorders of the business of the sessions.

The displays are very interesting, and those in charge are doing a very good business.

Stewart N. Hughes and John Dewar are prominent among the painters, and are continuously engaged in conversation with some of the visitors. Their long experience and positions with the International Association render them valuable from the standpoint of the members of the Canadian Association.

Mr. Louis Mendel took a picture of the display of Bryan's brushes. He will accompany the painters to Stony Lake and will take a number of group photographs.

To-night's band concert in Victoria Park will attract a large number of the visitors.

Thursday's trip to Jas. Acton's cottage, Stony Lake, is the social event of the convention, and practically all the visitors are going.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF HEALEY FALLS POWER

Mr. J. A. Culverwell, Managing Director of the Northumberland Durham Power Co., lessee of the whole of Healey Falls Power from the Dominion Government, returned to Port Hope a few days ago in company with the two engineers of the capitalists who are financing the development of the Healey Falls and other Trent Powers and the Electric Railway. They have been through the district and spent some time in Port Hope. The capitalists are friends of Mr. H. T. Bush, President of the Standard Sanitary Ideal Co. and the Central Foundry Co., Port Hope. The Healey Falls power will be developed by the construction of the Dominion Government Canal dam to be constructed, and the water will then be passed through the Upper Canal.

Miss Josephine Sproule, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Haggart, Brock street, returned to New York City. Miss Sproule has been engaged for a leading part in the vaudeville sketch "The Devil and Tom Walker." Her season opens shortly at Brighton Beach, and the company has been booked right up until next May. The Company will tour the principal cities in the Southern States. Miss Sproule appeared in the same sketch at Hammerstein's theatre, New York last winter.

Many Horses Affected With A Fatal Epidemic Disease

Many Valuable Animals in Both City and Country Have Died---Hundreds of Others are Attacked--- Investigation by Expert Suggested.

Peterborough is being troubled with a nepidemic disease among horses, which has assumed serious proportions, not only in the city but in the surrounding country. Hundreds of animals are attacked, and the city alone there have been between forty and fifty deaths.

The Examiner's attention was first called to the matter by Dr. Johnston, V.S., who was unable to positively give the cause of the disease. It was not certain, but he attributed the disease as somewhat due to the eating of grass combined with exertion in the intense heat. The course of the attack seems to be that the animal first becomes dull and listless—"logy" in popular language—loss of appetite, followed by high fever and obstinate and violent diarrhoea—the disease in its symptoms and course being said to have all the symptoms of typhoid in man.

The veterinary surgeons do not agree as to the cause.

Mr. Allan McCarthy called on the Examiner to-day to say that the eating of grass was not the sole cause, for he knew many horses ,emong others, his own, which had no access to grass, and yet had been attacked. He regards the situation as serious, and very reasonably suggests that investigation by some expert authority should be made, and that the Agricultural Society should take the lead in such an investigation.

There seems to be no doubt that the disease, whatever it is, or whatever its cause, is epidemic—or, to speak strictly—epizootic—and is creating great loss to owners of horses. This must be the case when in Peterborough alone, fift y horses have succumbed and it is stated, without details however, that one man yesterday lost a team valued at $500. The loss of one good horse would be greater than the probable cost of an investigation which might lead to the employment of successful measures in couping with and suppressing the expensive outbreak of disease aomng the horses of the city and county.

Judgment Given In West Peterborough Protest Motion

Compels Attendance of Mr. Burnham in Examination for Discovery.

DELIVERED TO-DAY

The motion to commit Mr. J. H. Burnham for Contempt of Court in default of attending for examination and producing the documents he failed to produce upon the 29th of June and to answer certain questions which he refused to answer at the time of his examination came, on before the Hon. Mr. Justice Magee this morning at Osgoode Hall, Toronto. Mr. Jones appeared as counsel for Mr. Burnham and Mr. Smith appeared as counsel for Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Smith, on behalf of Mr. Stratton, contended that under the Election Act Mr. Burnham was compelled to file with the returning officer a complete return of all his election expenses in any way incurred in connection with the election. Mr. Burnham, on his examination admitted that he personally had paid certain detectives for their services in connection with the election campaign, and Mr. Smith contended that Mr. Burnham should be compelled to name the detectives to whom he paid the money and the amount he paid, because if payments of this kind were not made known to the public by the publication of details of election expenses, a way would be opened up to a wholesale system of bribery and corruption.

Mr. Jones contended on behalf of Mr. Burnham that his client should not be called upon to answer questions regarding these expenditures because if he were, then under the Election Act, his client could be charged with an indictable offence.

Mr. Justice Magee intimated that he would give judgment compelling Mr. Burnham to attend for examination and reserved judgment upon the questions which Mr. Burnham refused to answer.

JUDGE HUYCKE WILL BE SWORN IN THIS EVENING

ONE OF THE DOCTORS.

Madame J. Rioux, St. Moise, Que., says:—"Fruit-a-tives cured me of severe Liver Disease. Neither doctors nor any other remedy did me any good, but Fruit-a-tives promptly cured."

"Fruit-a-tives" always cure Liver Trouble, Biliousness and Constipation because they act directly on the liver. They stimulate the secretion of Bile, which decreases the quantity of blood in the liver and thus relieves the Congestion or Biliousness. With plenty of Bile to move the Bowels, there is an end to the Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a disordered liver.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—prepared by a newly discovered process, and combined with valuable tonics and antiseptics. They are, without doubt, the most popular remedy in Canada to-day.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c—if your dealer can't get "Fruit-a-tives" in your neighborhood, these wonderful tablets will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by addressing Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A plot to restore Castro as dictator of Venezuela has been unearthed at Caracas.

A suicide club is believed to exist among disheartened factory employes at Cleveland.

Forty thousand workers in the paper and textile industries of Sweden are on strike.

A Montreal butcher and ten poker players were arrested in a raid upon a gambling joint in Montreal.

Ald. Lapointe of Rosemont has been disqualified for doing business with that municipality as a contractor.

Mrs. Ryan, a hotelkeeper's wife at Shannonville, is charged with shooting and wounding a halfbreed woman.

Two Rockport residents are charged with perjury rising out of the recent local option fight in Escott township.

The protecting powers have evacuated Crete and the Greek flag has been run up on the fortress at Canea.

A member of the Christian Brothers of Visauville was found in a wood bleeding from a severe wound in his head.

William Smith, the man who made harness-stealing a business, was sentenced at Guelph to three years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Hudson Bay Co. Fined.

North Bay, July 28.—Three thousand, two hundred and forty dollars was the fine imposed upon the Hudson Bay Co. yesterday by Police Magistrate Weegar, on the charge of having unlawful possession of 15 beaver and 30 otter skins on June 28 last. This penalty is the result of a seizure made by Game Overseer Blea of the provincial department of skins at the Hudson Bay Co. headquarters at North Bay.

Crown Attorney Browning prosecuted and Provincial Inspector Greer, Overseer Blea and Chief Game Warden Tinsley were in attendance. Leighton McCarthy, M.P., appeared for the defence and contended that the skins were shipped from Osnaburg, Keewatin district, and Quebec; that the company were guilty of no wrongful act, but technically had infringed the act by shipping skins without the required affidavit.

Under Martial Law.

Barcelona, July 28.—Barcelona is now under martial law. Serious rioting has occurred following the declaration of a general strike in protest against the military operations in Morocco and the despatch to that country of large bodies of troops. Several persons have been killed and a large number wounded.

There has been much fighting in the streets and practically all communications have been destroyed. The food supplies have been cut off. The prices of the necessaries of life are almost prohibitive.

Madrid, July 28.—The Cabinet held a long session yesterday and decided that the situation in Catalonia is so grave that it necessitated the proclaiming of martial law at Tarragona and Gerona, in addition to Barcelona.

Locomotive Engineers Meet.

Hamilton, July 28.—About 2,500 delegates are attending the convention of the Canadian Division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Hotel Royal is their headquarters. A secret session of the brotherhood was held at Bennett's Theatre yesterday morning, at which addresses were given by M. B. Prenter, Cleveland, first assistant grand engineer, and W. E. Futch, president of the insurance department. Mr. Prenter said the brotherhood had a membership of 64,000 with 779 branches. The Ladies' Grand International Auxiliary is holding its sessions in the Conservatory of Music. There are about 200 delegates. Mrs. Murdock, Chicago, the president, occupied the chair yesterday morning.

Almost Asphyxiated.

St. Catharines, July 28.—Mrs. Smith, an old lady, residing on Geneva street had a narrow escape from death by asphyxiation and was only saved by the timely action of Drs. Jory and Jessop. The old lady had not been seen since Sunday and when a couple of men received no reply to their knock; a window was broken in and Mrs. Smith was found lying apparently dead.

Coroner Jory was notified and found she had been overcome by gas fumes from a gas stove she had lighted on Saturday, but found there was still a spark of life. With the assistance of Dr. Jessop she was brought to, but is still partially paralyzed and in a precarious condition.

Sheep Thief Committed.

Grimsby, July 28.—Yesterday afternoon Magistrate Kidd committed Thomas Hopkins of Grassies for trial on a charge of sheep-stealing preferred by Thomas Trembley.

Sheep—Receipts estimated at 15,000; market weak; native, $3 to $5.40; western, $3 to $5.40; yearlings, $4.60 to $6.10; lambs, native, $4.75 to $7.90; western, $4.75 to $7.90.

Bartender Suicides.

Winnipeg, July 28.—George Tracy, a bartender, formerly of Ottawa, committed suicide in his bedroom yesterday afternoon by shooting himself in the head. He had become despondent on account of being out of work. He leaves a wife and three children.

Lost in the Woods.

Port Arthur, July 28.—George Horrigan, a well-known citizen of Port Arthur, is lost in the woods of Black Bay Peninsular, forty miles from here, and large searching parties are now out looking for him. He left last Wednesday.

Grant to Selkirk "Ex."

Winnipeg, July 28.—The Government will recommend to the Legislature an appropriation of $250,000 for the Canadian International and Selkirk Centennial Exposition which is to be held here in 1912.

Cement Over-Production.

Toronto, July 28.—Over-production and consequent competition in manufacturing by the larger and more up-to-date plants have brought about the present situation in the cement industry which has resulted in the closing down of several of the smaller plants, according to E. J. Johnson, manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co.

One reason for the present low quotation, Mr. Johnson said, was the fact that rock was being used by the larger plants now, while marl, a more expensive article, was almost entirely used in the production of cement a few years ago. At the Lehigh plant at Belleville, which, he stated, was the largest and most complete in the world, rock was entirely used.

Favor Nelson River.

Ottawa, July 28.—H. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, leaves next week for Western Canada for an inspection trip over all the new railways building under Government subsidy between Winnipeg and the coast.

At Winnipeg Mr. Butler will meet Chief Engineer Armstrong of the Hudson Bay Railway survey, and will go over reports of the field parties, that have now practically completed the surveys of the two alternate routes, via Churchill and Nelson Rivers. Reports sent into the Department so far all seem to favor the Nelson River route.

Blackburn is Winner.

London, July 28.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Through an error Pte. Galbraith of the Fifth Sussex Regiment was posted as the winner of the Service Rifle championship. Sergt. Blackburn yesterday was officially notified that he was first and the cup and gold jewel will be sent to him.

The Service Rifle championship aggregate is composed of scores made Grand Aggregate (Short Ranges), Kinnington (long ranges), Martinis (rapid firing aggregate). Fifty prizes are awarded, the winner getting the Challenge Cup and championship gold medal.

Former Chief Arrested.

Cobalt, July 28.—Archibald McCall, formerly chief of police of Haileybury, was arrested at Englehart on Monday afternoon on a charge of allowing a prisoner under his charge to escape in July, 1906. The prisoner declares he gave the chief $45.

McCall denies the charge and claims that Dromessi escaped with the aid of friends outside who smashed a hole through the lavatory.

The prisoner came before Magistrate Atkinson Monday night and was remanded until next Tuesday on $2,000 bail.

Boys Preached At.

London, July 28.—The Canadian schoolboys who are the guests of The Standard of Empire during visited the Lord Mayor at the historic Mansion House, subsequently lunched at the Hotel Cecil when Sir Frederick Borden, Hon. Frank Oliver, Hon. G. P. Graham were present.

These Ministers delivered to the boys excellent homilies. Subsequently the boys visited the House of Commons.

Three Miles of Sockeyes.

Victoria, B.C., July 28.—Three miles of sockeyes passed into the straits yesterday morning, and the island traps are being well filled.

Every four years there is sure to be a large run of sockeyes, with the result that any deferred dividends are all paid up. For the past three years the runs have been small and so this is expected to be the year of plenty.

Gets Away From Police.

Acton, July 28.—Harry Reid, the alleged forger, who after having escaped from a constable in Georgetown, was recaptured in Toronto on Monday and brought here by Constable Lawson, was sent to Milton for trial, but before the constable was ready to start for Milton jail he made his escape through a window and is again at large.

Fined for Having Liquor.

Welland, July 28.—R. Sacco, an Italian storekeeper, was yesterday fined $100 and costs for having liquor on his premises. The 36 cases seized will be destroyed. N. W. Porter of the Arlington Hotel was fined $200 and costs a few days ago.

Not for Convention.

Toledo, July 28.—Dr. Tarleton H. Bean, president of the American Fisheries Society, who arrived here yesterday to preside over the convention, at once dissipated the understanding that the report of the International Fish Commission of the United States and Canada would be presented to the convention. He said that no copy of the report had been furnished to the society.

Wanamaker's Son Weds.

London, July 28.—Bodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, and Violet, daughter of Eugene Ouido Gruger of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, by special license. Extraordinary efforts were made to keep the affair secret.

Falls Down Shaft.

North Bay, July 28.—Sandy McPhee, whose home is in Markstay, fell down the shaft at the Temagami-Cobalt mine, near Temagami Station, on Monday, and was seriously injured. McPhee was overcome by gas and toppled over at the middle level, falling thirty feet. He will likely recover.

Jealousy Prompts Shooting.

Belleville, July 28.—Mrs. William Ryan of Shannonville went to the residence of Mrs. Lizzie Dean in search of her husband. She was set upon by Dean and his wife and in the scuffle Mrs. Ryan pulled a revolver and shot Mrs. Dean in the hand. She was committed for trial on a charge of feloniously wounding. Jealousy prompted the shooting.

Sutton Inquiry Adjourned.

Annapolis, Md., July 28.—The Sutton inquiry was adjourned yesterday indefinitely. This action was taken on a ruling of the court that Mrs. Sutton was a complainant in the case, and all the officers concerned in the affair were made party defendants.

Mrs. Burwash May Testify.

Cobalt, July 28.—Interest is intense in the T. & N. B. bribery case, but so far no further steps have been taken by the authorities, though it is understood that the crown will subpoena Mrs. Adam Burwash, wife of Adam Burwash the Indian agent at New Liskeard, and a sister of John Piche. Her husband will also be called. Mrs. Burwash is very annoyed at the manner in which her brother has been treated and is prepared to tell everything she knows regarding the early history of the company and the alleged bribing of John Piche, to whom she has remained very closely since his arrest. She is said to be conversant with all the details of the organization of the company and has intimate knowledge of all that transpired later. Adam Burwash, too, is understood to be ready to tell the crown everything he knows and their evidence together with Piche's, is expected to be sensational.

Labor Situation Worse.

Calgary, Alta., July 28.—The labor situation is becoming more acute. While a short time ago $4 per day was being paid for man and team, yesterday, however, the wage has jumped to $7 per day. The chief demand from now on will be for farm laborers and while $35 to $45 per month with board is being offered, it is expected that this will advance another $5 the first of next week. All laborers candemand a minimum of 25 cents an hour for day work.

Cheap Prize Telegram.

London, July 28.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The British, Indian and Australian Governments having agreed to bear their rateable share of the reduction of tariffs for the press, telegrams, via Eastern and Indo routes will be reduced from August 1 as follows: India, Burma, Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, 9d. word; Ceylon, 9 1-2 per word.

Ten Years for Tompkins.

Hamilton, July 28.—Judge Monck yesterday morning sentenced Mark Tompkins to ten years in Kingston Penitentiary. Tompkins was arrested a week ago Sunday after being caught by Fred J. Porteous, a butcher whom he had attempted to hold up. Tompkins has served several years for a similar offence.

Train Hits Hand Car.

Welland, July 28.—A Grand Trunk yard engine struck a handcar on which were several men in the yards yesterday morning, killing an Italian named Eppenalone, the man's head being crushed. The rest of the men escaped by jumping.

Seeking the Yachtsmen.

Toronto, July 28.—Levying a duty of 25 per cent. on a number of pleasure boats which have recently been brought to Canada from the United States is a problem before the Customs Department.

The customs regulations provide that vessels, dredges, scows, yachts, boats or other water-borne craft built outside Canada and destined for use in Canadian waters, not including vessels which trade between a Canadian and an American port, shall pay 25 per cent. duty. In spite of this provision the owners of such importations have so far escaped.

Will Go by Default.

Edmonton, Alta., July 28.—Half a dozen prominent Liberals are in the field for the nomination for the House of Commons to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. McIntyre, ex-M.P. It is said the Conservatives will let the seat go by acclamation.

Pension for Lady Wyllie.

London, July 28.—The Government has granted a pension of $2,500 annually to Lady Wyllie, widow of Lt.-Col. Wyllie, who was assassinated recently by Madarial Dhinagri, an Indian student, in the Imperial Institute.

Six Dead.

Mexico City, July 28.—It is reported that six persons are dead and 35 wounded as a result of the riots last Sunday in Guadalajara.

Illicit Still Found.

Toronto, July 28.—Two Jews, one carrying a coil of hose, rushed out of the small two-storey roughcast house at 31 Dorset street shortly after fire was discovered in one of the upper rooms of that structure at 9.35 Monday night. The firemen extinguished a $25 blaze in one of the upper rooms and on leaving told Policeman Langtry that gas seemed to be escaping in the house. Shortly afterwards he went back to the place and found a completely equipped whiskey "still" and also a gas connection that was innocent of the calculating interference of a meter.

McNicholl Shows Surprise.

Montreal, July 28.—"This is the first I have heard of it," was the remark of David McNicholl, vice-president of the C.P.R., when shown a despatch from Toronto announcing that arrangements have been completed by which the Canadian Northern Railway secures running rights over the C.P.R. from Sudbury to Port Arthur. This, of course, would give the C.N.R. a through line from Toronto to Winnipeg.

"There is a great house paint. It is "English" Liquid Paint made by Brantham-Henderson Limited, the same firm that make Brandram's B. B. Genuine White Lead. I never saw a paint before that was so finely ground, that spreads so easily or covers so well. The shades are clean and clear and perfect, and the white—well, the white can't be beat.

"I know why this paint is so good. The white base is 70% pure white lead, and 30% pure zinc white with pure linseed oil, turpentine and dryer.

"The guarantee formula is on every can. That suits me. I want to know what is in the stuff I'm using on my jobs."

"English" Liquid Paint is most economical to use.

IMMENSE CROWD SAW AIRSHIP DIVE INTO THE SEA OFF DOVER

Dover, England, July 28.—Hubert Latham's second attempt to fly across the English Channel ended disastrously yesterday. Almost in the moment of victory his monoplane fluttered down into the sea two miles beyond the Admiralty pier, like a bird with a broken wing. Thousands of people crowding the waterfront saw the fall, and for nearly half an hour they were kept in suspense, not knowing whether the daring aeronaut had met death or had again been rescued from the water.

A flock of large and small craft raced to the scene of the disaster and a pinnace from the British warship Russell, picked up the unlucky flyer and put him aboard the French torpedo boat destroyer Escopette. After a surgeon had attended to his injuries the destroyer brought Latham ashore, and he was taken to the Lord Warden Hotel. His face was damaged and bleeding, and his nose was broken. The machine, badly wrecked, was hoisted from the boat to the dock.

Lathams' flight to the moment of its sensational finish, in some respects eclipsed Bleriot's. He made greater speed, being only twenty minutes in the air from the time he left the coast of France. Apparently he steered a straighter course than Bleriot, as he was making directly for Dover when he fell.

Wright Breaks World's Record.

Washington, July 28.—The world's aeroplane record for two men, as to both time and distance, was broken yesterday evening, in a beautiful flight of one hour, twelve minutes and forty seconds—upwards of 50 miles and at a speed averaging about forty miles an hour—by Orville Wright at Fort Meyer, with Lieut. Frank P. Lahm of the Army Signal Corps as passenger. The former record was made last year by his brother Wilbur, joint inventor with him of the machine in which both achievements were performed, at Lemans, France, with Prof. Painleve of the French Institute as passenger. That flight was one hour, nine minutes and 31 seconds. Wilbur was an easy spectator of yesterday's flight by his brother. "You just scotched your brother's record without really damaging it much," remarked a newspaper man to Orville after the flight.

"That's all we meant to do," replied Oryille, with a smile, which his big brother appreciatively duplicated.

Canadians Hear News.

Petawawa Military Camp, July 28.—Hard at work preparing the "Silver Dart" for tests to be made next week, Messrs. Baldwin and McCurdy were found, when notified that the English channel had at last been crossed by an airship. Nowhere in Canada was the news of Bleriot's monoplane flight across the English channel received with greater interest than within the rude shed miles southeast of the military camp, where the Silver Dart is being put together by Messrs. Baldwin and McCurdy.

"I'll bet it's Bleriot's," said Mr. McCurdy excitedly.

Mr. Baldwin would not venture an opinion as to whether the successful flight had been made by Bleriot or Latham.

Mr. McCurdy was delighted when he learned that it was the Bleriot machine which had flown from France to England. "He broke his first machine all to pieces, but he went right to work and built this one in which he crossed the channel, a much smaller one than the first." Bleriot is a Frenchman, Latham is an Englishman, but has been carrying on all his experiments over in France. It was quite evident that Mr. Baldwin's sympathies had been with Latham.

Warships of the Future.

Paris, July 28.—Gen. Brun, the new French Minister of War, commenting yesterday on Louis Bleriot's feat in flying across the English Channel last Sunday, says he regards the aeroplane and the submarine as the war instruments of the future.

"The aeroplane," declared the War Minister, "is less vulnerable and more rapid and cheaper than the dirigible, and as soon as it is perfect the French army will be provided with a swarm of these wasps."

BIG ATHLETIC MEET ON CIVIC HOLIDAY AT RIVERSIDE PARK

The main attraction in Peterborough on Civic Holiday, Monday, August 9th, will likely be a big Athletic meet to be held under the auspices of the Victoria Harrier Club at Riverside Park. The officers of the club have been working on the affair for some time and have all the arrangements practically completed. It is likely that there will be a large number of people remain in the city and a fine programme of sports has been selected for their entertainment. The prizes are all of high order and have been donated by local business men, to whom the club feels greatly indebted for the assistance they have rendered in the preliminary steps to make the day a successful one. The events which are known at present are as follows:

100 yards—Handicap.
220 yards—Handicap.
½-mile—Scratch race.
One-mile—Scratch.
Three-mile—Handicap.
High jump.
Hop, step and jump.
One-quarter-mile obstacle race.
100-yards—Race for boys, 17 years and under.
One mile—For boys 17 and under.
100 yards—Race for men 30 years and over.

With the exception of the last four events entries must be sent by August 5th to the secretary, Mr. Chas. Thorpe, 435 Sherbrooke street. Those intending are asked to remember that they must send in their entries by this date as the lists will then be closed.

The prizes include medals, lockets, fobs, stick pins, umbrellas, hats, cigars and pipes, wood, groceries etc., which will be disposed of for the most important events. They will certainly be worth competing for and a big list of entries is expected. Further particulars will be given later regarding the events and the manner in which the prizes will be awarded. In the meantime the boys are booming the meet. They will have posters out in a few days and the complete announcement will then be made.

The band will be engaged for the afternoon and lovers of athletics are assured of a good programme.

The course at the Park has been outlined and will be ready for Civic Holiday.

SATURDAY'S GAMES AT THE OVAL SHOULD BE CLOSE AND FAST

If the weather man will hand out baseball weather next Saturday there will be doings at the Oval. The teams have had a rather long lapse of idleness, owing to the rain and are anxious to get into the game as the windup of the league is not far ahead. Jack Pilling's Park Streets will meet the T. A. S. in the curtain raiser event, and will be followed by the Strathconas and West Ends. The latter team will be materially strengthened by the return of Dobson and Carton, and should make things interesting for the Straths who, by their late victories, have apparently got the hunch that it is no more' losses for them and that they will begin to pull themselves away from the crowd at the bottom of the heap in an endeavour to redeem themselves.

The Park Street game is the subject of a heap of talk among the followers of the City League. There are many who cannot but see another slip-up for the T. A. S. The South Enders have been playing consistently and are in good condition. The T. A. S. expect to have Ab. Quinlan back by Saturday, although there is some doubt as to whether he will be here. Manager Dennard is booking on him and with the team complete this game should be one of the best of the season.

Ball Team Coming With Big Excursion From Bowmanville

One of the biggest excursions that will come to Peterborough this year is that which is being held under the auspices of the Bowlers' of Bowmanville. There will be people from Whitby, Oshawa, Darlington, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Newtonville and Port Hope. While the trip is through to Burleigh Falls, there will be a large number remain over in Peterborough. During the day there will be a bowling tournament between the visitors and a number of Peterborough rinks at Brookside Lawn.

At Riverside Park the Bowmanville baseball team will meet a picked nine from the Senior City League. Judging from the classy article of ball that was seen when Barrie played here on a similar occasion there should be some baseball on Monday. The team has not been picked yet, but the line up will be published in a day or so. Bowmanville will bring with them a strong aggregation and there is bound to be a good exhibition. Further particulars will be given before Monday. The excursion train leaves Peterborough to return in the evening at 8:30 o'clock.

OBJECTED TO EVELYN

Thaw Concurred With His Counsel That She Should Not be Called to Stand—Is Trying to Prove His Sanity.

CREATED A SENSATION

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

White Plains, N.Y., July 28.—Harry K. Thaw took the stand to-day in the trial in which he is seeking to prove his sanity and right to be released from Matteawan. His first statement caused a sensation: "I believe that in acquitting me the jury was largely influenced by the belief that Stanford White deserved his fate." Later Thaw's counsel objected to Evelyn Thaw being called as a witness and Thaw concurred.

NO PUBLICATION OF PROMOTIONS

The Separate Schools Were Closed by Threatened Epidemic.

Owing to the fact that the Separate Schools of the city were closed a week or more before the regular end of the term on account of an epidemic that threatened to spread among the school children, the usual examinations were not concluded, and there will be no promotions published as expected by the children. The children will have to wait until the new term opens, when supplementary examination will likely be held.

NO PETERBOROUGH NAMES AT HIGH COURT MEETING

After a careful review of the official report of the last high court meeting of the Canadian Order of Foresters held in the city of London, one fails to find the name of a single Peterborough member mentioned anywhere in the report of the four days' proceedings.

Things must have changed very much of late, for such a thing seemed almost an impossibility a year or two ago.

What's the matter with Forestry in Peterborough? so far as high court meetings are concerned.

RAMA INDIANS ARE BUILDING NEW CHURCH

The Indians on the Rama reserve are building a fine church, which they expect will be ready for opening early in September. It will be a fairly large building and will be a credit to the enterprise and progressiveness of the Rama Indians.

Mr. Dan. Whetung, Sr., was in the city to-day and stated that the Chemong Indians would run an excursion by boat up to Lake Simcoe to the opening of the new church.

MEETING OF TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL

A meeting of the Trades and Labour Council of this city will be held in the Catholic Order of Foresters' Hall, Hunter street, on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, when Mr. W. R. Trotter, representative of the Trades Congress of Canada, will give an address. All the members of the labour unions in the city are asked to be in attendance, as the meeting will be of interest to them.

SPECIAL BAND CONCERT

A special concert by the 57th Regimental Band will be given in Victoria Park to-night in honour of the Convention of Master Painters and Decorators of Canada, who have been holding their sessions here during the past two days. Bandmaster Gliddon has a fine programme arranged and among the new numbers will be an arrangement of some of the latest publications off the presse of the Jerome Remwick Music Publishing Co. It is known as Remwick's Hits No. 6, and is a medley of some of the latest songs. Mr. W. McIlroy will sing "Love's Old Sweet Song."

IMMENSE CROWD SAW AIRSHIP DIVE INTO THE SEA OFF DOVER

Dover, England, July 28.—Hubert Latham's second attempt to fly across the English Channel ended disastrously yesterday. Almost in the moment of victory his monoplane plunged down into the sea two miles beyond the Admiralty pier, like a bird with a broken wing. Thousands of people crowding the waterfront saw the fall, and for nearly half an hour they were kept in suspense, not knowing whether the daring aeronaut had met death or had again been rescued from the water.

A flock of large and small craft raced to the scene of the disaster and a pinnace from the British warship Russell, picked up the unlucky flyer and put him aboard the French torpedo boat destroyer Escopette. After a surgeon had attended to his injuries the destroyer brought Latham ashore, and he was taken to the Lord Warden Hotel. His face was damaged and bleeding, and his nose was broken. The machine, badly wrecked, was hoisted from the boat to the dock.

Lathams' flight to the moment of its sensational finish, in some respects eclipsed Bleriot's. He made greater speed, being only twenty minutes in the air from the time he left the coast of France. Apparently he steered a straighter course than Bleriot, as he was making directly for Dover when he fell.

Wright Breaks World's Record.

Washington, July 28.—The world's aeroplane record for two men, as to both time and distance, was broken yesterday evening, in a beautiful flight of one hour, twelve minutes and forty seconds—upwards of 60 miles and at a speed averaging about forty miles an hour—by Orville Wright at Fort Meyer, with Lieut. Frank P. Lahm of the Army Signal Corps as passenger. The former record was made last year by his brother Wilbur, joint inventor with him of the machine in which both achievements were performed, at Lemans, France, with Prof. Painleve of the French Institute as passenger. That flight was one hour, nine minutes and 31 seconds. Wilbur was an eager spectator of yesterday's flight by his brother. "You just scotched your brother's record without really damaging it much," remarked a newspaper man to Orville after the flight. "That's all we meant to do," replied Orville, with a smile, which his big brother appreciatively duplicated.

Canadians Hear News.

Petawawa Military Camp, July 28.—Hard at work preparing the "Silver Dart" for tests to be made next week, Messrs. Baldwin and McCurdy were found, when notified that the English channel had at last been crossed by an airship. Nowhere in Canada was the news of Bleriot's monoplane flight across the English channel received with greater interest than within the rude shed miles southeast of the military camp, where the Silver Dart is being put together by Messrs. Baldwin and McCurdy.

"I'll bet it's Bleriot's," said Mr. McCurdy excitedly.

Mr. Baldwin would not venture an opinion as to whether the successful flight had been made by Bleriot or Latham.

Mr. McCurdy was delighted when he learned that it was the Bleriot machine which had flown from France to England. "He broke his first machine all to pieces, but he went right to work and built this one in which he crossed the channel, a much smaller one than the first." Bleriot is a Frenchman, Latham is an Englishman, but has been carrying on all his experiments over in France. It was quite evident that Mr. Baldwin's sympathies had been with Latham.

Warships of the Future.

Paris, July 28.—Gen. Brun, the new French Minister of War, commenting yesterday on Louis Bleriot's feat in flying across the English Channel last Sunday, says he regards the aeroplane and the submarine as the war instruments of the future.

"The aeroplane," declared the War Minister, "is less vulnerable and more rapid and cheaper than the dirigible, and as soon as it is perfect the French army will be provided with a swarm of these wasps."

BIG ATHLETIC MEET ON CIVIC HOLIDAY AT RIVERSIDE PARK

The main attraction in Peterborough on Civic Holiday, Monday, August 9th, will likely be a big Athletic meet to be held under the auspices of the Victoria Harrier Club at Riverside Park. The officers of the club have been working on the affair for some time and have all the arrangements practically completed. It is likely that there will be a large number of people remain in the city and a fine programme of sports has been selected for their entertainment. The prizes are all of high order and have been donated by local business men, to whom the club feels greatly indebted for the assistance they have rendered in the preliminary steps to make the day a successful one. The events which are known at present are as follows:

100 yards—Handicap.
220 yards—Handicap.
¼-mile—Scratch race.
One-mile—Scratch.
Three-mile—Handicap.
High jump.
Hop, step and jump.
One-quarter-mile obstacle race.
100-yards—Race for boys, 17 years and under.
One mile—For boys 17 and under.
100 yards—Race for men 30 years and over.

With the exception of the last four events entries must be sent by August 5th to the secretary, Mr. Chas. Thorpe, 435 Sherbrooke street. Those intending are asked to remember that they must send in their entries by this date as the lists will then be closed.

The prizes include medals, lockets, fobs, stick pins, umbrellas, hats, cigars and pipes, wood, groceries etc., which will be disposed of for the most important events. They will certainly be worth competing for and a big list of entries is expected. Further particulars will be given later regarding the events and the manner in which the prizes will be awarded. In the meantime the boys are booming the meet. They will have posters out in a few days and the complete announcement will then be made.

The band will be engaged for the afternoon and lovers of athletics are assured of a good programme.

The course at the Park has been outlined and will be ready for Civic Holiday.

SATURDAY'S GAMES AT THE OVAL SHOULD BE CLOSE AND FAST

If the weather man will hand out baseball weather next Saturday there will be doings at the Oval. The teams have had a rather long lapse of idleness, owing to the rain and are anxious to get into the game as the windup of the league is not far ahead. Jack Pilling's Park Streets will meet the T. A. S. in the curtain raiser event, and will be followed by the Strathconas and West Ends. The latter team will be materially strengthened by the return of Dobson and Carton, and should make things interesting for the Straths who, by their late victories, have apparently got the hunch that it is no more losses for them and that they will begin to pull themselves away from the crowd at the bottom of the heap in an endeavour to redeem themselves.

The Park Street game is the subject of a heap of talk among the followers of the City League. There are many who cannot but see another slip-up for the T. A. S. The South Enders have been playing consistently and are in good condition. The T. A. S. expect to have Ab. Quinlan back by Saturday, although there is some doubt as to whether he will be here. Manager Dennard is booking on him and with the team complete this game should be one of the best of the season.

Ball Team Coming With Big Excursion From Bowmanville

One of the biggest excursions that will come to Peterborough this year is that which is being held under the auspices of the Bowlers' of Bowmanville. There will be people from Whitby, Oshawa, Darlington, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Newtonville and Port Hope. While the trip is through to Burleigh Falls, there will be a large number remain over in Peterborough. During the day there will be a bowling tournament between the visitors and a number of Peterborough rinks at Brookside Lawn.

At Riverside Park the Bowmanville baseball team will meet a picked nine from the Senior City League. Judging from the classy article of ball that was seen when Barrie played here on a similar occasion there should be some baseball on Monday. The team has not been picked yet, but the line up will be published in a day or so. Bowmanville will bring with them a strong aggregation and there is bound to be a good exhibition. Further particulars will be given before Monday. The excursion train leaves Peterborough to return in the evening at 8:30 o'clock.

FIVE YEARS FOR THEFT

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, July 28.—Ed. Barrymore was to-day sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary for theft from guests at the Walker House.

London, July 28.—Sergt. Kerr, of Toronto, and Sergt. Freeborne, of Hamilton, win "doubles" at Bisley.

Brockville, July 28.—Walter Conlon, deckhand on steamer Island Belle, was drowned here to-day in sight of hundreds of people. He lost his balance pulling up the fender and fell overboard.

Ottawa, July 28.—"We find that Sarah Jane Green and Dorothy Green came to their death by accidental drowning in Lake Deschaines on the night of Wednesday, July 14th last, and we attach no blame to any person." The foregoing is the verdict rendered last night by the jury called to enquire into the death of the Green girls.

OBJECTED TO EVELYN

Thaw Concurred With His Counsel That She Should Not be Called to Stand—Is Trying to Prove His Sanity.

CREATED A SENSATION

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

White Plains, N.Y., July 28.—Harry K. Thaw took the stand to-day in the trial in which he is seeking to prove his sanity and right to be released from Matteawan. His first statement caused a sensation: "I believe that in acquitting me the jury was largely influenced by the belief that Stanford White deserved his fate." Later Thaw's counsel objected to Evelyn Thaw being called as a witness and Thaw concurred.

NO PUBLICATION OF PROMOTIONS

The Separate Schools Were Closed by Threatened Epidemic.

Owing to the fact that the Separate Schools of the city were closed a week or more before the regular end of the term on account of an epidemic that threatened to spread among the school children, the usual examinations were not concluded, and there will be no promotions published as expected by the children. The children will have to wait until the new term opens, when supplementary examination will likely be held.

NO PETERBOROUGH NAMES AT HIGH COURT MEETING

After a careful review of the official report of the last high court meeting of the Canadian Order of Foresters held in the city of London, one fails to find the name of a single Peterborough member mentioned anywhere in the report of the four days' proceedings.

Things must have changed very much of late, for such a thing seemed almost an impossibility a year or two ago.

What's the matter with Forestry in Peterborough? so far as high court meetings are concerned.

RAMA INDIANS ARE BUILDING NEW CHURCH

The Indians on the Rama reserve are building a fine church, which they expect will be ready for opening early in September. It will be a fairly large building and will be a credit to the enterprise and progressiveness of the Rama Indians.

Mr. Dan. Whetung, Sr., was in the city to-day and stated that the Chemong Indians would run an excursion by boat up to Lake Simcoe to the opening of the new church.

TO GORE'S LANDING

The Ladies' Aid and Women's Auxiliary Societies of Charlotte Street Methodist Church will run an Excursion to Gore's Landing, per Steamer Otonabee, on Thursday, July 29th. Boat leaves Wolfe Street Wharf at 1.30 o'clock p.m. and Street Railway Wharf at 2 o'clock. Tickets 50c. 24-2

MEETING OF TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL

A meeting of the Trades and Labour Council of this city will be held in the Catholic Order of Foresters' Hall, Hunter street, on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, when Mr. W. R. Trotter, representative of the Trades Congress of Canada, will give an address. All the members of the labour unions in the city are asked to be in attendance, as the meeting will be of interest to them.

SPECIAL BAND CONCERT

A special concert by the 57th Regimental Band will be given in Victoria Park to-night in honour of the Convention of Master Painters and Decorators of Canada, who have been holding their sessions here during the past two days. Bandmaster Gliddon has a fine programme arranged and among the new numbers will be an arrangement of some of the latest publications off the presse of the Jerome Remwick Music Publishing Co. It is known as Remwick's Hits No. 6, and is a medley of some of the latest songs. Mr. W. McIlroy will sing "Love's Old Sweet Song."

THE BY-LAWS.

To Be Voted on Thursday, July 29th.

Why You Should Vote For the Smith Street Bridge By-law.

1. BECAUSE the old bridge is "Condemned".
2. BECAUSE the northern part of the city cannot exist without this means of communication.
3. BECAUSE the loss in assessable values in one year would pay for the new bridge.
4. BECAUSE the proposed concrete bridge is just as cheap to build and far less expensive thereafter than any other sort of bridge. All but the cement is "Local Industry".

Why You Should Vote For the Street Extension and Filling-in By-law.

1. BECAUSE the money for street extension had to be spent and has been spent. Do you want it on the debenture rate or on next year's rate? If on the debenture rate, vote for the By-law.

Why Vote for the Filling-in?

1. BECAUSE this large strip of land along the C.P.R. spur is worth $20,000.00 to Peterborough. We get it for ten thousand. It will be the future market place for the wives of our workers. The present market property is too valuable for merely market purposes.

REGARDING FOUNDATION OF SMITH ST. BRIDGE

The following has been placed at the disposal of the Examiner:

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have read the letter of Mr. Brewer regarding the proposed Smith Street bridge. His whole objection is founded upon a supposition that piles will be needed in the foundation. This is a mistake. The foundation will not—indeed, could not—be piled, and the location is one suitable for a concrete bridge. I enclose a report from the City Engineer which shows this, which I wish you would publish with this.

Yours truly,

HARRY PHELAN,

Chairman Board of Works

Peterborough, July 27, 1909.

Alderman Phelan,

Chairman Board of Works:

Re Smith Street Bridge

Dear Sir,—In reply to your enquiry of to-day as to the nature of the bed of river at the site of Smith Street Bridge, I beg to say that, having made careful examination, I find as follows:

The Eastern Span, where the water is deepest, is mostly exposed limestone on top of rock.

Provision is made in the Specification to ensure a good foundation by excavating within the caissons until a satisfactory bottom is attained.

It is impossible to drive piles in this bed.

Yours truly,

T. A. S. HAY,

City Engineer.

Royal Theatre

Special Notice

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its Pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE, up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST there.

"BASE BALL FAN"
This is the best Base Ball picture yet produced. It is the latest and most up-to-date. It shows a great game played between the New York "Giants" and the Chicago "White Socks" in New York City a short time ago. It is chuck full of fun as well. Lovers of Base Ball should see it.

"MEXICAN BILL"
A very interesting picture of Mexican Life, showing the love of a girl for her sweetheart and how with the aid of a good Indian she punishes the bad Mexican Bill, the scenery in this picture cannot be beaten

"HIRING A GIRL"
If you want to see fun come to the "Royal" and see Mrs. Newlywed trying to hire a servant girl, she had her troubles and you can see them come quick and fast.

Mr. Loftus will sing a new illustrated Coon Song entitled
"Nobody Knows Where John Brown Went"

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

CANADA READY TO HELP THE EMPIRE

Mr. Haldane, Speaking at Banquet in London, Declares That a Long Range Defence Force is Necessary For Empire's Safety—Sir Frederick Borden Speaks For Canada—Says She Is Loyal.

London, July 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Defence Conference was opened yesterday, the Earl of Crewe presiding. The conference will last a fortnight.

At a banquet given by the British Empire Club at the Guild Hall last night, Mr. Haldane, Secretary of War, proposing the toast of the club, said:

"There is only one maxim which we can lay down, that the British Empire is one and indivisible on this question of defence (cheers). I believe it to be on that maxim that the conference is really concentrated. We recognize the command of the sea must come first place, and that the army, which to protect the Empire must be an army chained to these shores, but an army of long range suited to deal with problems at long range.

Sir Frederick Borden, replying, said while Canada stood upon her rights, and insisted upon her freedom, it was unfair and unjust to Canada for any man to say, as has been said, that Canada's patriotism and loyalty depended on the slightest degree upon what the fiscal policy might be (hear, hear). He thought true imperialism was that which led different nations along lines of the development of their own resources, but they realised their imperial responsibilities. The people of Canada were prepared to pay their share of cost in thoroughly preparing themselves for local defence; they were preparing best to take their part in the defence of the Empire.

With the guidance of Mr. Haldane, a plan had been adopted in Canada, by which he believed local means of defence would be carried out that should any one dominion wish at any time to send a division of force to assist the Mother Country, it would be easy to carry out that end. Why could not the same thing be done in regard to the navy? Canada would be prepared to spend its last dollar to assist in the maintenance of the integrity of the Empire. (Cheers.)

The Times, referring to the imperial defence conference, lays down three principles, one, that each dominion must develop naval resources of its own; two, the training material of this naval force must be as far as possible the same; three, that all individual efforts must be co-ordinated to a common end.

"If," says The Times, "Canada, for instance, in the course of years, were to make the north Pacific her naval sphere, she would do so in the Empire's interests as well as her own, in combination with the common naval policy covering all parts of the world," and adds, "the three principles mentioned are broadly accepted."

BLACK HAND SOCIETY'S THREATS AROUSE WHOLE TOWN TO ARMS

Residents Of Michel B.C. Receive Demands For Money—Special Police Have Been Sworn And The Camp Is Armed For Any Trouble That May Be Presented—Big Meeting Of Italian Miners.

Vancouver, July 29.—Michel, B.C., one of the larger coal mining towns in the Crow's Nest district, was an armed camp yesterday because of the activity of the Black Hand Society. Great excitement has prevailed since Sunday, when five leaders of the foreign miners and business men were threatened with instant death by the Black Hand unless they paid $300 each. In the letters received places for deposit of the money were designated, one of them being alongside a large rock, which is a landmark at the rear of the Roman Catholic Church.

Tuesday night the threatened men turned over the letters to the police and Provincial Constables Stevenson and Bulger immediately made an investigation. The time set for deposit of the money was between 10 o'clock Tuesday night and 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. Several men were posted at the designated places and fake parcels were placed in the hiding places by the recipients of the letters, but no attempt was made by the Black Hand gang to claim the bounty.

Everyone in town is armed and the Italian people are out to assist the police in protecting the lives of the threatened men.

No member of the big colony of Italian miners is working. Three hundred and fifty armed Italians held a meeting yesterday afternoon and discussed the situation. The police force is being doubled by the swearing in of specials. Several Italians are under suspicion. They are being closely watched and any attempt to leave the city will result in their immediate arrest.

HOTEL CLERK, BEAUTIFUL HEIRESS; FORGERY, GAYETY, HANDCUFFS

BEAUTIFUL KATHERINE HANDLIN AND HER HOTEL CLERK HUSBAND WHO WENT WRONG.

St. Louis, Mo., July 29.—Dwight Fortner is coming back to St. Louis from Europe in handcuffs to stand trial for a $12,000 forgery. But he had a good time up to the very end.

Fortner was a hotel clerk when he won the heart of beautiful Katherine Handlin, heiress to a million, member of one of the proud old St. Louis families who count back to Tidewater Virginia.

Miss Handlin was a guest at the Jefferson hotel, Fortner a clerk there, when they first met. There was the usual family row when the proud Handlins learned of Katherine's infatuation, but she could see no one else than the good-looking clerk.

So they were married, regardless, and were very happy. Fortner left the hotel and branched out as a real estate operator.

All went well until—

Well, Fortner, it is charged, cashed a draft of $12,000 at the St. Louis Trust Co., left goodbyes and $1,000 of it with his stenographer to give to his beautiful young wife and disappeared.

While Fortner went to New Orleans, then travelled through Panama, discovery was made that the check he had cashed had been forged. H. C. Tully, wealthy operator, was the victim. Other forgeries turned up, amounting to $30,000. They were all charged to the former hotel clerk. Police got busy. In the meantime Fortner sailed for Paris. There he led the life of the gay American millionaire. Money was spent like water. Braving recognition by St. Louis people, Fortner went everywhere—on the Bourse, in the Latin quarter, at the opera, the museums, the races.

Arrests were made, but the ex-hotel clerk defied extradition and went on his merry way. One set of papers were set aside as improperly drawn. But in the end the lines were tightened and the French government announced that it would send Fortner back to St. Louis to stand trial.

In his extremity, while Fortner is on his way back a prisoner, only his wife, the beautiful Katherine Handlin, who learned to love him when he was a poor clerk, is still loyal.

TIRELESS SEARCHING FOR MAN LOST IN WOODS AT PORT ARTHUR

Port Arthur, July 29.—More than one hundred men are now engaged searching for ex-Alderman George Horrigan, the prominent citizen who on Sunday last became separated from George Hodder and W. C. Dalton in the woods of Black Bay Peninsula.

They rushed across the forty-mile strip of water between here and Black Bay. The tug Picket is in constant commission carrying men and supplies.

Yesterday the big tug Whalen took out a whole military company and returning yesterday afternoon brought word that no trace had yet been found. The Picket left again with a full load of supplies. An unsuccessful effort was made to get bloodhounds from Duluth.

The disappearance of Horrigan under such dramatic circumstances and the energy with which the search is being carried on has created great excitement in this city. Every incoming boat is greeted by crowds looking for news.

Country, pure wilderness, thickly wooded, low and wet in places and not devoid of bear, lynx and other such animals, while it is the height of the fly season. Some believe flies alone would make it impossible for a man to live in the woods, added to which Horrigan was lightly clad and without provisions.

A pathetic feature of the case is the effort made to keep the news of his disappearance from Horrigan's aged mother. Telephone lines to the residence here been cut and a man is on guard on the street to prevent the possibility of anyone taking in word of the affair. Local papers have been requested not to publish facts in order to assist in this way, and no word of it has appeared in print yet in the Port Arthur newspapers. Horrigan is about 35 years of age, a prominent Liberal and a close friend of James Conmee, M.P.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

Kryptok Bifocals are the only perfect invisible, double vision lens made. There is no crack or split to gather dirt, and being made of one piece of Glass, it forms no line between the near and far sight. No cemented double vision lens is entirely satisfactory, because the cement will come loose in time. The Kryptok lenses are fused and welded in such a way as to become one solid lens of perfect optical qualities. We have issued a Booklet on these lenses, which covers the question of Bifocals thoroughly, and explains why the Kryptok Bifocals are much superior to the ordinary cemented kind. These Booklets we give away free of charge as well as our Antiseptic Lens Wipers. Call and ask for one

INCREASED COST OF LIVING.

The Ottawa Journal makes the following comments in regard to the increased cost of living and the probability of high prices continuing, or even advancing.

When all is said, the problem of the cost of living is largely in the hands of the people themselves. They have it in their power to regulate it to a great extent by adapting their buying to their means, wisely used. There is too much extravagance as a rule, particularly among what is designated as the middle class with fixed incomes. People are prone to imitate others and attempt to find happiness therein. We demand too many kinds of food—too many things "in season." We pay too much attention to non-essentials in dress. We make entertainment showy and expesive at a sacrifice of real hospitality. We make education a luxury by overclothing our children and we teach them to despise work or at least neglect to teach them its nobility. We have no saving habits, and hence can inculcate none. No tariff changes or improvement in agricultural methods will materially change our status unless we resolve to save ourselves from ourselves.

There is a great deal in what the Journal says. There is a very deplorable lack of practice of economy among the people at large. Compulsory economy in times of advanced cost of living would fall less heavily if the practice of economy had become a fixed habit. Many a good housewife, admirable in many respects, and anxious to make a happy home for husband and children has no idea of economy in buying, selling, and disposing of the necessities of the household. The French are the standards of economy in living, making the most of the materials at command. A Canadian housewife, perhaps a type of a majority, will make one meal out of a four or five-pound roast, while a French cook will make half a dozen palatable and nourishing meals out of the same amount of meat; nothing is wasted; everything is used to the last bone. This is a national characteristic and the result is that the French nation is the most thrifty and popularly wealthy people in the world. Of course, Canadian housekeepers do not like such shifts to meet the high cost of living; bpt why not? If for some cause the income is reduced, even at normal prices, economy has to be practised. Still, the increased cost of living is a serious matter, especially to those with fixed incomes. The merchant, as to a type of his class, if he finds the cost of living increase can advance the price of his wares in compensation, but the man with a fixed income has not this advantage. Primarily the increased cost of living is due to an all-round increase in wages. Thus the price of everything produced is increased and the working man who congratulates himself on having an increase in wages, finds that the same increase applying generally produces an increase of all the commodities that have to be purchased. This result is inevitable. But the pinch falls upon those with fixed incomes, who have to meet advanced and advancing prices with a stationary revenue. However unwelcome the lesson of economical living may be, we still have to learn it to get the best out of life. Our desires increase with what they feed on. A little self-denial is wholesome discipline in both a moral and national sense. If we realize that, as a whole, the world eats too much—that a million times more persons die from the diseases due to over-eating than die from starvation, or strong drink, the lesson of economy of living—in eating drinking, dressing, entertaining, pleasure-seeking, etc., etc., will not be so distasteful. If we live upon what we can easily pay for, we shall miss some luxuries, but few necessities, and shall have what is one condition of good living—a clear conscience, and shall not suffer the harassment of debt and duns. To strive for contentment with what we have, to cut our garment according to the cloth at our disposal, will tend to happiness, whether the cost of living is high or low. We should all like to spend a summer at the sea shore, but we can't do it and we dismiss the idea. Exercising the same philosophy in regard to living should be no greater ordeal. If we cannot have "chicking"—the ideal of Maggie in Little Dorrit, we must forego the luxuries it represents and sacrifice them as we sacrifice the trip to the seashore, and live as we can afford to live, and fairly comfortably, too, if we learn the lesson of true economy—which is simply making the most—and the best—of what we have and can afford to get.

A COMMISSIONER OF INDUSTRY.

(Brockville Times.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company has just created a new department in its system which should prove of material advantage not only to the railway, but to the communities through which it passes. The new department is one of Industry and is presided over by a Commissioner of Industry, whose entire time and energy will be devoted to aiding the divisional officers in promoting the industrial welfare of the territory they have in charge. Especially will the agricultural and mercantile interests be aided, and it will also be the aim of the Commissioner to help in the development of the natural resources of the country. The commissioner has already begun his week by the collection of full and reliable details of local conditions,—the number and nature of existing industries, the establishment of new enterprises of the location of branch manufactories, the volume of business transacted in dairy products and live stock, garden truck, lumber, coal, lime, and all sorts of building material. All these details will be useful for those who are contemplating the establishment of factories or industries of any kind, and the Grand Trunk authorities have wisely asked for the co-operation of the municipal authorities and the local newspapers.

The Grand Trunk Railway has, we think, taken a wise step, and the municipality which is alive to its own interests should be quck to work hand in hand with the railway. Their interests are closely interwoven and they should work hand in hand in harmony. There was a time when the big railways and the municipalities were usually at loggerheads, when suspicion and antagonism marked their dealings. But under modern management it will be found that the municipality which treats a railway company in a fair, friendly and liberal manner will enjoy reciprocal treatment.

Brockville should take especial interest in the work of the new Commission of Industry for the reason that it is well located for industrial development. It is situated on the two great railways of Canada and the water highway of the continent. It is close to New York, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. It is an ideal spot for either residential or industrial location. Montreal, the great commercial centre of Canada, is close at hand and is growing rapidly, and a metropolitan centre such as it is can consume huge quantities of poultry and garden products. There are many industrial developments possible for Brockville, and if our business men will work in co-operation with the Commissioner of Industry of the Grand Trunk Railway system it will be to their advantage.

Here is chance for cooperation on the part of the municipal authorities of Peterborough. There are some things that are not automatic, that will not do themselves. The new department, instituted by the Grand Trunk will fail from the start of its usefulness, both to the system itself and the communities interested, without the active cooperation of the latter. While the railway aims to help itself —to develop its traffic intrests, in so doing it cannot avoid benefitting the centres for which increased traffic is expected to be drawn. This increased traffic represents increased industrial and commercial activity, which is, perforce, of as much interest to the districts concerned as to the railway, and suggests the hearty cooperation of the districts affected, or, to be affected. To make this cooperation count, it must have direction and system. To this end a municipal industrial commissioner for—in the case of Peterborough—the city, to work in conjunction with the Railway's industrial commissioners would not be a bad idea. Some time last spring the aldermen discussed the idea of such a commissioner, and adopted the principle, but the matter went no further; good intentions were not carried out. If Peterborough is expected to be "in the swim" it must be alert and alive. We cannot expect a committee of the Council, say the Manufacturers Committee, to give the time and take the action that would be devoted by an industrial commissioner, in the discharge of his duties. If we expected that much we should be disappointed, the action taken would probably be closely related to the action taken, or rather not taken by the Council in regard to a commissioner—only good intentions, followed by no implementive results. If the city had an Industrial Commissioner, he could be kept busy, especially since the appointment of a similar official by the railway. If he had been appointed last spring when the desirability of such an official was recognized by the Council, he could have done an excellent summer's work. We can't afford to permit such opportunities for the advancement of the city to pass us by like sunbeams. We live in an age of keen competition—cities and towns are on the alert for new industries, for new commercial connections. Peterborough cannot afford to sit still and wait for these things to be thrust upon us, we must make them come; and an Industrial Commissioner is the agent to be employed. The wonderful progress and industrial growth of the much-alive town of Welland are due to such an official, who keeps in touch with the industrial situation, the movements of new industries; with those contemplating the establishment of branches or those seeking a new home; and it has been well worth while to take such a course. The city fathers should pull themselves together and do things, and do them now; not wait, and delay, and let things drift. The failure to carry the Purity Ware By-law is attributed to the slowness of the city fathers in beginning the campaign of education, and in respect to the by-laws being voted upon to-day, it was only at the last moment that the press was employed to make their merits known. Samuel Johnson said "that hell is paved with good intentions." Good intentions not carried into good action, are idle stuff. The only effective and profitable way of doing things is to do them.

JUDGE ROGER HOLDS COURT AT PORT HOPE

Heard Appeals Against Decisions of the Court of Revision.

His Honour Judge Rogers, the new junior judge for these united counties, presided at the Court yesterday to hear appeals from the decisions of the Court of Revision.

Dr. R. A. Corbett appealed against the assessment on his four houses on John street. Also on the ice house, electric light plant, poles, wires, machinery, and chop mill. The assessment on the chop mill was reduced $100, and the assessment on two of the houses south of the viaduct was reduced $25 each. On the other property the assessment was confirmed.

The total reductions amounted to $1,375.

Mr. D. H. Chisholm acted for Dr. Corbett, and Mr. Ward for G. H. Ralston, J. H. Petry, Trinity College, and the Brewery. Town Solicitor White looked after the town's interest.

AUGUST ROD AND GUN

The holiday feeling pervading the land during the hottest month of the year is well represented in the August issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor at Woodstock, Ont. Hiw the people in the Maratime Provinces, known by reason of the sea breezes as the "Kingdom of Cooldom," enjoy the beautiful summer weather is told in a profusely illustrated article. A delightful paper is "Still Hunting With a Camera"; while of equally absorbing interest is one on similar lines—"Shooting Wild Geese With a Kodak." To detail the list of good things would be to repeat the table of contents, but the article on Voracious Eaters by Martin Hunter is worth attention from all sportsmen. The King of Furbearers is a story of a successful attempt at fox rearing for the sale of pelts. Blood hounds and Trailing will appeal to all dog lovers and Mr. Bartlett's paper on the Wolves follows up the interest created through the Magazine in this important subject. This number should accompany every sportsman on his vacation for in its pages he will find much to make his leisure time pass pleasantly.

NERVOUS AND SLEEPLESS

Thousands are in this pitiable condition—blood is colorless, thin, and watery. Digestion is generally imperfect and needs attention. Appetite is fickle and requires pampering. Pretty soon the Kidneys and Liver cease to act properly—and then everything goes wrong.

Ferrozone is a positive cure for Nervousness. It possesses marvelous tonic properties that quickly restore the nerves to a normal condition.

"Last year I suffered from a run-down condition and Nervous Headache. I had the best treatment and medical assistance in the city but was not helped. FERROZONE rebuilt my strength and made me well." (Mrs.) J. Warren, St. John, N.B.

It strengthens the heart, improves the blood circulation, aids digestion and assimilation of food. Ferrozone has a specific action on the Kidneys and Liver and causes these organs to eliminate all poisonous secretions. Ferrozone brings rest and quiet to the excited brain and is guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Nervous Prostration, Nerve Exhaustion, Tiredness, Languor, and all diseases arising from poverty of the blood. Refuse a substitute for Ferrozone, which costs 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Ontario Farmers Providing Their Homes With Comforts Attributed Only To Cities

Acetylene Lighting, Bath Rooms, Libraries and Other Luxuries of Modern Life—Mr. Glendenning States His Recent Experience in Western Ontario.

FARM AND DAIRY'S WORK.

Seventy-five per cent of the farms examined by Mr. Henry Glendenning, of Manilla, Ont., are equipped with improvements of the most modern type thus demonstrating the fact that the farmers of Ontario are awakening to the fact that they can equip their homes and maintain their farms as comfortably and as thoroughly as the city resident, his ten or twelve room house. The advancement that is being made in this direction is the beginning of a new era in the history of the Canadian farmer, and in this connection the management of Farm and Dairy are deserving of a great deal of credit for inaugurating what is known as the Prize Farms Competition. Mr. Glendenning, who was appointed judge of the district extending from the counties of York and Ontario, west to Lake Huron, returned to Peterborough yesterday after examining 24 farms in that district.

He made the above statement that the great majority of the farms he visited possessed modern improvements not only in the farm equipment, but also in the household and this tendency is rapidly growing, the example of the most progressive farmers being an incentive to the rest.

The old log houses, many of which are still standing on isolated parts of the farms have long since been forsaken as places of habitation, and fine stone and brick structures are the homes of the present generation of tillers of the soil. But the advancement is apparently not going to stop at this improvement. The farmers have the scope to proceed, they have the means and apparently only a little stimulation or advanced education along these lines is needed.

The Competition

The points upon which the judges examine the 50 or more farms that have been entered embraces every department of farm life. Columns would be required to explain the method by which the judging is carried out and the consideration given to each department. The fencing of the farms, the condition of the lawn and flower beds, the arrangement of the orchard, and then into the sheds, the barns, the fields, the machinery, the household and in fact everything.

MR. HENRY GLENDENNING,

Prominent Agriculturist on Staff of Farm and Dairy, Speaks of Great Improvements Farmers are Making in Their Homes.

stance the farmer's method of bookkeeping is examined, if he has one and the progressive farmer of to-day should be able to balance his receipt and expenditures almost to the cent. One farmer whose place was judged by Mr. Glendenning, commenced keeping an account of his finances about eight years ago when he first took up agriculture for himself. He also had a large journal in which he laid out a diagram of his fields and annually recorded the disposition of each field. Where hay was sown the first year in one field it was planted with some sort of grain the next. He can tell exactly how his crops were planted every year since he commenced this system. This enables him to be sure of the rotation of his crops and is otherwise a valuable asset.

Results of Competition

The farmers who have entered the contest are not the only ones interested. Their neighbours do not want to feel negligent nor do they like to be outdone when they can accomplish equal results by expending a little time and money.

Mr Glendenning examined 24 farms in his district and in most of them there were baths, etc., rural telephones, acetylene lighting systems which are also found in the barns and out buildings and many other improvements. The city dweller is not far ahead of the progressive farmer and as this tendency grows, the farmers will continue to improve their homes and farms until they are models of their kind.

Party Of Twenty-five Immigrants Expected Here By End Of Month

Twenty-five immigrants will arrive in the city about August 1st, although they are expected on the 31st to be exact, and positions will likely be found for that party in the Peterborough district. They have been sent out in answer to the following circular sent by the Superintendent of Emmigration to a large number of agents in England and the members of the party are understood to be of the best class of emigrants:

Sir,—Mr. G. H. Howson, Canadian Government Employment Agent at Peterborough, Ontario, informs me that he requires between now and the first of August twenty-five experienced farm labourers at wages ranging from $15 to $25 a month, according to ability, and 25 inexperienced farm labourers at wages ranging from $10 to $15. If you can send Mr. Howson either the whole or part of the number before the 1st of August they will be perfectly sure of securing good positions but you should not direct any to him after that date without his assurance hta he is still in a position to secure work for them. He also requires fifty domestic servants whose wages would be at the rate of $8 to $15 per month. These may be sent at any time of the year. Mr. Howson is one of the best agents at the department and those directed to him may feel sure of securing good positions if they follow his advice. I also wish to state that Mr. John S. Smith, agent at Camlachie, Ont., died on May 31st. Kindly remove his name from the list of employmnet agencies.

Your obedient servant,

Superintendent of Emmigration.

Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Stomach Cramps, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, and all Looseness of the Bowels

MAY BE RAPIDLY AND EFFECTUALLY CURED BY THE USE OF THAT OLD AND STERLING REMEDY

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry

It has a reputation of 65 years' standing and never fails to either relieve or cure.

There are many imitations of this remedy on the market that sell for less per bottle. Dr. Fowler's is 35 cents, so be sure and get the genuine. The cheaper articles may be dangerous to your health.

SUMMER COMPLAINT AND DIARRHŒA

Mrs. George Phillips, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., writes: "My baby one year old took the Summer Complaint, and was so bad as to pass blood. I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and only had to give a few doses before my baby was cured. My husband had diarrhœa and three doses cured him. I have used it in my family for over three years with great results and feel safe in recommending it to everyone for all kinds of Summer Complaints."

Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PARENTS HOODED BY ENRAGED NEIGHBOURS

Ill-Treated Daughter Who Jumped From Window To Get Away.

Examiner Special.

Berlin, July 29.—At Sachsenhausen, a suburb of Frankfort-on-Main, a mob of 2,000 persons surrounded a house inhabited by the parents of a sixteen-year-old girl, who, in desperation at her continued ill-treatment by her father and mother, jumped out of a window and was taken to the hospital in a serious condition.

The dwelling was broken into, and the parents dragged out and driven from street to street by the infuriated neighbours beneath a shower of kicks and cuffs.

The culprits tried to take refuge at the police station, but the crowd cut off their escape.

They finally reached a public house, the landlord of which let them in, and then promptly closed the doors and telephoned for the police. A strong force of constables soon arrived and dispersed the enraged mob with drawn swords. Even after this, however, the police had considerable difficulty in getting the parents back to their dwelling, in view of the determined opposition of the crowd.

At midnight the people made another detremined effort to break the cordon and drag out the culprits, and the police had to guard the house all night.

ENGLISH TOURISTS OVER PRECIPICE

Terrible Night In An Alpine Crevasse—One Killed in Fall.

Examiner Special.

Berne, July 29.—A party of English tourists were descending from the Eisighorn mountains, above Adelboden, in the Bernese Oberland, when Mr. Percy Shannon slipped on the snow-covered ground, and fell over a precipice.

While Mr. Greenfield descended to Adelboden for assistance, Mr. Willy Shannon, an experienced Alpinist, climbed down several dangerous cliffs into the precipice. He succeeded in reaching his brother, whom he found unconscious on a narrow ledge of rock. He was terribly injured, and expired soon afterwards without regaining consciousness.

The brother was unable either to return or descend, and passed a terrible night o nthe narrow, dangerous ledge near the corpse. He could not even lie down, and had to remain upright for 14 hours in the storm and snow until Mr. Greenfield arrived with some guides. With considerable difficulty and much risk the party rescued Mr. Willy Shannon from his perilous position and brought him and his dead brother back to Adelboden, where, in the meantime, the aged mother of the pair had arrived.

VACCINATION AND DANDRUFF.

There is as Sure Prevention of Baldness as There is of Smallpox.

It is now accepted that vaccination renders the vaccinated person exempt from smallpox; or at worst, he never has anything but the lightest kind of a case. Now as sure a preventive and cure for dandruff, which causes falling hair and baldness, has been discovered—Newbro's Herpicide. It kills the dandruff germ. C. H. Reed, Victor, Idaho, says: "Myself and wife have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair for several years. We tried remedies without effect until we used Newbro's Herpicide, two bottles of which cured us." Hundreds of similar testimonials. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar Bottles guaranteed.

SOCIALIST PREMIER OF FRANCE

ARISTIDE BRIAND.

When Aristide Briand, avowed Socialist and church-hater, became minister of public instruction and worship in France three years ago, he was asked in the assembly about his opinions.

"I am still a Socialist," he replied amid cheers, "and as a minister will do all in my power to advance it. Except that I will not sacrifice or disrupt the government on account of it."

M. Briand's Socialistic leanings have grown stronger since then, though he has the faculty of combining other factions with him for the advancement of the government, and was called one of the strongest men in France when President Falliers asked him to become premier and form a new cabinet.

M. Briand began life as a poor small town lawyer and newspaper writer.

Save 25 Bars of Soap

Ordinarily you use at least one bar of laundry soap every week—more than fifty bars in a year.

That'll twice as many as you need, for Taylor's Borax Soap goes twice as far as any other soap.

Please prove this for yourself—we invite the test. Try one bar of this soap with one bar of any other. See which soap lasts the longest—learn which is the cheapest.

We know what the result will be, for we have made this same test many times over—our soap lasts twice as long.

Taylor's Soap

Don't think that all soaps are alike—there is a wonderful difference in Taylor's Borax Soap. Let us show you some of the ways in which this soap differs from others.

First we use only the purest cocoanut oil from the Isle of Ceylon. Then we boil it doubly long and mix in the borax. While boiling we run thousands of gallons of clean water through the soap which carries away all impurities.

We require twenty-one days to make a single cake. The labor of more than 200 people is needed. We crush every bar under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture. We put every bar through an ageing process equal to standing six months in your pantry. So you don't have to age this soap.

When finished the bar is hard and firm, so it wears much longer. The borax softens the water which also reduces the amount of soap by almost half that ordinarily required.

This pure soap is utterly harmless to the skin—it leaves the hands whiter and softer than ever before. If it is so harmless to the skin, then think how harmless it must be to the clothes.

This soap comes to you absolutely pure with the creamy fat of the cocoanut oil. It lathers with the greatest abundance and leaves the clothes as pure and white as the foamy suds itself. Try a bar this day—it costs no more than common soaps but does more than any soap you have ever known.

Bull Fight Ends With Fatal Riot

Audience Mad Because Only Half Show Was Given—Two Bullfighters Seriously Injured.

3 KILLED; 50 INJURED

Examiner Special.

Mabon, July 20.—A strange fatality seems to pursue the bullfighters this season. About midway in a bullfight at San Fernando, the two principal bullfighters were seriously injured, and the authorities were obliged to notify the public that the fight would be suspended.

This announcement raised a great outcry, and hundreds of spectators crowded into the ring, demanding the return of their money. This was refused, the proprietors justifying their decision on the ground that half the fight had been given.

The spectators then took sides, one lot defending the proprietors, and the other bent on destroying the bullring. A fierce conflict ensued, and, amid the screams of the terrified women, revolver shots, knife thrusts, and blows were exchanged. The remainder of the bullfighters defended themselves with the long dacts which they used to stock into the bulls' necks, and these nasty weapons caused many serious wounds among the spectators.

When at last the civil guards managed to restore order it was found that three persons had been killed and over fifty more or less seriously injured.

GERMAN OFFICER SABRES SMALL BOY

Instances of Military Tyranny to Maintain Military Dignity.

Berlin, July 29.—Lieut. von Jager, of the Guards, has been tried by a court sitting in camera and sentenced to two days' arrest for seriously wounding with a cut of his sabre a little street urchin who tried to cross the road between the ranks of his men. The child was eight years old, and this hero of an officer seeing it so naughty, drew his sword and struck him on the shoulder and arm, cutting through the boy's clothes and wounding him severely.

In his defence the officer urged that he was bound to preserve order, and that if he did not make an example the thing would become a nuisance and all street boys on line of march would find the greatest pleasure in running about among the ranks.

Baron von Dalwigk boxed a waiter's ears the other night because the waiter would not find his cap. The waiter paid the Baron a similar compliment.

Imagine a German waiter boxing a German officers' ears.

Luckily the officer did not draw his sword and run the plucky Hermann through the body in the approved method known as a la Brusewitz. He adopted another plan.

Next morning he called at the place where the waiter serves and gave him a thorough hiding with a riding whip. He said he did it to cleanse his besmirched honour. Had the waiter been a man of education and birth he would have been challenged to fight a duel, but as he was only what the Baron called a "dirty, low waiter," he had a horsewhipping.

Then the waiter went to law and summoned the officer for assault—also an unheard of proceeding. After long deliberation the Court found the officer guilty and fined him $50.

The amusing part of the proceeding was that the Court decided to hear the case in private on the ground that military discipline would be endangered and respect all Germans feel for the army would be lessened were the trial to be public.

HIS HONOUR JUDGE HUYCKE TENDERED WARM RECEPTION

The New Judge and Mrs. Huycke Arrived in the City From Cobourg Last Evening—Sworn in by County Registrar B. Morrow—Addresses of Welcome Made by Mr. L.M. Hayes, Sheriff Hall, Mayor Rush and Mr. E.M. Elliott

HAS ASSUMED HIS DUTIES.

His Honour Judg Huycke, the newly appointed judge of the County of Peterborough, formally assumed that office in the County Council Chamber in the Court House last evening, when the commissions appointing him County Judge of the County of Peterborough and local judge of the High Court of Justice of Ontario, were read to him by Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., President of the Bar of Peterborough, and when he took the oath promising to fulfil to the best of his ability, the duties of a judge.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., presided and the following gentlemen were present: His Worship Mayor Rush Aldermen Gillespie, Turner and Morgan, Magistrate Dumble, K.C., County Magistrate Edmison, His Honour Judge G. M. Roger, Sheriff Hall County Treasurer Ed. M. Eliott, and Messrs. E. A. Peck, W. H. Moore K.C., F. D. Kerr, G. W. Hatton, G N. Gordon, S. T. Medd, B. D. Hall R. R. Hall, M.P., J. H. Burnham, R F. McWilliams, W. F. Johnston, A. P Poussette, S. R. Armstrong, R. Ruddy, H. Nesbitt, John Green, E. S Clarry, R. Winch, G. W. Bennet Peter Campbell and J. Coyle Brown

Speeches of welcome were made to Judge Huycke and Mrs. Huycke by the chairman, Mayor Rush, Magistrate Dumble, Sheriff Hall, and Mr Ed. M. Elliott, county treasurer, who spoke on behalf of Warden Scott who was absent.

The Commission

At half past eight when the above mentioned persons assembled in the County Council Chamber, Mr. L. M Hayes arose and read two commissions to His Honour Judge Huycke one appointing him a local judge of the High Court of Justice of Ontario and the second one making him County Court Judge of the County of Peterborough, the former reading as follows:

Edward the Seventh, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the Dominion beyond the seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

To His Honour, Edward Cornelius Stanbury Huycke, judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough in the Province of Ontario, in the Dominion of Canada. Greeting:

Know you that reposing trust and confidence in your loyalty, integrity and ability, we have instituted and appointed, and we do hereby institute and appoint you, the said Edward Cornelius Stanbury Huycke to be a local judge of the High Court of Justice for Ontario.

To have, hold, exercise and enjoy the said office of a local judge of the High Court of Justice for Ontario, unto you, the said Edward Cornelius Stanbury Huycke with all and every the powers, rights, authority, privileges, profits, emoluments and advantages unto the said office of right and by law appertaining during your good behaviour and your tenure of the office of a judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough in the said Province of Ontario.

In testimony whereof, we have caused these our letters to be made patent and the great seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. Witness our right, trusty and well beloved Councillor, the Right Honourable Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Knight Commander of our most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and Saint George, Chief Justice of Canada, and administrator of the Government of our Dominion of Canada at our Government House in our City of Ottawa, this sixth day of July in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and nine, in the ninth year of our reign. By command

THOMAS MULVEY.
Under Secretary of State of Canada.

Following the reading of the commissions, His Honour was sworn to his office by the County Registrar Mr. B. Morrow.

Addressing His Honour, Mr. Hayes extended a warm welcome to him and Mrs. Huycke on behalf of the Bar of Peterborough. He hoped that the cordial, pleasant relations between the bench and the bar of the past would continue and from the well earned reputation of the new judge he felt assured that they would. The chairman then called on Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., to make a few remarks.

Mr. Dumble in his words of welcome to the new judge referred first to the fine qualities that had characterized the life of the late Judge Weller. Most of the lawyers of Peterborough he remarked, had attained their professional experience before him. He was ever courteous, patient and reticent, winning the respect of all. "Having had that high standard in the past we congratulate ourselves," the speaker continued, "on having a successor of a splendid reputation." Mr. Dumble hoped that the same friendly and courteous feelings between the bench and the bar would continue as in the past. Personally he had known the new judge for many years and he extended to him and Mrs. Huycke a very hearty welcome and the kindliest greetings.

Mayor Rush

On behalf of the citizens of Peterborough, His Worship, the Mayor, expressed greetings to Judge and Mrs. Huycke. He welcomed them as citizens and hoped they would enjoy living in this city.

Sheriff Hall, on behalf of the officials of the goal and Mr. Ed. M. Elliott on behalf of Warden Scott briefly addressed words of welcome to the new judge.

Judge Huycke

In replying to the welcome extended him, His Honour remarked that the kind words spoken were almost overpowering. He thanked the speakers most heartily for them. They would never be effaced from his memory. He regretted leaving so many good friends in Cobourg, but he was coming to one of the best counties in the province and among a splendid and intelligent body of lawyers. He would honestly do his best to carry out his duties and it would not be his fault if the pleasant relations between the bench and the bar were not continued. He looked to them to help him as they looked to him.

He thanked the Mayor and Sheriff for their cordial welcome. "I have come," he said, "to be a citizen of the county and a citizen of the city and anything that I can do that will effect its welfare I will most gladly do."

In conclusion he again thanked those present for their hearty welcome, asking them for their forbearance and sympathy in the performance of his duties, promising to carry them out to the best of his ability.

Those present were then introduced to His Honour and Mrs. Huycke.

The Visiting Painters Pleased With Peterborough And Citizens

"We've been delighted with Peterborough and its people," said the newly elected president of the Painters and Decorators' Association, Mr. Benjamin Goodfellow, of Galt, to an Examiner reporter last night. "Our convention has been the best in our history, Peterborough has proved an ideal place for a convention, the local Association has been untiring in its efforts to entertain us and our stay here has been a decidedly pleasant one. Peterborough is a beautiful city and I would like to have seen more of it."

Mr. Goodfellow spoke highly of the hotel accommodation and in considering the visit of the painters he said he was voicing the sentiments of all in stating that they had been hospitably treated and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The members of the local Association have been complimented upon the able manner in which they prepared for the convention, the success of which may be to some extent credited to them. Those who were noticed about the convention hall most prominently were: Geo. H. Duncan, Geo. and Jesse Coleman, Fred Cook, Archie Morton, J. P. Shevlin, J. N. Watson, W. J. Koster, Andrew Davidson, Frank Larone and others, who had been making arrangements several months before the opening day.

They may be excused for any pride they may take upon themselves for the success of their labours which have resulted in giving Peterborough more publicity among a fraternity which will not soon forget it.

Competition For Excursions On The Upper Kawartha Lakes

Mr. Frank Young, of the Stoney Lake Steamboat Co., was in town Tuesday evening endeavouring to bill excursions from this town to points on the Kawartha Lakes.

The company has a fleet of three fine steamers, the Empress, Stoney Lake and Majestic. The Stoney Lake will be the steamer to carry the excursionists from this port, and it is understood one will be run from here on Wednesday next.

On Thursday, August 5th, the date of the annual regatta at Sturgeon Point, the Stoney Lake will run three excursions to that Point, and on the following Friday will in all probability run a trip from Lindsay to Lakefield, connecting with the G. T. R., for this town.

The Otonabee Navigation Company is also billing a number of excursions from this point for August, so that the citizens will have opportunities galore to enjoy an outing on the Kawartha Lakes.—Lindsay Warder.

CURED WHEN DOCTORS FAILED

Mr. Felix Villeneuve, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes: "I was a great sufferer from kidney disease and inflammation of the bowels and liver troubels and doctors could not help me much. Could not sleep, water contained sediment, had frequent desire to urinate and often passed blood. Had dreadful headaches, one side almost paralyzed, and was deaf in left ear for eight years. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured me and I am very grateful. I want to thank you."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS' EXCURSION.

The first annual excursion under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias will take place Thursday afternoon to Gore's Landing, per Steamer Otonabee. The steamer leaves at 1.30, calling at Street Railway Wharf and Whitfield's Landing. Music for dancing. Return tickets, 50 cents.

THE DOG NUISANCE

How Would This Do for the City of Peterborough?

Brantford, July 29.—By-law No. 1024 relating to dogs was passed at a recently held meeting of the council. The following are some of the rules under which dogs can be kept in the city:

No owner of a dog shall suffer or permit the same and no dog shall be suffered or permitted to run at large within the city limits, whether wearing a tag or not.

If any dog is caught by the chief constable or any person appointed to catch dogs, it shall be put in the pound for 36 hours, during which time the owner can by paying $2 secure his dog back and if not redeemed the dog shall be kept for an additional 12 hours, during which time he may be sold to any person paying for the use of the city a sum not less than $2 for each such dog.

Any citizen can catch a dog which is running at large and impound it.

No person shall remove the collar or tag from any dog.

Dogs from the township which come into the city will be impounded.

LADIES, WHY NOT PRESERVE YOUR YOUTH AND BEAUTY?

Parisian Sage, the quick-acting hair restorer, is now for sale in Peterborough at the drug store of Wm. Madill, and is sold with a rigid guarantee at 50 cents a bottle.

Parisian Sage has an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It is safe and harmless.

It cures dandruff in two weeks by killing the dandruff germs.

It stops falling hair.

It promptly stops itching of the scalp.

It makes the hair soft and luxuriant.

It gives life and beauty to the hair.

It is not sticky or greasy.

It is the daintiest perfumed hair tonic made.

It is the best, the most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute: he is unworthy of your confidence.

BAND CONCERT WAS GREATLY ENJOYED

Mr. McIlroy's Vocal Solo was Particularly Pleasing and was Appreciated.

The band concert in Victoria Park last night was enjoyed by one of the largest crowds of the season. It was arranged especially for the midweek in honour of the visiting painters and decorators, and Mr. Gliddon had a select programme. The new selection of Renwick's hits proved catchy and made a hit as a popular number. The concert was particularly delightful from the fact that Mr. McIlroy sang "Love's Old Sweet Song." His voice proved to be well adapted to the open air and sounded strong and clear throughout the park. The accompaniment of the band was in itself delightful, and the old favourite song was given a splendid rendition by Mr. McIlroy, and the band. An encore was demanded and the expressed wish of the people was that they would be given another opportunity of hearing Mr. McIlroy in the open air.

C. M. B. A EXCURSION HELD TO HASTINGS

Yesterday was a Great Success—T. A. S. Ball Team Defeated Hastings Senior Team.

The excursion to Hastings yesterday on the steamer Stoney Lake, was one of the biggest successes of the season, over two hundred and fifty people taking in the event. The steamer left here early in the morning, and after a most delightful sail down the river and across Rice Lake, Hastings was reached at one o'clock.

After dinner the feature of the excursion was the baseball match between the local T.A.S. nine and the Hastings Senior team, which resulted in the former winning by a score of ten to five. The game was an interesting one and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators, principally Hastings people.

Mr. George Hornoell acted as umpire very satisfactorily and the teams lined up as follows:

T. A. S.—H. O'Brien cf, H. Kendry ss, G. McFadden c, M. O'Brien 1b, A. Weatherstone 2b, J. Callaghan 3b, Doherty lf, Giroux rf, Gorham p.

Hastings—C. Prest ss, Rice 2b, Cameron rf, Bucannon lf, Graham c, Fowlds 1b, Fitzgerald cf, F. Prest p, B. Prest 3b:

REFERS TO DR. ELLIOT'S RELIGION OF FUTURE

Repugnant to Most Men Who Have Strong Faith, Says One Minister.

Regarding Dr. Elliot's statements concerning a new religion Rev. Francis Arthurs, of Calvary Episcopal Church, New York, said: I think Dr. Elliott's suggestion that we are to have a new religion—if he means literally a new one, and not a branching out into new spheres with our present one—is repugnant to most men who have the strong faith and hope in the religion that has stood the crucial test of time. If the religion we have now is not sufficient then we certainly do not need another. It is all sufficient. If it does not fulfil its divine purpose it is not the fault of the religion, but the fault of the way the religion is practised.

I cannot undertake to put myself on a plane with Dr. Elliott. He has in the past given evidence of being a master of analytical thought and has been broadmindedly great. He knows the history of our religion and what it really stands for. I am surprised that he should suggest—if he is reported correctly—that our religion is insufficient and that a new religion of some kind is to take its place. In the past centuries men have come and men have gone with religious innovations, but the grand old religion has swept onward.

SENTENCED TO ONE MONTH IN GAOL

Chas. Clarke Guilty of Theft at Police Court This Morning.

Charlie Clarke was sentenced to one month in gaol this morning for appropriating to his own use five dollars that did not belong to him. He did not appear in court to-day but it was proven that he had received five dollars from Henry Truesdale, who was at tenant of Clarke's in a house on Edinburgh street. Clarke had the place rented and instead of paying his rent had kept the money.

FINED ONE DOLLAR FOR THROWING STONES

Two boys were each fined one dollar at the police court this morning for throwing stones at a man driving along the street in East City. They pleaded guilty and were given ten days in which to pay it.

MARVELLOUS HEALING POWERS

The most severe test to which a healing ointment is ever put is the cure of eczema. So successful has Dr. Chase's Ointment proven in the cure of torturing itching eczema that many people refer to its effects as magical and marvellous. After the first few applications it positively stops the dreadful itching and then gradually and naturally heals up the sores.

Put a little "Sunshine" in your home

An old-fashioned, ill-working furnace is a non-producer.

It consumes the coal, but through leaks and cracks wastes the heat.

It is not economy to have such a furnace in your own home, or in your tenant's home.

If you are thinking of building you should be interested in Sunshine Furnace. It adds 100 per cent. to home comforts.

As soon as you let the contract for your house decide on your furnace. The "Sunshine" man will be pleased to tell you just how the rooms ought to be laid out with an eye to securing greatest heat from the smallest consumption of coal.

If you want to experiment with the question don't specify "Sunshine."

If you want to settle the question specify "Sunshine."

On account of the many attractions in the city last night, the meeting in the tent was small, but it was very enthusiastic. Mr. Young was the speaker and Mr. Betten, leader.

Gypsies Going Back To The Mines To Make More Money

The Mexican gypsies intend returning to California immediately after the trials in which they appear in the Hull courts. They will go to Montreal and there take boat and go around to California, where they will again mine in the gold fields.

Stephen George, chief, and Peter Sterio sub-chief of the Mexican gypsies have stated that the Mexicans are travelling through the country filling contracts for a firm in Winnipeg to supply them with horses. They buy up heavy horses in large numbers and ship them west. This is their source of wealth at the present, but, as stated, they made almost $50,000 in the gold fields of the Rockies in California.

"I am chief of three tribes," said Stephen George, proudly. Each of the tribes contains 50 men and women. One of them is in Winnipeg and distribue the horses that we send out. The other tribe is travelling in Ontario and will likely follow up in a few weeks. No, they won't stop in Hull, they will go right ahead. Each of the tribes are under sub-chiefs, but our tribe is the main body and is the most wealthy. The others have lots of money though."

Asked where they intended to go from here, Chief Stephen George replied that as soon as the trials were over they would pack their tents and move.

"We will go to Montreal. Then we will bet on a boat and go away round to California, because soon it will be winter here. The sub-chief, Peter Mitchell, will go to Winnipeg to take charge of the tribe there, but I will stay in California, where I will get gold.

"Perhaps then we come back."

The trials in the Hull courts to-day will complete the list of charges against the gypsies, except the civil proceedings against Eli Stokes and John Stokes of the Bulgarian camp.—Ottawa Free Press.

TERROR IN BARCELONA.

Spanish City Is In Throes of Big Insurrection.

Madrid, July 29.—The revolution in Catalonia has reached a serious stage.

There is much bloodshed, and artillery has been employed in the streets of Barcelona to quell the outbreaks. The city is terror-stricken. The revolutionists are reported to be fighting desperately behind barricades. The troops include mounted artillery and the defences of the rebels have been raked with shot.

The greatest inquietude exists in Madrid.

King Alfonso was closeted until a late hour with Premier Maura, and an official note was issued, saying that the situation was exceedingly grave, and that the rebellion must be repressed with an iron hand, as the Catalonians were struggling to end all Spanish revolutionists.

The armored cruisers Amperador Carlos V. and Prince de Asturias, and three destroyers have been ordered to Barcelona.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Geo. J. Ryckman's tailoring establishment was burned early yesterday morning at Niagara Falls.

A number of Toronto ladies have formed the Ladies' Rifle Association of Canada with the view of encouraging rifle shooting among their sex.

A new worlds record of 62 consecutive bullseyes at the 500 yards range was completed by Capt. Stuart W. Wise at a Wakefield, Mass., tournament yesterday.

Premier Whitney has reconsidered his decision to publish the names of the militant members of the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges, who have petitioned against the Ontario power bill.

After lingering between life and death as the result of injuries alleged to have been inflicted by his son Arthur, the aged man, Alfred Drouin, died in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Quebec, Tuesday night.

Salvatore Tino of Fort Frances, father of Thaveiso Tino, the Black Hand leader, who has already been sent to Stony Mountain, was yesterday sent to the same penitentiary for three years by Magistrate Holland.

Nearly every white resident and settler in the Hazleton, B.C., district has signed a petition asking for the establishment of mounted police patrols immediately for the preservation of peace along the Grand Trunk Pacific construction in the northern interior.

Overwhelming Vote for Strike.

London, July 29.—The balloting of the members of the Miners' Confederation of Great Britain to decide whether or not a national strike should be declared in support of the Scottish miners, who are resisting a wage reduction of sixpence a day, was concluded yesterday and resulted in 518,361 men voting in favor of a general strike. Only 62,980 voted against the strike.

This unmistakable determination of the men to support their Scottish colleagues and the apparently equally determined refusal of the employers to agree on the miners' terms render the work of intermediaries most difficult.

Another conference between the employers and the men will be held at the Board of Trade to-day, under the chairmanship of Winston Spencer Churchill, and unless a compromise is then reached a general industrial upheaval appears inevitable.

Two Fatalities In Hamilton.

Hamilton, July 29.—John Flynn was fatally injured at 4.30 in the Stuart street yards of the G.T.R. last evening, while unloading piles, and an unknown man was run down near the Jockey Club, and his body badly mangled by the G.T.R. flyer from the east.

Flynn was the victim of a very peculiar accident. As a pile was being rolled off a car it broke the skid, one end of which flew up and struck him on the head, giving him such a terrific blow that he died a short time afterwards.

Must Submit Rifle.

London, July 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The National Rifle Association Council have decided that no service rifle of any pattern other than of the official pattern in use by the British army, will be admitted in service rifle competitions, unless an officially certified specimen of such rifle be deposited with the N.R.A. at least three months before the commencement of the Bisley meeting, and be approved for use at the Bisley meeting.

Sergt. W. Kelly of the Toronto Grenadiers, and Freeborn of Hamilton, were first in the doubles at Bisley, winning 90 shillings. McVittie and Lieut. Smith were sixth, 40 shillings.

In the Wantage, Blackburn was 13th, with 20; Mortimer 21st, with 29; Stack, 55th, with 20; Blackburn of Winnipeg was seventh in the Pixley match; Mitchell 54th, and Mortimer 55th. Each won 20 shillings.

Damaged by Iceberg.

St. John's, Nfld., July 29.—The menacing presence of icebergs in the path of the ocean steamers off Cape Race has again been manifested, the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Montrose, from London via Antwerp, for Montreal, having proceeded only yesterday morning after an enforced halt of four days for the purpose of effecting temporary repairs following a collision with a giant ice pillar.

The plight of the steamer, which is carrying passengers and freight from Europe to Montreal, was not known here until yesterday when the British warship Brilliant arrived and reported standing by the Montrose for four days off Cape Race and helping to repair the damage.

Both bows of the Montrose are telescoped and the hawser pipes entirely destroyed. The forepeak was flooded.

Motorman Was Incompetent.

Winnipeg, July 29.—The adjourned coroner's inquest on Enoch Rees and Ernest Ilette, who were crushed between street cars on the devil strip at the corner of Logan and Main streets on Sunday, blamed Motorman Taylor for moving his car when the other car was already on the curve and declared him to be grossly incompetent. They censured the street railway for employing incompetent motormen and for not having a standard examination.

Both Taylor and the other motorman, Herbert, were detained by the police, and in the ordinary course will appear before the magistrate on Wednesday.

EIGHTEEN INCH HATS.

New Foreign Creation Will Succeed the Peach Basket.

New York, July 29.—A consignment of 200 of the monumental hats for women which it is predicted will displace the wide-spreading peach baskets got here Tuesday from Paris on the steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm. The hats are made of fur and suggest the bearskins of the Old Guard. They are called Russian toques.

The toque does away with rats and the spreading coiffure that makes a lady's head a good enough umbrella in a rainstorm. On the other hand, it is a skyscraper. The loftiest may be slightly over a foot and a half—more than three times the height of a man's silk hat—from the foundation at the forehead to the apex, which is crowned with an aigrette. The lady who wears the hat must comb her hair upward and secure it in a ball—a high ball—on the very top of her head. Little ladies may wear the very tallest hats but tall ones can soften the grenadier effect by wearing one foot high creations and reducing the spray of feathers. Viewed from a rear elevation, the toque fits the head snugly. When the lady takes it off, as she is expected to do at the theatre, she will reveal a bunch of hair tightly coiled that will not be wide enough to obstruct the view of the stage of any two-eyed man.

You can pick your fur and pay $1,000 for a hat, but it is not doubted that girls with on thousand dollar bills to spare will be towering over their sweethearts in that looklike fur that will have cost not more than $3.98.

Will Not Go Through.

Montreal, July 29.—It is learned that a New York syndicate has offered par for a controlling interest in the International Coal & Coke Co., whose property is at Coleman, Alberta, and although large holders are favorable to the deal, enough of the stockholders cannot be induced to part with their stock at that price and the probability is that the sale will not be accomplished.

Drowned at Brockville.

Brockville, July 29.—Walter Conlon, an employe of the steamer Island Belle, was drowned at the C.P.R. wharf here yesterday morning. The boat left here with a full complement of passengers, and as Conlon was in the act of handling a stern line he fell overboard, and in view of a hundred or more people was drowned, but a few feet from the wharf.

Taft's Relative Killed.

Middletown, N.Y., July 29.—While crossing the Erie Railroad tracks yesterday Mrs. William Chase, an elderly woman of this city, said to be a relative of President Taft, was struck by an express train and instantly killed. The accident occurred near the James street station here, where Mrs. Chase intended taking a train for a seashore resort.

Stolen Jewelry Returned.

Ottawa, July 29.—Some time ago John Williamson of Woodroffe had some jewelry, valued at $80, and $30 in money, stolen from his cottage. The repented thief has returned the jewelry, placing it in a shed at the rear of the house, but the money is still missing.

Tries to Hang Himself.

Guelph, July 29.—Hanging by his neck from a strap which he had fastened to the knob on the other side of the door, with a chair kicked away from under his feet, and almost dead from strangulation, Charles Dempsey, an elderly and well-known resident of this city, was found by his son Albert, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, in a bedroom over his shoe store on Cork street.

The old man is on the "Indian list," and had been served with another summons to appear in court. He is in a critical condition.

McKelvie Case Adjourned.

Cobalt, July 29.—Owing to the death of the infant daughter of A. G. Slaight, legal adviser to Andrew McKelvie, the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Co. director, arrested in connection with the Piche bribery case, the trial of McKelvie has been adjourned until Tuesday next.

Oliver Mowat Memorial.

Kingston, July 29.—The General Hospital governors have decided to erect a sanitarium building to serve the dual purpose of a sanitarium and memorial to the late Sir Oliver Mowat. The building will be two storeys and cost $12,800.

Mrs. Farndel of Clementsport, N. S., Suffered All Her Life From Asthma, But Was Permanently Cured by Catarrhozone After All Other Means Failed.

Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma, and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhozone:—

"I am now in my eightieth year, and cannot recall the time when I was free from asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave relief in five minutes, and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used I was completely cured. I am as free now from asthma as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone inhaler next to life itself."

C.P.R. Earnings.

Montreal, July 29.—Following are the earnings of the C.P.R. in June: Gross earnings $6,560,154; working expenses $4,661,728; net profit $1,888,425.

In June, 1908, the net profits were $1,675,466, and for the 12 months ended June 30, 1909, the figures are as follows: Gross earnings $76,313,321; working expenses $53,357,748, net profit $22,955,578.

For twelve months ended June 30, 1908, there was a net profit of $24,792,366.

The increase in net profits over the same period last year is, therefore, for June, $212,929, and for 12 months ended June 30, there was an increase of $1,163,207.

Mother and Daughter Drown.

Rochester, N.Y., July 29.—Mrs. Gordon Hoyt and Miss Clara Hoyt, mother and daughter, were drowned yesterday at Snug Harbor, near Hammondsport. The daughter had gone in bathing and being seized with cramps called to her mother, who was on the bank nearby. Mrs. Hoyt, who is an expert swimmer, went to the rescue.

The daughter was so frightened that she threw her arms about her mother and her rescuer's efforts were thus so hampered that both drowned before help could reach them.

Three Fatal Accidents.

Lockport, July 29.—Three accidents occurring within an hour last night probably will cause four deaths. Roy Russell, nine years old, tipped over a boat in the canal and was drowned. Robert Hutcheson, nephew of the city treasurer, fell between two freight cars and received probably fatal injuries. A horse ran away with a light rig on Gooding street hill. Mrs. Theresa Robzein, 76 years of age, and her daughter Sarah of East Wilson were thrown out. Both are in a critical condition.

Russian City In Panic.

St. Petersburg, July 29.—Despatches received here yesterday from Polotsk, in the government of Vitebsk, the only city in Russia aside from St. Petersburg where the cholera has made much headway, say that the city is full of panic owing to the inefficiency of the sanitary administration and the shortage of physicians.

Forty cases of the disease are reported daily and to cope with this situation there are only five doctors, who are so overwhelmed with work that they are obliged to refuse their services. At night heartbreaking scenes are witnessed at the physicians' offices, where relatives of the stricken of the city fail to get any attention.

Many stores have been closed and all well-to-do persons are fleeing from the city.

Child Dies From Burns.

Cannington, July 29.—While Mrs. Charles Hill was out shopping Tuesday afternoon her little three-year-old daughter Pearl got hold of some matches and set fire to her clothing. The neighbors hearing the child's screams, went to her assistance, but before the fire could be put out the child was badly burned and died early yesterday morning.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PRESIDENT SENT BULLET INTO HIS BRAIN

Examiner Special.

New York, July 28.—Harry C. Pulliam, President of the National League of Baseball Clubs, attempted suicide to-night in his room on the third floor of the New York Athletic Club.

Standing in the centre of the room Hr. Pulliam held a revolver to his right temple. He fired only one shot. It went in at the right temple and came out seven inches away on the left side of the head. The bullet destroyed the right eye and passed through the upper part of the left. It is not believed that Mr. Pulliam can recover, although he continued conscious for some time after the shooting. The sight of both eyes were destroyed by the bullet, the physicians said.

Later—(J. N. Barber Special)

New York, July 29.—Harry C. Pulliam, President of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, shot himself in the right temple at 9.30 o'clock last night in his room at the New York Athletic Club in this city. The bullet passed entirely through his head from right to left cutting out both eyes.

He died at 7:40 this a.m.

FLAHERTY REMAINS WITH NORTHERN TEAM

First Game Was Postponed—"Yebbie" to Meet Burton of Barrie.

"Bill" Cinnamon and "Yebbie" Flaherty have been retained in Haileybury to play several games of ball. The first game, which was to have come off on Monday was postponed. Herb. Hopkins, who has been up in that country states that they play ball in the old-fashioned style around those diggings, and that some of the contests are very warm.

Burton and Scott, the Barrie battery, are on the firing line for Cobalt, and our old friend, Fred Hickey, is pitching for New Liskeard. Bil land Yebbie will meet many old acquaintances in the silver country.

The Haileybury team play Cobalt and afterwards New Liskeard.—Lindsay Post.

Badly Hurt In Thresher

BLOOD POISON SET IN

Healed in one place, broke out in another—Cure effected by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Truth is often stranger than fiction and many of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment are more like miracles than anything else.

You generally hear of this great Ointment as a cure for eczema or piles. In the case we report to-day the trouble was blood poison. You know how dreadfully dangerous this is. You know how helpless doctors are in its treatment. Read about this cure brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., writes: "I feel like shouting the praises of Dr. Chase's Ointment. While threshing grain my son got badly hurt. One of the men who was pitching sheaves, missed the sheaf and ran the prongs of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it and in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal one place and break out at another, and kept on this way for three months.

"Finally I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wounds healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since.

"I might also say that my husband was cured of a very bad case of piles by the use of two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is a wonderful Ointment."

Wherever there is itching or irritation of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory.

60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

INJURED BY FALLING FROM A SCAFFOLD

One of the Thornton-Smith's Co's. men employed in decorating the interior of the Methodist Church fell from one of the lower scaffolds on Saturday and received quite a severe shaking up, but otherwise was uninjured. The accident was caused by the breaking of a plank upon which he was standing. Monday morning a similar accident occurred while the men were engaged in strengthening a scaffold just inside the east entrance. In this case the victim, Mr. Alf. Cole of town, was not so fortunate as his fellow workman. Mr. Cole fell from a twelve-foot scaffold, landing on the backs of the seats injuring his head, shoulder and leg, besides receiving a severe shaking up. Fortunately no bones were broken.—Norwood Register.

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO HOLD DEMONSTRATION OF SOCIETIES

There is a movement on foot to hold a big demonstration of societies in Peterborough, and committees have been appointed by some to confer at a joint meeting, when the proposal will be discussed from every standpoint. It is understood that the idea was broached by Court Chemong I. O. F. and other societies are preparing for it. The Bricklayers have appointed a committee, as have several other organizations and a meeting will be held to-night at 7.30 o'clock in the S. O. E. hall, Hunter street, when all the societies interested are asked to be represented. There is no definite idea as yet regarding the nature of the demonstration, and for this reason a large attendance is looked for to-night in order to get the opinions of many.

The plan of those who have been considering the question is to have all the societies in the city unite for a big demonstration next year. If an enthusiasm is shown by the societies and a decision is made to go ahead with the idea this will be done after to-night's meeting. The matter is yet in its infancy.

DRILLING MACHINE STRIKES GAS POCKET

At one hundred and sixty feet below the surface a pocket of natural gas was struck by the drilling machine on the Kincaid farm and it is stated that the water is forced up in bubbles through the iron pipe. This afternoon the drill had continued on down to 175 feet and those connected with the work or hopeful of fine results. Mr. C. E. Dett man, of Waynesburg, who is chiefly interested in the boring, arrived in the city last night from Wayneaburg, Pa., and with Mr. Robert Leary, visited the scene of the work. He expressed himself as well satisfied with the manner in which the work is progressing and the boring will be continued if necessary to a depth of probably one thousand feet or more. The first intimation that gas had been struck was conveyed to the workmen by the odour coming from the well. They recognized it, and although this is likely only an isolated pocket it seems to promise greater things when a lower depth is reached.

Mr. Leary stated to the Examiner to-day that the free gas was forcing the water up the pipe in bubbles. Everything is, up to this stage, most satisfactory, and the outlook is quite promising.

FRAZERVILLE HAPPENINGS

Fraserville, July 23.—Owing to the rain storm on Thursday night last, the usual choir practice was cancelled.

There was quite a number from here attended the Millbrook Presbyterian church excursion to Burleigh Falls.

Born at Fraserville on Thursday, July 22nd, the wife of Mr. Wm. Henry, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kidd were down teh river on a raspberrying expedition on Wednesday last.

Hiss J. Waterman will leave for Alex, Alberta, on the 6th of August, where she has accepted a position school teaching.

Many of the farmers who have been, for the past few weeks, wishing for rain, are now getting too well supplied, according to their own reports.

The rain brought the haying to a standstill, and aound this neighbourhood large fields of hay, which had been cut a few days ago, is now lying on the ground till the weather takes a change. Hay has been helped wonderfully, and although the outlok at present is not altogether satisfactory, it may not be as bad as formerly expected.

Farmers are asking ten dollars a ton for their hay, and let the buyers take it out of the fields.

Oats and corn will be very good crops, providing the blight doesn't touch the oats. Potatoes, also, are doing well.

Trades And Labour Congress Convention At Old Quebec

A Call Issued to Canadian Trades and Labour Councils And Trades Unions.

The Examiner willingly meets the request of the Secretary to give publicity to the following call to the convention of the Trades and Labour Congress, to be held at Quebec in September:

To the Officers and Members of Trades and Labor Councils, National Trades Unions, Federal Labour Unions and International Local Trades Unions in the Dominion of Canada, GREETING:—

Fellow Labor Unionists and Brothers,—

The Twenty-fifth Annual Session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will convene in the Provincial Legislative Buildings, City of Quebec, beginning at 10 o'clock, Monday morning, September 20th, 1909, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the convention has been completed.

It is singularly appropriate that the organized wage earners of Canada should assemble in this ancient Capital to discuss the welfare and progress of the toiling masses. To the vision of the immigrant and visitor it typifies all that bright hope and lofty ambition inspire in the traveller from the older Countries, who comes to seek that peace, progress and spiritual mulift that make for material and moral contentment. Fleeing from tyranny and oppressive industrial and national conditions that surround him elsewhere, he sees in Quebec the promise of a better home life, higher civilisation, loftier aspirations, nobler aims in life and religious freedom. How appropriate therefore, that the Congress, representing all these ideals on behalf of the masses, should meet at Quebec to further the moral and material interests of its constituents.

The matters that will be presented for the earnest consideration of the delegates are not less weighty than heretofore. Indeed, as no period in its history has the Congress had a more important duty to perform. Apart altogether from the important legislation of the Dominion Parliament and of the Provincial Legislatures, the ever pressing demands for the amelioration of industrial conditions and the betterment of the whole of our industrial forces—apart from these altogether, a pronouncement is urgently needed upon the present jingo propoganda for military training in the schools, military and naval equipment. Canada is a country of Peace. The problem of living in times of Peace is difficult enough without having foisted upon us a vast expenditure for non-productive, but highly destructive, effort. "War is Hell!"—for the workingman. Labour cannot afford to be silent at this critical juncture but should unite with all peace loving citizens of Canada to squelch, in its incipiency, the forced sentiment that would involve us in the quarrels of other lands.

Following the financial and industrial depression of the past year or two, organized capital will be found ready, as ever, to foist its troubles upon the wage earner. The latter must be up and doing for his own sake. With prosperity in sight, labour must prepare to share in it. Now is the time to voice your views, so elect your delegates early and help to make the Quebec Convention the greatest in the history of organized labour in Canada.

Fraternally yours,
ALPHONSE VERVILLE, M.P., Pres.
JAMES SIMPSON, Vice-President.
P. M. DRAPER, Sec.-Treas.

Apropas of the above, it should be mentioned that to-night Mr. W. R. Trotter, representative to Great Britain, of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada will give an address in the hall of the Catholic Order of Foresters, Hunter street, this evening. All wage-earners will be welcomed at this meeting.

MANY PICNICS FROM CROWE'S LANDING ARE MUCH ENJOYED

Summer Visitors at East End of Stoney Lake Appreciate the Pavilion — Outings to Beauty Spots are Popular.

THE LATE ARRIVALS.

Examiner Special.

Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, July 28.—With the coming of seasonable weather again, the upper end of Stony Lake has renewed the activities characteristic of the summer season and the past few days have been marked by an abundance of shore dinners, picnic parties and fish trips. The greater part of last week was featured by cold rainy weather that confined the cottagers to their islands and made them almost think longingly of home, but the bright sunshiny days that followed the bad spell have dissipated the gloom and there is not a dull moment just now. Hilliard's Island, Eel's Creek, Jack's Creek and other favourite picnic spots have been greatly patronized and launches with long tows of small boats bring merry parties from the lower end of the lake for a delightful day at one or other of the many delightful points in this part of the gem of the Kawartha chain.

The pavilion at Crowe's Landing is very popular with the young people, now that a good piano has been installed. Dances are held on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, but there is generally an informal "hop" on other evenings during the week and no opportunity of having an enjoyable time is lost sight of. The beautiful moonolight just now makes the return trip from the pavilion one of the most enjoyable features of the evening.

"Bellevidere" summer resort has a full quota of guests just now and they seem to be having a most enjoyable outing. There is no more suitable spot on the lake foro a summer hotel and a finer view could not be desired than may be had from the spacious verandah of "Bellevidere."

Among those who have registered at Bellevidere recently are the following: Dr. J. B. McGill, Cleveland; E. W. Sloan, Cleveland; J. H. Belt, Cleveland; Mortimer L. Dietzer, Buffalo, N. Y.; M. Lyman, Buffalo; Miss Ada C. Belt, Cleveland; Miss Edna Sloan, Cleveland; Miss Hilda McGee, Cleveland; Mrs. Wilson and Miss Grace Wilson, Toronto; Mrs. Searight and Miss Stella Searight, Norwood; Mr and Mrs. Rapp, Cincinnati; H. Irvine Bird, Toronto; O. L. Stevenson, Montreal; H. C. Duff, Toronto; L. A. Stephenson, Chicago.

Miss Marjorie Shuler, of the staff of the Buffalo Express, is the guest of Mrs. Bliss.

Mrs. Perry and Miss Perry, of Peterborough, are spending a vacation as the guest of Mrs. Bliss.

Mrs. C. H. Winch, of Montreal, and daughter, Miss Edna, arrived yesterday afternoon to open up "Wau Winnet" for the season.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Winch, Mr. R. J. Winch and party have returned from "Yarrow Brae."

Miss Meharry is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. J. E. Roxborough.

Mrs. Taylor, of Peterborough, is the guest of Miss Williams, at "Maplehurst."

Mr. Howard Taylor, of Peterborough, spent the week end at "Maplehurst."

A merry party from down the lake have been spending a couple of days under canvas at Eel's Creek, and enjoyed a dance in the pavilion last evening.

Mrs. Bliss is giving an informal dance at her island to-night.

Mr. J. E. Roxborough is building a new cottage.

Mr. Ben Simpson, the well-known Hamilton Tiger football player, arrived yesterday and is camped near Eel's Creek, where he will erect a new summer home.

Mr. Chris. Hughes, of Peterborough, is spending his vacation at Crowe's Landing.

PAINTERS ELECTED THEIR OFFICERS

The Master Painters and Decorators concluded the business of their sixth annual convention yesterday afternoon about five o'clock, and the general opinion of all was that it was the most successful in the history of the organization. The general unfinished work was completed and to-day the visitors went up to Stony Lake, where they were the guests of Mr. Jas. Acton.

President Booth occupied the chair for the afternoon session and called the meeting to order.

The first thing on the programme were the practical oil tests by Mr. A. M. McKenzie, of Hamilton, and Mr. John Dewar, of Pittsburg, gave an excellent talk on legislation. These two items took up the greater part of the afternoon.

There was a discussion on the place for meeting next year. Invitations were received from Niagara Falls, Ottawa, and Montreal. The matter was left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

Election of Officers.

President—Benj. Goodfellow, Galt.
Vice-President—Fred Cook, Peterborough.
Sec.-Treas.—A. M. McKenzie, Hamilton.

Representatives to the International Convention—Messrs. J. W. Morley, Winnipeg; J. M. Faircloth, Toronto, and Geo. Duncan, Peterborough.

Scrutineers—Messrs. Wall, J. M. Faircloth, Toronto, and John Dewar, Pittsburg.

Organization Committee — J. J. O'Hearn, Toronto; E. Linnington, Toronto; J. M. Faircloth and Jas. Phinnemore, Toronto; A. M. McKenzie, and Geo. Metcalf, Hamilton.

Executive — Messrs. Stewart, N. Hughes, Toronto; H. Weatherwax, Tillsonburg; W. H. Stamp, Hamilton; W. Delaney, Niagara Falls; J. W. Morley, Winnipeg.

Representative on the International Executive Committee—E. Linnington, Toronto.

On behalf of the Peterborough Association Mr. Fred Cook made a presentation to Mr. J. Hohs, Toronto, for his indefatigable work, in the form of a signet ring.

Mr. Hohs in a few well-chosen words, made a fitting reply and stated he would be only too glad to do anything he could for either the local or international associations.

A vote of thanks was passed to Fire Chief Howard and men, and Ald. Geo. Duncan for the demonstration given in the afternoon.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the American visitors, the local press, the trade journals, the Peterborough Association, Berry Bros., of Walkerville, International Varnish Co., of Toronto, and Mr. Jas Acton, of the Acton Publishing Co., Toronto, for their part in the convention.

The convention was closed by Past President Booth, who reviewed the convention, and in an able manner expressed the wish that the painters would continue to take an interest in the association and that it would continue to grow and to be a help to the painters of the Dominion.

"Life Through a Telescope"

A very interesting picture, showing what a man sees through a telescope in the ancient city of Rome, in fact a bird's-eye-view of the Holy City.

"AN AWFUL TOOTHACHE"

This is a picture brimful of fun from start to finish. A poor fellow has an awful toothache and tries to get the tooth extracted. He succeeds in the end—but come to The Royal and see how he did it.

"A HAPPY MAN"

A very pretty picture, showing how a wife whose husband is an artist catches him trying to make love to one of his models, and the fun afterwards, but not for him.

"BASE BALL FAN"

This is the best Base Ball picture yet produced. It is the latest and most up-to-date. It shows a great game played between the New York "Giants" and the Chicago "White Socks" in New York City a short time ago. It is chuck full of fun as well. Lovers of Base Ball should see it.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest songs— "If You Must Love Someone, Won't You Please Love Me."

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

CRUSHING DEFEAT IN MOROCCO AND MURMURS OF CIVIL WAR AT HOME ARE THREATENING SPAIN

Six Thousand Moors Begin Assault on Penal Settlement—Barcelona Situation Is Worse and Artillery Is Being Used to Batter Down Ramparts in the Streets — Risings Reported In Other Parts.

London, July 30.—The desperate condition of Spain, both at home and abroad, was disclosed yesterday when the Spanish Government officially admitted the defeat of Government troops in a great battle in Morocco, and at the same time reports showed that Barcelona was completely in the hands of a revolutionary mob, the streets running with blood and the Spanish are still using machine guns in a vain attempt to check the onslaught of the revolutionary element.

The battle in Morocco has brought a crushing defeat to the Spanish forces. The casualties on the Spanish side reached 3,000, giving the defeat an aspect akin to that which the Italians met in invading Abyssinia.

The Moors, flushed with their victory, are advancing to attack the Spaniards at another strategic point, Albucemas.

The latest despatches indicate that Melilla, the Spanish stronghold is as pressed by the Moorish forces that its safety is in danger, and its capitulation to the Moors would not cause surprise.

The internal condition of Spain is bordering on anarchy. Barcelona, the second largest city of Spain and the commercial rival of Madrid, is a centre of riot, pillage, the burning of public and religious institutions and of bloody fighting between the Spanish troops and rioters entrenched behind high barricades. The gravity of the situation, as related from points along the Spanish frontier, suggests the bloody days of the Paris commune.

The Government at Madrid is meeting the situation with stern repressive measures. But the report indicate that the military garrison at the capital is disaffected, and the popular sentiment is shown by reports that a vast crowd has held an anti-war manifestation in front of the royal palace.

Rent by Two Fears.

Madrid, July 30.—Spain to-day is rent by two fears—the fate of the army in Morocco and the situation in the Mediterranean provinces in Catalonia.

At the outskirts of Melilla the Spanish arms have suffered a serious check. Three thousand soldiers have either been slain or wounded, and the Moorish hordes are fighting at the very walls of the city itself.

News from Barcelona, the centre of the revolutionary outbreaks is extremely meagre and unsatisfactory. From Lisbon comes the report that the revolutionists are using bombs and that 100 persons were killed and 200 wounded during the earlier stages of the conflicts.

Insurrectionary outbreaks are reported from many points in Spain. At Granollers two convents have been burned, while at Cassadelasalva the civil guard was disarmed and imprisoned in the barracks. The revolutionists are active at Llahansa and Firuras where the railroads have been dynamited. Financial institutions are sending their funds across the frontier.

Albucemas Attacked.

Albucemas, Morocco, July 29.—An army of 6,000 Moors is now attacking this place.

Albucemas is a small island fortress and prison settlement belonging to Spain. It is situated in the Mediterranean on the coast of Morocco, five miles south of Cape Morro.

Fighting at Barcelona.

Paris, July 30.—Special despatches received here yesterday say that the fighting Wednesday in Barcelona was more sanguinary than previous despatches indicated. Machine guns and grape were used against the rioters. The sidewalks and buildings are spattered with the blood of the victims. Everywhere women and children are wandering in search of their husbands and fathers. Incendiarism is rampant.

Think Man Was Murdered.

North Bay, July 30.—The finding of the dead body of C. A. Ardell, C.P.R. trakeman, near Markstay, on the morning of July 1, and the circumstances surrounding the tragedy, occasioned considerable suspicion at the time that his death was not the result of an accident. No inquest was held and the body was buried without examination.

Ardell's train was held up by a wreck ahead and he took advantage of the wait to visit a farm house about a mile away, where a dance was in progress, but the inmates deny that he ever reached there. In any event, his body was found next morning near the railway tracks in a mangled condition. In Markstay the impression is general that Ardell met with foul play and was placed upon the railway tracks.

CUT GRAIN IN 15 DAYS

Thirty-Five Thousand Cars Are Said to Be In Readiness to Handle the Grain—Crop In Alberta May Be In Excess of Previous Years—Rush of Land-Seekers Is Expected After the Harvest.

Calgary, Alta., July 30.—From all sections of Southern Alberta most encouraging crop reports are being received and indications are equal, if not superior, to any previous year.

On an average 95 per cent. of grain is in head, and stands waist high. In some districts oats planted as late as first of June are heading out.

Crop experts, who have visited the various sections of Bow River Valley district state that wheat, oats and barley are fully headed and cutting will commence not later than Aug. 15. Flax, which shows long straw, is in full bloom. Some local districts estimate that their production of wheat this year will be at least two million bushels.

Already sowing of winter wheat has commenced and farmers show a marked desire to increase the acreage and whenever possible to irrigate land before sowing.

Railroads, while preparing to handle enormous crops of wheat, are also making every effort with a view to handling rush of land-seekers, which will result from harvesting of crops.

All of the railways of the west are concentrating their attention just now to the handling of grain shipments offered along their lines and it can be safely said that in point of adequate dispatch and in a more satisfactory manner than ever before.

From statements secured, each of the three great railroads in the west as to the preparations they have made in this regard, and it is ascertained that approximately 35,000 box cars will be available for the movement of the crop with approximately 750 locomotives.

McCurdy to Make Endurance Test.

Ottawa, Ont., July 30.—"Do you intend to make an endurance test, to see how long the Silver Dart can stay up in the air," Mr. McCurdy was asked yesterday.

"We do," he replied, "but it will probably be ten days yet before we are ready. Though it is raining heavily here yesterday, we are at work getting the engines ready to put in the Silver Dart, and I think we will begin putting them in position this afternoon. It will take some time, as the bearings, propellers, etc., have to be very thoroughly tested after they are in."

Should Get an Airship.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 30.—After being prevented from a suicidal attempt to swim across the Niagara River, Robert Gibson, Beamsville, proceeded to endanger his life by climbing on the iron work of the arch bridge.

He was rescued by Ticket Officer Turner and was held by the police until friends took him home.

He had no money, he said, to pay the bridge toll and wanted to get to Rochester.

Succeeds Senator Perley.

Ottawa, July 30.—Benjamin Price, Battleford, Sask., has been appointed to the Senate in place of the late Senator Perley. Mr. Price was a member of the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories and was a pioneer of the west. There are now sixty-three Liberals and twenty-one Conservatives in the Senate, with two vacancies for Nova Scotia of two years' standing.

Channel Flights Off.

Calais, July 30.—Hubert Latham and Count de Lambert, the French aeronauts, are shipping their flying machines to Rheims and it is understood they have abandoned the idea of making any further attempts to cross the English Channel until after "aviation week," which is the latter part of August.

Killed by Hayfork.

Shelburne, July 30.—Samuel Tweely was killed instantly on his farm on Wednesday night while operating a hayfork. He was drawing back the fork to reload when it slipped the hook and fell, hitting him on the forehead. He was a prosperous young farmer.

Japs Immigration.

Ottawa, July 30.—Up to the end of May the total Japanese emigration to America was 718, as compared with 2,275 for the same period of last year. Emigration to Canada totalled only 184, and of these 56 were classed as non-laborers. The number of Japanese in Canada who returned home during the same period was 163, leaving the net increase only 21.

Both Legs Severed.

Kenora, July 30.—William Morris, aged 28, an employe of the Keewatin Lumber Co., was struck by No. 2 train while on his way home to Keewatin Wednesday night. The deceased, whose legs were severed, died shortly after being taken to the hospital here. The remains will be shipped to his home at Carleton Place.

A CEMENT COMBINE

Big Consolidation to Be Capitalized at Twenty-Five Million Is Brought About by J. S. Irving—Seven or Eight Mills Are Included In the List—May Not Market Stock—Charter Is Applied For.

Montreal, July 30.—Announcement was made last night that plans have been completed for the consolidation in one company of all the cement companies in Canada.

The new company will include all the principal cement manufacturing companies in Canada, and the consolidated company, which will be known as the Canadian Consolidated Cement Co., will have a capitalization of $25,000,000.

Application has been made to Ottawa for a charter for the company, and the unwriting arrangements are pretty near completion, some of the strongest men in the country being among the underwriters. The organization and underwriting arrangements are in charge of Rodolphe Forget, M.P.

It has not yet been decided whether a public issue will be made or whether it will be retained by the underwriters and their friends, but these are details which will be decided upon later.

The consolidated company will take over the principal cement plants in the Dominion, representing about two-thirds of the total output of the existing mills. In all, some seven or eight mills will be included in the merger, including the plants of the International Cement Co., which has been such a great success, and the founder and managing director of which, J. S. Irving has been the moving spirit in bringing about the merger. Among some of the leading men who are interested in the merger are: Sir Sanford Fleming, K.C.M.G.; Rodolphe Forget, M.P.; Senator W. C. Edwards of Ottawa; G. H. Cahan and W. M. Aiken and others.

One Man Acquitted.

Ottawa, July 30.—The case against the McMillan diamond thieves was called in the Police Court yesterday. Maward, alias Howard, was first arraigned, but the crown announced that it had no evidence to offer, and consequently he was acquitted, but he will have to answer to-day to a charge of vagrancy. The other two, Conrad and Woods, were then arraigned on the robbery. They pleaded guilty, but G. F. Henderson, their counsel, put up a strong plea on their behalf, laying stress upon the claim that the robbery was the idea of a moment, that their records were clean, that they were morphine victims, and that they had made restitution.

He asked for suspended sentence, but Crown Attorney Ritchie objected, and after a conference between counsel and the magistrate it was decided to remand them until to-day to allow a medical examination as to the effects of morphine upon the accused.

Canadian Is Honored.

Toronto, July 30.—Rev. Arthur Lea, M.A., of Tokio, Japan, has been appointed Bishop of the Diocese of Kiushu, Japan, by the Archbishop of Canterbury. It is expected that he will proceed at once, accompanied by Mrs. Lea, to England, where his consecration will take place, returning to Japan by way of Canada.

The bishop-designate is a son of Joseph Lea of Balmy Beach. He was a student of Wycliffe College, and graduated from Toronto University in 1892. Having been rector of St. George's, New Glasgow, N.S., he volunteered for missionary work in 1897, and proceeded to Japan.

Chamberlin Goes to Winnipeg.

Montreal, July 30.—One of the first important things done by C. M. Hays of the Grand Trunk on his return from England this week, was to complete arrangements for the decentralization of authority in connection with the company's western enterprise.

To this end he, yesterday, issued a circular announcing that the office of E. J. Chamberlin, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, has been permanently transferred from Montreal to Winnipeg, and that all communications to that officer should in future be addressed to him at that point.

Crucifix Pierces Lungs.

Montreal, July 30.—Amere Lamarre, a bridegroom of two weeks, died on Wednesday because of his devotion to the Roman Catholic faith. He stepped on a loose plank on a scaffold, and fell feet first to the ground, 25 feet. He had a crucifix five inches long on his breast, and a heavy leather belt round his waist, kept it tight against his body. The fall would not have killed him, but as the upper part of his body was thrown forward, the big cross broke his ribs and pierced his lungs.

Ottawa's Population.

Ottawa, July 30.—The new Ottawa city directory places the population at 86,929.

As a manufacturing centre it says Ottawa is more favorably situated than any other city of North America. Possessing 100,000 horse-power within its limits, 230,000 within ten miles of the city hall, and 290,000 within a radius of forty miles.

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Ford, 1928 Lansdowne St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

Get The Best Out Of Life

HEALTH AND SUCCESS

By keeping vigor and vitality at the top notch—DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will help you.

Health, strength, beauty, success. These are the words which tell of a happy, joyous life.

The foundation of each and all is good red blood.

Red blood on which health can build—red blood from which muscles and nerve cells are created—red blood which rounds out the form and gives the healthful glow to the complexion—red blood from which comes energy and vigour of mind and body.

With red blood there is no weakness or disease, no failure and fatigue. Red blood makes life worth living and only when it is present in the system can you get the best out of life.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven an enormous success because it forms new, red blood, from which new nerve and brain cells are created.

When you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you know for a certainty that each dose is doing you a certain amount of good, because it adds just so much new red blood to the system.

Whether you have become exhausted by disease, overwork, or the depressing effects of spring matters not. The cure is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Irritability, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervous headache, anaemia, despondency, and all the dreaded accompaniments of a weak and exhausted system disappear when this great blood-forming system builder is used.

To get the best out of life you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to make you well and to fill you with the energy and vigour which makes for success and happiness. 50 cents a box at all druggists, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

To a woman love is the bread of life; to a man just the jam on the bread.

Somehow, the moment a man has surrendered the key of his heart to a woman he begins to think about the changing of his lock.

Flattery is the counterfeit coin in which most men expect to pay for real kisses.

Don't try to kill a man's love by starving it out; overfeed it and it will soon die of indigestion.

Why does a woman spend two or three hours curling her hair, and decorating herself with baby ribbons just to see a man in order to tell him that they can never be anything but platonic friends?

The man who pretends to laugh at love and scorn women is like the small boy who whistles in the dark—because he is afraid.

It is difficult to tell which most embarrasses a man, his first tete-a-tete with a woman whom he is just beginning to love, or his last tete-a-tete with the woman whom he has just ceased loving.

If a man could stick to his wife as he does to his favourite brand of tobacco divorce would soon become obsolete.

When two young people begin to analyse their emotions they begin to vivisect their love.

A man begins by looking around for a woman who can stand on a pedestal—and ends by marrying the woman who shatters the pedestal and stands alone.

Why is it that when a man has done anything particularly inhuman he always remarks, "Oh, well, I'm only human?"

A man's heart is hardened by the water of a woman's tears but softened by the sun of her smile.

Ever since the Lord made Adam a present of Eve man has looked on woman as a sort of cotillon favour put there for his amusement.

One reason there are so many unhappy society marriages is because in society most people marry for position rather than for disposition.

Men say they admire a woman who is "perfectly square" but it's the perfectly round that they usually marry.

Love is the sugar that takes the bitter taste out of life.

The most delightful part of a kiss is the moment just before taking.

THE REJECTED DREAM MAN.

By AMELIA TRUESDALE.

[Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Roy Adams, paddling about among the water lilies with Ruby Lane, had just come near proposing to her and she to refusing him, this being their customary daily diversion. Now he was watching her lazily. That was what irritated her so—his inordinate laziness. He was large and blond, with placid blue eyes like a sleepy baby's. She was little and trim as waxwork, and her gray eyes were clear and keen.

"I don't know what kind of a fellow you want," he grumbled amiably, with an indolent movement of one oar.

"He's brisk," Ruby replied, "and energetic."

"Think I've got him in my mind's eye." Roy gave the other oar an easy touch. "Small and bustling and chippery, like the little cock sparrow that sat on a tree."

"He isn't like that in the least." Ruby sat up prim and stiff and rosy with indignation.

"Oh, isn't he? Beg his pardon. Where is he now?"

"At work," Ruby replied promptly, her tone implying a comparison between a man thus profitably employed and one who idled his time away at a summer hotel.

"Perhaps he has an object in view," Roy insinuated.

"Perhaps," Ruby admitted demurely.

"And—um—is the object to be attained soon?"

Ruby let her eyes drop toward the top ruffle of her blue organdie.

"I—don't know exactly; not before next spring." She was dabbling her hand in the lake, her eyelashes still slanting downward.

"Ah! Congratulate him and everything. Shall we row over to that bunch of willows or down to the little cove?"

For an instant Ruby wished she might tip the boat over, just to see if his exasperating equanimity would be disturbed by such an emergency.

"I don't believe it would," she decided in disgust. "He'd get us out if he could conveniently, and if he couldn't he'd drown with the contented smile on his face as serenely as if he were a wooden Shem out of a toy Noah's ark."

Mrs. Albert Lloyd was peacefully crocheting when her sister Ruby whirled in upon her, cast herself into a rocking chair and rocked tempestuously for three minutes. Mrs. Albert viewed her quietly, suspending her crochet hook for a moment.

"Been fencing with Mr. Adams again?" she queried mildly.

"Yes," Ruby answered, "but I hardly think he'll care about fencing any more."

"No? Why not?"

"I practically told him I was—engaged."

"Dear me! And to whom?"

"A person I invented."

"You unprincipled wretch! What did you do it for?"

"Just to see what effect it would have."

"And what effect did it have?"

"None at all. You couldn't stir him up to move an eyelash whatever you did. He's too sublimely lazy even to lose his temper."

Mrs. Albert shook her head gently.

"You're off the track," she commented, unwinding more scarlet wool. "He may perhaps be guilty of always keeping his temper, and, let me tell you, a married woman would consider that a very good failing, but as for being lazy—Albert's friends say that, although he has that lazy way and looks as if he were letting things go to smash if they want to, he has his eye on everything and every move he makes counts. I shouldn't wonder if you've put your silly foot in it for once with your invented man."

Mrs. Lloyd ceased her lecture as she found herself talking to a dissolving view of blue organdie ruffles and a couple of whisking sash ends and returned to her crocheting.

Roy appeared before Ruby early the next day in his usual calm frame of mind and his boating rig.

"Think he'll object to your going out on the lake with me just once more?" he asked. "I'm going away early tomorrow morning."

"What for?" she asked.

"Have to," he responded. "Vacation comes to an end tonight. Can you go?"

She reflected dismally that she must either confess her little romance of yesterday to be an unfounded one or bid goodby forever to this exasperating man, and she knew now that the latter was something she could not do and retain any shred of happiness. She waited, however, until they were out on the blue, soothing bosom of the lake. Then she rushed into it.

"He couldn't object, you know," she said, reverting to his remark of some time before, "because he's only a fiction."

"A dream man?" he asked.

She nodded, blushing uncomfortably.

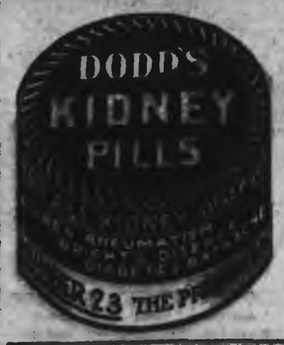
He hummed a bar of "When a Dream Came True" and settled back easily. Ruby looked down in silence. She was waiting for him to say something else, and he was carelessly moving an oar now and then and apparently thinking of nothing at all. She noticed for the first time how strong his brown hands looked. They were not the hands of a lazy man.

They drifted along aimlessly.

"It was a silly story to tell," Ruby said at last.

"Oh, I don't know," he answered indulgently. "I rather thought you were fabricating. But you might realize him yet, you know."

"I don't want to." Her voice was a little uneven.



"Poor dream man! I sympathize with him, I'm sure. Like to have that pond lily?"

"Thank you. I don't care for it. Let's go back."

He agreed amiably. "I ought to get back early," he said. "I promised Kingsland to go over and fish with him this afternoon, so we may not see each other again. Caesar, isn't this a day for fishing, though!"

Ruby's cheeks tingled as she walked silently beside him through the light, dry grass on the way to the hotel, while he stalked cheerfully along, making irritatingly pleasant remarks about the scenery.

They came to a standstill at the summer house on the lawn. It was empty, and Ruby did not want to walk into the crowd of people on the hotel porch.

"I'm tired," she said. "I'll rest awhile, and we can say goodby here."

He held out his sunburned hand and clasped hers closely for a minute. "Goodby," he said. "If you should come to terms with the dream man don't forget to let me know."

She watched him going across an adjoining field as she fell into the big willow chair and began to rock. Then she looked off dismally toward the misty hills. They were dimmer than the light summer haze warranted.

"Only a summer flirtation—only a summer flirtation," creaked the chair maddeningly.

She turned her eyes to the field again. She could still see the tall form loitering along. When it should disappear the end of things would have come. He stooped, seemed to pick up something; then he turned slowly and began his easy stride back toward the summer house. It seemed ages before he reached the door and looked in, holding toward her a flower on a long stalk, just a fringe of pale lilac petals uncurling from a tawny golden center.

"See; I found the first aster and came back to bring it to you," he said.

She accepted it silently. He looked curiously at her eyes. The rims were decidedly pink. He folded his arms and leaned against the door casing.

"Sure you aren't going to marry the dream man?" he asked after a casual survey of the landscape.

"Didn't I tell you there wasn't any?"

"I thought you might be fibbing again. If there really isn't"—

"Well?"

"Couldn't you reconsider things and take me, after all?"

A Discovery by Chance.

Finiguerra, the master of early engraving, delighted in doing deeds of kindness. One day a washerwoman in washing a piece of clothing in which a needle had been carelessly left had the misfortune to run it into her hand. The needle broke, and more than half of it was left imbedded in the flesh. It gave her much pain, and as soon as she could she went to Finiguerra's studio, put down the bundle of damp clothes that she was carrying to their owner and asked the artist to help her. After much patient, careful manipulation with his fine tools he succeeded in extracting the broken needle.

The woman thanked him, and as she lifted her damp bundle to leave the studio Finiguerra noticed that it had rested upon one of his engravings and had received an excellent impression from it. The engraving, like all others of that time, was a metal plate complete in itself and was regarded as a single picture. The impression made upon the damp cloth suggested to the alert mind of Finiguerra the possibility of producing an indefinite number of pictures from a single original. By experimenting he perfected his discovery and eventually made it possible for all homes to have beautiful engravings, for previous to his discovery only the wealthy could afford them.

Sea Animals.

To a certain extent all animals that live in the sea, such as whales, dolphins and porpoises, have the power to store up air, as they breathe only at intervals, when they come to the surface for that purpose.

Hot Water Peddlers.

In northern China hot water peddlers go about with a whistling kettle the whistle announcing that the water is at a boiling point. When they hear the whistle the people run with their teapots and buy enough hot water for their day's tea.

An Old Fountain.

In the center of the plaza in Lima is a pretty bronze fountain that was erected in 1578, a gift from some noble Spaniard, and is probably the oldest fountain in America.

Etiquette at Covent Garden.

Etiquette at Covent Garden is almost as strict as that which prevails in the servants' hall of a great mansion, says London M. A. P. No prima donna must be addressed by an inferior, and the presentation of bouquets is a delicate matter, regulated with due regard for the feelings of the ladies. The claque still prevails; but, as only the less eminent singers employ these "aids to success," nobody is ever deceived. The management knows nothing of these men, who are hired by the singers to go into the gallery and applaud their employers vociferously. The custom is very common on the continent, where it also takes the more objectionable form of hiring men to hiss rivals off the stage. Happily that sort of thing would not be tolerated in England, and so the claque is confined to the minor members of the company, who bring over with them an insatiable desire for applause and are so determined to get it that they leave nothing to chance. The claquers receive a fee of 2 shillings, in addition to the payment for their seats.

Couldn't Pass Him.

Dr. Caleb Munn back in 1803 or 1804 was making a professional call one night at a road house, his horse and buggy standing outside, when a young fellow staggered out and mounted the horse and started off at a wild gallop, not noticing the wagon attached to the horse. After a time the young man realized that a wagon was following close in his rear, so he held in the steed and shouted:

"Go on past if you want to—if you're in such a hurry!"

Of course the rattling ceased, and nobody responded, and nothing was visible in the darkness, so he lashed the horse into a gallop, saying, "They'll never overtake us." The wagon clattered on behind up hill and down dale. When Dr. Munn overhauled him, having followed on a fleet horse, the young fellow said:

"I was bound that man in the wagon should not pass, because he wouldn't when I offered to let him. I don't hear him now, and I guess he drove off the bridge."—Newark News.

Meal Monday.

The students in the Scotch universities annually enjoy their "Meal Monday," but few of the undergraduates remember how the holiday was instituted. In faroff days, when learning was really nourished on "a little oatmeal," the students before leaving home for the universities provided themselves with a quantity of meal sufficient to make "halesome parritch" half through the session. By the end of January their "meal kists" had run low, and "a day off" was given in which the student was expected to journey halfway home, meeting at this point his parent or brother, who brought with him a second load of the simple diet. The holiday was fixed on a Monday so as to allow the undergraduate the benefit of the preceding Saturday. In times past the journeys would often extend to fifty or sixty miles. The modern student goes home for "Meal Monday," but he travels with a week end ticket and has no thought of the painful journeys of his ancestors.—Dundee Advertiser.

The Biggest Cracker.

The "kasabi" torta (we get our word "tart" from torta) of Hispanic-America is the biggest regularly made cracker on earth. It is made from the kasabi root and lightly fired in cakes about the size of a small parasol.

A cracker for a hat—such indeed is sometimes the use made by the Latin peons of the kasabi torta when needing a temporary sunshade (sombrero). The torta is always made bowl shaped so it can be balanced on the head without any particular effort—and provided no wind interferes. Rain, however, quickly soaks and collapses this singular edible headgear.

In Regular Order.

A miner took his boots for repairs, but was not in a hurry to pay for them. After a few weeks had elapsed the shoemaker called and asked for the money.

The miner's wife answered the door, and on being told by the shoemaker that he had called for the money for the boots she shouted into the house and told her good man what was required.

"What!" exclaimed the miner. "He wants paying for repairing the boots! Tell him it's not his turn. Why, the man that made them hasn't got paid yet!"—London Scraps.

Fancy and Fact.

I like to sit and dream in spring of jays and robins on the wing, of bees that hum and vines that cling, but when I commence my wife hunts up a lot of chores and makes me paint the kitchen doors and beat the rugs and wax the floors and calcimine the fence.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

His Profession.

"Have you no trade, no profession?" asked the lady at the door.

"Yes, ma'am," replied Sauntering Sim. "I have a profession, and I've just stopped here to do a little professin'. If you could put a little jelly on de bread I'd promise not to leave any chalk marks on your gatepost."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Hit Him Hard.

Newly Wed Husband—The time has come, dearest, when I shall have the painful task of acquainting your father with the fact that I am heavily in debt.

Wife—Don't mind that. I'm sure he'll give you the sympathy of a companion in adversity.—Fliegende Blatter.

Meteors.

The meteors which fall upon the earth in vast numbers every year add their weight to the earth. Thus the earth is increasing a minute quantity in weight each year, but not enough to be perceptible in thousands of years.

Only the Best Sugar Makes the Best Preserves

Does all sugar look alike to you? It isn't, you may be sure. One sugar differs from another sugar in sweetness.

Sugar is sugar, but it is not sugar when it is something else. And, alas, for the weakness of money-making mortals, it is sometimes something else.

One sugar differs from another in what it is made of. One sugar made from sugar-cane differs from another made from sugar-beets.

One sugar differs from another in purity and wholesomeness. Sugar can be made clean like any other food product. And, as it is almost the commonest thing we eat, sugar ought to be about the cleanest thing we eat.

And your preserves, which you want to be the very best, require the best of sugar.

St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar meets the exacting requirements of the best preserves.

Dr. Milton L. Hersey, the Government Analyst, in a recent careful and impartial analysis, reports St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar to be 99.99-100 to 100 per cent. pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

This season promises to be a good one for berries and other fruits—just the season to get them of good quality and cheap to preserve.

Your home-made preserves are by far the best, and you know all about their real goodness, if you select the fruit and the sugar with equal care.

The best fruit and St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar, with your skill in preserving, will stock you finely for the coming winter.

And don't simply order "some sugar" from the grocer, letting him send you some nameless, ordinary sugar.

Get sugar with a name. Get St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar, in 20-lb. cotton bags, with the name on it, to guarantee the brand, the full weight, and the cleanliness of the sugar itself.

When you buy it in bulk, scooped out of a barrel, you can't be sure of all these important points in your sugar.

You save money by this and get better, cleaner sugar. Try it and see! Then you'll be sweet enough to thank us for telling you about this matter.

If your grocer cannot supply you with these 20-lb. bags, send his name and address to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will tell you where it can be obtained.

GOING MOTORING

By Marian Morris

HAIL to the new and beautified motor girl! No longer is she an unholy specter, with goggle-shielded eyes, dust-colored garments and headgear. So awful that words would fail to describe it.

Instead this season she is a demure and delighted damsel.

Enfolding her figure is a cloak of silken texture and many clever folds.

On her head is a bonnet so quaint and charming that no mere man—let alone woman—can withstand its fascinations.

Flowing about her, moving with the wind and falling in points almost to her feet, is a veil of chiffon of most seductive coloring.

There's no doubt that garments for Jumper to match skirt. Can be worn over odd waists.

automobiling play a most important part in women's wardrobes now.

Even if you are not the lucky possessor of one of these swiftly-moving machines, you are sure to have friends who are, and you are at least called upon to frequently "dress the part."

The all-white motor costumes, which was so much in vogue for several Summers has given place this season to the liking for "natural color" effects. This is a blessing to the woman, who has to study economy in laundry bills.

Long coats of natural color linen, with white mother-of-pearl or gilt buttons and having contrasting collar and cuffs are almost a livery, so generally are they worn by motoring women.

Loose coats of natural color rajah silk and pongee, run them a close second in popularity and the silk coat has the advantage of being available for many occasions besides automobiling.

These light silk coats are almost a necessity in a Summer outfit, so useful are they to slip on over dainty afternoon gowns, and they give the maximum amount of protection with the minimum amount of weight.

The ready-made pongee coats to be had in hundreds in the shops, are made on an almost uniform model.

Three-quarter or full length, loose fitting, with sleeves gathered into a tight cuff. Satin collar and cuffs, either black or some vivid color, a touch of gold braiding, fancy buttons—they are all pretty much the same.

The sight of hundreds of these garments hanging side by side on racks, in all the shops that provide ready-to-wear clothing, has not tempted the woman who is particular what she wears.

To get away—far away—from these stereotyped wraps has been her desire.

Therefore, she has taken earnest thought, a careful inspection of some good fashion magazines and the advice of her dressmaker, and has evolved a most charming garment, ideal for motoring.

I saw her wearing it, as she stepped from her touring car the other day. It was made of a delicious coffee-colored crepe de chine—not the thin and unsubstantial tuff dubbed crepe de chine by many, but a crepe of quality and fine texture, almost crisp, so closely was it woven.

This was shirred with many minute shirrings on the shoulders and from there hung in innumerable folds straight to her heels.

Being of cape shape it was sleeveless, but on either side of the front were long slits, through which the hands could be passed.

The only ornamentation was on the straight military collar, which closed severely against the dust under the chin. This was of embroidery in gorgeous hues—scarlet, green and blue, all worked in together with much heavy gold.

A clever idea was a pair of "fake sleeves," which were attached inside the cloak on the lower part of the slit.

These were made of thin silk and caught in closely by elastic at the wrists.

Being only attached part way up the slit they could be used or not, as the wearer desired. When not in use they hung down inside the cloak, quite unnoticed.

The waterproofing of many of the light-weight silks, which has lately been brought to such a stage of perfection, has made their use practical for motoring garments. For in motoring it is never a case of weather permitting, and motoring clothes must be bought with the thought of the sudden and unexpected shower always in mind.

Japanese Shantung silk makes a very comfortable automobiling wrap, after it has been put through the waterproofing process. It is light in weight and sheds the dust well.

Automobiling coats of waterproofed blue silk are trimmed with bands of polka dotted blue silk.

Dust-colored serges of fine weave, dust-shedding and rain-resisting, will be worn by many women in their motors this Autumn. What they lack in gayety of outward appearance will be made up for in the linings. For this purpose soft satins in vivid shades of rose, green and gold will be used.

The new long-waisted line, while not insisted upon in the wraps of this season, has been very clearly hinted at. The raised Empire line is already a thing of the past.

Long coats of Scotch tweed, loose-fitting, with collar and cuffs faced with leather and fastened with the new braided leather buttons, will be appreciated when chilly Autumn winds begin to blow.

More and more densely does the motor girl become enveloped in her motor veil, veils and more voluminous grow the effects. One wonders if she is striving to rival—whither!—Salome. Seven veils would seem not one too many for her aspiring—although, of course, it's understood that she doesn't wear them all at once.

In accord with all the delicate colorings of the Summer's gowns the Summer girl has been wearing veils of dainty tints.

Pale pink, rose, all the shades of violet and yellow have been the sport of ocean breezes and mountains' winds.

With the last days of Summer, so close at hand, her thoughts are turning to soberer lines, and, as usual, the shops have forestalled her.

Most attractive looking veils of chiffon and lace combined are on view. Chiffon, with figures cut from velvet and applied in design around the edge to form a wide border makes a welcome change from the now hackneyed velvet polka-dotted chiffon veil.

Lace veils in white and colors will continue to be worn until the cold weather comes. The girl whom the sun has kissed too ardently has discovered an effective screen for her reddened face in a much-figured lace veil.

The automobiling bonnets have been joys of quaintness and becomingness all Summer. Blessings on the milliner who invented a head covering for motoring which was not painful to the onlooker's eyes!

Models for the Autumn and the Winter promise to be quite as charming. Again the veil is used as part of the trimming of the bonnet, caught down under the rosettes of ribbon or chiffon on either side.

Coarsely woven straws, braided onto a shape, in subdued colorings with chiffon veilings to tone, are ready for the Fall motoring.

The bonnet of raffia and of patent leather, two novelties of the Summer season, are going the way of all novelties and will soon be seen no more.

Automobile bags are weekly becoming more elaborate and complete. It is quite necessary now to go away for over night, carrying no more visible luggage than one would have set out with a year ago for a morning's shopping.

Just a little shopping bag—but what that bag does not contain isn't worth talking about!

It is about ten inches long by six deep and two wide. The top opens on hinges, parting in the middle and turning flat back, revealing the contents of the bag.

Brushes of various kinds, a comb, powder box and puff, tooth powder, cold cream, perfume, a tiny alcohol lamp, with curling tongs having hinged handles. Of course, beauty's mirror and some wee medicine vials. Manicure articles are in a little case by themselves.

All the rest of the fittings go into little straps in the side of the bag and are thus held securely.

There is still room for a robe of thinnest China silk and a clean handkerchief or so.

As may be imagined, all these articles are of small size, but they are practically chosen and of sufficient use.

Devices for a Sore Foot.

The sufferer from enlarged joints, better known as a bunion, usually is in great discomfort in hot weather. There is a device that will give relief by protecting the bunion from rubbing of shoe.

This is a simple piece of leather cut and laid in such a way that it fits smoothly over the portion of foot where the bunion is. The casing is lined with soft felt and an opening is provided for the enlarged joint. This the surrounding leather holds off the shoe. The [illegible] changed that there can be [illegible] them.

The modish fulness is provided for in the deep Spanish flounce, and there is a panel effect front and back, the gown being closed under the front panel.

The closing could be managed at the left side; but such an arrangement would provide difficulties in dressing.

The model is suitable for a very simple gown and may be appropriately carried out in foulard, soft satin or silk, or one of the pretty wash materials. The guimpe of net or batiste may be a separate affair, and the ornamentation, [illegible] silk being used, fine silk soutache embroidery.

THE HOME SEWER

By Ella Stan

A PRETTY flounce can be made for a gored lingerie skirt by joining the edges of the lengths of the flouncing with strips of insertion and adjusting the flounce so that a strip of the insertion comes to the center of each gore.

The lower edge should be finished with a ruffle of edging in a matching pattern to that of the insertion.

If the skirt is further elaborated by strips of insertion laid over each seam the result is very long and altogether charming.

For a rainy day skirt an original and practical idea was developed in the way of a rubber facing. The skirt was made from a medium-weight serge that had been evaporated to render the fabric waterproof.

A seven-gored model was selected for its construction and it cleared the ground by four inches.

For the lower edge was cut a shaped and fitted facing of rubberized silk eight inches deep and in a color matching the material. This facing was applied so that it protected the edge as well as the inside of the skirt, and when it became soiled from wear it could be sponged off and thus kept fresh and clean.

For wear with this skirt was a pair of pongee knickerbockers fitted over the hips by means of darts and buckling just below the knee.

Has it occurred to you that when the material at the neck of a pretty lingerie frock or waist has given way, or shows signs of wear, the life of the garment may be lengthened by cutting away the worn part forming a round Dutch or V-shaped neck and stitching round it for a finish a pretty beading about an inch wide through which ribbon may be run?

If one wishes to retain the high neck a yoke and collar of lace or embroidery may be made, and after it is adjusted the material can be cut away from beneath.

In either case the sleeve should be trimmed to correspond in order to give uniformity.

When the stiff cuffs of a tailored waist have begun to wear, stitch a band around the frayed edges, using either the same or a contrasting material.

When the latter is used it will be pretty to employ a color, a touch of which should be added to the waist itself either upon the front plait, outlining the yoke, piping the plaits or in the way of straps or bands.

Which method of trimming is selected should depend upon the style of the waist.

In spite of the fact that the majority of stockings come with the reinforced garter top, the supporters frequently catch and break the threads and the broken stitch will run the full length of the stocking legs, which does not prevent the stocking from being worn, but it very ugly to look at.

Made of all-over embroidered linen, with rolled hem done by hand.

These breaks may be prevented by taking pieces of soft taffeta ribbon one and a half inches square and catstitching them to the stocking on the wrong side where the garter clasp is placed.

When making a skirt, if a piece of narrow tape is basted flat to the goods along the top at the waist line before the belt is put on it will serve the two-fold purpose of keeping the goods from stretching and it will help to make the belt wear longer.

To make a placket finish that will not stretch or tear at the bottom, take two straight pieces of goods, selvage edges if possible, two inches wide and full length of the opening.

Baste the raw edges to the skirt along the edges of the opening so as to form an ordinary seam on the wrong side.

On the over-lapping edge, the applied piece is turned back and hemmed down by hand so as to form a facing.

On the under side the piece is arranged to form an extension over which the over-lapping edge is basted.

This extension is made by folding the applied piece double, and hemming the selvage edges along the line of the basting stitching so as to conceal the raw edges of the seam.

This accomplished, both edges of the placket must be thoroughly pressed on the wrong side, first putting a damp cloth over the goods and then ironing it until perfectly dry.

To finish arrange the placket so it will be when worn, and at the bottom on the wrong side, cat-stitch the piece that forms the extension to the piece that forms the facing, being careful to see that the stitches do not go through on the right side of the skirt.

At the very bottom of the opening on the right side, take a half-dozen over and over stitches with silk of a matching color, putting the needle through from the wrong side at the seam of the extension, and catching the extreme edge of the overlapping side.

A pretty trimming that the French use extensively, is narrow Irish crochet beading of fine veilings set in seams. These give a very dainty finish to even the plainest garments and they are not difficult to apply, if the strips are placed over the seams after the pieces have been basted together. The edges are then stitched to the goods and that which is under the lace cut away, with the exception of sufficient goods at each side to turn back and stitch flat.

Wide scalloped edging in plain muslin with each scallop about the size of a

Another hand-made collar of all-over embroidery linen.

It takes a quarter yard of linen and a yard of lace to make any of these Dutch collars. If made by hand they equal in appearance a hand-embroidered collar, and take less time in the making.

half dollar, is used as a trimming for waists.

It is arranged so as to form a yoke or vest effect at the front and is placed on the sleeves running lengthwise from the shoulders to the cuffs.

The scallops are hemmed by hand or stitched flat to the material, and the plain edge joined to the goods under a tuck, fold or strap of the material.

The vogue for night-caps has brought us from Paris bewitching cobwebby little affairs made from handkerchiefs, which may easily be copied at home.

One seen was shaped quite like a baby's cap, with a round back piece of plain mull and the flat, straight sides pieces made from a daintily embroidered handkerchief. The edges were sewed around the mull and a lace frill was used as a finish for the front.

Another was of plain mull in Normandy shape, the edges finished with a ribbon run beading on an edge of lace. A little Dutch shaped bonnet had soft shoes of shirred lace at each side, by the ears.

To Clean and Freshen Ribbon.

Ribbon is dust dusted and then ironed between tissue paper.

To clean ribbon, a mixture is made in the proportion of three ounces of soft soap, three tablespoonfuls of honey, to a teaspoonful of gin and water.

The ribbon is placed on a board and scrubbed with the mixture. It is then rinsed by dipping several times in clean, cold water, and not squeezed out, but hung over a line to drip, then put between cloths and ironed by drawing the ribbons from under the iron. This prevents creasing and a stringy appearance at finish. The iron should be kept still with pressure upon it.

White ribbons will not turn yellow when washed if the water is warm, not hot, and the soap used is fine white quality. Rinse in three waters, the last being a strong blue.

Hang in the sun until half dry, then press under cloth dampened with a warm iron.

Black satin ribbons may be renewed by rubbing gently with gasoline.

To wash colored ribbon, make a strong lather of fine soap and cold water; wash the ribbons and rinse them several times, always in [illegible] water.

When partly dry, iron between [illegible] pieces of muslin, having the ribbon perfectly smooth.

Ribbon interwoven with tinsel is best cleaned with fine breadcrumbs and powdered blue, these shaken and rubbed with [illegible] cloths tinsel or gold lace may be cleaned with ammonia.

To dry clean lace give it a dry bath in flour. Put a quart of flour into a basin, put in the lace then rub and squeeze it well in the hand as if the flour were water.

After the lace has received a good shaking it will look as fresh as ever.

Heavy lace bound with [illegible] to match dress.

Mr. Glassco, of Toronto, wrote us on May 13th last:
THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO.,
509 Church St., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—
I wish you would send me another box of your "Little Digesters". All the members of my family have been using them and have obtained the most satisfactory results.

I congratulate you on your success in putting up a tablet for the cure of Indigestion. I suffered for years and tried everything that was recommended to me. Nothing gave me relief, until I was persuaded to try "Little Digesters". Now I never suffer from Indigestion. I enjoy my meals and am not afraid to eat, because I know a "Little Digester" after each meal will digest my food.

I recommend them to all my friends who suffer from Indigestion and would further say that you may publish the above if you wish. I know there are thousands of people suffering from Indigestion who will be glad to know there is a safe and sure cure for them.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) E. S. GLASSCO.

CANADA'S HUNGRY YEAR

THE TIME WHEN U. E. LOYALISTS WENT EMPTY.

Three Years After the Pioneers Settled Down in Upper Canada There Was a Lean Year—Hungry Men Knocked Game Down With Poles—Ate Basswood Buds and Indian Cabbage—Next Year Plentiful.

A few days ago when, although May had come, the sun refused to shine, and the snow failed to stay away, for the sake of something to talk about besides the political scandal and the criminal sensation of the week, people asked one another what would happen if real spring failed to come; if the cold, rainy weather should continue for weeks, and seed-time pass without the seeding being done. Of course, anyone can give a partial answer, for such abnormal and gloomy conditions would at least produce one result as certain as day is to follow night.

And yet our history tells of a "hungry year" in Canada, especially in that part which now forms the garden of the Dominion — the Great Lakes region of Ontario. But that year is long ago and Upper Canada was then a wilderness, except in a few places along the lakes where the recently arrived United Empire Loyalists were endeavoring to carve out new homes in the Canadian forests.

"In the year 1783," writes C. D. G. Roberts, in his excellent history of Canada, "the great exodus took place, and the loyalists flocked across the border into the land which they and their descendants have made great. They divided into two main streams, one moving eastward to the Maritime Provinces, the other flowing westward to the region north of the Lakes."

Those who went west settled along the sunny banks of the Niagara, around the head of Lake Ontario, in the peninsula, that lies between Lake Erie and Lake Huron, along the shores of Lake Ontario and down the banks of the St. Lawrence. They made little clearings in the virgin forest, with the logs they constructed huge habitations, and between the stumps they planted corn and sowed wheat. Such was the beginning of Ontario. In 1787, three years after their arrival, and just as they were thrown on their own resources by the Government, "the stubborn soil rebelled against its new masters, and the crops on all sides failed." The remainder of that year and the first half of the following one became "the hungry year" in our history. The condition of things that year among the Loyalists of Upper Canada is described by Mr. Roberts, who writes: "The people had to dig those wild, tuberous roots which children know as 'ground-nuts.' Butternuts and beech-nuts were sought with eager pains. The early buds of the basswood were gathered and boiled with the weed called 'lamb's-quarter' and pig-weed and wild Indian cabbage. Game of all sorts was fairly abundant—deer, rabbits, turkeys, pigeons; but powder and shot were scarce. Gaunt men crept about with poles, striving to knock down the wild pigeons; or they angled all day with awkward, home-made hooks for a few chub or perch to keep their families from starvation. In one settlement a beef-bone was passed from house to house, that each household might boil it a little while, and so get a flavor in the pot of unsalted bran soup. A few of the weak and aged actually died of starvation during these famine months; and others were poisoned by eating noxious roots which they grubbed up in the woods. As the summer wore on, however, the heads of wheat, oats and barley began to grow plump. People gathered hungrily to the fields to pluck and devour the green heads. Boiled, these were a luxury; and hope stole back to the starving settlements."

In the following autumn plenty was again showered upon the land, and from that time onward the settlers made steady progress. Of course, for years their lives were those of a frontier people in a wilderness. Their homes were log cabins, their farms patches from which the trees had been removed, but still bristling with stumps; their food was simple and limited in variety, and their clothing coarse and often scanty. Pork, beef and mutton were scarce because the supply of live stock was small, and increase in numbers was checked by the depredation of the wolves. A staple article of diet was Indian cornmeal, from which was made "Johnnie cake," the bread of the frontier. One of the delicacies of the cabin household was a pudding, made by boiling together pumpkin and cornmeal sweetened with maple syrup. Venison and wild turkey were plentiful, and so it was that to the musket and the shotgun, and not to the butcher, that each family looked for its supply of fresh meat.

The clothing brought by the Loyalists from the "States" was made to last as long as possible by means of working-clothes being made of deer-skin. Nearly every woman wore a leather dress. It was very durable, but with constant use became glazed with grease. It was the practice to use strong lye in washing clothes, and it is told that a girl attempted to clean her deerskin dress by washing it in such a liquid, when, to her amazement and great distress, it shrivelled up to a bit of crisp leather. In her predicament she had to take refuge in the potato-cellar until her mother could fetch a blanket, with which the girl could cover herself. Most of the household utensils were of wood, the white, fine-grained wood of the poplar being preferred. From this were made the forks, spoons, plates, and trays in use in every frontier farmhouse. Gradually these wooden dishes were replaced by pewter supplied the pioneers by Yankee peddlers who, with packs on their backs, went from house to house, and from settlement to settlement. With much scouring this pewter ware was made to shine like silver.

EUROPE TO CANADA.

Pleasant Things The London Sphere Has to Say of Dominion.

The wheat corner is helping to boom Canadian-American farmers. About 70,000 of the farmers are expected within the year, and probably about 25,000 have arrived up to date. The American emigration to Canada does not mean that the Americans are all native born; as a matter of fact a number of these are Canadians returning, while probably one-third are Scandinavians from Minnesota and the Dakotas who have just been long enough in the United States to learn English and to appreciate the good things offered them in western Canada. The British emigration does not really start until about the beginning of March, but up to April 14 about 20,000 emigrants from these islands went to Canada. The Canadian Pacific boats going out just now are all packed full, about 1,400 per boat, and a large proportion are emigrants of farming class with capital.

If Canada is advancing materially she is not forgetting the necessity of a spiritual life, for she is producing much interesting literature and is also interested in art. An interesting lecture on this subject was given at the Royal Colonial Institution on April 20 by Miss Emily Vaughan Jenkins, who pointed out the cosmopolitan character of Canadian art. As a matter of fact, however, the first noteworthy artist was a native of Upper Canada. Paul Kane, born 1810, made it his life work to portray Indian life and customs, and his pictures have a ethnographical and historical value not yet duly recognized. One of his contemporaries was David Fowler, R.C.A., an English-born water-color artist whose best work was done in Canada, and whose draughtsmanship and flower, fruit, and game pieces would have delighted Ruskin. Otto Jacobi, R.C.A., was another brilliant painter of the same period, and Cornelius Kreighoff, a Bavarian by birth, did valuable service between the years 1849 and 1869 by preserving many aspects of lower Canadian rural life which are slowly changing or have already disappeared.—The London Sphere.

Ant Sauce.

"During the lumbering operations in the Canadian backwoods in the winter," said a lumberman, "the French workmen — you know the French eat cocks' combs and snails and skate—season their beans and bacon with ant sauce. Nearly every tree that falls, you know, discovers a great colony of red or brown ants. These, the French woodmen say, have an acidy, agreeable taste. They tone up the food like tomato catchup or pickled walnuts. They dry the ants and eat them with a plentiful sprinkling of salt and pepper, or they steep them in molasses. Strange to say, ant sauce, taken moderately, seems to improve the health. Now and then, though, the Frenchmen take too much of it, when their eyes become bloodshot and they shake all over as with palsy, exhibiting the symptoms of a man recovering from drunkenness."

Great Find of Quicksilver.

A prospecting party on the north bank of the Saskatchewan, opposite Lost River, reports a remarkable find of quicksilver. Following up traces showing in the river bank they came to a pocket containing four quarts. A ledge rich in quicksilver was discovered running back from the bank, and the prospectors believe they have made a great discovery.

The Patriarch Jacob.

It is said that the mummy of the patriarch Jacob still rests in the cave of Machpelah.

TIDES ON THE GREAT LAKES

Elevation and Depression of Water Have Been Noticed.

Less than four years ago, Prof. Loudon, then president of Toronto University, discovered evidences of minute tides, or seiches, on Lake Huron, similar to those long ago observed on Lake Geneva, and other old-world land-locked waters. Of an entirely different nature were the disturbances reported one day recently from Lake Erie, when the level of the harbor at Buffalo was alternately lowered and raised as much as four feet. Changes in atmospheric pressure causes this phenomenon. The Weather Bureau says it is not an unprecedented experience in the history of the Great Lakes, as the following extract from The Toronto Mirror, of Oct. 3, 1845, will show:

"On Saturday last a most extraordinary occurrence was noticed in the lake at Cobourg. Shortly before noon some gentlemen walking on the wharf happening to cast their eyes upon the water between the piers, were struck with the very unusual appearance of a strong current or tide as it were, setting directly out to sea. It seemed as if the whole lake were going bodily away. In a few minutes nearly a third part of the inner harbor, with a corresponding portion of the shore on either side, was left entirely bare, when suddenly the tide turned and came as rapidly back again, filling the harbor at least two feet higher than it ever was before. This extraordinary action of the lake was continued at regular intervals of every eight or ten minutes until after dark, the highest tide noticed being a little before six in the evening, when the water rose seven inches higher than it was last spring, and just two feet and an inch above its present level. We understand the same occurrence was noticed at other places on the lake, and hear that at Port Hope, the effect was so great that the steamer Princess Royal could not get into the harbor at all, running aground when more than her length outside the entrance to the piers. The cause of so extraordinary a phenomenon is at present a matter of conjecture, but the general opinion seems to be that it could only have been produced by a violent earthquake in some part of the continent which we shall probably soon hear of."

This story of The Mirror was copied from The Cobourg Star, and the date was either September 20 or 27, 1845. Whatever the cause—and the earthquake theory was probably not confirmed—it is evident that these tidal phenomena on the lakes do not occur very frequently, and the harbors of our great inland waterway will never compete in spectacular changes with Bay of Fundy ports, where the water is either surging over the wharves, or receding beyond the horizon lines, leaving the shipping stranded in the mud.

Captain Tom at Ottawa.

Captain Tom Wallace, M.P. for Centre York, and son of the famous Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, has rapidly become a favorite on both sides of the House of Commons. Captain Tom, so far as avordupois is concerned, is the "heaviest" debater in the Chamber. He has a happy faculty of looking on the humorous side of things political, and the other day after the division, in which the Government was sustained by the narrow majority of 27, the captain happens to see in the corridor George Taylor, the chief Opposition whip, and Mr. Calvert, the whipper-in of the Government forces, with their heads together arranging the pairs after the fateful vote had been taken.

Sliding noiselessly up to the busy couple, with a hearty slap on their respective backs, he snorted with a chuckle:

"Hallo, gentlemen; this looks like an old-fashioned paring bee!"

And before the dire punishment the pun deserved could be administered the genial South African veteran was tacking down the lobby on his way to the Conservative headquarters.

The Late Judge Hanington.

The death recently at Dorchester, N.B., of Mr. Justice D. L. Hanington removed a big man in the affairs of the Maritime Provinces. Before his appointment to the bench, he strenuously opposed the late Hon. A. G. Blair in the Legislature of his province, and earlier in his career had been a member of the old Conservative Government. He was a sound and able lawyer, and a very learned judge. In the Anglican Church Judge Hanington was one of the most prominent evangelical laymen, and resembled Mr. S. H. Blake, even to the color of his hair. A witty clergyman of his own faction nicknamed him Boanerges, but his associates at the Bar and in the Legislature called him by the more popular sobriquet, derived from his stentorian voice and aggressive manner, of Roaring Dan.

Upon Evil Days.

The old Erskine Church, Montreal, was turned into a dry goods store; the old Baptist church into Bennett's Theatre, and both were on St. Catharine street.

Now the old St. Gabriel Church, also on St. Catharine street, has been sold for a restaurant. The price paid for the church was $90,000.

And now comes an offer for the St. James' Methodist Church, the finest Methodist church in America. It is not certain whether the intention is to put up a theatre or a hotel on its site, but an offer of $250,000 has been made to the trustees, with permission to remove the church building.

A Huge Steer.

A big steer, raised 30 miles north of Gleichen, is to be taken to Alaska, Yukon, exposition, to show the possibilities of Alberta's natural grasses. The animal, although only three or four years old, stands 6 feet high, is 11 feet 2 inches long, measures 5 feet 8 inches around the girth, and 6 feet on the hips, and weighs 2,560 pounds.

The steer was worked in an ox team last fall and was turned out on grass, never seeing the inside of a stable throughout the winter.

It is thought the steer will before the end of the season weigh 3,500 pounds.

The Mad Parliament.

The name "mad parliament" was given to the parliament which assembled at Oxford in the year 1258 and broke out into open rebellion against Henry III.

WHEN THE LANDMARK GOES.

The landscape looks so strange
When an old-time landmark goes;
The eyes perplexed, do range
Where once its outlines rose,
It always leaves a gap—
A hole in a well-known map;
The world doth meet mishap
When an old landmark goes.

Was it a tree—a pine—
Or a shanty on a hill?
Was it a castle fine,
Or only an old grist mill?
It matters not; I pause
To mourn for it, because
The world's not what it was
When an old-time landmark goes.

Or was it a good old man,
To all the country dear,
Who, when our land began
Her great career, came here?
No more we'll see his face,
Last of a noble race,
And none shall take his place
When the old-time landmark goes.

Or was't an ancient Faith
That shored up human souls?
It stood, so hist'ry saith,
Where yon dark mist-cloud rolls.
In vain it battled sneers
And the encroaching years;
No wonder men shed tears
When an old-time landmark goes.

Or was't a pennant scrolled
With many a splendid name,
That heavenward did unfold
A meteor flag of flame?
Another takes its place—
Flag of an alien race!
The patriot hides his face
When the old-time landmark goes.

My son, good counsel take:
A landmark thou mayst be,
For lo, our God may make
A semaphore of thee!
So well your vigil keep,
That when you fall asleep
They'll miss you, and will weep
When the old-time landmark goes!

THE KHAN.

THE LUMBER KING.

Story of a Visit to J. R. Booth, Ottawa's Multi-Millionaire.

At the age of eighty-three John R. Booth, the Ottawa millionaire, is still attending to business and pushing along his large enterprises. In a very interesting sketch of Mr. Booth in The Canadian Collier's, Paul E. Bilkey writes: "One day there arrived at the little red brick Booth office, at the Chaudiere, two visitors. One was a financial agent of Ottawa and the other was Sir Robert W. Perks, of London, England. Sir Robert had with him a Georgian Bay canal charter and an armful of Mexican franchises. He was arrayed as he would be arrayed for a Threadneedle street conference, a topper, a morning coat, gloves, cane, shiny shoes, all befitting a man with a million or two behind him. He made his way into the red brick building and announced that he was there to see Mr. J. R. Booth. Mr. J. R. Booth was out. Sir Robert said he would wait. After he had waited a while there appeared in the office a man who clearly had no business to be butting into the sanctum sanctorum where a couple of capitalists were about to talk millions to one another. He had on a long whitish duster and a pair of builder's mitts and there was red dust all over him. It was with difficulty that Sir Robert Perks, of London, finally admitted to himself the possibility that this old man, who, unless all tokens lied, had been laying bricks, was J. R. Booth, lumber king and reputed possessor of forty million dollars. It was Booth all right, and the London magnate found himself being overhauled by the keen blue eye of the man in the duster. When he began to talk high finance the man who had been laying bricks met him on his own ground. Sir Robert went back to the club and released a crisp appreciation of the Booth capacity.

A Canadian in the U. S.

Among the many Canadians prominent in business and professional life in the United States is Mr. Clive T. Jaffray, formerly of Galt, Ont., and brother of the proprietors of The Reporter of that town. He is vice-president of the First National Bank of Minneapolis, the largest bank in the Northwestern States, and a director of the Wisconsin Central Railway, whose line will be operated as the Chicago division of the Soo road controlled by the Canadian Pacific Railway. With the assistance of two other prominent bankers, one from New York and one from Chicago, he has just finished the work of organizing the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills Co., in which British capitalists have invested $5,000,000 and American capitalists a like sum. Mr. Jaffray started his banking career with the Merchants Bank in Toronto in 1884. Later, he published The British-American of Chicago.

TARIFF FIGHT OVER.

Conferees Finish Work and Bill Will Be Voted On.

Washington, July 30.—The Payne-Aldrich tariff bill to-day stands completed. An agreement on all disputed points was reached yesterday afternoon, and at 4.55 p.m. the conference report was signed by the Republican conferees.

It went to the House to-day and will be voted on by that body to-morrow. The Senate will begin consideration of the measure as agreed to by the conferees on Monday.

Halted by the mandate of President Taft, the tariff conferees were compelled to turn back and revise their rates on lumber and gloves. In a communication to Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne, the President demanded that the high rates on gloves, as fixed by the House, and the high rates on lumber, as fixed by the Senate, should not be made a part of the conference report.

After struggling over these questions throughout the entire day, the conferees surrendered to the President's view and signed the report. The House may be called to meet at 10 o'clock on Saturday, for it is the intention of the leaders that the report shall be pushed through in one legislative day. Probably a week will be required to dispose of the conference report in the Senate.

The Senate fixed the rate on pig lead at 2 1-8 cents per pound, but this was reduced in conference to two cents. In view of the dissatisfaction of the Idaho Senators this subject was re-opened yesterday and a rate of 2 1-8 cents a pound on pig lead in bars was restored.

In view of the action of the conferees in putting hides on the free list, a concession also was made to the cattle industry yesterday by taking tallow off the free list, where it had been placed by the conferees, and restoring it to the dutiable list.

Tallow had been put on the free list by the House, but the action of the conferees yesterday makes it dutiable at 1 1-2 cents per pound.

Sir Wilfrid Approves.

Ottawa, July 30.—R. S. Neville, K.C., of Toronto, secretary of the 1912 Centennial Celebration Association, saw Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday and explained to him the plan which the association has in view for the celebration of the conclusion of the war of 1812 and the century of peace.

Sir Wilfrid expressed his personal approval of the scheme, but withheld his official approval until the plan has been exhibited in concrete form.

Mr. Neville had a long interview with Earl Grey, who was enthusiastic over the proposal and said it had his heartiest sympathy subject to the approval of the Government.

Dr. Doughty, the Dominion archivist, offered to place his services at the disposal of the association so far as possible.

Mr. Neville said last night that they hoped to co-operate with the Winnipeg-Selkirk Centennial Exposition Commission and make the celebration truly national.

Sweat-Box Changes Sentence.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 30.—At yesterday's session of the Police Constables Association, the following officers were elected: President, Capt. Emil Trudel, chief of police of Quebec; secretary, William Stark, deputy chief of police, Toronto; treasurer, Inspector McClelland, Toronto; executive committee, Col. A. P. Sherwood (Dominion police Ottawa), Chief Detective Silas M. Carpenter (Montreal), Chief R. G. Chamberlain (Vancouver), Chief W. T. Williams (London), and Chief John Kimmins (Niagara Falls, Ont.).

The convention will meet next year at Vancouver.

An important resolution was passed protesting against adverse comment directed against the police for their sweat-box methods. The executive committee state these charges have no foundation in fact, that their rights in these matters are established by law, and they protest against attacks on the integrity of the force.

Can Raise 300,000,000 Bushels.

Montreal, July 30.—The statement is made on good authoritiy that the completed Grand Trunk Pacific, from the City of Winnipeg to Edmonton is tributary to wheat lands capable of producing a little less than 300,000,000 bushels of wheat, or a good deal more than enough in itself without calling upon any other section of the great Canadian west to feed the British Isles in case of need.

Before leaving for Ottawa, E. J. Chamberlin, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, was asked if he ever had made a calculation as the percentage of the land on both sides of the new railway now approaching completion between the Alberta and Manitoba capitals, suitable for wheat raising purposes. He said he had not, but Mr. Chamberlin was under the impression that 75 per cent. would be a conservative estimate.

Violent Electric Storm.

Petrolea, July 30.—This district was visited by a violent electric storm early yesterday morning. A barn belonging to Mr. Aikens, about a mile south of the town was struck by lightning and completely consumed. The loss is not known.

T. H. Wigle's general store and postoffice at Ruthven was struck by lightning at midnight and considerable damage was done by fire.

At Essex, the house of J. W. Cockburn was struck by lightning, but not much damaged, but the house of Wm. Robinson was struck and burned to the ground, the occupants just escaping in their night clothes. One of the girls was burned and cut on the face by falling plaster.

Nordica Weds.

London, July 30.—George W. Young, the banker of New York, and Mme. Lillian Nordica were married in King's Weigh House Church in Grosvenor square at 2.30 yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a few friends, most of whom are well known in American and English society. Mme. Nordica wore a gown of pale gray satin, the corsage being covered with rare old Venetian lace. She wore no hat nor veil, but instead a chaplet of laurel leaves. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Lower at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, July 29.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 13½c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 10c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, July 29.—The railways reported 111 carloads for Wednesday and Thursday's receipts of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 1368 cattle, 2052 hogs, 2847 sheep and lambs and 272 calves.

Exporters.

There were no export steers reported. A few export bulls sold at $4.25 to $5 per cwt.

Butchers.

George Rowntree bought for the Harris Abattoir Co. 150 cattle; butchers' steers and heifers at $4.25 to $5.65; cows, $2.25 to $4.60; bulls, $2.25 to $4.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports the receipts of stockers and feeders as being light. Feeders weighing from 900 to 950 lbs. each, for which there is the best demand, were today bought by the butchers for killing, that is if they had any flesh on them of any account, at prices too high for feeders. Mr. Murby bought 100 during the week at the following quotations: Feeders, 950 to 1050 lbs. each, at $4.35 to $4.25, feeders, 800 to 900 lbs., of good quality, $3.60 to $3.90; good stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $3.50; common eastern stockers, altho few on sale, are not worth more than $2.25 to $2.60 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

The market for milkers and springers was a little stronger for the good to choice cows, but weak as usual for the common light cows. Prices ranged from $30 to $60. Two choice cows during the week sold at $80.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was a little stronger for the best quality. Prices were quoted at $3 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were the largest of the season, and lambs sold at the lowest prices of the season. A lot of the lambs that were offered should have been left on the farm for some weeks. Some of them, when the pelts were taken off there would be very little left. This class was hard to cash at any price. Prices were quoted at $5 to $6.25 per cwt. Sheep prices unchanged.

Hogs.

Prices were reported easier, but selects, fed and watered, sold at $8.25 and $8, f.o.b., cars, at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, July 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; slow and steady; prime steers, $5.35 to $6.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 1600 head; fairly active and 25c to 40c lower; heavy, $7.90 to $8; mixed, $7.85 to $8; yorkers, $7.75 to $8; pigs, $7.60 to $7.75; roughs, $6.60 to $6.80; stags, $5.50 to $6; dairies, $7.50 to $7.80.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 600 head; slow, steady and unchanged.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Beeves, receipts, 1800; weak; cables unchanged.

Calves—Receipts, 455; weak.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 2200; sheep, almost nominal and unchanged; prime and choice lambs, steady; medium and common do., slow and weak; sheep, $4.50 per cwt.; lambs, $5.85 to $8; culls, $5.

Hogs—Receipts, 1263; feeling nominally lower.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 2500; market, steady; steers, $5.60 to $7.70; cows, $3.50 to $5.50; heifers, $3.50 to $6; Bulls, $3.40 to $4.85; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $3.30 to $5.10.

Hogs—Receipts, 24,000; market, 10c to 15c lower, at the start, but regained all of the loss. Choice heavy, $7.60 to $7.75; butchers', $7.50 to $7.65; light mixed, $7.00 to $7.45; choice light, $7.40 to $7.75; packing, $7.25 to $7.55; pigs, $5.50 to $7.00; bulk of sales, $7.30 to $7.60.

Sheep—Receipts, 13,000; market generally 25c lower; sheep, $4 to $5.15; lambs, $6 to $7.50; yearlings, $5 to $5.75.

BELLEVILLE, July 29.—Cheese offered 2770 white, 30 colored; sales 800 at 11⅝c, 1350 at 11 5-16c; balance refused at 11 5-16c.

BROCKVILLE, July 29.—At the weekly meeting of the cheese board to-day 2145 colored and 910 white were offered; best offer .⅜c; none sold.

Big Crop In Western U.S.

New York, July 30.—W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, has received advices from railroad men throughout the west, but particularly Nebraska and Missouri, which, he said yesterday, lead him to believe that the yield of the principal crops would be better than the Government estimates. He said that he had information that wheat in Nebraska was thrashing out 27 bushels more than the average for the state last year, and added:

"Personally, I believe that the corn crop will reach 3,250,000,000 bushels.

Gompers In Berlin.

Berlin, July 30.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here yesterday to study labor conditions.

Bank Wins Suit.

North Bay, July 30.—Judge Valin gave judgment yesterday against the Sturgeon Falls Electric Light Co., Ltd., for $9,000, in favor of the Traders' Bank, on a promissory note.

Earl Grey Goes West.

Ottawa, July 30.—Earl Grey left on his trip to the west yesterday evening, accompanied by Lord Lascelles, Lady Sybil Grey and Lady Sybil Broderick.

The Governor-General will visit the Yukon, accompanied probably by Hon. William Templeman.

Countess Grey, who is now convalescent, will meet him at Vancouver along with Lady Evelyn Grey, and the whole party will take in the Seattle Exposition. Earl Grey travels by way of Toronto.

Sergeant May Be Chief.

Cobalt, July 30.—The council now has before it an application from Thomas Sergeant of the Toronto brigade for the appointment of chief, and he stands now a good chance of securing the job.

Italian's Arm Taken Off.

Hamilton, July 30.—Monsott Peronay, 187 West Barton street, an Italian, was the victim of a horrible accident about four o'clock yesterday morning. His right arm was cut off by a big pair of red-hot shears used for cutting iron and steel in such a way as to expose the lungs. He will likely die.

Leaving the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 30.—D. D. Lewis, superintendent of the rail mill of the Lake Superion Corporation, and would associate himself with certain industries at Lorain, O., in which it is said he has financial interests. Lewis turned out the first steel rails made in Canada.

Hon. John Dryden Dead.

Toronto, July 30.—The Hon. John Dryden, Provincial Minister of Agriculture from 1890 to 1905, died at his residence, 9 Prince Arthur avenue, yesterday evening, after an illness extending nearly fifteen months. He was 69 years of age. His demise was not unexpected.

Refinery for Royal Mint.

Ottawa, July 30.—Tenders have been received by the Government for the erection of the refinery in connection with the royal mint. The lowest bid, it is understood, is that of Maurice Whelan of Ottawa, who will get the contract.

Starts as Open Shop.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 30.—The first of the six sheet mills at the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. was started up Wednesday evening with non-union labor following the "open shop" declaration of the company of July 15.

Gold Mine Sold.

North Bay, July 30.—A North Bay syndicate holding 27 mining claims on Frederickhouse River, north of Cochrane, are richer to-day by $25,000 as a result of the taking up of an option held by Mr. Martin on the properties. Mr. Martin disposed of the claims to Montreal capitalists, the purchase price, including the payment of $50,000 and a large interest in the company to be formed.

The claims are a gold proposition, richly mineralized with both quartz and placer showings.

A BUSINESS EXTENDER.

The Kind of Man For Whom There is a Big Demand.

"I am looking for a clerk, a man with a personality, a man who can do things and increase my business. Money is no item. I will not take salary into consideration. I will pay $100, $125 or whatever he is worth. I want the man." That is what a successful merchant said some days ago.

Let us pay our respects to the merchant who is looking for a clerk of this kind. A good clerk deserves a good salary and usually gets it. This matter of good pay for good services is the basic principle of the relations between employer and employee. While all merchants are not willing to pay enough salary to their clerks, there are more merchants who are glad to pay all a clerk is worth than there are clerks who are glad to be worth all they are paid.

Every village, town and city is looking for the man who can "increase business." The man who will work for the interests of his employer is wanted the world over. The world of business is crying out for such men, for men whom it can trust and in whom it can place confidence that a thing will be done when the "boss'" back is turned. This man is wanted in every store, factory, at every post and in every great business in the land.

If you are attempting to avoid responsibility and as much work as possible you will, unless by great mistake, escape promotion or increase in salary. There are two kinds of clerks, and only two kinds. One the entire business world is anxiously searching for, and the other the entire business world is anxiously waiting to get rid of.—Twin City Commercial Bulletin.

Where Women May Not Pray.

In some parts of the world the women are not even allowed to pray. Certain Hindoo congregations deny their women this privilege, and among the Ainus women can pray only in very rare cases as the deputies of their husbands. The natives of Madagascar, however, stretch a point and permit their women to intercede with the powers of evil, but prayer to their supreme being is strictly a masculine prerogative.

Expensive.

"Yes," said the young wife proudly, "father always gives something expensive when he makes presents."

"So I discovered when he gave you away," rejoined the young husband.

WORK COMMENCED TO-DAY ON NEW MILL AT BURNHAM'S POINT

Peterborough Lumber Company Will Rush Large Saw Mill To An Early Completion--Expect To Have It Finished In Two Months--Larger Structure Than The Former Building--Will Cost $25000.

It will be welcome intelligence to the citizens of Peterborough, to know that work was commenced this morning on a new saw mill at Burnham's Point, replacing that which was destroyed early Tuesday morning. The Peterborough Lumber Co. have displayed most commendable enterprise and the statement that the mill is expected to be completed within two months will be grateful news to the employees who have been thrown out of work by the conflagration. The new mill will be located practically upon the same foundation as the old one, and will be a little larger. It is estimated that the cost will be $2,500. Mr. John Thomson is in charge of the work and preference has been given to the old employees in the selection of the men for the construction work. It seemed as if the ashes had scarcely cooled this morning when the preliminary work was begun.

The mill will be thoroughly modern in every particular and will be equipped with the latest saw mill machinery. There will be all the departments of the ordinary saw-mill and everything that is generally manufactured will be turned out, such as shingles, lathes, ties, lumber, building timber, etc.

It is not definitely known whether an attempt will be made to do any work in the meantime by using a portable mill. The company learned last night that the city would provide fire protection and in keeping with their promise they commenced work this morning. Under the existing conditions they could not have secured favourable insurance rates, and in the alternative were considering locating in Lakefield. The enterprise the company has shown will be pleasing to the men who have been engaged in the mill and the citizens as a body will receive the news with satisfaction.

A SQUARE DEAL IN LIFE INSURANCE

A Canadian Life Insurance Company Carefully Guarding the Interests of its Policyholders, Giving a Square Deal to Both its Stock and Policyholders.

We would call the attention of our readers to the opening of an agency in Peterborough of 'The Policyholders' Mutual Life Insurance Company", a Canadian Life Co., whose plans are bound to secure for it the confidence of the insurer, and a first place in Life Insurance circles in Canada. That there is something especially commendable in connection with its plans is accentuated by the way in which it appealed to the representatives of the Press, who were present at the Legislature when the Bill was under discussion. They were unanimous in their expressions of approval, as the following extracts will show:

THE TORONTO STAR said: "New epoch in Life Insurance opened by Bill before the Legislature."

THE WORLD: "A Model Insurance Company is being organized."

MAIL AND EMPIRE: "New Insurance concern. Objectionable features of other companies eliminated."

THE TELEGRAM: "It is destined to overcome all objectionable features of Life Insurance business."

The following are some of its special features:

It is the only Company which meets every requirement of the Royal Commission.

Its Act of Incorporation limits itsdividends to its stock-holders. All profits above this fixed dividend is the property of the policy holders.

Its rates are lower than, for corresponding policies in other companies. In this connection the following comparison is interesting.

COMPARISON OF PREMIUM RATES OF THE

POLICY-HOLDERS' MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

AND RATES FOR CORRESPONDING POLICIES IN OTHER COMPANIES.

| | Ordinary Life with Profits. | | | | Twenty-Pay Life with Profits. | | | |

| 60 | 64 79 | 73 20 | 8 41 | 173 06 | | | | |

The above tables show the actual amount saved to its Policy-Holder by its lower premium as compared with the premiums for corresponding policies of other Companies, and as money saved is the most positive kind of profit, the saving of this amount through the taking of a Policy in this Company is a direct profit of the above stated amounts to the Policy-Holder. These are positive facts and figures and a positive saving, and, therefore, a positive profit.

The scale of premiums has been for years in use by another Company selling without profit Policies only, and paying very large dividends and bonuses to its stock-holders. It is, therefore, clear, that under its plans, in addition to the above saved profit, a considerable further amount will be available for distribution in further profits to its Policy-Holders.

The actual profits, in most Companies, has not, for years, exceeded 1-5, in many cases not 10 per cent. of the estimates presented by the agent when securing the application. This being the case the above positive saving must appeal to the Policy-Holder.

It will issue Ordinary Life, Limited Payment and Endowment Policies, each policy participating in the profits of the Company after the third annual premium has been paid. No deferred dividend, tontine, so-called "Gold-Bond Policies," or anything of a fake nature will be issued.

The Policy-Holder has one vote for each thousand dollars of his Insurance. Statements, business reports, and a voting paper is sent him, and he may thus vote at his home, and his vote be recorded at the General Meeting though he may live in Halifax or Victoria.

It is a regular Straight Life Company, thoroughly Democratic in its principles and management, with every safe-guard and security to which the strongest Stock Company can lay claim, or which Government deposit, reserve, and inspection can secure, but in the matter of payment of premiums it gives every convenience of a Fraternal Insurance Society.

It is especially easy in its method of payments of premiums. Its policies are so drafted that premiums may be paid annually, semi-annually, quarterly or monthly, and the insured may change his plan of payment, whenever a premium is due, to suit his convenience and circumstances.

It gives guarantees, plainly written into its policies and forming a part of its contract, of Cash Surrender Values, the amount which may be borrowed upon the policy without other security, the amount of paid-up insurance which may at any time be taken, or the amount of Extended Insurance, which is given under the policy.

Its advantages are:

Lower rates; easier terms of payment; full guarantees under the policy; direct participation by the policyholders in its management; limited and fixed dividends to its stockholders, annual distribution to its policyholders, every item of which was recommended by the "Royal Commission."

Mr Frank Mullett, 392 Roger St., Peterborough, has secured the agency for Peterborough and vicinity, and with the advantages which he is able to offer must certainly, in a short time, write up a large amount of Insurance.

Office hours, Saturday afternon and evenings, at 396 Water Street, Peterborough. The Head Office address is The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life Insurance Company, 503 Temple Building, Toronto.

GOING TO GIVE YOUR HORSE VACATION IN COUNTRY?

HERE IS AN EDITORIAL IN PICTURES

Two horses—the one at work on the hard, hot streets of the city— the other, which has been sent to the country for a couple of weeks during the summer.

These are not idealized pictures. One is a photograph of a horse taken at random on the streets of this city. The other is of one which is worked 50 weeks a year in town, but gets a two-week vacation every summer.

Just like people—only the horse gets more fun out of it than most people get out of their vaction.

Look at the horse in the bigger picture. His eyes are alert, his attitude spirited. He is back in the country, where there is green grass and an old-fashioned well and trees and outdoors.

Then look at the other horse.

It tells a story of work, hard, unremitting, of rain and snow and cold, of beating by merciless drivers, of toil which has broken his spirit and made him a drudge, of dirty, smelly, close stables at night.

While the rest of us are taking our vacations, and getting into the outdoors as much as we can, why not take some thought of the horse?

MUCH DAMAGE IN RUNAWAY

Mr. Isaac Eastwood's Team Made Sensational Run Last Evening On George Street—Mrs. Eastwood Was Injured.

BUGGY WAS SMASHED

As a result of Mr. Isaac Eastwood's team of horses running away last evening, his fine runabout was badly smashed and Mrs. Eastwood was some what badly injured. The team became frightened on George street, near Brock street, at a passing automobile and they at once started off at a terrible clip. The horses got uncontrollable, but Mr. Eastwood held the reins and Mrs. Eastwood kept her seat. It was not until the end of George street was reached that the damage was done.

Here the buggy struck a telephone pole and the occupants were thrown out. The dashboard and back of the buggy were badly demolished, and it was practically so badly damaged that it will likely have to be replaced by a new one. Mrs. Eastwood was hurt about the head and arms and medical assistance was called to attend to her injuries.

Rooted With Both Legs Injured

NOW CONFINED TO BED

Examiner Special.

Cobalt, July 30.—R. T. Shillington, M.P.P., had his left leg broken and right angle sprained in a game of baseball between the fat men of Liskeard and heavyweights of Haileybury yesterday, at Haileybury. He collapsed in running bases and was carried to the bench, but insisted upon remaining here an hour and a half of play rooting the team. He will be in bed for weeks.

Wonder Who She Is, Sadie?

He was a Montreal man, and when the doctor, who was called into one of the down-town hotels about one year ago, saw him, he was ordered to St. Michael's Hospital.

The sufferer had pneumonia.

It was a bad case.

So they took him to the hospital and here in a private room with a special nurse they fought the disease.

Once or twice they thought that the end was near, but he won out.

Tenderly she nursed him.

He became interested in her, and she returned the interest by the light of her eye.

When he left the hospital convalescent, the interest had passed through the stage from admiration to real and flaming love.

When he had gone, her task seemed hard. Before it was a labour of love. They were both lonely and it was the loneliness that only those know who are separated from those whom they love.

He was ever in her mind.

She thought constantly of him.

The postman carried many letters.

She left the hospital to take private cases and is still here.

But it will not be long, for when the May day comes again she will go to her home near Peterborough, and they will be wedded, and she will live in Montreal.

WEST NEEDS 20000

Bruce Walker Says Dearth of Men Was Overestimated—Grand Showing of Crops.

Winnipeg, July 30.—Bruce Walker, immigration commissioner, says the West needs 20,000 men, not 30,000. He estimates crop increase over last year as 2 per cent.

14 CANS OF MILK UPSET

Were Being Taken To Factory Near Fraserville When The Team Ran Away, With Dire Results—Driver Escaped Uninjured.

NOT A DROP WAS SAVED

Fraserville, July 30.—One of the milk drawers happened with a bad accident yesterday morning, about a quarter of a mile south of this village. He was driving along at a pretty good rate, when, without warning the bolt came out of the whiffletree, allowing the tongue to drop. Immediately the horses bolted and the load, consisting of fourteen cans of milk, was upset, the milk flowing freely all over the road. The platform of the waggon was thrown off and the reach was broken, besides other slight injuries to the waggon.

Master Thomas Robson, employed by Mr. Albert Atchinson, who was driving at the time of the accident, jumped, escaping with a slightly injured neck and a bad shaking up. One of the horses received a bad gash on the leg as a result of its run.

ENGINEERS COMING TO PETERBOROUGH

Prominent Members of University of London Engineers Touring Canada.

Mayor Rush notified the Legal and Reception Committee that he had received a couple of letters from Dr. J. A. Neal, stating that a number of eminent engineers from England were going to visit Peterborough on Monday, August 9th, at 5:30 C.P.R. train. They will be here until Wednesday morning. It was requested that the Reception Committee take charge of the visitors and assist in entertaining them.

The visitors are members of the University of London Engineers.

It was decided that the mayor and chairman of the committee with any other member of the committee who could get away should represent the city.

CANADIAN MASTER PAINTERS' ASSOCIATION HAD ENJOYABLE OUTING TO STONY LAKE

A most enjoyable climax to a most successful convention of the Canadian Master Painters' Association was the trip of one hundred and fifty Master Painters, and their wives over the lift lock, up the canal to Stony Lake, yesterday. The steamer Stoney Lake was chartered for the occasion, and the visitors to the city were the guests of the local Association on the trip and at the lakes they were most hospitably entertained by Mr. James Acton, publisher of the Painters' Journal, at his beautiful summer home.

Despite the very dampening aspect o fthe weather during the morning the outing was a great pleasure. For many it was their first trip over the famous lift locks and the natural beauty of the Kawartha Lakes was, indeed, a revelation to many who had not ever before visited them. The visitors were loud in their praises of the lakes, one man stating to an Examiner reporter last evening that he had no idea Stony Lake was such an attractive summer resort.

The steamer left here at 8 o'clock, making the trip through the canal in quick time and up through to the lakes to Mr. Acton's island, where he got on board afterwards going to Burleigh Falls, where they viewed this very pretty resort.

Returning to Mr. Acton's home they were entertained most royally. Luncheon was served by several young ladies and gentlemen, and everything for the pleasure and convenience of his guests was provided by Mr. Acton. Before departing a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Acton for their excellent entertainment.

Leaving here about 3 o'clock a sail was made to the head of the lake, the dark rain clouds having cleared away. This was a most delightful feature of the outing. The guests were treated to refreshments on board by the local Association, and on both going and returning, and at the Island splendid music was provided by a detachment of the fifty-seventh band. Before the boats arrived at the Wolfe Street wharf, votes of thanks were tendered the local association, and the Captain, and crew of the Stoney Lake, to whom the visitors were indebted for one of the best outings in their history.

RATEPAYERS SUPPORT BY-LAWS. EACH RECEIVING MAJORITIES

Only Small Vote Cast And No Great Interest Was Shown--General Satisfaction Expressed Even By Those Who Did Not Visit The Polls--A Comparison With Figures From January Ballot.

The Smith St. Bridge By-law and the Street Extensions By-law retrieved themselves yesterday by each securing a majority of votes, thus wiping out the severe defeats of last January. The Bridge By-law had a majority of 139 and at no sub-division was a loss recorded. At Louis Spry's shop the vote was a tie, but at all the other polling places there was a majority for the By-law. The Street Extensions were also approved by the people, the majority being 148. Both were clean victories and it is very apparent that public opinion has changed since the voting at the beginning of the year.

The vote cast was a small one, but is explained by the large number who are out of town and a spirit of apathy probably due to the weather which may have affected many of those who would otherwise have voted. Several, no doubt types of the class, assumed a sort of "I-could-not-be-bothered," air in explaining to the Examiner why they did not vote. Others forgot about it and one business man did not know about it, so he said, until he saw the bulletins in front of the Examiner oeffice. The result was received with general favour, and there was a marked absence of the opposition that was manifest when the by-laws were presented on the first occasion.

The result of the voting was as follows:

Smith St. Bridge By-law

| Sub-division | For | Against | Maj |
|---|---|---|---|
| Nos. 1 and 2 | 30 | 11 | 19 |
| No. 3 | 19 | 19 | — |

What Will Become Of Abdul Hamid's Hoard Of $1,500,000?

Examiner Special:

Salonica, July 30th.—The fate of the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid's vast private fortune appears to be in the balance.

A few days ago representatives of the Reischbank, the Deutsche Bank, and the Credit Lyonnais requested Abdul Hamid to receive them, accompanied by their respective Consuls to discuss the position of his funds in ther banks. Abdul Hamid emphatically refused, declaring that if he were once deprived of his private fortune his personal safety would no longer be guaranteed.

Later a train from Constantinople arrived here, under the escort of two officers and a detachment of soldiers, conveying Herr Neef, director of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, and Herr Anders and Lieutenant Bitgen of the German Embassy in Constantinople.

They brought with them fourteen large boxes of bullion, presumed to be part of Abdul Hamid's hoard. The bullion was transferred to the Ottoman Bank under a military guard.

The value of the bullion is about £300,000. There is a cleverly conceived scheme to return the deposits to Abdul Hamid, and to secure his receipt. The Young Turks will then take charge of the money.

Abdul Hamid will be forced to receive the bankers. The question is. Can they compel him to sign the receipt?

Silver Plate On Brain Kept Him Asleep For Four Years

Examiner Special.

New York, July 28.—A despatch to the Herald from Lockport, N.Y., says: Reuben Wood, a veteran of the civil war, a member of the Fourteenth Heavy Artillery and the Fifty-fifth Infantry, relates a marvellous experience. At Antietam he was wounded in the head and a silver plate was inserted in the frontal bone. He was an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Bath, and in May, 1905, started for Hampton Roads. At Waverly his silver plate dropped down on his brain, and he fell into a sleep which lasted four years.

He had troubled dreams through the long slumber, and at times he thought enemies were trying to arouse him. Several time he heard the call to arms, but was unable to get his eyes open, and something seemed to pinion his arms. He told a surgeon of the silver plate in his head, and the plate was lifted by the surgeon and fastened in place with gold threads, and Wood immediately recovered his normal condition. He is on his way to Buffalo to present his papers and collect back pension due him since 1865.

Labour Meeting Had To Be Called Off, Hall Had Been Rented

The meeting of the various trades unions of the city, which was to have been addressed by Mr. W. B. Trotter, representative of the Trades Congress of Canada in the Catholic Foresters' hall, last evening, did not materialize. A large number of men had gathered to hear the speaker, but it was learned, when it was too late, that another society had the hall engaged, and the meeting had to be called off.

No meeting will now be held as Mr. Trotter left the city this morning for Toronto.

Action Dismissed In Case Of P. C. Adams Against The City

About the tenth of July Deputy Judge O'Connell gave judgment in the action of P. C. Adams against the city, claiming twenty dollars which was for the reward for apprehending a horse thief, dismissing the claim.

It will be remembered that P. C. Adams arrested a man at Millbrook, who was fouond guilty of horse stealing and fined by Magistrate Dumble. Previous to this, the prisoner had been arrested by Constable L. Miles, of Millbrook, and had been allowed to go. Magistrate Dumble gave a certificate ordering the city to pay the reward to P. C. Adams.

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall said that the city was not called upon to pay it, giving his reasons several technicalities, and the Deputy Judge sustained him in these.

THE BY-LAWS.

Not very great interest was taken in the two by-laws voted upon yesterday, only 629 of the 2,541 qualified ratepayers having voted. But a sufficient number of those who did vote took what seems to be the right view of the situation. Especially in voting for the by-law for the construction of a permanent reinforced concrete bridge over the river at Smith street, was wisdom shown. The result, if the proper mode of building is pursued, and proper precautions and pains taken in the progress of construction, will be a permanent structure which will give public service without repair or attention of any appreciable importance for all time to come. The adoption of a bridge of concrete is the application of the principle of permanence, which, more costly in the beginning, is the cheaper in the end. The site of the new bridge is worthy of a good bridge, which can with the material adopted, be given the simple dignity in harmony with the environment. On either side of the river the bridge will give practical access to two beautiful parks, while the bold river banks in the vicinity, largely exist in their primitive beauty. It is probable that immediate steps will be taken to begin the construction of the bridge. The committee will not ignore the advantage of building the piers while low water prevails. No doubt as soon as the Board of Works can be convened the engineer will be instructed to advertise for tenders.

TIMELY ACTION

The City Council at last night's meetings acted in a proper spirit of fairness and liberality in deciding to give sufficient fire protection to the Peterborough Lumber Company. This insures the immediate rebuilding of the mills, the more speedy resumption of work, and the more immediate employment of some 125 men with all that that means to the commercial interests of the city and the many dependent upon the employment of their bread winners, and the conversion of many millions of feet of logs into merchantable lumber and timber. The provision of extra hydrants as may be seen by reference to the report of the Council proceedings, will afford the requisite protection to encourage the spending of money in building, always assuming that the Fire Department will put them to good use. The Peterborough Lumber Company is well deserving, by its record, of this recognition; it has been associated with the progress of Peterborough for many years, having been, as it still is, an important factor in building up the city; and it promises to continue for it still has a splendid supply of timber upon its limits, some of them heretofore unexploited. It is therefore wise as well as fair to provide them the fire protection which is demanded in order to secure living insurance rates, not to speak of the value to the city of the continued and continuous operation of so important a local industry. The action of the Council is timely and commendable, especially as it secures immediate rebuilding of the destroyed plant, which the company, with a customary enterprise entered upon this morning, solely upon the assurance of adequate fire protection being provided.

AS TO PUBLIC EXPENDITURE

It has been charged against the Liberal Government that it has spent money in local improvements for political purposes—as bribes to constituencies. This is a charge more easily made than justified. Broadly considered all government action constitutes what the extremist could call bribery, that is influence in favour of the popularity of a government. The better administration it gives the more public opinion is influenced in its favour. So that in the view of the extremist the better government would be that which refrained from doing acts in the interests of the public, acts that would add to its strength in popular estimation. As to the present Liberal Government, there are very few things aided and promoted by it that are not in the public interest. There are few or none which have not had the support of Conservatives—and, naturally, opponents—in the districts beneficially affected. The improvements made to rivers, streams and harbours are necessarily local in their character, but if they are equably distributed, in the mass they become national in character. The outcry against such expenditures comes from the professional politician in opposition to the government. The local public work which he declares to be a "job" and a bribe, is held by the local politician of the sane party stripe to be a useful and necessary public convenience, for which the government is to be commended. The country needed many of the improvements and conveniences which come in for criticism by the professional politician. The people knew that times were good and the revenue abundant. They felt that this was the time to demand them, and the government having the means and the improvements being in the public interest have been made. Now that the public money is less plentiful the government naturally retrenches and orders have been issued to the various departments to keep expenditures well within the appropriations which Parliament felt itself justified in making.

GOOD ROADS AND THE GOVERNMENT

The Examiner has always contended that lack of system is the primary cause of the failure in municipal management of streets. Year after year aldermen are elected with conflicting ideas as to the policy of street construction and maintenance. The result is conflicting methods, if the haphazard doings resulting from such conditions can be called method. Before one set of aldermen can apply his crude "methods," his term of office expires, a successor comes in with other "methods," with our long-suffering streets as a field of expensive experimentation. If intelligent method is impossible, how can we expect system which is an indespensable condition of effective street management and expenditure of money with adequate results.

The Toronto World in discussing the good roads problem advocates the centralization of the work of road making in the hands of the provincial government. The World says:

> Without governmental compulsion it is doubtful if many people would pay the taxes necessary to secure public improvements. It is a question if that compulsion in some form or other should not be exercised to compel backward municipalities to keep their highways in a condition at least approximating to modern standards. • • • The more The World studies the advantages of central administration the more convinced it becomes that this is the proper policy for the provincial government. Many municipalities have many councillors with a multiplicity of ideas which result in conflicting and unsuitable methods. Central administration of the leading highways will result in a comprehensive and well defined policy, under expert direction. The work will be accomplished best and most economically along standardized lines and in accordance with proved and accepted modern methods.

There is a good deal in this reasoning worth thinking about, if government assumption is substituted for compulsion. The principle of government assumption is not a new one. It is embodied in by Parliament in its good roads legislation. If the Provincial Government contributes one-third of the cost of a county system of roads, it could without the adoption of any new principle or policy contribute three-thirds. It would then take charge of the construction of county systems of highways, the system would be uniform and general, the local jealousies which prevent agreement upon what roads are to be considered a county system would be eliminated. If the government selected—with of course reasonable deference to local desires—the roads to be made county roads, and provided the funds for the construction of such a system, the municipalities or parts of municipalities could not consistently object, since they would get the benefit without having to pay for it. And they might get larger and more direct benefit. The statute labour apportionment of the roads selected for county roads, might, if the government took charge of their construction and maintenance, be commuted and applied to other roads in the townships. The Provincial revenue belongs to the people; it is not the government's money, but the people's money, that the government expends. In the past the Ontario government has given from ten to twelve millions of the people's money to bonus railways, from which the people get only indirect benefit. If ten or twelve millions had been spent by the government upon a thorough Provincial system of county roads, would not the expenditure have been justified? The people would have got the direct benefit, and own the roads; and have the benefit of their free use; whereas after bestowing ten or twelve millions upon railways, the people don't own a foot of them and have to pay for their use—pretty dearly sometimes.

The whole subject of good roads should be revived and kept alive. With government assumption of the county road policy, as constituted by statute, the best of results might be expected. We should have a uniform system adopted and carried out. We should have the best methods applied and secure the best results. We should not have the divided responsibility as to expenditure and selection which now obstructs and prevents the progress of the good roads movement.

The government expends between seven and eight millions of the people's money every year; of this a few stray dollars go to county roads only on condition of a county spending twice as much; that is, the mass of the people, the most important part, the members of the farming community get no direct benefit of the expenditure of millions of their money. Why not spend more of the Provincial revenue on county roads—in a way to give the people greater direct benefit than would result from expenditure a thousand times greater for other purposes.

THE BRITISH ARMY

In a memorandum, recently issued, on the army system and the present state of the military forces in the United Kingdom, the British army council takes the ground that the sole object of any military system in peace is to provide for a state of war, and that the test of any peace organization must be its power, first, to place in the field immediately on the outbreak of war, in the highest state of efficiency, as large a force as is possible within the necessary limits, and, secondly, to maintain that force throughout the continuance of hostilities undiminished in numbers and efficiency.

The old terms of service of seven years with the colours, and five with the reserve, have been restored for the infantry, and under the provisions of the territorial and reserve forces act, 1907, the whole of the militia, in the shape of a special reserve, has been brought into closer relations with the regular army. By means of the restoration of the old terms of service, the mobilization of the infantry units at home is once more safeguarded, and owing to the affiliation of the special reserve to the regular army the maintenance of the units in war for a period of six months at least is also assured. In addition to this 74 reserve battalions, whose main function it would be to train drafts for the battalions in the field, by the new arrangements automatically come into being on mobilization, and the unsatisfactory expedient of raising provisional battalions for this purpose, as happened during the South African war, will in future be avoided. These reserve battalions will also be utilized in the schemes for home defense. Then there are 27 extra reserve battalions, which will be available either for home defense or to reinforce colonial garrisons or the army in the field. The peace establishments of the several arms and units of the regular army and the special reserve and the terms of service in each, have all been methodically adjusted to the production in peace of the drafts required for foreign service, and in war of the men required to mobilize and maintain the field force in due proportion of the several arms establishments, which have been reduced, while new organizations have been developed to strengthen the establishments which were deficient.

The memorandum shows that the number of officers serving in the United Kingdom liable for service abroad, has increased from 7,463 in 1905, to 10,157 in 1909. The number of non-commissioned officers and men serving in the United Kingdom available by age and service for service abroad, after the normal deductions, are given as 185,823 in December, 1905, and 265,515 in January, 1909, while the gross numbers for the same periods were 222,633 and 329,592, respectively. The comparison of the personnel liable for service in the United Kingdom only in October, 1905, and in April, 1909, shows that on the former date the establishment was 502,375, and the strength 371,091, on the latter date, establishment 313,314, strength 263,507.

The inspector-general, Sir J. French, reports the regular force at home allotted to the field army to be in a high state of efficiency and well prepared to take the field at short notice. He also reports favourably on the regular units not allotted to the field army and the territorial force.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Rockefeller regards taxation of incomes as confiscation. A man who has practised confiscation to the tune of millions of the hard earnings of the poor, in the form of coal oil taxed with combine profits should know what confiscation means. Perhaps Rockefeller is righh. He has robbed and grown rich under the laws of his country and many will agree with him that the protection afforded by such laws is not worth paying for.

REMARKABLE ACCIDENT
INSURANCE FRAUDS IN FRANCE.

Ingenious Schemes to Exact Indemnity from Accident Companies—Exposure Brought About in a Peculiar Manner.

Paris, July 29.—By a mere accident the Paris police have laid hands on a band of swindlers who have victimized four of the leading insurance companies to the extent of £3,000.

Recently a well-dressed man tried to force his way into a tramcar at Vesures, in the suburbs, which was already full. The conductor, for refusing to allow the man to enter the car, was so grossly insulted that he called two policemen and gave him in charge.

At the police station the prisoner, who was wearing in his buttonhole the violet ribbon of the Palmes Academiques, was asked by the commissary to explain how he had come by this decoration. The man's replies were so insolent that the commissary ordered him to be searched. What was the astonishment of the police to find in the prisoner's pocket a bundle of insurance policies, as well as papers purporting to prove that certain persons had been the victims of divers accidents.

The man at last gave his name as Count Grenotten de Thuin, living at Malakoff. Armed with this information, the police were not long in finding out that the count, who is the proprietor of two motor cars, is insured against accident in different names with the same company.

The count and his gang of seven, who were all insured, operated very cleverly. The motor cars, freshly painted—which were also insured, were in reality old and defective. The parts were unscrewed, and they fell to pieces at the least shock. A mechanic who was in league with the gang repaired them every time they went to pieces, and the insurance companies paid the bill, which was always a heavy one.

At another time a woman crossing the street would be knocked down. It was, of course, quite an accident. She complained of internal pains, procured medical certificates, and the company paid an indemnity, which the injured woman and her accomplices spent in orgies.

The band, of course, insured their furniture and pictures, the count posing as an expert. A certain picture representing the crucifixion, worth about 8s, was burnt over and over again, each time the company paying £40 as indemnity.

The whole gang is now under lock and key.

Grenotten, it should be explained, was himself an insurance agent, and insured accomplices whose claims he was generally sent to inquire into.

ALLEGED PLOT ON THE CZAR'S LIFE

How German Police Watched Gen. Harting, Suspected of Being Agent-Provocateur.

Berlin, July 30.—Baron or Gen. Hartling—the latter—the Russian agent-provocateur, appears to have been a source of anxiety to the German police during the time that the Emperor William met the Tsar at Kiel.

Harting arrived there with the Russian detectives, ostensibly to look after the safety of the Tsar. The German police authorities, well aware of Harting's career, considered it their duty to keep a careful watch on him and his accomplices. The chief of police spent all his spare time with Harting, and made excursions with him to other Baltic ports, thus achieving his purpose of never losing sight of the agent.

It was due to these endeavors that the attempt on the Tsar's life which the revolutionaries intended making at Kiel never took place.

TEN MILLION DAYS LOST IN STRIKES

Record for One Year in England—How, Strikes Were Settled.

Manchester, July 30.—The fact that over 10,000,000 working days were wasted during the year 1908 by strikes and lock-outs is a telling argument against these methods of industrial warfare. A further one is supplied by a statement showing in how many cases either party got its own way, and in how many cases a compromise was effected. Thus (one learns from the official report) 399 disputes occurred during last year, and the results were as follows (in percentages):—

| | Per cent. |
|---|---|
| Ended in favor of workers | 8.5 |
| Ended in favor of masters | 25.2 |
| Compromised | 65.6 |
| Unsettled | 0.7 |

"As usual," adds the report, "the great majority of the disputes were settled by direct negotiations between the parties involved or their representatives." Among the larger disputes of the year, with the number of workers affected and the loss in working days, were the following:

| | Persons. | Days lost. |
|---|---|---|
| Shipbuilding | 35,000 | 1,700,000 |
| Engineering | 11,000 | 1,700,000 |
| Cotton spinning | 120,000 | 4,750,000 |

"Taking all the disputes of the year together," says the report, "only 1.9 of the workpeople directly involved in them were successful in attaining their object, while 1.9 per cent. were unsuccessful and 96.2 per cent. effected compromises."

The number of disputes settled by conciliation or arbitration in 1908 was 56, and the number of workpeople involved in them 200,279. These numbers were the highest in the period 1893-1908. The most important feature of the year, in this connection, was the formation of conciliation boards in connection with the principal railway companies—47 in number—of the United Kingdom. The following figures—for 1908—are also interesting:

|---|---|
| Boards taking action | 115 |
| Cases considered | 1,812 |
| Cases settled by boards | 554 |
| Cases settled by umpires | 254 |

Of the 808 cases thus settled, only 11 involved a stoppage of work.

KILLED FOUR IN FIT OF MADNESS

Austrian Father After Murdering Family Then Hanged Himself.

Vienna, July 30.—A distressing family tragedy occurred recently in Salzburg, when a wealthy man named Franz Hofer was suddenly seized with a madness. In a fit of frenzy he shot his wife and three children, and finished the melancholy massacre by hanging himself to the window. During the evening Hofer conversed in his customary friendly manner with his wife and children, but rising at four in the morning he loaded a sporting rifle and went to the room where his two boys, George and Karl, aged 13 and 18 years respectively, slept. He evidently shot the younger first, while the boy was sleeping. The shot probably awoke the eldest son, between whom and his father a life-and-death struggle must have followed, as the boy's shirt was torn in pieces, but a shot in the back finally stretched him dead on the floor.

Hofer then must have reloaded the weapon and entered his wife's room, where a daughter of 15 was also sleeping. The girl was killed by a shot in the head. Neither she nor her mother, who was shot in the mouth, appears to have been awakened by the previous conflict between the father and son in the adjoining chamber. Hofer then proceeded to close the tragedy by hanging himself. His weight broke the first rope, which lay on the floor, but a second attempt succeeded. Passers-by who saw the body at the window summoned the police, who discovered the five inanimate bodies.

INTERNATIONAL SWINDLER JAILED.

Paris, July 30.—William Mendle, described as an American, and an Austrian, named Charles Filmer, were sentenced to ten and five years' hard labor respectively for forging and selling railway bonds a few days ago.

Mendle was sentenced in France in 1889 to two years' imprisonment, and to ten years' penal servitude in London in 1895 for a similar offence. He is declared to be the leader of an international syndicate of bond and share forgers.

He came to live in Paris in 1906 under the name of Harold, and obtained under false pretences goods which he sent to London for sale. Mendle was arrested last year at Gravesend and it was afterwards discovered that he had forged bonds which he offered his creditors as a guarantee of payment.

In court he declared that he invented the stereotypograph, which preceded the linotype, and he claimed to have been acquainted with Gladstone.

PREACHERS OUT AGAINST CZAR.

London, July 30.—At over a hundred Nonconformist churches in London and the country recently spirited references were made to the terrible state of affairs in Russia and to the forthcoming visit of the Tsar to our shores. Special prayers were offered for the many victims of Russian tyranny now in prison. Among the preachers who dealt with the subject were Dr. Clifford, the Rev. Silvester Horne, Dr. Horton, Dr. Monro Gibson, and the Rev. J. E. Rattenbury.

Speaking at Westbourne Park Chapel Dr. Clifford said he would not have done his duty as a pastor if he had not taken the opportunity of asking the congregation to express their sympathy with their oppressed and persecuted fellow-men and fellow-women in Russia.

POISONED AT WEDDING FEAST.

Paris, July 30.—Sixty guests at a wedding party at Laroche were poisoned recently. Two of them are dead, and the others are seriously ill.

DUKE OF ARGYLL CLAIMS THE CASTLE

Former Governor-General of Canada in Lawsuit Over Castle of Dunstaffnage.

London, July 29.—A remarkable action, in which the Duke of Argyll seeks to prove that the Castle of Dunstaffnage, Argyllshire, belongs to him, was sent for trial by Lord Johnston in the Court of Session, Edinburgh. The castle is at present in possession of Mr. Angus John Campbell.

The Duke of Argyll, who is proprietor of the lands of Lorne, states that from a very early date the castle was a royal residence and fortress, but was conveyed to him when his family acquired the barony of Lorne from the Stuarts in 1470, the castle being then mentioned as the principal messuage or mansion house of the barony.

In 1502 Archibald, second Earl of Argyll, granted in feu to his kinsman Alexander Campbell Kere and his male heirs the lands of Pennycastle in Lorne, and the terms of the charter included the safekeeping and maintenance of the granter's Castle of Dunstaffnage.

Up to the middle of the seventeenth century the proprietor of these lands was frequently designated as captain of the castle. The Duke cites a charter of 1667, and avers that Mr. Campbell and his predecessors have failed to maintain and upkeep the castle, with the result that it has fallen into a ruinous condition.

Mr. Campbell claims that he and his ancestors have been hereditary captains of Dunstaffnage since 1436.

He claims that Dunstaffnage Castle has been occupied for centuries by his ancestors as the manor house of the estate. Stones built into the castle bear his arms and initials, and his castle was treated as the manor house of Dunstaffnage when the estate was entailed in 1790.

In Mr. Campbell's statement of facts he quotes a letter from Major-General John Campbell to Neil Campbell, the twelfth captain of Dunstaffnage, and dated August 1, 1746. In it John Campbell desires to know how many men were in garrison "at your house." The letter proceeds:—

"Make my compliments to your lady, and tell her that I am obliged to desire the favor of her for some days to receive a very pretty young rebel. I suppose you have heard of Miss Flora Macdonald?"

SEVENTEEN OF CREW DROWNED.

Sydney, July 26.—The Union steamer Tofua has landed here five survivors of the Norwegian barque Errol, from South America for Newcastle, which was wrecked on Middleton Reef on June 18. Seventeen persons were drowned or died of starvation, including the captain, his wife, and four children, and the first and second officers.

The crew suffered fearful privations, the only food obtainable being shellfish, while all they had to drink was some rain water. One of the survivors expresses the belief that the captain's wife, fearing a resort to cannibalism, threw her children overboard.

FAMILY OF FOUR KILLED

London, July 30.—The mining village of Arnold, near Nottingham, was the scene of a terrible tragedy, the motive of which is said to have been jealousy.

Passing his neighbor's house on Saturday morning, a man named Marriott was horrified to see his neighbor, Samuel Atherley, standing at the window with a wound in his throat. He signalled to the man to open the door, which he did, and then fell in a faint into Marriott's arms.

Going upstairs a moment later, Marriott found a woman named Lambert and her three little children, who lived in the same house, lying dead, with their throats cut.

FRAUDULENT DEADHEADS AT PARIS THEATRES

One of the Many Difficulties Managers Have to Contend Against.

Paris, July 30.—The difficulty which managers of many Paris theatres invariably find in making both ends meet is due to a great extent to the number of free seats which they have to give away. But in addition to the deadheads who have some right to free seats, there is a legion of theatre-loving swindlers who adopt the simple expedient of using the visiting cards of well-known men.

The other afternoon, while M. Maurice Ordonneau (the French adaptor of "Charley's Aunt") was chatting with the manager of the Apollo, his own card was brought in by some one else with a request for a box. The bearer was arrested. Not long ago at the Comedie Francaise a young man asked for two stalls, and presented "his card," which had the name of William Busnach on it. William Busnach dramatized a number of Zola's novels, but as he happens to be dead, the young man did not get his stalls. Perhaps the funniest adventure of the kind happened to the late M. Sardou. He was talking to the manager of the Varietes when his card was brought in. There were a few lines on it warmly recommending the bearer. "Let me see him," said M. Sardou. The young man came in. He wanted an engagement, and he took M. Sardou for M. Samuel. "I told him," M. Sardou used to say when he told the story, "that I had an engagement for him. I offered him the part of prisoner in a play which—well, I don't know about the play, but the young man is still running."

500 BLIND IN PARADE.

London, July 30.—There was a pathetic gathering in Trafalgar square, when some 500 blind men and women marched through the rain in three contingents, with bands, from St. George's circus, St. Pancras arches and Mile End waste.

Each party of four blind persons was conducted by a guide who walked in the centre, the five linking arms.

There was a mixed crowd in the square, for political and trade unions had accompanied their blind brothers and sisters, carrying thirty-nine illuminated banners.

Speakers on behalf of the sightless asked for State aid to provide them with work, as it is estimated that out of 32,823 blind in the United Kingdom about 10,000 are supported by the Poor Law; 7,100 only can work, and earn an average wage of 7s 1d per week; and the remainder are thrown on the streets or beg their bread.

TRAMP SAVED INNOCENT MAN.

London, July 26.—At Loughborough Police Court, a laborer named Kilburn was charged with stealing a box containing nearly fifty packets of cigarettes, and was committed for trial. A girl swore to his identity. Subsequently a Birmingham man, who had been tramping the country, appeared in the dock on his own confession of stealing the cigarettes. He gave himself up to the police at Hinckley, where he had seen an account of the trial of Kilburn. Giving the name of Arthur Smith, a burnisher, he told the police that he threw the box into a field near Loughborough, and that he sold the cigarettes to people in the street, at Leicester. The box was found where he said he threw it. He told the police he did not want an innocent man to suffer.

The Bench expressed gratefulness to Smith for the way in which he had acted, and let him off with one day's imprisonment, which meant his freedom at the rising of the court.

SEASIDE SEASON IN ENGLAND RUINED

Inclement Weather Has Kept Away Visitors and Hotel People Despair.

London, July 30.—From nearly all England's seaside resorts comes a chorus of complaint. The seaside season has been ruined by the inclement weather. Those who depend on it for their annual harvest are almost in despair.

Ramsgate had hoped for a good season, after a succession of moderate ones; but all—hotel keepers, bathing machine proprietors, shopkeepers—are lamenting. Visitors are fewer than ever.

Equally unfortunate is Margate. Bitter complaints are heard on all sides. Summer wear is unsaleable, and there is little demand for anything but umbrellas and macintoshes.

Yarmouth is almost in despair. June was one of the worst months known, and July has shown no improvement. Unless the August rush is immense the season will be a disastrous failure.

Bournemouth's season is a late one, and is not much affected by bad weather in the early months, but still there are general complaints of slackness; and at Ilfracombe much anxiety was expressed yesterday, though the next two months are expected to show a material improvement.

Torquay is now fairly full, but there are complaints that business is below the average. In fact, Southsea and the Isle of Wight are practically the only places from which bitter complaints do not come.

Nor are inland resorts faring much better. Warwick and Leamington are almost empty of visitors. Tunbridge Wells has suffered severely, and outdoor entertainments there are at a standstill.

Matlock Spa and the Peak District generally have suffered severely, but matters took a turn for the better in the week end; while at Harrogate the unfortunate weather has had a disastrous effect.

Bath is a glorious exception. The pageant has drawn a great concourse of visitors, and the past fortnight has been one of great prosperity.

PRINCE GEORGE A REMARKABLE SHOT.

Vienna, July 30.—Prince George, the ex-Crown Prince of Servia, shot a pair of pearl pendants at ten paces from a lady's ears a few nights ago.

His aim was so perfect that the bullets merely severed the gold wire from which the suspended pearls dropped to the ground uninjured. The two shots were fired in quick succession at the heroine of this adventure, at whose behest the Prince acted.

The Prince had often been challenged to a similar essay of his skill and nerve as a marksman, and only yielded in the present instance to the entreaty of his hostess, who declared herself ambitious to serve as a target, reliant on her own calm temperament and the Prince's aim.

GERMAN BARON MURDERED.

Berlin, July 26.—A murder at once mysterious and sensational was perpetrated recently at Stendal, in Saxony, the victim being Baron von Zeuner, a cadet in the 10th Regiment of Hussars, stationed there. Another cadet named Baumgart was immediately arrested, and an investigation conducted by a military commission elicited the following facts: Baron von Zeuner had been dining with a number of officers of the Stendal garrison, and had returned to his furnished flat for the night. During one and two o'clock this morning other dwellers in the same house heard shots, and got up to ascertain the cause. While searching they met Baumgart coming from Baron von Zeuner's flat and returning to his own, which is situated on the same floor, just opposite that of the deceased officer. On entering Baron von Zeuner's bedroom they found him dead in bed. A bullet fired at close quarters from a revolver had entered his head in such a manner that suicide was out of the question. Baron von Zeuner had undressed, and was lying in bed when the fatal shot was fired. Further investigations revealed the fact that Baumgart and Voss, two cadets, who were serving their one year as common soldiers preparatory to taking up their military career as officers, had been drinking together the whole evening. Baron von Zeuner was on friendly terms with both Baumgart and Voss. Baumgart will be tried by court martial.

HEAVY LOSS IN SWITZERLAND.

Berne, July 30.—The extraordinary cold and rainy summer is little less than a calamity for Switzerland.

Since the beginning of June there has been rain almost every day. The hay and corn crops are rotting on the ground, and the loss to agriculturists alone is estimated at 40 million francs (£1,600,000).

All the mountain hotels are practically empty, and as each employs between one and two hundred servants the loss to the proprietors is tremendous. There are scarcely a dozen guests in any hotel.

For 36 hours during Saturday and Sunday there was an enormous fall of snow on the higher mountains, and cattle and herds had to be driven down hastily to the lower pastures. Many animals perished through cold or want of food.

The foreign visitors, especially the numerous English tourists, are congregated in the towns and on the borders of Lake Leman, impatiently awaiting better weather for the mountaineering season.

POLICE STOP FANATICISM.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—By closing the Johannite dens, the authorities put an end to one of the most crying scandals in St. Petersburg. Children of all ages, from two to eleven years, principally of peasant origin, were confined in dens for the purpose of "mortifying the flesh" and thus "gaining salvation." The police invaded five dens, in which they found 120 emaciated children, living in filthy conditions. Eighty per cent. of them were suffering from eye disease, through being kept in dirt and darkness. Others had their knees lacerated by kneeling for hours, and nearly all were covered with repulsive sores and marks of beating. A large number of the children were found to be tuberculous. They were taken to various homes. Teh Johannites will be prosecuted. During the raid on the dens the police were subjected to violent vituperation, and one woman flew at a commissioner and bit him severely in the hand.

HOW THE RUSSIAN SECRET SERVICE GETS NEWS IN PARIS.

Wholesale Plot With Postmen and Others to Get Letters of Russian Suspects and Photograph Them.

Paris, July 30.—M. Bourtseff has written a letter to the Minister of Justice, describing the methods by which the Russian secret police in Paris, with the aid of men in the French postal service and concierges, got hold of letters addressed to suspected Russians, opened them, and photographed them.

"The 'Cabinet Noir' of Russia," says Bourtseff to the minister, "is established in your capital," and he adds: "M. Dint, an official like Harting, is the head of the Russian 'Cabinet Noir' in Paris, and has an office in the Russian Embassy."

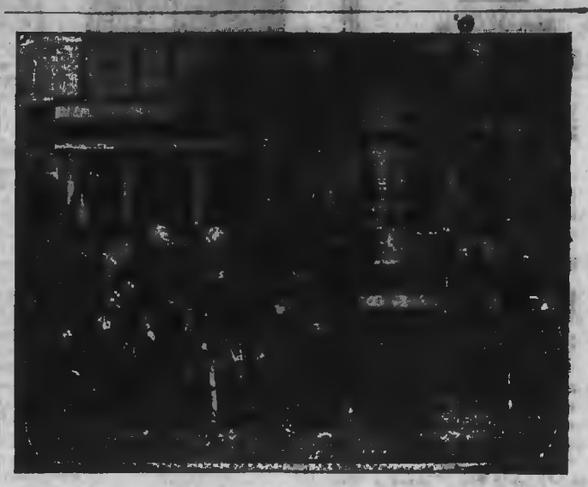
From the white handkerchief of Nicolas I.'s policeman to the bomb of the sham terrorist of Nicolas II.'s reign there has been a fell transmutation and evolution. The story of the handkerchief is once again finding its way into the French papers. "Take this," said the Tsar, "and keep it, a symbol of the purity of your office, and of the tears which it may be your lot to wipe from the eyes of the helpless, of the widow, and the orphan." The story is in substance and expression characteristically Oriental. Whether or not Nicolas I.'s agent wiped any tears away the success of the present day agent-provocateur in compelling them is only too manifest.

In Paris there have been two classes of spies: (1) Those who, pretending to be terrorists, have been admitted into the revolutionary societies, have wormed out their secrets, got up murder plots, and then secretly betrayed their of their comrades selected to execute them; (2) spies in the ordinary sense of the word, spies who are not agents-provocateurs, but whose business it is to shadow suspected refugees, at the restaurants, in their peregrinations through the town, at their lodgings, where they pick up information from the concierge.

Let a stranger—say, at dinner time,—enter a restaurant frequented by Russian students, and take his seat within earshot of them, and on the instant the voices will sink to a whisper, and every pair of eyes cautiously scrutinise him. Spies of this class haunt the Pantheon quarter and the poorer localities between it and Montparnasse Railway Station, for there the Russian students and other more or less impecunious suspects of that nationality chiefly abound.

The Russian Embassy is accused of complicity with the sham terrorist, but as a matter of fact the agent-provocateur is controlled from St. Petersburg. He may give information to the embassy, and the embassy may act upon it—has, indeed, often done so, as at the time of Landeran's plot in 1890, when the ambassador effusively thanked the French police for the arrest of Landeran's victims. Such, at any rate, is the explanation given by Russian suspects themselves.

The conversion of Paris, for the purpose of espionage, into a suburb of St. Petersburg is causing widespread indignation and disgust among all classes in the Ville Lumiere.



THE INSPECTION OF THE YEOMEN OF THE GUARD BY GENERAL SIR JOHN FRENCH.

The Yeomen of the Guard underwent their annual inspection in the gardens of St. James's Palace on Friday last, the inspecting officer being Sir John French. The picturesque ceremony was witnessed by a large gathering.

SAMPLE OF LOTTERY CRAZE AT NAPLES

25,000 Played Certain Lucky Numbers Which Won.

Rome, July 30.—Naples enjoys the reputation of being the city from which the Government derives its greatest revenue from lotteries. Drawings take place every Saturday, and each assiduous player before chosing his numbers consults those of his friends whom he considers possesses special knowledge of the game or books purporting to be the result of long and profound studies.

Among the most popular numbers in Naples are six and 22, which lottery scientists say can only be drawn once every seven years. Recently, however, these numbers were drawn, notwithstanding the scientists, and as thousands of people had played them it is considered that the Government will have to pay Naples alone over £40,000. The number of winners is said to have totalled 25,000. The highest prize won by any single player was £2.

After the drawing the winners, who were chiefly laborers, burst open the doors of the lottery offices in their hurry to get their money.

SNOWSTORMS AND FLOODS IN FRANCE.

Paris, July 30.—Floods, heavy rains and snowstorms are the principal features of the weather conditions prevailing throughout France recently. A number of rivers have overflown their banks. The Seine is dangerously high, while the Rhone and the Saone have flooded the lower part of Lyons. The valley of the Ain has also been flooded, causing great damage to property.

Snow is reported from several parts of France. All the Mediterranean resorts are experiencing abnormally low temperature.

Large numbers of storks have taken refuge on the roofs of houses in Dieppe, Rouen, Abbeville and other towns in Normandy, having been driven out of their usual course by the bad weather.

SERVED UNDER FOUR SOVEREIGNS.

London, July 30.—Colonel John Bower, of Droxford, Hampshire, who saw military service under four British sovereigns, recently celebrated his hundredth birthday. He is the oldest retired officer of the British army.

Colonel Bower was born at Kinsaldrum on July 15, 1809. Originally intended for the Bar, he chose a military career, and obtained a cadetship in the Indian army, sailed in December, 1825, reaching Madras in the following June.

He served for six years with his regiment, the 28th Madras Native Infantry, and was then appointed to the staff. In 1835 he made the first of three visits to the Cape in connection with the supply of remounts for the Indian cavalry, and came home to retire on his pension in 1859.

FESTETICS, TITLED "RAFFLES," IS ALL EUROPE'S SENSATION.

(By Phil Sims.)

(Special Correspondence.)

Paris, July 18.—A man named Hornung once wrote a clever story about a gentleman burglar whom he called Raffles. Many people thought the story improbable. But here is a story harder to believe than the one Hornung wrote. And this story is true. The French police have the ugly proofs.

Andor Festetics, a count of the Austrian empire, a son of the former minister of agriculture of that nation, is the man the police call Raffles. Count Andor is a scholar, a gentleman, a Beau Brummel, a former army officer, a good fellow, a lion of the drawing room, skilled in conversation, and dancing, and cards, master of every art by which smiles are won—and hearts.

There was consternation reaching round Europe when the news went forth that Count Andor Festetics had been arrested as a common thief. Fine ladies grew pale and sighed, and at first wouldn't believe.

But a few men who had known Count Andor in the Austrian army weren't surprised. In the secrecy of the officers' mess of the regiment ugly tales had been whispered. The count was an excellent player of cards, too excellent, by far.

There had been a startling disclosure one night, an ace and a king in his ruffled sleeve. Whitefaced, he had begged for mercy. And they let him resign without open scandal. He roamed through Europe, and began to steal. He had the entry into clubs and society. Costly treasures were left exposed before him without question. He made the most of his opportunity.

Quick-fingered he stole from ladies' boudoirs. He lifted jewels from their cases. He would stroll with men friends, his deft, diabolically clever fingers busy in his friends' pockets.

When times were good Count Andor Festetics would have no traffic with any but the most valuable things. But when times were harder, nothing was too small for his needs.

He organized a gang—a wonderful collection of the sharpers of all nations. The scum of eight nations acknowledged him their leader. He would tip off the location of rich booty. He would get entry into hotels, pass the word to the gang when and where to strike. The "hotel rats," the terror of travellers, are believed to include many of Festetics' gang.

The end came at last. Paris has the sharpest detectives in the world. One day a grand cleanup was organized. The dragnets were thrown out and a rich harvest of crooks gathered in, found guilty, sentenced.

In this cleanup only the leader, my noble count, escaped. He was beyond suspicion. Loyal to their code of ethics, not one of his gang gave a hint as to who the leader was. But the detectives knew there was a leader. They kept on the trail. Every scent they got led to the nobleman, who, undisturbed and serene, was still seen at the opera, the great balls, the races, in company with titled women, and men beyond suspicion.

One day the count was called in. The proofs were laid before him. He took the hint and vanished.

But the count was a poor exile. He couldn't stand it to wander unknown and unnoticed. He reappeared in the gay world at Ostend, the great watering place. The detectives watched him. At the first word that some jewels had been stolen, they raffled his apartments. Then Count Andor Festetics went to prison.

And today the Count [illegible] 35 years old.

MUSICIAN PLAYING AN EXTOPHONE, PARSON'S MUSICAL INVENTION, IN EASTERN MUSIC HALL.

London, July 18.—Here's the latest musical instrument—a combination horn and violincello. You play the 'cello and a tube filled with compressed air makes the horn and 'cello play many times as loudly. It is the invention of Chas. Parsons, who also made the first steam turbine engine.

He calls it the auxetophone, which comes from two Greek words meaning "big noise." Mr. Parsons' "big noise" was played recently in an eastern musical hall, and the music was pronounced sweeter than any ever heard before.

REFORM PROSECUTOR SWEARS TO PUT IN CELLS KINGS OF VICE WHO RULE CHICAGO BY GREAT GRAFT SYSTEM

Indictments Just Found, Over a Hundred, Only a Beginning of the Decency Movement Headed by State's Attorney Wayman—Organized Bribery Which Permits Network of Vice to Spread Over Enter City.

By J. V. Knight

Special to Examiner:

Chicago, July 30.—Prison doors are yawning for "men higher up" in this city's police department, following wholesale indictments by the grand jury charging vice, protection and gambling graft. State's Atty. John E. W. Wayman, head of the decency movement which is sweeping the city, declares he never will let up on the vice kings until he has the ringleaders in cells.

After a stormy session in the jury room, where detectives and police heads perspired under fire, 105 indictments were returned. They only stuck through the surface, however, and the big grafters in crime—"the men higher up"—still are free.

This big city by the lake has not been so shaken for years as now. Wayman was elected as a reformer. The ward bosses opposed him and they knew they could hope for no mercy from him.

One day a Chinaman sneaked into the office of Atty. Edward F. Dunne, former judge and ex-mayor. The man was trembling in fright. He knew Dunne had been a friend of the good Chinese while mayor, and he had a story to tell him. It was a tale of graft, of thousands of dollars being paid by the Chinese underworld to police for protection. In the ex-mayor's private office in the Ashland block the whole story was unravelled.

At about the same time a woman, clothed in black, visited the criminal courts building and told a similar story to State's Atty. Wayman. For three years, she said, police had levied graft on her little saloon and Polish boarding house south of Chicago. When she didn't pay some stranger the graft, she would be arrested.

As soon as her story was finished, Dunne conferred with Wayman, and the grand jury was impanelled to deal with a new problem in Chicago affairs—the search for police graft. Though graft isn't new by any means here, the investigation of it is.

As a result of the stories told by the woman in black and the frightened Chinaman, 105 true bills were returned, and a big ring of Chinese gamblers was driven out of business. Extortion will be charged against men who mulct saloonkeepers and others.

Unlike any other great city in the world, Chicago has its criminal divisions just as it has its political divisions. West Side vice is under the control of the Desplaines street police. Inspector McCann is in charge of the district.

When it was intimated to McCann that police graft existed there, he exclaimed:

"Nothing of the sort! It's a lie! Besides, the people over here are a cheap lot, and haven't any money. Graft? They can't afford it."

Nevertheless, detectives from the district are under daily fear of charges.

On the South Side, near the central part of the city, Aldermen Kenna and Coughlin, twin monarchs of the "red light" district, hold sway. Inspector Wheeler, from the Harrison street station, wields police power in the first and second wards, where South Side vice centres.

Michael Kenna has been known as "Hinky Dink" to the country at large from the time he sold newspapers at Clark and Van Buren streets until now, when he runs a saloon there and counts his wealth in seven figures.

The gateway to downtown vice is this corner.

The fountainhead of it is Kenna's barrel house, which stands, sentinel-like, over the Clark street Chinese dens. Flanked on both sides, south of the battlements of beer kegs which surround Kenna's dive, are strange signs in Chinese; and stranger people slip silently past you; from reeking basements comes the drone of sleepily-sung Chinese songs and the subtle odour of opium.

Here the Chinese gambler sat in glory until States Atty. Wayman decided that vice and graft must stop. Word went along the street, over to "Andy" Craig's district, and even to the strongholds of the aldermen.

Laughter greeted Wayman's defiance, but now they speak of him amid frowns and threats. Will Wayman from the grim old criminal courts building be able to shake Chicago's graft system to the foundations?

Nobody can tell now. Chicago's petty graft runs into princely places if you trail it. Even in the columns of Chicago's most "respectable" newspaper runs a current of sneers and ridicule at Wayman's work.

GATEWAY TO CHICAGO'S DOWNTOWN "REDLIGHT" DISTRICT. ALDERMAN "HINKY DINK" KENNA'S BARREL HOUSE AT THE GATE

SCALE OF PROTECTION PRICES

The following is the scale of prices which witnesses testified before the grand jury is extorted by the police as graft for allowing vice and crime to exist in Chicago:

| | Per Month |
|---|---|
| Disorderly houses, West Side district | $ 40 00 |
| Selling liquor without license in Calumet region | 4 17 |
| For small table in Chinese gambling game | 24 00 |
| For fan tan table in Chinese gambling house | 40 00 |
| For bung loo game | 140 00 |

State's Attorney Wayman says there are 175 disorderly resorts on the West Side. This would mean an annual bribe fund of $84,000.

There are 20 resorts in the Calumet region paying $50 a year for the privilege of selling liquor without a license.

CURE FOR WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. William Ball, Bracebridge, Ont., writes: "My three boys had whooping cough and we could get nothing to help them until we used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. This was not a large bill for so dangerous and distressing an ailment."

TIGER ATTACKS HIS TAMER AT CIRCUS

Performance Brought to an Abrupt Termination—Fired Revolver into Animal's Mouth.

Examiner Special.

Lisbon, July 30.—A circus performance at Soriano was brought to an abrupt termination recently amid a scene of terror.

Capt. Andrickson, a well-known animal tamer, was performing with his ten magnificent Bengal tigers. Profiting by a moment's inattention on the part of the tamer, one of the tigers made a tremendous spring upon the captain and brought him to the ground. There was at once a scene of great confusion among the audience, several ladies fainting and others screaming, while all gazed on a fierce fight for life.

The circus attendants, though armed with red-hot irons, had the greatest difficulty in preventing the other tigers attacking the tamer. The animal, which had sprung upon Capt. Andrickson, seized one of his legs, and the bone could be heard cracking. At last the tamer managed to draw his revolver, and with the utmost coolness he placed the barrel in the corner of the animal's mouth and fired. The wounded beast rolled over, and Andrickson was dragged out in a terribly mangled condition. This is the fourth time the same tiger has attacked him.

CHICAGO GRAFT NOW IN SIX FIGURES

INSPECTOR M'CANN

Inspector McCann, Chicago's indicted police official, has headquarters at the Des Plaines street police station. It was in this district, according to grand jury charges, that one police officer gathered $150,000 graft money from resort keepers.

An American Appreciation Of Possibilities Of Our North

It is not only the great West of Canada which promises to become one of the well-peopled generation, but also the great North. Like the western half of all continents, the climate in that part of Canada which is west of Hudson Bay is very much warmer than corresponding latitudes on this coast, and the railroads now pushing into the North are likely to find plenty of cereals to haul out. A recent writer to the New York "Sun" makes a comparison of these western Canadian points by degrees of latitude, with European cities which are centers of well settled regions. Berlin is, 53 degrees north, or only half a degree south of Edmonton, which has been until recently the most northerly point reached by the general railroad system of this continent. Peace River Landing, to which a railroad is now building far to the north of Edmonton, is on the same latitude of Copenhagen and Moscow, York Factory, on Hudson Bay, is further south than Riga, while Fort Churchill, on the same great area of salted seas, lies only at about the latitude of Sockholm.

No question exists but that this section will raise cereals in a great abundance. Peace River Valley farmers have taken first prize in at least one World's Fair. At Port Vermillion which is 58 degrees north and 500 miles to the north of Edmonton, one farmer puts through with a thresher nearly 10,000 bushels of wheat each season. The mild climate of our Pacific coast, which gives Sitka in Alaska a higher average of temperature by Weather bureau records than Washington, D.C., exerts a similar control over the entire region to the north and west of Winnipeg. Its development will be limited only by the world's need of wheat. Railroads will push in just as fast as there are loads for its cars to pull out. James J. Hill in the current number of "Outing" reiterates his well known views as to the world's rapidly increasing need of wheat surpassing greatly the natural increase in population. This means a much higher general price for wheat in the future, and accordingly a profit in its production at the end of longer railroad hauls than would formerly have been justified. The schoolbooks may be nearly completed in arithmetic, but in geography they are just beginning. The time is not far distant when noble states, with populous area bounded by the international line by Hudson Bay, the Arctic Circle and teh Pacific ocean. As a whole that region is better adapted for agriculture, the primal industry, than areas in corresponding meridians on our side of the line, because of the westerly trend of the mountain ranges as they run north and the greater amount of moisture with the Canadian West in consequence enjoys.—Boston "Transcript."

THE ART OF MAKING GOOD LEMONADE

No other drink is so cooling and refreshing on a hot day as lemonade. No picnic party would think of going to the woods for the day without a bag of lemons, another of sugar, and possibly a big piece of ice. But every one who has participated in the making of the picnic lemonade knows that it is a bothersome task, to say the least. Often the only knife for cutting the lemons that is to be found in the picnic basket is dull.

There is the discomfort of either a lemon squeezer or of squeezing the juice out with one's hands. To say the least, the usual way of making picnic lemonade is a bother—a task each girl tries to get out of doing. But if the following plan is adopted the picnic drink so much relished will not be found hard to prepare.

On the evening previous to the picnic take the quantity of sugar intended to be used in making the lemonade and put it into a stewpan. Cover it well with water and boil just long enough to get a smooth syrup, taking care to skim away the refuse at the top of the boiling syrup. When cool pour into a big-necked bottle and cork or seal tightly. Take your lemons and squeese them dry of juice, putting the juice—from which all seeds have been picked—into another bottle. With the juice and syrup ready, all that remains to be done at the picnic grounds is to get good, pure water and pour it into your lemon juice and sugar syrup. There is no trouble attached to making this sort of picnic lemonade. If a mixed lemonade is desired have some strawberry or blackberry juice to add to it. This fruit juice may be made the day before the picnic also and bottled in the same way as you bottle the lemon juice and sugar syrup. It is best to boil the fresh fruit in a stewpan for several minutes, then strain through a piece of cheesecloth. The blackberry juice added to plain lemonade makes one of the most delightful as well as wholesome drinks one could wish for, and nothing could be nicer for a picnic drink.

HOW DAN CUPID MADE USE OF A PHOTOGRAPH TO UNITE TWO HEARTS 6000 MILES APART

British Columbia Miner Saw Her Picture Sent to a Friend—Correspondence Formed and Wedding Bells Pealed Later—Truth Stranger Than Fiction.

END OF THE ROMANCE.

London, July 30.—From the villages around Cornish men and women flocked recently to the little hamlet of Tregrehan to assist at the wedding of Antonio Metassa, the Anglo-Italian miner from British Columbia, and Rosina Harper, a village maiden.

It was the sight of a photograph that brought the young miner on his 6,000 mile journey to Cornwall, and wedding bells pealed the happy ending of the romantic courtship.

All smiles and blushes the happy bride, who is only sixteen, told me her simple story of the wooing just before the ceremony.

It was myself who sent a photograph to my old chum, Joe Phillips, of this village", she said, "and when I received his reply from British Columbia, where he was a miner, there was a note from Tony.

He asked me to correspond with him, and I thought I would, and said I did not mind.

"Then he came to Liverpool and went to London, and from there he wrote asking me if my father and mother would allow him to come to my home.

"Father wrote and said he did not mind, so one Saturday night he arrived. Here he has remained ever since. We got to love each other, and now it has come to marriage," she concluded, with a gay little laugh.

Metassa is a dark-featured, well-set-up young man of twenty, of Italian extraction on his father's and grandfather's side, but English on his mother's and grandmother's.

He left Italy some six or seven years ago, since when he has been mining in British Columbia. He speaks English with only the slightest foreign accent and is British in style and manner.

After the wdding the happy pair drove away for Fowey amid resounding cheers of the whole village, which turned out to wish him God-speed

A Notorious Gang That Have Caused Terror For Some Years.

Examiner Special.

Paris, July 30th. After a trial lasting ten days the Assize Court at Valence condemned to death three men, named David, Liottard, and Berruyer, members of the notorious gang of murderers, known as the "Chauffeurs de la Drome," which has terrorized several departments of the south for several years.

When sentenced David calmly remarked:

"Good; thanks and good-bye." The members of the gang confessed to having committed no fewer than 12 murders in particularly brutal circumstances.

Their mode of procedure was to force their victims before they were murdered, to reveal where they kept their money by placing their feet in a fire.

A Supposed Process Said to be Known by Academy of Science, Paris.

Examiner Special.

Paris, July 30.—The Academy of Science recently devoted its attention to a grave question. M. Darboux read a letter from M. Boismenu, requesting the opening of a sealed packet, in which was the description of a process for manufacturing diamonds, together with specimens of the same.

Three members were appointed for the task, and they withdrew to an adjoining room to examine the packet. These gentlemen were still closeted when the Academy rose.

The "Temps" states that one of the documents communicated has reference to a patent for manufacturing diamonds taken out by M. Boismenu about a year ago. The precious stones in the packet are said to have been obtained by electrolysing carburet of calcium by means of a continuous current.

Early Part Of August Stormy But Fine Weather Will Follow

Rev. Irl Hicks Makes Forecast for August—Fair and Foul Weather Will be Well Divided---Next Month Should be of Ordinary Variety.

COOL SPELLS THROWN IN

Rev. Irl Hicks has forcasted the weather for August, as follows:

A reactionary storm period is central on July 31st and August 1st, with full moon on the 1st, so that threatening weather conditions will prevail as we pass from July into August. Decided thunder gusts will be natural on and touching the 1st. The first is also the centre of a probable seismic period, extending from July 29th to August 4th or 5th. The change to cooler, spoken of in July forecasts, may be retarded until the full moon on August 1st, but in either event it will be of short duration.

A regular storm period is central on the 6th, covering the 3rd to the 8th. Moon is in perigee on the 3rd, on the celestial equator on the 5th, and at last quarter on the 8th. The barometer will fall to low readings and marked mid-summer storms will appear before the centre of this period say from the 3rd to the 5th, bringing severe thunderstorms and violent gusts of wind to many localities on and touching the 5th. The Venus period will end with the outgoing of this storm period, but will be present in sufficient force to make itself felt in the storms and marked temperatures at this time.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 11th and 12th, having moon at greatest declination north on the 11th. Storm-producing causes will be the minimum at this period, with indications of sustained high temperature, and only moderate changes in the barometric pressure. If storms arise at this time they will prove very largely rainless and blustering, with little if any reaction to cooler.

A regular storm period is central on the 18th, extending from the 15th to the 20th. The storm diagram shows that we enter p. m. full moon. Earth's autumnal equinox at this storm period, also that we enter a Mercury disturbance at the same time. We will begin to reach a climax of summer heat about the new moon on the 15th. Marked storm conditions may also appear at the same date; but the culmination of the period will come on the 18th, 19th and 20th. A very low barometer at this period will indicate danger, and any ominous storm clouds that may arise, with high temperature, humid air and low barometer, will be a warning that should not go unheeded. About this period, or at one of the following storm periods in August, watch for reports of West India storms, approaching the Gulf and south coast regions. Coasts and open seas on the Pacific side will not be exempt from possible equatorial storms. Within four days of noon on the 15th, seismic reports from various quarters of the globe need not surprise or alarm those who live outside of positive earthquake belts. At the windup of this period, say about the 19th to 20th, there is hope of a high barometer from the northwest with cooling winds and respite from great summer warmth. The Mercury period being central on the 21st, promises a prolonged spell of cloudy days, with probable tendency to drizzling rains.

A reactionary Storm period is central on the 23rd, 24th and 25th, with moon's first quarter on the 23rd. At this period the barometer will fall again, the temperature will rise and threatening conditions will increase into summer storms. The outlook for diffused rains is not without hope at this and the preceding period, although we do not expect a sufficiency of general rains during this month. The mercury period, covering the 15th to the 28th, with probability of equatorial storms from the south, gives good hope that August will not be a month of unmitigated heat and drouth. At the same time, a cycle of such phenomena is due, when we may expect "all signs to fail" in a season of dry, hot weather.

A regular storm period covers the last six days of August, being central on the 29th. The moon is at extreme declination south on the 27th, and full on the 30th. By this time earth's autumnal equinox will have added great tension to the meteorological elements, and cyclonic disturbances with maximum tidal waves will be entirely possible and probable in all regions approximating the equatorial zone. These storms may not arrive as far north as our southern coasts at this time; but such a thing is possible, and no section of the south coasts at this time; but such a thing is possible, and no section of the south coasts exposed to such visitations should lightly regard indications. This period will reach its crisis about Sunday, the 29th, to Wednesday, September 1st. If very low barometer and wide storm areas break inland from the Gulf and south Atlantic regions, heavy rains will deluge the south, and lateral storms will visit many interior localities. Within a period of seven days, central on the 30th, or from August 28th to September 3rd, look for seismic reports from widely separated parts of the earth.

City Promises Lumber Co. Adequate Fire Protection

Council With Water Commissioners Meets Representatives of the Peterborough Lumber Company in Regard to Laying Mains Into the Company's Property.

THE ARRANGEMENT MADE

As a result of a conference of the City Council the Water Commissioners and representatives of the Peterborough Lumber Company last night, the large saw mill, which was destroyed by fire Monday night, will be rebuilt immediately, and will be practically completed within two months. The company stated that they would only rebuild on the former site on condition that they were given a good fire protection.

There were present at the meeting Mayor Rush, Ald Hicks, Metherall Morgan, Bradburn, Gillespie, and Morrow, Messrs. W. H. Moore, T. F. Matthews and Supt. Henderson, Dickson, Davidson, and J. C. Shook.

Mayor Rush read a letter from Geo. Lenton, Secretary of the Company, in which he stated that their mill had been destroyed and no fire protection had been available. It was their intention to rebuild. They had timber limits sufficient to keep a mill of the capacity of that which was lost in operation for fifteen years. They have been employing 125 men for five months, during the year, and 100 men for four months. Before deciding definitely to rebuild in Peterborough, the Company wished to be assured that they would be given adequate fire protection. They asked for four hydrants, suitably situated in the mill premises. They had obtained an option on desirable mill property in Lakefield, but as all the directors reside in Peterborough they preferred to remain here.

At the request of the Mayor, the Water Commissioners had met the representatives of the Peterborough Lumber Co., on Wednesday night, and as a result Mr. Henderson surveyed the ground in order to select the route for a line of mains into the property.

Mr. Moore explained that two routes had been discussed. The first was from a point on Englebourn avenue south, crossing private property. This would come out at a high bank on the C. P. R. The distance from the present main to the company's property is 740 feet. The other route is from the end of James street, near the Lundy property, along Burnham street, to Maria street, reaching the Company's property at the extreme east end. The distance in this case from an existing main to the property is 530 feet. It is therefore 210 feet shorter from the city's standpoint and the mains are laid entirely on public streets.

When the mains are laid on the company's property 951 feet was the distance from the point where the Englebourn Avenue main entered the property to the interior. The distance from the Maria street main, at the extreme east end was 1,000 feet, which meant to the Company only a difference of fifty feet. The cost of laying a foot of this six-inch pipe is $1.15.

Ald. Hicks suggested that the city put the mains up to the Company's property, but that the service on the property be arranged for by the Company and the Water Commissioners.

Ald. Morgan considered that the water works should be taken to the company's property by way of Burnham street. This would cost the city $250 less than by way of Englebourn avenue.

In order to provide for the interest and sinking fund, Mr. Moore suggested that the city pay for two hydrants on the part of the work the city has to do.

Establishing a precedent, Mayor Rush stated to Mr. Davidson and Mr. Shook that the company would be given the same protection as other manufacturing establishments. The mill yards were private property, and the city would establishing a precedent by putting the mains in it. The city would assist the Company as much as they could, but putting the mains inside would result in other companies demanding the same favour.

MR. J. C. SHOOK

Who With Mr. Dickson Davidson Waited on the Council in the Matter of Fire Protection for Peterborough Lumber Co.

Mr. Shook replied that the Council did not consider that there was a public street on the mill property. It was located in a plan of the city and although there were no residences on it the mill office and other buildings were placed on opposite sides of it. It was pointed out that the street was virtually owned by the company and they would have to deed it over to the city before the mains could be laid on it.

Mr. Shook asked what protection the company was etntiled to was it just what the city desired to give? They were heavy tax payers, and had been heavy losers. They had no fixed assessment or any other favour, and they have no fire protection whatever.

By the water mains being laid via Burnham street to the mill it would require the cost of five hydrants to pay the sinking fund and interest. It was therefore suggested that the company deed the city sufficient land to lay the mains on, and that the city pay for a number of hydrants, and the company pay its share as long as the mills were in operation. When the mills cease to exist then the city assumes the full cost.

It was moved by Ald. Morrow and Gillespie, that whereas the water commissioners will extend the water mains to the mill of the Peterborough Lumber Co. for an annual sum of $141.00, the Council authorize the location of these hydrants on George street provided the Lumber Co. give an agreement to permit the water main to be laid on their property from Burnham street to George street, with right of access for repairs, etc., and also arrange with the Commissioners with respect to the additional revenue required to provide for the extension.

George street, it may be remarked, is a small street laid out on the property at Burnham's Point.

The cost of each hydrant is $27.50. The Company will therefore have to pay $55.00 for thirty years.

GASOLINE, HOW IT AFFECTS INSURANCE

If you have a pint of gasoline in your house for use in your automobile, or for cleaning your clothes, and have no special permit from the fire insurance companies to keep it, and if you expect to collect any insurance in case of fire, you had better hasten and get a permit to keep it and pay 25 per cent. extra on your insurance. It does not matter how much insurance you have on your buildings you cannot collect one cent from the insurance companies if you keep even so small a quantity of gasoline on your premises without special insurance.—Lindsay Post.

William Hamilton Co. Ask For $10,000 Fixed Assessment

At the Council meeting last night a communication was recived from J. C. S. Smith, business manager of the William Hamilton Co., Limited, asking for a fixed assessment of $10,000 for three years. The company commenced business in November, 1908, and now have 94 employees about 60 of whom are householders, and the pay roll amounts to over $4,000 a month. Present orders booked total over $110,000.00 and more men are being taken on every month. It is considered that it will only be a short time until 150 men are engaged. Referred to Manufactures Committee.

The total assessment of the company at present is $23,190 and the amount of the taxes is $473.07.

TABLE OF MILK TESTS FOR JULY

City Milk Is Of Best Quality—No Sample Showed Evidence Of Preservatives—Percentages Of Butter Fat.

MUST ALL HAVE LICENSES

The July test of the milk delivered by the Peterborough vendors has been received from the Medical Health Officer Dr. McPherson, and certified to by Dr. John Amyot, provincial analyst, of Toronto, and is considered a very favourable one. The result shows in no case the presence of borates or formaldehydes as might be expected during this weather when preservates are frequently used in some places. The report speaks well for the milk vendors of Peterborough, and the citizens may feel confident that they are receiving milk of the best quality, in fact the showing is considered one of the best possible.

Three test were made during the month in order to insure thoroughness and to get samples from all the vendors. The following is the report showing the percentage of butter fat the first samples having been obtained on July 7th:

| | July 7 |
|---|---|
| Geo. Raper | 3.50 |
| J. J. McCrea | 4.50 |
| J. A. Wilson | 3.00 |
| W. Goodfallow | 3.50 |
| C. Larnby | 3.75 |
| E. Curtis | 4.00 |
| R. D. McGregor | 3.75 |
| G. Dobbin | 3.25 |
| E. Buttler | 3.50 |
| W. Bromell | 4.00 |
| T. H. Deck | 4.00 |
| I. Hetherington | 4.00 |

The samples secured on july 15th gave the following percentage of butter fat:

|---|---|
| R. Polson | 4.00 |
| W. Dummitt | 3.00 |
| T. Lillico | 4.25 |
| W. E. Stewart | 4.50 |
| W. Reid | 3.50 |
| D. Curtis | 4.00 |
| A. Hunter | 3.00 |
| T. Hetherington | 4.75 |
| J. A. Redmond | 4.50 |
| J. J. Duffus | 4.50 |
| E. Metcalf | 4.75 |

The last samples were obtained on July 22nd, the tests resulting as follows:

|---|---|
| C. Adams | 3.50 |
| G. L. Shaughnessy | 3.75 |
| A. Huston | 3.50 |
| W. Curtis | 4.00 |
| D. Dunlop | 3.50 |
| S. W. Londry | 4.00 |
| J. W. Lewis | 3.75 |
| H. Cox | 3.50 |
| W. J. Robson | 3.75 |
| W. Hetherington | 3.25 |

Regarding Licenses

It is learned that some of the vendors are not in possession of licenses. They purchased the business of milkmen who had licenses, but failed to transfer them. As a result there may be some action taken if there is any further delay on the part of those who are in this position.

Powers May Go To Aid Of Spain

King Edward Said To Be Interested And Has Asked Cabinet To Communicate With France And Germany.

CHINESE PRECEDENT.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

London, July 30.—The feasability of Britain, France, and Germany going to the aid of Spain in suppressing the Morocco rebellion is being considered by the British cabinet to-day. On the best of authority it is learned that King Edward, alarmed for the safety of Queen Victoria of Spain, who is his niece, and King Alfonso, has requested the cabinet to communicate with the French and German ministrys regarding the sending of a mixed force of reinforcements to the Spanish troops who are in such desperate straits in Morocco. The King cited the joint action of the powers during the Chinese boxers uprising as a precedent for similar action now.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Ald. Morrow Points Out Necessity of Eliminating Delay in Providing One

The plans of the Isolation Hospital are progressing and the recent trip to Montreal will have the effect of providing all the special arrangements of a costly hospital, although only a comparatively small sum will be expended here. Ald. Bradburn, who, with Dr. McPherson, M. H. O., and Mr. Blackwell, visited several isolation hospitals in Montreal, gave a short report last night at a late meeting of the Council. The trip was commended by the other aldermen, and Ald. Morrow and Metheral particularly referred to it. The former remarked that he considered the Isolation Hospital one of the most important questions before the Council, and he hoped that the Property Committee would not delay in dealing with it.

TO-NIGHT'S CONCERT

Delightful Programme Promised for the Weekly Musicale at Victoria Park

An impromptu programme has been selected for to-night's band concert, and, as will be seen from a glance at the names of the selections, the music should be much enjoyed. Mr. Jos. # MADE HIS ESCAPE FROM POLICE COURT

Quite a sensation was causeu at the police station this morning, when the man charged with assaulting P. C. Newhall and doing him actual bodily harm was successful in making his escape. He is still at large, the efforts of the police up to the time of going to press being fruitless.

It appears that P. C. McGinty was alone in the station, when two men came in and asked to see the prisoner with regard to getting him bail. The prisoner asked to be allowed out to speak to his friends, and P. C. McGinty, unthinkingly, permitted him to come out. He took advantage of his freedom and ran out the door and along to Peterborough Cereal Company's mill. He got through some windows and was lost sight of by P. C. McGinty.

Up to the time of going to press the prisoner had not been located.

WAS LEFT OVER

Question of Joint Decoration Day Will Be Discussed In November.

A meeting of representatives of the Independent Order of Foresters, the Ancient Order of Foresters, the Sons of England, and the Masons' and Bricklayers' Union was held last evening in the S. O. E. hall. The purpose of it was to consider the advisability of jointly keeping a Decoration Day each year. The idea appears to be a good one, but nothing definite was decided upon last evening. It was thought that it would be best to allow the matter to rest until next November, when another meeting would be called of representatives from every society in town; committees would then be appointed and the winter months would be a good time to make arrangements and otherwise discuss the question.

Mr. A. Allison presided at last evening's meeting.

ROSIE BACK AGAIN

Looking For Witnesses of the Marriage Held Here.

Queen Rosie of the Mexican band of gypsies, and John George, who have been causing quite a sensation in the courts at Ottawa, are in the city to-day. They are endeavouring to secure witnesses here for the kidnapping case, which comes up in the Capital for hearing in a short while. They want persons who witnessed the marriage that is causing all the trouble.

TO OIL THE STREETS

Ald. Gillespie Suggests An Enquiry From Toronto.

Ald. Gillespie was so impressed with the appearance of those streets in Toronto that have been given applications of oil to allay the dust that he thought the city should make enquiries as to the success of the new method, and if it is giving entire satisfaction a trial might be made here. Following his suggestion a motion was passed authorizing the City Clerk to write to Toronto and secure particulars.

ASSAULTED A POLICEMAN

A City Man Pleaded Guilty To-day to Having Kicked P. C. Newhall Doing Him Actual Bodily Harm Last Evening.

CASE WAS ENLARGED

A local man pleaded guilty to a serious charge at the police court this morning, that of kicking P. C. Newhall, doing him actual bodily harm. The assault occurred on Simcoe street last night when the police officer was arresting the prisoner. The accused was drunk at the time and was very disorderly. It was on account of his disorder that P. C. Newhall took him in custody. The policeman was rather seriously injured.

In court this morning the prisoner pleaded guilty to both charges and His Worship remanded the prisoner for one week, when evidence as to the nature of the assault will be heard.

The defendant asked for bail which the magistrate granted, on his own surety of two hundred dollars and another one of the same amount.

CANADIAN HEROES.

Actions of the Winners of Carnegie Prizes In the Dominion.

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, which has just issued a report of its operations, mentions the following heroic actions having taken place in Canada:

Michael A. Doyle, aged 31, ship laborer, saved Charlotte L. de Kastner, aged 17, from drowning, Quebec, April 28th, 1904. Doyle jumped into the St. Lawrence river which was running with ice, and rescued the girl who was intent on suicide.—Silver medal.

Arthur J. Gottschalk, aged 24, storekeeper, saved Phoebe Webster, aged 35, from drowning, Crystal Beach, Ont., July 6, 1904. Gottschalk's canoe was capsized in his effort to rescue Mrs. Webster, who was intent on suicide, and he then supported her in the water until both were rescued.—Bronze medal.

Samuel M. de Sherbinin, aged 20, jeweler, saved Alfred O. Burnham, aged 25, carpenter, from drowning, Langham, Sask., August 23, 1905. De Sherbinin swam thirty feet from shore and, after a struggle, effected rescue in Saskatchewan river, where the water was ten feet deep.—Bronze medal.

P. John Bibby, aged 29, mate, saved James Jamieson, aged 40, laborer, from drowning, Bracebridge, Ont., October 31, 1905. Bibby jumped from a steamer into Muskoka Lake, and swam to Jamieson, who had become benumbed and exhausted while clinging to a small boat, which had capsized during a heavy storm. It was impracticable to launch a lifeboat from the steamer. Supporting him until the steamer was brought nearer, Bibby then caught hold of a life-preserver thrown from it, and both were hauled on board.—Silver medal.

William Raymond, aged 38, teamster, saved Victor Henry, aged 10, from drowning, Lindsay, Ont., February 27, 1906. Raymond, although just having recovered from a long siege of pleurisy, went out on weak ice on the Scugog river to Henry's assistance, and after breaking through swam thirty-five feet to where Henry was in the water. Swimming back to the edge of the ice with him, they were assisted to firm ice by others who extended a board to them.—Bronze medal and $300, to liquidate mortgage on his property.

William Grimour, jr., aged 34, printer (Montreal Star), attempted to save John A. Moorhouse, aged 10, from drowning, Sorel, Que., July 1, 1905. Gilmour jumped from a steamer into the St. Lawrence river, and swam after Moorhouse, who had fallen from the boat and was being carried off by the current. He could not find the boy, and became almost exhausted attempting to swim back to the steamer, which was half a mile distant. He succeeded in reaching a raft, which had been thrown from the steamer, and was later picked up by a boat, which, after much delay, had been launched.—Silver medal and $1,000.

The American Influx.

One of the most striking things in the history of the west is the influx of farmers into Canada from the United States. It has been said that fully 50,000 persons will cross the line this spring, bound for the rich wheat lands of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. It has been less than 20 years since the rush to the wheat country of the middle States and now parts of this territory are being abandoned for the richer loam of Canada.

Recently seventy carloads of farmers assembled in Minneapolis with their wives, babies, pigs, cows and farming tools, bound for Saskatchewan. The settlers are not poor. Many have accumulated small fortunes in wheat and they are going after more money. One young man was asked why he wanted to leave the States.

"I like the proposition," said the young fellow. "The land is cheaper up there. One can get more for his money."

The aggregate capital in the party counting the cost of farm machinery and stock represented along with the money to be invested amounts to $1,000,000 and the total output of crops per year has been estimated in advance at half that figure.

Royal Theatre

SPECIAL NOTICE
THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE, Up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST here.

"A HOT TIME AT ATLANTIC CITY."
This is a very funny picture filled with amusing incidents. Count Carsford, a new arrival at Atlantic City, leaves his rooms for a time and two tramps enter, dress in his clothes, take his cards and his Royal Bank Cheque Book, and then you should see the "Royal Hot Time" they have with the ladies on the Atlantic Beach. Don't miss it. It takes over 1000 feet of film to show all the fun they had.

"Life Through a Telescope"
A very interesting picture, showing what a man sees through a telescope in the ancient city of Rome, in fact a bird's-eye-view of the Holy City.

"AN AWFUL TOOTHACHE"
This is a picture brimful of fun from start to finish. A poor fellow has an awful toothache and tries to get the tooth extracted. He succeeds in the end—but come to The Royal and see how he did it.

"A HAPPY MAN"
A very pretty picture, showing how a wife whose husband is an artist catches him trying to make love to one of his models, and the fun afterwards, but not for him.

Mr. Loftus will sing—"Dublin Daisies," one of the best songs.

Monday will again be Fan Day, so do not forget to carry away a Fan to Fan Yourself.

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

Kryptok Bifocals are the only perfect invisible, double vision lens made. There is no crack or split to gather dirt, and being made of one piece of Glass, it forms no line between the near and far sight. No cemented double vision lens is entirely satisfactory, because the cement will come loose in time. The Kryptok lenses are fused and welded in such a way as to become one solid lens of perfect optical qualities. We have issued a Booklet on these lenses, which covers the question of Bifocals thoroughly, and explains why the Kryptok Bifocals are much superior to the ordinary cemented kind. # WILL MEN OF FUTURE LIVE ONE HUNDRED YEARS?

YES, is Emphatic Answer of Dr. Fisher the Scientist, Who Claims That Proper Care and Safeguards Will Lengthen Average Life Many Years More.

New Haven, Conn., July 28.—Everybody ought to live to be 100 years old. It is just as easy to live to be 100 as not, if you know how, according to Prof. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale University.

Professor Fisher is a world authority on health, and believes fully he will live to be 100, 110, perhaps 120.

Roused by the words of ex-President Roosevelt to the convention on national resources, Professor Fisher got busy and has just completed a working plan of passing the century mark. This plan is presented here for the first time.

It will be noted that Professor Fisher's recipe on how to live to be 100 is a combination of old medical theories and new discoveries in the science of health.

In 1898 Professor Fisher's own health broke down, and he spent three years in the Rockies studying out this problem. Conquering health for himself, he believes he has learned the secret for the world.

FIGURES PROVE PROF. FISHER RIGHT—LIFE IS LENGTHENING

Average Lifetime in England and Wales:

| Years. | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| 1838-1854 | 39.9 | 41.8 |
| 1891-1900 | 44.1 | 47.8 |

Average Lifetime in France:

| Years. | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| 1817-1831 | 38.3 | 40.8 |
| 1898-1903 | 45.7 | 49.1 |

Average Lifetime in Prussia:

| Years. | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| 1867-1877 | 36.3 | 37.9 |
| 1891-1900 | 41.1 | 44.6 |

Average Life time in Denmark:

| Years. | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| 1835-1844 | 42.6 | 44.7 |
| 1895-1900 | 50.2 | 53.2 |

By Irving Fisher, Ph. D.
(Editor Yale Review, Educater, Scientist, Mathematician, Author, and Chairman National Health Committee.)

What is the normal human lifetime? Many estimates have been made, based on all sorts of reasoning, the figures extending from 75 to 200 years. The medium age at present for death from old age is 83. We may conclude that the normal life at present is over 83.

It would be surprising if the future should not witness a further lengthening of human life and at an increasing rate. Of course, there is a limit to the increase of human life, but there is good reason to believe that the limit is still far off. Pure water, pure milk, pure air and protection from accident are the chief means known at present to prolong life.

When the public makes up its mind to endure no longer impure light, air, milk and unreasonable danger to life and limb, life will lengthen eight years and probably a good deal more.

My estimate of 15 years as the possible prolongation of life merely is a minimum estimate.

"Old age" has been assumed as unpreventable. Yet Metchnikoff maintains, with reason, that old age is a malady that can be postponed.

In Portland, Ore., Mrs. Mary L. Wood died recently at the age of 120 years. From this we may conclude that if to-day notwithstanding all existing chances of death, it is possible for some persons to live to 120, the chances in the future if with better care and more knowledge for a larger proportion of persons will be improved.

The practice of medicine which for many years has been known as a healing art is undergoing a radical revolution. The change is based on the conviction that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. The people themselves are learning to ask their family physician to keep them well rather than to cure them after they are sick.

We must conclude that the length of human life is dependent on certain definite conditions and can be either increased or diminished by changing these conditions.

In three or four centuries we may see an increase in the span of life of 100 per cent. When a person is free from all ailments he usually calls himself "well." Endurance, however, is measured by the slowness with which strength decreases through exertion.

Of all poisons in ordinary use alcohol and tobacco are the most common. Poisons also may enter the system through food.

The waste of energy and life from undue fatigue is probably much greater than the waste from serious illness.

PREVENTION is the first step in increasing the breadth of life.

Ideal conditions for health and long life comprise a pure and disease-free atmosphere; pure food and a pure water supply; protection from accident, and a proper adjustment of work, rest and amusement. Human beings are as easy to cultivate as other animals and plants.

People who have lived to be over 100 have usually been persistent followers of some rules of rational hygiene—personal health — even though they took care of themselves unconsciously.

PROF. IRVING FISHER

Recent examples of men who have lengthened their lives may be mentioned; a young doctor who was given up to die five years ago, but who today can run 25 miles without a rest; and Dr. Horace Fletcher, who, at 46 was rejected for life insurance, but who later got his insurance and celebrated his fiftieth birthday by cycling 190 miles.

The air a man breathes should first of all be pure—free from injurious microbes, dust, smoke and gases.

The ideal conditions of health require perfect balance of work, play and sleep. The growing practice of sleeping out of doors is one of the most significant signs of the times. The windows of working and living rooms ought to be opened in summer and somewhat in winter, provided a window board is used to drive the cold air upward from the sill.

Air baths are as important for bodily health as water baths. Tight shoes and tight corsets ought never to be worn.

Chief Roszel Presided At Convention Of Chief Constables Of Dominion

His Address at Opening of First Session — Interesting Subjects Discussed By Members of the Association—Chief Roszel President for 1908—1909 Term—Requisites of Ideal Policeman.

THIRD DEGREE DEFENDED.

The fifth annual convention of the Chief Constables 'Association of Canada was opened at Niagara Falls on Wednesday, July 28. The attendance was the largest in the history of the Association., over 100 members being present from all parts of Canada. The convention is of particular interest to Peterborough from the fact that Chief Roszel, who was elected president last year, opened the proceedings and presided at all the sessions until the final business was concluded. Mayor Slater, of Niagara Falls, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the town in a graceful speech that was duly acknowledged.

Chief Roszel dealt with a number of matters of interest to the Chief Constables of Canada in his address, as follows:

To the members of the Chief Constables Association of Canada.

Gentlemen,—I bid you welcome to the fifth annual convention of our association, and in doing so would express the hope that our coming together in the city of historic association and world-wide fame may prove pleasurable and interesting to us personally, and profitable to us as an organization.

I desire at the outset to thank you for the honour implied in my election to the highest office in your gift, and while the duties of the position are not onerous, I have undertaken them with a determination to discharge them in such a manner as to reflect credit upon myself, and give you no cause to regret having honoured me with your confidence.

The necessity for such an organization as this becomes more apparent day by day. The extent to which the police of the various cities, towns, and rural districts have to rely upon each other for assistance makes it incumbent upon us to come together at intervals in order that we maw know down lines along which we may cooperate as units of one vast organization in the interests of the public service.

I am probably voicing the sentiments of a considerable proportion of our membership in expressing regret that more of our old and experienced members do not take a more active and aggressive interest in the affairs of the Association. It is from these battle-scarred veterans of the profession that the younger and less experienced members hope to learn, and we are probably not asking too much when we urge them to give us, through the medium of these conventions, the benefit of their experience, and ripe judgment in police matters, which we much need in order that we may the better serve the community in which our respective lots are cast.

The lack of interest in the affairs of the Association by too many of the police governing bodies of the Dominion is to be deplored. Usually those who exact the highest standard of police efficiency are the ones who are content that their municipality should enjoy all the benefits resulting from these meetings at the personal expense of their already underpaid official, and, in some instances, we have reason to believe, in addition to permitting their Chief or High Constable to pay out of their own pockets the expenses incident to membership and attendance, insist on taking from their already meagre holidays the time spent at the convention.

As every municipality in Canada is interested in the efficient and honest administration of the law police board, police committees, and county councils everywhere should make such financial arrangements as would not only secure to their Chief or High Constable membership in the Association, but also insure his attendance at our conventions where he would have the opportunity of meeting the leading police officers of the Dominion and taking part with them in the discussion of matters pertaining to the administration of the criminal law, and the general improvement of the police service in Canada.

These meetings are intended to be educational in their character, and as the municipalities derive the benefit it is reasonable and fair that the municipality rather than the individual officer should bear the expense incident to membership and attendance.

The success of the Association is likely to be in proportion to the interest manifested in its work by police governing bodies throughout the Dominion. An earnest appeal is, therefore made for their sympathy and co-operation, without which all efforts at best, no matter how wisely directed, can be only partially successful.

I commend to your best consideration the work before us. Our time is short and many important matters demand our attention. The temptation to indulge in pleasure and amusement will be strong and the opportunities numerous, but we must be careful to do nothing that would afford ground for a suspicion that these meetings are merely pleasure jaunts. Many of us travel long distances at the expense of our governing bodies and we owe it to them, as we owe it to ourselves, that we give every pos-

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle

To gain the full sport of hawking a heron must not be put up from its feeding-ground, where it is heavy with its meal, and has no time to get its pace on before it is pounced upon by the more active hawk, but it must be aloft, traveling from point to point, probably from the fish-stream to the heronry. Then to catch the bird on passage was the prelude of all good sport. The object to which the Prince had pointed was but a black dot in the southern sky, but his strained eyes had not deceived him, and both Bishop and King agreed that it was indeed a heron, which grew larger every instant as it flew in their direction.

"Whistle him off, sire! Whistle off the gerfalcon!" cried the Bishop.

"Nay, nay, he is overfar. She would fly at check."

"Now, sire, now!" cried the Prince, as the great bird with the breme behind him came sweeping down the sky.

The King gave the shrill whistle, and the well-trained hawk raked out to the right and to the left to make sure which quarry she was to follow. Then, spying the heron, she shot up in a swift ascending curve to meet him.

"Well flown, Margot! Good bird!" cried the King, clapping his hands to encourage the hawk, while the falconers broke into the shrill whoop peculiar to the sport.

Going on her curve, the hawk would soon have crossed the path of the heron; but the latter, seeing the danger in his front and confident in his own great strength of wing and lightness of body, proceeded to mount higher in the air, flying in such small rings that to the spectators it almost seemed as if the bird was going perpendicularly upward.

"He takes the air!" cried the King. "But strong as he flies, he cannot outfly Margot. Bishop, I lay you ten gold pieces to one that the heron is mine."

"I cover your wager, sire," said the Bishop. "I may not take gold so won, and yet I warrant that there is an altar-cloth somewhere in need of repairs."

"You have good store of altar-cloths, Bishop, if all the gold I have seen you win at tables goes to the mending of them," said the King. "Ah! by the rood, rascal, rascal! See how she flies at check!"

The quick eyes of the Bishop had perceived a drift of rooks when on their evening flight to the rookery were passing along the very line which divided the hawk from the heron. A rook is a hard temptation for a hawk to resist. In an instant the inconstant bird had forgotten all about the great heron above her and was circling over the rooks, flying westward with them as she singled out the plumpest for her stoop.

"There is yet time, sire! Shall I cast off her mate?" cried the falconer.

"Or shall I show you, sire, how a peregrine may win where a gerfalcon fails?" said the Bishop. "Ten golden pieces to one upon my bird."

"Done with you, Bishop!" cried the King, his brow dark with vexation. "By the rood! if you were as learned in the fathers as you are in hawks you would win to the throne of Saint Peter! Cast off your peregrine and make your boasting good."

Smaller than the royal gerfalcon, the Bishop's bird was none the less a swift and beautiful creature. From her perch upon his wrist she had watched with fierce, keen eyes the birds in the heaven, mantling herself from time to time in her eagerness. Now when the button was undone and the leash uncast the peregrine dashed off with a whir of her sharp-pointed wings, whizzing round in a great ascending circle which mounted swiftly upward, growing even smaller as she approached that lofty point where, a mere speck in the sky, the heron sought escape from its enemies. Still higher and higher the two birds mounted, while the horsemen, their faces upturned, strained their eyes in their efforts to follow them.

"She rings! She still rings!" cried the Bishop. "She is above him! She has gained her pitch."

"Nay, nay, she is far below," said the King.

"By my soul, my Lord Bishop is right!" cried the Prince. "I believe she is above. See! See! She swoops!"

"She binds! She binds!" cried a dozen voices as the two dots blended suddenly into one.

There could be no doubt that they were falling rapidly. Already they grew larger to the eye. Presently the heron disengaged himself and flapped heavily away, the worse for that deadly embrace, while the peregrine, shaking her plumage, ringed once more so as to get high above the quarry and deal it a second and more fatal blow. The Bishop smiled, for nothing, as it seemed, could hinder his victory.

"Thy gold pieces shall be well spent, sire," said he. "What is lost to the Church is gained by the loser."

But a most unlooked-for chance deprived the Bishop's altar-cloth of its costly mending. The King's gerfalcon having struck down a rook, and finding the sport but tame, bethought herself suddenly of that noble heron, which she still perceived fluttering over Crooksbury Heath. How could she have been so weak as to allow these silly chattering rooks to entice her away from that lordly bird? Even now it was not too late to atone for her mistake. In a great spiral she shot upward until she was over the heron. But what was this? Every fiber of her, from her crest to her deck feathers, quivered with jealousy and rage at the sight of this creature, a mere peregrine, who had dared to come between a royal gerfalcon and her quarry. With one sweep of her great wings she shot up until she was above her rival. The next instant—

"They crab! They crab!" cried the King, with a roar of laughter, following them with his eyes as they bustled down through the air. "Mend thy own altar-cloths, Bishop. Not a groat shall you have from me this journey. Pull them apart, falconer, lest they do each other an injury. And now, masters, let us on, for the sun sinks toward the west."

The two hawks, which had come to the ground interlocked with clutching talons and ruffled plumes, were torn apart and brought back bleeding and panting to their perches, while the heron after its perilous adventure flapped its way heavily onward to settle safely in the heronry of Waverley. The cortege, who had scattered in the excitement of the chase, came together again, and the journey was once more resumed.

A horseman who had been riding toward them across the moor now quickened his pace and closed swiftly upon them. As he came nearer, the King and the Prince cried out joyously and waved their hands in greeting.

"It is good John Chandos!" cried the King. "By the rood, I have missed your merry songs this week or more! Glad I am to see that you have your citole slung to your back. Whence come you then?"

"I come from Tilford, sire, in the hope that I should meet your majesty."

"It was well thought of. Come, ride here between the Prince and me, and we will believe that we are back in France with our war harness on our backs once more. What is your news, Master John?"

Chandos' quaint face quivered with suppressed amusement and his one eye twinkled like a star. "Have you had sport, my liege?"

"Poor sport, John. We flew two hawks on the same heron. They crabbed, and the bird got free. But why do you smile so?"

"Because I hope to show you better sport ere you come to Tilford."

"For the hawk? For the hound?"

"A nobler sport than either."

"Is this a riddle, John? What mean you?"

"Nay, to tell all would be to spoil all. I say again that there is rare sport betwixt here and Tilford, and I beg you, dear lord, to mend your pace that we make the most of the daylight."

Thus adjured, the King set spurs to his horse, and the whole cavalcade cantered over the heath in the direction which Chandos showed. Presently as they came over a slope they saw beneath them a winding river with an old high-backed bridge across it. On the farther side was a village green with a fringe of cottages and one dark manor-house upon the side of the hill.

The King's expectations had been aroused and his face showed his disappointment.

"Is this the sport that you have promised us, Sir John? How can you make good your words?"

"I will make them good, my liege."

"Where then is the sport?"

On the high crown of the bridge a rider in armor was seated, lance in hand, upon a great yellow steed. Chandos touched the King's arm and pointed.

"That is the sport," said he.

CHAPTER IX.

The King looked at the motionless figure, at the little crowd of hushed expectant rustics beyond the bridge, and finally at the face of Chandos, which shone with amusement.

"What is this, John?" he asked.

"You remember Sir Eustace Loring, sire?"

"Indeed I could never forget him nor the manner of his death."

"He was a knight errant in his day."

"That indeed he was—none better have I known."

"So is his son Nigel, as fierce a young war-hawk as ever yearned to use beak and claws; but held fast in the mews up to now. This is his trial fight. There he stands at the bridge-head, as was the wont in our fathers' time, ready to measure himself against all comers."

Of all Englishmen there was no greater knight errant than the King himself, and none so steeped in every quaint usage of chivalry; so that the situation was after his own heart.

"He is not yet a knight?"

"No, sire, only a Squire."

"Then he must bear himself bravely this day if he is to make good what he has done. Is it fitting that a young untried Squire should venture to couch his lance against the best in England?"

"He hath given me his cartel and challenge," said Chandos, drawing a paper from his tunic. "Have I your permission, sire, to issue it?"

"Surely, John, we have no cavalier more versed in the laws of chivalry than yourself. You know this young man, and you are aware how far he is worthy of the high honor which he asks. Let us hear his defiance."

The knights and squires of the escort, most of whom were veterans of the French war, had been gazing with interest and some surprise at the steel-clad figure in front of them. Now at a call from Sir Walter Manny they assembled round the spot where the King and Chandos had halted. Chandos cleared his throat and read from his paper:

"'A tous seigneurs, chevaliers et escuyers,' so it is headed, gentlemen. It is a message from the good Squire Nigel Loring of Tilford, son of Sir Eustace Loring, of honorable memory. Squire Loring awaits you in arms, gentlemen, yonder upon the crown of the old bridge. Thus says he: 'For the great desire that I, a most humble and unworthy Squire, entertain, that I may come to the knowledge of the noble gentlemen who ride with my royal master, I now wait on the Bridge of the Way in the hope that some of them may condescend to do some small deed of arms upon me, or that I may deliver them from any vow which they may have taken. This I say out of no esteem for myself, but solely that I may witness the noble bearing of these famous cavaliers and admire their skill in the handling of arms. Therefore, with the help of Saint George, I will hold the bridge with sharpened lances against any or all who may deign to present themselves while daylight lasts.'"

"What say you to this, gentlemen?" asked the King, looking round with laughing eyes.

"Truly it is issued in very good form," said the Prince. "Neither Clariceux nor Red Dragon nor any herald that ever wore tabard could better it. Did he draw it of his own hand?"

"He hath a grim old grandmother who is one of the ancient breed," said Chandos. "I doubt not that the Dame Ermyntrude hath drawn a challenge or two before now. But hark ye, sire, I would have a word in your ear—and yours too, most noble Prince."

Leading them aside, Chandos whispered some explanations, which ended by them all three bursting into a shout of laughter.

"By the rood! no honorable gentleman should be reduced to such straits," said the King. "It behooves me to look to it. But, how now, gentlemen? This worthy cavalier still waits his answer."

The soldiers had all been buzzing together; but now Walter Manny turned to the King with the result of their counsel.

"If it please your majesty," said he, "we are of opinion that this Squire hath exceeded all bounds in desiring to break a spear with a belted knight ere he has given his proofs. We do him sufficient honor if a Squire ride against him, and with your consent I have chosen my own body-squire, John Widdicombe, to clear the path for us across the bridge."

"What you say, Walter, is right and fair," said the King. "Master Chandos, you will tell our champion yonder what hath been arranged. You will advise him also that it is our royal will that this contest be not fought upon the bridge, since it is very clear that it must end in one or both going over the river, but that he advance to the end of the bridge and fight upon the plain. You will tell him also that a blunted lance is sufficient for such an encounter, but that a hand-stroke or two with sword or mace may well be exchanged, if both horses should keep their saddles. A blast upon Ascott's horn shall be the signal to close."

Such ventures as these where an aspirant for fame would wait for days at a cross-road, a ford, or a bridge, until some worthy antagonist should ride that way, were very common in the old days of adventurous knight errantry, and were still familiar to the minds of all men because the stories of the romancers and the songs of the troveurs were full of such incidents. Their actual occurrence however had become rare. There was the more curiosity, not unmixed with amusement, in the thoughts of the courtiers as they watched Chandos ride down to the bridge and commented upon the somewhat singular figure of the challenger. His build was strange, and so also was his figure, for the limbs were short for so tall a man. His head also was sunk forward as if he were lost in thought or overcome with deep dejection.

"This is surely the Cavalier of the Heavy Heart," said Manny. "What trouble has he, that he should hang his head?"

"Perchance he hath a weak neck," said the King.

"At least he hath no weak voice," the Prince remarked, as Nigel's answer to Chandos came to their ears. "By our lady, he booms like a bittern."

As Chandos rode back again to the King, Nigel exchanged the old ash spear which had been his father's for one of the blunted tournament lances which he took from the hands of a stout archer in attendance. He then rode down to the end of the bridge where a hundred-yard stretch of green-sward lay in front of him. At the same moment the Squire of Sir Walter Manny, who had been hastily armed by his comrades, spurred forward and took up his position.

The King raised his hand; there was a clang from the falconer's horn, and the two riders, with a thrust of their heels and a shake of their bridles, dashed furiously at each other. In the centre the green strip of marshy meadowland, with the water squirting from the galloping hoofs, and the two crouching men, gleaming bright in the evening sun, on one side the half circle of motionless horsemen, some in steel, some in velvet, silent and attentive, dogs, hawks, and horses all turned to stone; on the other the old peaked bridge, the blue lazy river, the group of open-mouthed rustics, and the dark old manor-house with one grim face which peered from the upper window.

A good man was John Widdicombe, but he had met a better that day. Before that yellow whirlwind of a horse and that rider who was welded and riveted to his saddle his knees could not hold their grip. Nigel and Pommers were one flying missile, with all their weight and strength and energy centred on the steady end of the lance. Had Widdicombe been struck by a thunderbolt he could not have flown faster or farther from his saddle. Two full somersaults did he make, his plates clanging like cymbals, ere he lay prone upon his back.

For a moment the King looked grave at that prodigious fall. Then smiling once more as Widdicombe staggered to his feet, he clapped his hands loudly in applause. "A fair course and fairly run!" he cried. "The five scarlet roses bear themselves in peace even as I have seen them in war. How now, my good Walter? Have you another Squire or will you clear a path for us yourself?"

Manny's choleric face had turned darker as he observed the mischance of his representative. He beckoned now to a tall knight, whose gaunt and savage face looked out from his open bassinet as an eagle might from a cage of steel.

"Sir Hubert," said he, "I bear in mind the day when you overbore the Frenchman at Caen. Will you not be our champion now?"

"When I fought the Frenchman, Walter, it was with naked weapons," said the knight sternly. "I am a soldier and I love a soldier's work, but I care not for these tilt-yard tricks which were invented for nothing but to tickle the fancies of foolish women."

"Oh, most ungallant speech!" cried the King. "Had my good consort heard you she would have arraigned you to appear at a Court of Love with a jury of virgins to answer for your sins. But I pray you to take a tilting spear, good Sir Hubert!"

"I had as soon take a peacock's feather, my fair lord; but I will do it, if you ask me. Here, page, hand me one of those sticks, and let me see what I can do."

SEVEN YEARS AN INVALID

Then She Took "Fruit-a-tives" And is Now Well.

Arnprior, Ont., Nov. 27, 1908.
I was an invalid for seven years from fearful Womb Trouble. I had falling womb, with constant pain in the back and front of my body and all down my legs. There was a heavy discharge and this made me weak, sleepless, restless and miserable. Often I was obliged to be in bed for a month at a time. I was treated by several doctors, but their treatment did me no permanent good.

A few months ago, I was persuaded to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes, and from the outset of this treatment I was better, the Constipation was cured, and the discharge lessened. I took, for the paleness, several bottles of the Iron Mixture as recommended in the "Fruit-a-tives" book, but I feel that it was "Fruit-a-tives" alone that cured me.

(Mrs.) Eliza Levesque.

Take Mrs. Levesque's advice. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure yourself. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50; trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A PERILOUS PERCH.

Two Nights on a Ledge of a Lofty Peak in the Tyrol.

In the northeastern corner of the Tyrol is, the last stee ground in Europe, writes W. A. Baillie-Grohman in "Tyrol." The region has many lofty peaks, which make mountain climbing of interest. The author gives one of his adventures on a peak near the village of Kitzbuhel.

On one of these peaks I returned to me many years ago a little adventure which gave me an opportunity of admiring the grand view rather longer than was pleasant.

I was out stalking chamois, and having some unoccupied hours in the middle of the day, when stalking is practically useless, as the beasts are resting, I thought I would ascend one of those pinnacles upon which at that time few human beings, I suppose, had ever set foot.

The very last bit was a smooth faced rock not more than twelve feet high, but absolutely unclimbable if unaided by rope or another man upon whose shoulders one could get and so obtain a hand grip of the top and thus draw oneself up. As I was alone I had recourse to a short length of rope I had in my rucksack. Making a slip noose, I threw it upward till it gripped some projection. Then I drew myself up.

While looking about me an unfortunate movement of my legs, which were dangling over the brink as I sat, caused the rope to slip and fall down to the small ledge on which I had stood when flinging it upward. This ledge or band of rock was uncomfortably narrow, not wider than thirty inches, and the abyss below was a perpendicular wall four or five church steeples in depth.

At first it did not seem such a serious fix to be in. By letting myself drop to the ledge, my extended arms gripping the top, the distance between the soles of my feet and the ledge was not more than four feet or so—nothing to speak of if that yawning gulf had not been there and I had had boots on my feet. But, having taken these off and left them below, together with my coat and rifle, I should have to drop on to sharp rocks barefooted and hence would be very sot to lose my balance.

The more I considered the position the more I funked that drop, and, to make a long story short, I stayed on that pinnacle two nights, until the morning of the third day, before hunger drove me to risk the drop, which I did in safety.

How I got down the remainder of that descent, "shinning" down chimneys and creeping along narrow edges, was a mystery to me afterward, for I was faint with hunger and my knees trembled and shook under me. When I reached the first habitation where I happened to be known the peasant woman at the door hardly recognized me.

Ebony.

Ebony was esteemed as an article of luxury by the ancients. In India it was employed by kings for scepters and images and, as it was supposed to annul the power of poisons, was often made into drinking cups.

The Rose.

The rose was an emblem of immortality among the Syrians, and the Chinese planted it over graves.

Robert Burns on Good Wifeship.

Robert Burns, the poet, divided the scale of good wifeship into ten parts—good nature, 4; good sense, 2; wit, 1; personal charms, 1. The remaining two degrees covered fortune, education, family, blood.

A POWERFUL AND EFFECTIVE CURE

For Catarrh, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Asthma.

Soothing Balsams Are Carried to the Sore, Congested Membranes — Cure Quickly and Completely.

Diseases of the breathing organs are, as you know, excited by germs so minute that only the microscope can reveal them; they are lodged in the tissues, develop there, and cause all the trouble. That is how consumption starts.

If the cause of the disease can be carried by air, why not the remedy? This conclusion lies at the root of the Catarrhozone treatment. The instrument through which you breathe fragrant, healing Catarrhozone splits up into minute particles this invaluable healing and curative agent, thereby enabling the air to carry it to the remotest ramifications of the breathing organs, and diffuses itself over their entire surfaces.

CATARRHOZONE ALWAYS CURES.

It would be absolutely impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without carrying this liquid to the remotest parts of the breathing apparatus. Upon healthy tissue it has no action, but upon diseased tissue and upon the micro-organisms which infect diseased tissues its action is so wonderfully curative that the disease is completely abolished. Then the tissue heals.

EARLY TREATMENT IS WISE.

Catarrhozone is an ideal remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. If you have catarrh, or bronchitis, or asthma, all are equally curable by Catarrhozone. These diseases are all modifications of an inflammatory condition of the lining membranes of the throat and nasal passages. Under these conditions we call it catarrh. When it extends to the bronchial tubes, we call it bronchitis. The condition is the same, the causes which produce the diseases are identical, and the remedy, Catarrhozone, acts equally promptly and efficiently upon the different forms of this disease. Your case is curable. Get Catarrhozone to-day; two months' treatment (guaranteed) price $1; small size 50c. Sold by all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

TOM DAVIS' STORY.

Senator From Saskatchewan Has a Patent Campaign Yarn.

"Whenever I think of that story I laugh," said the Hon. Jacques Bureau recently in a gathering at the House of Commons. The Solicitor-General laughs a great deal; his merriment, doubtless, being inspired by a multiplicity of things, of which Tom Davis' patented story is just one. "Oh, Tom will tell it," he said with a shrug. "He has the copyright, and I won't infringe."

"Tom" Davis, by the way, is the honorable Senator from Saskatchewan. "Yes. I've told it a good many times," he admitted gracefully.

"Is that the one about the coon?" queried Mr. J. G. Turriff, who was also in the circle, and he declared that he had told it thirteen times against R. L. Richardson, when the latter was running as an Independent.

Well, this is the tale as told by Senator Davis:

A traveler got stranded in a town one day, with no train out for 24 hours. So he thought he'd go off and have a hunt. He borrowed a gun and away he tramped to the bush.

Luck was bad. He hunted and he hunted and he hunted, and all he got was one small coon. He tramped home with his one trophy, and when he got near the town it occurred to him that the people would laugh when they saw him marching in with his lone victim.

Just on the outskirts he met three little boys on their way home from school. The urchins grinned when they saw the coon, and the hunter at once offered it to them, "but," said he, "I'll have to ask you some questions first, to see which will get it."

"Now, you on the right," he said, "I want to know what politics you are."

"I'm a Grit," said the youngster.

"Why?" asked the man.

"Well," explained the boy, "my father and all my folks are Grits."

"Good," commented the hunter, "and what are you?" pointing an inquisitorial finger at the urchin on the left.

"I'm a Tory."

"You are? Why?"

"'Cause dad is."

"Good again," admitted the man. Then, to the little fellow in the centre, "and what are you, my lad?"

The child hesitated, his eyes bulging. "Sir-r-r," he declared. "I'm anything—anything for that coon."

Such is at least one view of political "independence."

A Strange Story, But True.

Clergymen sometimes have strange experiences in their capacity as "joiners."

A young woman called on a Church of England minister in an Ontario town a short time ago and said she wished to arrange to be married that evening.

"What is the groom's name?" asked the minister.

"I don't know yet," was the reply.

"Don't know! What do you mean?"

"Oh, just that I haven't made up my mind which of two young men I will take."

"Isn't that rather strange? Hadn't you better leave the arrangements for the wedding till you have decided? You'll have to get a license, you know, and there isn't long to make up your mind."

"Oh, no! There's no need. I'll be here to-night, all right, with the license and everything. It's just this way. I want to marry and have a home of my own. A lot of young fellows want me. But I've decided to take one of two. I'll make up my mind which to take, and be round to-night."

Invested In Canada.

The late Rev. R. R. Maurice, Roman Catholic priest of the County of Flint, Wales, left an estate of $79,605, the largest part of which consists of bank and other stocks in Ontario. These are: 128 shares Standard Bank, $13,760; 62 shares Bank of Hamilton, $11,780; 133 shares Dominion Bank, $14,363; 24 shares Bank of Commerce, $1,920; 230 shares Can. Perm. Mortgage Corporation, $2,806; 20 shares Toronto Mortgage Co., $1,050; 45 shares Consumers' Gas, $4,275; total stocks and shares, $49,955. Cash in Dominion Bank, $1,408. In the United States there are assets amounting to $4,212. The estate in England and Wales is valued at $24,089.

Waiting Her Chance.

"But," pleads the ardent young millionaire, who has secured the license to marry the beautiful chorus girl, "why should we postpone our marriage for two weeks? We can just as well run around to the minister, have the ceremony performed and start on our honey"—

"It looks all right from where you sit," she interrupts him, "but I wouldn't even get a look-in for press notices if I got married this week, while all those grand opera stars are taking up the space. Pet, the best wedding notice we'd get would be a line in the vital statistics."—Chicago Post.

Rival Stock Exchanges.

In 1835 there were two stock exchanges in New York. One was the competitor of the old board. They occupied the same building in William street. The panic of 1837 disorganized the competitive board, and in 1848 it had entirely disappeared, and most of those who had been in the rival board became members of the old board.

Every Price Should Have a Reason.

It must be remembered always that it is not the price of an article which is important, but the reason for the price.

The bankrupt stock, the fire sale, the manufacturer's remnants, the annual clearance, the removal sale, the dissolution of partnership sale—what are these and many more but arguments for the price? And note this one point—that without the argument the price is powerless. Reduce fur lined overcoats from $100 to $60 and your liberal discount attracts little attention. Why? Because there is no reasonable explanation for the reduction. Why should you present overcoats to the public? But announce that owing to an expiration of your lease and the imperative command that you vacate your present store within two weeks you will reduce the price of your fur lined overcoats from $100 to $60 and you may sell easily all you have to offer. Instinctively the public sees the whole picture—the proprietor's anxiety, the inevitable removal, the lessening days, the final sacrifice and the store full of eager buyers, quick to seize such an opportunity. This is only half the reduction previously considered. But one is business without imagination, and the other is business with it.—Lorin F. Deland in Atlantic.

The Characteristic National Meal.

It is not only in Scotland that breakfast is the characteristic national meal. Travel where you may, the first meal of the day is the one that strikes the foreign note, luncheon and dinner having gradually absorbed cosmopolitan qualities that are not even confined to hotels. But you never feel so much of an Englishman as when Switzerland gives you rolls and butter and honey and nothing more with your coffee or when France makes this into one exquisite crumbling "croissant," with an inch or two from a yard long loaf, or when Denmark adds cream instead of milk to the coffee and a dangerous piece of pastry to the black bread and round white roll. Yet our English breakfast became an institution only in the eighteenth century. Before that only royalty breakfasted off meat, bread and cheese and ale. The commoner, such as Pepys, took merely a morning draft of buttered ale.—London Chronicle.

A Compromise.

A struggling art student, a native of Pont Aven, went to Paris to study and occasionally visited an uncle there, an elderly shoemaker on the Rue Vaugirard. The shoemaker was to be counted on for a square meal and sometimes even for a small loan. One morning the uncle welcomed the student far more warmly than was his habit.

"Just in time," he said, rubbing his hands. "The kitchen door wants painting, and I was about to give the job to the commissionnaire for 3 francs. But you can have it now. I'll pay you $5."

The student flushed and bit his lip. Hard up as he was, he could not so degrade his art as to paint a kitchen door. Yet he needed money badly.

"Uncle," he said, smiling as a happy thought came to him, "I'll tell you what to do. Let the commissionnaire paint the door for 3 francs, as you had intended, and give me the 2 francs difference."

Why Men Cooks Seldom Smoke.

"Men cooks make a mistake to smoke. Men cooks that smoke have a hard time to get work."

"Why so?" inquired a woman cook.

"Because you don't like your cook to bend over the cooking with a cigar in his mouth. It doesn't look neat when you go down into the kitchen to see him finger the wet stub of a cigarette and then plunge his hands into the puff paste. Sometimes, in fact, if you have a man cook that smokes you will find ashes on the steak. I know a corporation lawyer who once found a cigar end in the soup. Do you think he'd ever employ after that a smoking cook?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The DAY of THE DUEL

THE MISTRESS OF FATE

AS THE SMOKE LIFTED CILLEY WAS SEEN TO STAGGER.

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

URE tradition and practice which led men to submit their differences to personal combat on the field of honor, so called, have had their supporters and their opponents since the days of Philip the Bel, who first made dueling an institution in 1306. Some have held that where certain injuries for which legal redress is not provided are admitted as justifying duels the conduct of man to man is more surely contrived with a nice regard to individual rights. Others have believed, on the contrary, that dueling gives the brave and professional fighter a free swing for his brutality and immunity for his insults. The graver wrong which legislators the world over have seen in such contests is the offence against society involved in private and deadly adjustment of disputes.

In America the settlement of affairs of honor in former duels began with the Revolution and for a hundred years the code duello exercised a sinister influence upon national life. The first half of the last century saw dueling at its height, particularly in the South, and, after the gold rush, in California. Up to 1850 few of the States had passed stringent measures against it, though at no time was it approved by the weight of public sentiment. At present every State and Territory has rigid provisions suppressing duels and since the early '80's there have been few such encounters.

The history of the famous American duels has been gathered from authentic and accurate sources. Subjoined is the story of the fatal meeting between Representative Cilley, of Maine, and Representative Graves, of Kentucky. The touch of romance is not based upon the records, though the characters and the description of the duel itself are drawn from existing documents.

POLITICAL thunderings found but a slight echo in the little Maine town where the young man and the young woman played the age-old game. Within the horizon of their lives was scarce a shadow, though the kin of both moved where clouds gathered most darkly. They were content if their idyl might find its quiet growth from day to day where love and happiness nourished it.

"I find your uncle has been grumbling again at the pricks of my cousin's pen," said Charles Davis one afternoon. The handsome lawyer sat upon a lower step, where he could look up at her in a manner distinctly for summer courtship. Margaret Bell's dark eyes played upon his as she answered.

"[illegible] that figure somewhat you would make [illegible]," she said. "Your cousin reminds me of nothing so much as a tiny dancing insect—with a [illegible] but merely a thing to be waved [illegible]

"Seriously, [illegible] that's a little hard on a man of the [illegible] Watson Webb. He's a pretty big [illegible] in New York. Quite overtops your uncle, I [illegible]. I doubt if there are really twenty persons in the metropolis who could tell offhand whether Jonathan Cilley is Representative from Maine or from Florida, but every one knows the editor of the Courier and Enquirer."

"Another proof of your provincialism down there," retorted the girl. "There's no one in New England so wholly lacking in true perspective. Uncle is a natural [illegible]. We expect to see him Senator soon, and then—who knows? He is a big man. But that fussy, annoying editor who tries to manufacture an importance by rapping every one over the knuckles——. You just needn't ask him to the wedding," she flashed out.

[illegible] her adorable in her simulation of [illegible] cousin, and, as always in discussion, [illegible] yielded the opposition he was [illegible] sweet compensation.

[illegible] Approaching an Issue.

"[illegible] these two quarrelsome relatives of [illegible] in bringing their affair to an issue," [illegible] gloomily a moment later. "At least [illegible] given intimation that he will answer [illegible] in Congress. It will stir things up if he does."

"[illegible] hurried through those insulting criticisms of [illegible] he printed and indorsed in his paper," [illegible] interposed quickly.

"I admit it freely," answered Davis. "My cousin said some very biting things, and the unfortunate part of it is that he gave them a bitter personal tinge. I have no sympathy with what he said. How do your people regard it?"

"They [illegible] it shameful," she said decidedly.

He nodded.

"They would, of course. I never saw a family with such a pronounced clan feeling as your own. It's admirable, I suppose," he added hastily, "but somehow it seems a little out of date. Each one of them seems to think that his or her own honor is personally attainted by anything reflecting in the slightest upon a relative."

"If you find us so very savage, sir," she began severely, but her mood changed on the second and she sprang to the walk.

"Come, I can see no excuse in this tiresome business for missing a glorious day, and your vacation ending this week. Betty can beat that pony of yours to the lake. I'll show you the difference between a thoroughbred and a cold blood."

Matthias Bell watched the two with a frown as they tore past in a cloud of dust down the road a few minutes later. He turned from the window to his wife, who sat at her sewing within.

"When is Margaret to be married?" he asked abruptly.

"Some time early in March," answered the plain, sombre faced little woman.

"Have you heard from your brother by to-day's mail?"

"Yes; he says he [illegible] working on his answer to Webb."

"I wish this engagement had not been made so hurriedly," said Bell, pacing uneasily up and down the apartment. "People are talking already. The family name has been very closely touched by this scribbler's infamous statements, and here is Margaret affianced to the scandal monger's own cousin. I don't like it."

"Charles isn't really his cousin," suggested Mrs. Bell, timidly, looking up from her work.

"That makes no difference," was the curt answer. "He is of the tribe and he lives with Webb in New York. However," he added after a pause, "they are wrapped up in each other and I suppose it must go on."

The House was in session. One of the gentlemen from Alabama held the floor with a fulsome speech in favor of a local waterway project to which no one listened save the clerks. There was a light attendance and the Speaker rapped repeatedly to check the buzz of conversation that arose from various parts of the room. Out in the corridor members were grouped and talking with less restraint. The one topic of conversation was the arrival in Washington of Colonel Webb, of the New York Courier and Enquirer, following the dignified but vigorous speech directed against him by Representative Cilley, of Maine, upon the floor of the House eight days before.

The original cause of the affair was now many months old. A series of anonymous articles had appeared in Webb's paper signed "A Spy in Washington," and violently attacking certain Representatives for alleged corruption. Through the thin veil thrown about the identity of those attacked the name of Cilley had been plainly discernible. Colonel Webb had supported the articles in editorial comment. The middle aged Representative from Maine had consulted his leisure in replying, but when he had finally spoken it had been to some purpose. Webb's presence in the capital was expected to open a new phase of the matter.

Graves' Grim Mission.

Through the chatting throng moved the soldierly figure of William C. Graves, member of Congress from Kentucky. He stopped for no salutations, but bore on past the doorkeeper and into the House. Noting the position of Cilley, who was occupied with correspondence at his desk, he made his way to that side of the chamber and halted with stiff and ceremonious pose in the aisle. Cilley looked up.

The men had but slight acquaintance. Cilley greeted the member from Kentucky courteously. Graves bowed formally. He held a small, square sheet of paper in his hand.

"I am the authorized bearer of a communication to you from Colonel James Watson Webb," he announced.

Cilley's glance narrowed.

"With full respect to you, Mr. Graves," he said, "I can have no dealings at this time with Colonel Webb."

"I am under the necessity of informing you, sir, that this is a matter closely involving your honor," said Graves with precise utterance.

"I must still refuse to receive it," was the quiet reply.

"If you persist I can only view your action as a personal slur upon me as the representative of Colonel Webb," said Graves. "I demand a reason for your refusal which will fully exonerate me from all responsibility growing out of the affair."

"I reiterate my statement, Mr. Graves, that I hold you in highest respect and intend no slight upon you personally. Neither do I mean to intimate to you anything that might reflect upon the gentleman you come from. But I am sitting here this moment as a servant of the people of Maine, and I must again refuse to accept the message you bear. I cannot give other reason for my refusal without retracting remarks which I made in my official capacity."

Graves bowed again.

"A friend of mine will wait upon you this evening, Mr. Cilley," he said, and took his departure as solemnly and stiffly as he had come.

Discussing the Challenge.

It was an open secret next day about the capital among those who knew things that Graves, of Kentucky, had challenged Cilley, of Maine, under the procedure of the code duello, and that the challenge had been accepted. The conversation in the chamber had been overheard and the matter had been followed. Representative George W. Jones, of Tennessee, had consented to act as second for Mr. Cilley, and Henry A. Wise, member of Congress from Virginia, for Mr. Graves. The story of Cilley's refusal to accept the cartel from Webb was also known, and there was a division of opinion in regard to his action. The majority inclined to the belief that he had conducted himself in a proper manner and that Graves had been a shade too punctilious in regarding his honor as impugned. It was widely recognized, however, that under the code there was now no opportunity for withdrawal by either party.

Mr. Cilley, as the challenged, had the choice of weapons, and through his second announced that he would fight with rifles. The arrangements fixed the place of meeting as a field a short distance from Washington on the road to Marlborough and over the Maryland border. The time set was two days off.

On the evening before the duel a carriage drove up to the house occupied by Cilley and a young woman hurried to the door. She was followed more slowly by an older woman. Margaret Bell burst in upon her uncle as he sat in his study. Completely surprised by the visit, he extended a warm greeting to her and to her mother, who had accompanied her. The young woman was pale and excited.

"This is an unexpected pleasure, my dears," he said. "Is Mathias with you?"

"No, uncle," answered the girl, taking the command of the situation from her mother. "We were in New York, and when I heard that Colonel Webb had started here I could not stay. Is it true, uncle, that you are to fight?"

"It is true," said Cilley gravely, "but not with Colonel Webb."

There was a flash of momentary relief in the girl's eyes, though she tried to suppress it. He noted the change but returned not a flicker of resentment. She studied his face and read instinctively that the words did not hold the hope she had thought for.

"Is it—is it part of the same quarrel?"

"Yes."

"Uncle," she cried, impulsively catching his sleeve, "you cannot, must not go on with this thing. I will make no pretence of the depth of my interest in it. You know how it reaches me. But think again how dear you are to us, to me, aside from my own selfish affair. Mother, speak to him!"

The plain, sombre face did not alter its expression.

"It is quite useless, my child," said Mrs. Bell. "As I told you at the first, these are not matters in which we may meddle. She would come, Jonathan, and as long as I am with her there is no harm. You will do as you think best, of course, and if you are to run the risk it is as well that we should be here."

Cilley nodded as he gathered Margaret to him with an affectionate gesture.

"Listen, uncle," she said softly, looking up at him with pleading. "Charles and I are to be married next week. If I beg for myself I also speak for you and for all who love you. Think what it all means."

He put her aside and passed his hand over his forehead with a tired gesture.

Must Go Forward.

"I know what it means, child, he said, "as well as you can. But it must go forward to-morrow afternoon. Under the conception of honor which we have built up there is no escape for me. I have never been a coward, and yet I freely admit that the affair is repugnant. Still, I could not live to be stigmatised as a poltroon. I shall leave the warmest plea I can make to your father in the event of a fatal result to me that he disregard the thin connection of Charles Davis with this unfortunate incident. He has a painfully strict sense of family pride, but I hope to reach it for your sake. As to the young man you are to marry, I approve of him unreservedly. You can count upon my aid so far as I can render it."

The instinctive nobility with which he put aside his own interest to give her what courage and assistance he might in her slighter anxieties touched her deeply. In a revulsion of feeling she saw the strength of the man and all else was dwarfed beside it. Her face lit with a strange fire, holding a hint of the primitive woman.

"I hope you kill him, uncle," she cried passionately. "Whoever he is he is in the wrong. Shoot straight and quick and wipe out this obstacle to our happiness."

She swept the room with her glance. In the corner by the hearth stood a rifle. In a step and before Cilley could interfere she had caught it up. Standing there a vibrant, beautiful figure, head erect, thrilling and tense with emotion, she might have served as the image of aroused imperious and militant womanhood put upon the defence of home, love and family. It was but an impulsive gesture, and without carrying her act to absurdity or excess she held the weapon against her breast a moment and returned it to its place.

The movement was careless and the rifle slipped, falling to the hearth with a clatter. Cilley, who had been too surprised to check the girl's play with the weapon, sprang to recover it in alarm.

"Good heaven, Margaret!" he exclaimed. "It is loaded!" Her mother joined in reproach for her recklessness, and he gently restored the firearm to its upright position.

The incident quieted the girl.

"It was childish and I am sorry," she said contritely. "But I did not think. We will not trouble you further. Sleep well. I shall never cease to think of you and to pray until it is over."

Hiding their tears until they had reached the carriage again, the two women left the man to his lonely night of preparation.

The principals and seconds to the affair reached the appointed meeting place next afternoon about three o'clock. Each party was accompanied by two other Representatives and by a surgeon. All arrangements were made with the utmost care and attention to detail. The ground was marked out at a level spot. The contestants were to stand eighty yards apart. Mr. Cilley was composed, but showed the effects of a restless night. He answered all questions in a firm voice. Mr. Graves was ill at ease and moved nervously about at his end of the ground during the preliminaries, tugging at his mustache.

All formalities having been gone through with, the others stood aside and Cilley and Graves were left face to face, with rifles at elbow rest and muzzles lowered toward the ground. At the word of command both swung quickly into position.

Cilley, an expert with his weapon, drew his trigger first. He remained with the rifle at his shoulder until Graves had fired, about two seconds later. Each lowered his arm and looked across at the other. Both had missed.

Representative Jones interposed with the suggestion that the honor and courage of the gentlemen concerned had been fully satisfied and established. He pointed out, with words of praise for both sides, that Cilley and Graves were not personal enemies nor was their dispute of a kind that must be fought to the end, as in the case of implacable foes. Cilley received this speech in dignified manner.

"I have ever entertained for Mr. Graves the highest respect and most kindly feelings," he said.

But Graves and his second, Wise, took an opposite opinion. They declined to meet the view taken by Jones. In this they were entirely within the proscriptions of the code duello, as strictly interpreted, a fact which Jones readily admitted. The weapons having been reloaded the principals resumed their respective stations.

Missed Again.

Again the word was given and again Cilley's shot preceded that of his opponent by a breath. Staring across at each other through the smoke they could see that the bullets had gone wide once more. Graves fidgeted in ill humor, while Cilley showed a trace of uneasiness. His nerve was sound and he was not used to missing his mark. Jones stepped forward with another suggestion that differences could now be adjusted. But Graves persisted and demanded another exchange. Cilley assented and for the third time there was the interval of silence, the sharp word and the two reports.

As the smoke lifted Cilley was seen to stagger. He dropped his rifle, lifted his hand to his breast and beckoned to Jones.

"I am shot!" he gasped.

Pressing both hands to his wound in agony, he fell before aid could reach him. For three minutes his surgeon and second worked over him. Graves meanwhile remained in his place, but finally walked forward and expressed vaguely a desire to be of some assistance.

"My friend is dead, sir," was the quiet reply of Jones.

The duel caused a furor of excitement in Washington and there was considerable feeling against both Webb and Graves. The affair took place on February 24. Two days later Mr. Cilley's death was announced in both houses of Congress. Senator Williams, of Maine, in addressing the Senate on that occasion rehearsed the quarrel from its inception. He recalled that Graves demanded an explanation of Cilley's refusal to accept Webb's cartel "on grounds which would exonerate Mr. Graves from all responsibility growing out of the affair." This, he pointed out, Cilley could not do without an admission that he had slandered Webb. In conclusion Senator Williams declared that "he accepted the call because the act was indispensable to avoid disgrace to himself, his family and his constituents."

The part of Graves in the matter was regarded as reprehensible by many. Having made the grievance of another his own he had pressed it with venom, and that against a fellow Representative whose alleged offence had been to defend that body from an anonymous attack. A committee of seven members of the House was appointed to investigate the duel and its causes. This they did fully, making a comprehensive report.

They found that Graves had violated the privileges of the House in challenging a member within its precincts, and recommended that he be dismissed therefrom; that Wise had insisted that the fight go on while having no full knowledge of the circumstances, and that he should be visited by the censure of the House; that Jones be censured for acting as second. As to Colonel Webb, while entertaining no doubt that he had been guilty of a breach of the privileges of the House, the committee reported that "the House will consult its own dignity and the public interest by bestowing upon him no further notice."

Word of the fatal event was brought to Margaret Bell, her mother and her father, who had joined them, within a few hours after its occurrence. The girl knew whom her father regarded as the real cause of his brother-in-law's death, and she knew that there would be no appeal from the stern order he issued to her when the news came. She did not rebel against it, stricken to the heart as she was, for Mathias Bell was not the sole custodian of the family honor, and the blood of Jonathan Cilley was in her, though not in her father. When Charles Davis a week later sought them out and made a desperate attempt to see her it was her own hand that wrote the refusal to his frantic note.

Some months later one of the four Representatives who had been unattached witnesses to the duel called another side and asked him to walk to his rooms. There behind locked doors he brought out a rifle.

"This belonged to poor Cilley," he said. "Do you remember when he cast it aside?"

"Yes," answered the second Representative.

"Did you notice how it fell?"

"Now that you speak of it I remember seeing it drop from his hand, the butt striking the ground."

"And the ground was soft?"

"Yes."

"Well, look here."

He showed the sights to the weapon. They were of the adjustable kind, and on close examination it was evident that they had been slightly moved from the true. One side of them showed roughly bruised, as by a blow from a stone.

"I am going to destroy this," said the first Representative slowly. "If word of it should become current some one would be killed. But remember, for your own private information, that when Cilley fought with this gun every bullet went two feet wide of the mark when he drew a true bead."

WOMEN OF NOTE.

Mrs. T. P. O'Connor's visit to this country is in the interest of Irish industries.

Mrs. Taft's name heads the roll of honorary members of the Daughters of Ohio. She was elected at a recent meeting of the society which was held in New York.

Miss Catharine Regina Seabury, for some years the head of St. Agnes' school at Albany, is spoken of as the successor of Miss Agnes Irwin as dean of Radcliffe college.

Queen Wilhelmina, who has recently become a convert to perfumes, prefers the soft, uncertain French odors, and she uses them in a French way. She scents each article of clothing strongly, but with a different odor.

Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, instructor in the department of chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is to give a course of lectures at the University of California the coming summer on "Household Economics."

Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull, widow of Dr. William T. Bull, has presented to the New York Academy of Medicine a bronze bust of her husband, which was Dr. Bull's last gift to her before he died. She gives it to the academy in his son's name.

Little Miss Emily Boynton of Colorado, who is only thirteen years old, has a record as a mountain climber. She recently ascended Long's peak, commonly called the American Matterhorn, which is 14,271 feet high, scorning the aid of a guide, even at the dangerous points. The feat would be difficult for a man.

Countess von Boos Farrar, a niece of Archdeacon Farrar, is giving her whole time to New York's sick and needy. She has lately secured seventy-five acres at Spring Valley, N. Y., and will build there a home for children of criminals, not only to care for the waifs, but to make a thorough test of the theory of inherited crime. Criminologists are said to be much interested in the results of the venture.

A Thought For Today.

So few of us are content with the little pleasures. If we were there would be much more happiness in the world and far less discontent. But we scorn the little things which might interest and amuse us and fret because we can't have the big ones.

Little pleasures are scarcely worth telling our friends about. Perhaps that is why we think so little of them.

CORNS CURED IN 24 HOURS

You can painlessly remove any corn, either hard, soft or bleeding, by applying Putnam's Corn Extractor. It never burns, leaves no scar, contains no acids; is harmless because composed only of healing gums and balms. Fifty years in use. Cure guaranteed. Sold by all druggists, 25c. bottles. # A CALL FOR SERVICE

DR GRENFELL.

Under the above heading Dr. Grenfell, the backbone of the Labrador Deep Sea Mission, contributes a letter to the magazine, "Among the Deep Sea Fishers," the organ of the work. It should make good Sunday reading and may touch the quick more effectually than many of tomorrow's sermons.

"I cannot refrain from writing you a few lines in reference to the great loss the fishermen of the North Sea and the Scottish Coast have sustained in the death of their devoted servant, Miss Catherine Brace Little.

I remember her well when she lived at Bath, before she decided to devote her life and talents to work for Christ among fishermen. I remember her speaking about the return a life wholly devoted to the service of Christ had to offer, and comparing it with even the average life of ease a person with an independent income and a good social position can command. I remember, with infinite satisfaction, hearing she had deliberately decided to choose such a lot in life as living among fishermen involved, and of her willingness to accept all its strong contrasts with the environment to which she had been accustomed, solely for a return in the "joy of service."

The question I want to ask is, "Do those who read this really think she made a wise choice?" Or, to put it in another way: "Is it really worth while to exchange a life that affords all the material comforts and pleasures that money and social position can offer for a life for Christ's sake among fishermen?" It is either a wise choice, or a foolish one. Which it is?

What would Jesus do? He certainly loved to be among fishermen, and counted it no loss at all to be among poor surroundings.

A few days ago I was on the top of a high mountain in California, at the famous Lick Observatory. My Labrador friend, the astronomer, was showing me the marvellous photographs of whirling masses of burning gas which, in various regions of space are cooling down enough to form a thin crust on the surface. The most casual observer can see there the new world outlined and the thin crust of glowing solid matter, forming the surface of a globe, on which, as it cools down, imagination can picture human beings spending their so-called "lives."

A few days later I was at the great university of Leland Stanford, near San Francisco. On all sides were the evidences of how thin a crust we play our life drama out upon. Here, ruined by the recent cracking of the rim that covers the still blazing central section of this globe, were the ruins of buildings erected without regard to expense only a brief year or so ago by the puny hand of man. The great church lay in ruins, its costly mosaics strewn broadcast amongst the debris. The naked skeleton of steel that yesterday was the great gymnasium, had only a few broken pieces of masonry clinging among its topmost embrasures The great entry arch at the head of the avenue of palms was gone. The very statues had fallen from their pedestals, as if to testify how uncertain is the time of crossing from the portal of birth till we leave again through that of death.

Our friend has passed through that second gate; her opportunities to make her stay on earth worth while finished as it closed upon her. Just so—one by one—alone, we must also pass thriugh it.

What shall you and I wish to be carrying with us as we approach its portals? To those who have lived for self, I fear they will seem all the gloomier because they are carrying a hoard of money unspent, a heap of talents unused, a volume of mere preeminence in twentieth century science, for here these must be finally left behind for ever.

There will be an irony in having only a record of rich dinners eaten, of costly clothing worn, of social rank attained, of selfish animal passions indulged. All these loom large-and important in the eye of youth—of the natural man setting out on life's journey. I fancy we shall then see them assume quite a different aspect, compared with a record of things done for Him, because they were done for His children.

For whatever we think of as existing after the body's death, this, at least, we know: that nothing but our living souls—the real you and I—bearing with us our sorry records, can pass those portals that make no allowances for earthly greatness.

Last Easter as I sat facing death, hour after hour, on a floating piece of ice, far out in the Atlantic ocean, my mind turned back to the great meeting which I had attended twenty years previously in the slums of East London. I remembered how, after Mr. Moody's call for men to follow Christ, I had hesitated what I should do with my life—should it be Christ I would follow—or should it be self? It seemed, there on the ice, that there could be for me at most a few more hours of life on earth, and there stood out clear before my eyes all that had hung in the balances for me as I had hesitated which it should be—Christ or self!

I remembered with joy how, after the decision, I had set out to find a field for service among the ragged boys of Ratcliffe Highway in Whitechapel, near to the London Hospital; and later how, on leaving Oxford, I had chosen a mission life among fishermen, as offering a field for still larger service. There came back to my memory the sailing of the Mission ship for the Labrador coast, and the exchange from the home mission work, with life in England, and I could see again the farewell to those I loved best on earth, as they slowly disappeared from sight, while the great steamer bore me for the last time from the familiar landing stage at Liverpool, close to the old home of my boyhood. As far as I could tell, it was joy, and joy only, absolutely free of any fear which filled my mind, that I had at least made the choice, that as for me I would try to follow in the footsteps of Jesus Christ.

It has been, of course, I knew only too well, a very "far-off" following. But I saw no reason, faltering though my footsteps had been, to wish I had chosen the pursuit of things that now so soon could be no longer of any value to me.

If there was one regret, it was that I had not walked far closer to Him, who now again seemed to be very close to me, there alone in that endless ice field, just as He has seemed at times in the sick rooms, when the burdens of carrying other men's lives had seemed more than I could bear alone.

How will it be with me—and with you, my reader—when we face, as shortly each one of us shall alone, that great grim gateway through which humanity is ever streaming?

The sand in the hour-glass of time allotted to you and me is ceaselessly running out. Each hour that goes by lessens the opportunity for these services to His brethren, and so to Him, which one day we shall have such joy in having rendered. Can we afford to let these chances go by—to sell our birthright of the service of sons of God, for the mess of pottage that eating, drinking, empty gaiety, or society conventionalities, can offer in their stead?

The service of the fishermen, amongst whom the Christ Himself loved to dwell, and for whose sake He was willing to be made poor, is calling for a gap to be filled. Some one, may more than one, is needed, of whom no man can say, "they are there for what they can get."

There are to-day here in Labrador in just that voluntary service of our fisherfolk, both men and women, who come each year at their own expense—our cousins from the United States—and help us. They know that the kingdom of God is not bounded by man-made divisions, or by parallels of earthly latitude. Surely God can see many holding back, whom He has plentifully endowed with all the talents needed for just this work. There will be no medals in this service—few plaudits of the crowd. There may be no return in money. Yet there is that which is really of greater value to soul—that is, to "you" and "me."

Miss Little's place—so lovingly filled—dies vacant. Who in this England of ours will, for the sake of the Christ, bring of the talents God has given them, talents of love, of strength, and of money, that they may render Him service, who gave so generously?

The thought of the "buried talent," which brought no returns to the Great Master, is vividly in my mind as I lay down my pen. There are so many talents that need unwrapping from the napkin, and then only need using to be increased. Believe me, there is a joy to be had in return, which nothing else can give—the joy of our Master, a joy that fadeth not away.

If You Are Fat and Hot Read This Article

There is no necessity of fat people suffering as they do. Most fat people are so good-natured they do not care how they look or how they get along during the hot weather. As a matter of fact there is a natural fat reducer that in the past several years has been demonstrating that it will reduce fat and not tear down the body or leave big, flabby rolls of skin and wrinkles. This method is the famous Marmola prescription, which is now prepared in tablet form to meet the demands of fat people in the summer and to enable them at all times to take their fat reducer after each meal. One of these little tablets taken after a meal turns that meal into good food for the blood and stops all fat-producing elements from going into the system. Marmola Tablets has an army of men and women who testify to its success, and you would tire reading what they say of its triumphs. Marmola Tablets not only stop producing fat in the body but they reduce flesh at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless and do nothing but assist nature to give to the body the nuoriahment it requires. They are sold at all drug stores, price 75 cents, or you may write The Marmola Company, Dept. 833, Detroit, Mich.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

August 1st, 1909.

Close of Paul's Missionary Journey. Acts xviii:1-23.

Golden Text.—In the world ye shall have tribulation; be of good cheer; I have overcome the world—John xvi: 33.

Verse 1.—What remarkable thing had immediately preceded Paul's start for Corinth?

There is no record of a vision or any special Divine instruction, for Paul going to Corinth; but is a good man as much guided by God when he is not conscious of it, as when he is, and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 2-3.—What was the attraction between Aquila and Paul?

How do you account for it that there is an affinity between men of the same trade?

Have labour men a perfect right to band themselves together, for mutual protection, against the undue demands for capital?

Has capital a moral right to protect itself against labour?

Have business men a right to protect themselves against undue competition?

Paul worked at his trade as a tent maker for a living, is there any suggestion in this that modern preachers should do a similar thing?

A large proportion of the membership of the present day Christian Church, have the latent ability to preach; ought not this ability to be developed, thus giving to every local church several preachers, and the work being divided between them, would be better done than at present, and each preacher make his own living?

Verse 4.—Is it the duty and privilege of every Christian to be engaged, at least every Sunday, in some specific spiritual work?

Why did Paul, in the beginning, in Corinth, confine his work to the Sabbath day and to the Jews?

Verses 5-6.—What effect did the visit of Silas and Timothy have upon Paul?

If a good man is ever so much in earnest, may the visit of another earnest man intensify his spirit?

When a man does his very best in preaching, and fails to make converts, is he entitled to as much credit as if he had great success?

Did Paul blame himself for his failure, and that the Jews resisted and blasphemed; and ought a man of God always to take a similar position in like circumstances?

Verse 7.—Has it ever been in the past, and is it to-day, sometimes necessary for a good man to leave the church and start a meeting of his own?

Verse 8.—Is belief in Jesus an intellectual effect, or is it spiritual and supernatural?

Verses 9-11.—What method did God take in this instance to talk to Paul?

Why is it that so few Christians have any experience of any special message from God?

Do Christians speak as much as they ought for Christ to-day, and is there any fear of being hurt by speaking for him?

Verses 12-17.—Can any man expect, even in these days, to be unflinchingly faithful to God, and not make some people angry?

How do you estimate the character of this man Gallio, and what is there in him worthy of imitation?

Verses 18-23.—Sum up the effects of Paul's efforts as revealed in this lesson.

Lesson for Sunday, Aug. 8th, 1909. Paul's Instructions to the Thessalonians. I Thess. v:12-24.

Why She Shut Down.

"A charming gentleman about four years old used to pass my house every day on his way to kindergarten," said a lady, "and in course of time I made his acquaintance and gave a penny to him each morning when we parted.

"Eventually his mother requested me not to give any more money to him. The next morning I did not present the usual penny. He did not seem to notice the omission. The succeeding day when the penny was not given to him he said nothing. But on the morning of the third day when the penny was not forthcoming he sidled up to me and whispered: 'What's the matter? Ain't your husband working?'"

ENGLAND

Negotiations are to be commenced by Great Britain with France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, and Belgium, with a view to increasing the duties on spirits imported into West Africa and restricting the importation of arms.

Shortly after the celebration of early Communion at St. Aidan's Church, Sunderland, fire broke out, and despite the efforts of the fire brigade the church was destroyed. The outbreak is attributed to an overheated stove.

Special services were held in Westminster Abbey on the occasion of the Feast of St. Peter in commemoration of the Countess of Richmond and Derby, mother of Henry VII., (died 1059). The Dean of Westminster preached.

The passenger steamer Cambia which came to Newquay from Cardiff brought between 150 and 200 passengers. Whilst they were being landed one of the Newquay boats with ten passengers foundered in the harbour. They were all rescued.

Sir Frederick Banbury, M.P., proposes to amend the Wild Birds Protection Acts, 1880, so that section 3 shall be read with respect to snipe and woodcock, as if the words "first day of February" were inserted instead of "first day of March."

The price of beer was raised in London last week. All that had been 4d per quart became 5d. Bitter and Burton ale and stout are 1d per quart dearer if consumed off the premises, and 2d on. Glasses of ale or stout are still 2d, but half pints are 2d.

On searching a cottage in an isolated district of Haddingtonshire, the police discovered an enormous quantity of stolen property alleged to have been taken from numerous well-known residences in Haddingtonshire. The goods had to be removed in a cart.

Treasury returns for the first quarter of the financial year show an increase of £1,390,000 compared with last year, this being accounted for by the death duties. They amount to nearly £6,500,000, or over £2,000,000 above the first quarter of last year.

IRELAND

The well-known Irish singer, Jos. O'Mara, had an exciting experience with a burglar who visited his premises in Bloomfield Road, Maida Vale.

After having had charge of passenger boats in the Irish sea for thirty-six years, Captain Cooke, commodore on the Fleetwood to Belfast route, is retiring.

With solemn High Mass the Silver Jubilee of the episcopate of the Rev. Dr. O'Callaghan, Roman Catholic Bishop of Cork, was celebrated at the Cathedral, Cork.

Considerable attention has been drawn, both in the Press and in Parliament to the proposal to make scholastic philosophy a part of the curriculum of Queen's University, Belfast.

A Belfast telegram says it is reported that the Committee of Imperial Defence have selected Belfast Lough as a northern naval base, and that a joint naval and military commission will visit Belfast in a few months to consider the question of defences.

There are many Ulster Clubs. Beginning at London they seem to circle the globe, for they are found in Australia, in New Zealand, in South Africa, in Canada, and the club recently started amongst the massive girders and huge masonry of the New York sky-scrapers will soon take its place amongst the best.

The Lord Chief Baron stated at the opening of the assizes at Mullingar that in reference to cases of cattle driving they were very much less than they were during the corresponding period of last year, when there were 26 as against 10 now. It was only fair to say that they seemed now to be decreasing month after month, and there was only one he was informed during the last month.

John Redmond, M.P., in addressing a demonstration at Arklow, after referring to the efforts of the Nationalist party to gain concessions for Ireland in the Budget, spoke in favour of the Land Bill, the enemies of which, he said, had been reinforced by Sir Horace Plunkett. He said the rejection of the Bill would reopen the Irish land war in an aggravated form. If, however, they wanted war they would have it.

SCOTLAND

Colonel G. M. G. Munro, of Poyntsfield, Invergordon, died suddenly while in his garden. He was a J. P. for Ross-shire, and for many years was associated with the 3d Battalion Seaforth Highlanders, and lately retired. He was about 45 years of age, and leaves a widow and young family.

The Motherwell ratepayers who lodged £25 pledge for the appearance of the Rev. Mr. Chaplin at the Court of Session on an appeal against the decision of Sheriff Thomson have now drawn the money. Mr. Chaplin chose rather to go to prison if need be. The sectarian lectures are going on each evening.

The death has occurred at Aberdeen of George Archibald Maconachie, M. D., who had a distinguished career in the Indian Medical Service. Born at Towie, Aberdeenshire, in 1843 he graduated M.B., C.M., at Aberdeen University in 1866, and M.D. in 1872. He went through both the Abyssinian and Afridi campaigns.

Boston, U. S. A., intellectual culture, says the Glasgow Weekly Herald, is so widespread that the lower animals are affected by the environment. A Boston birdfancier's customer brought a parrot back to the dealer. "I wanted a bird of correct habits, of course," he said, "but this one doesn't do anything but spout Ibsen at us."

Considerable misgiving has been caused in Dundee by the absence of news as to the whaling ketch Snowdrop, which set sail on April of last year, with Mr. O. Forsyth Grant Younger, of Ecclesgreig, aboard. The Snowdrop, which had a crew of ten hands all told, proposed to engage in walrus hunting and whaling in the neighbourhood of Davis Strait.

Evidence in appeals against the Annan district water scheme was closed. The promoters calculated the cost at £40,000, but expert witnesses stated it would be £65,000 to £66,000. A large number of proprietors declared that the scheme was being forced on the district to enable Lord Mansfield to water his property along the Solway shore at a cheaper rate.

What Sunshine Furnace does

Sunshine Furnace is designed and constructed to heat a house, church, school or store, and does this more satisfactorily than any other known furnace or other style of heating apparatus.

It does this more economically than the hot water boiler because, as soon as fire is started in Sunshine Furnace, heated air can be obtained for the rooms.

It does this better than other furnaces because, being made from exclusive patterns, it has more commendable features.

It does this more economically than the boiler because even air circulation keeps fuel bill low.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

It does this more conveniently than the hot water boiler, because it has no radiators to take up room, congregate dust and mar the paper and woodwork.

It does this more cheerfully than the boiler because pure air is admitted to the furnace through a cold air pipe.

CHIEF CONSTABLES CONVENTION

sible moment to the consideration of those questions that will prove of practical value to the municipalities which we have the honour to represent.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE I. ROSZEL,
President.

Some of the Papers.

Criminals as a scientific study, the virtues of the much-maligned policeman, and the inefficiency of the present law governing race track gambling, were the subjects of able papers from Dominion Parole Officer Archibald, Toronto, and Chief Genest, Hull, gave a paper on "The Conservator of the Peace."

Officer W. P. Archibald's paper on the classification of criminals and preventive detention dealt in an able manner with the question of criminality as a scientific study. He divided criminals into their several classes and gave each class its particular features. He suggested that a preventive act similar to that in effect in England should be placed on the statute books of Canada.

The Ideal Policeman.

According to Chief Smythe the virtues which an ideal policeman must possess are as manifold and as diverse as those which make a diplomat successful. A policeman is expected at all times to be dignified, tactful, and of cool temper, with an inexhaustible well of patience. He is expected to be a judge of human nature, a walking bureau of information, and an animated check on the fickleness of the electric light. He must be ready to turn in an instant from an incipient street row to politely assist some nervous lady across the street, play the part of genial grandpa, and a few minutes later be engaged in a rough-and-tumble with some indivisual spoiling for a fight. Chief Smythe said the police are numerically insufficient, and, considering the qualities they must possess are poorly paid.

Race Track Gambling.

Inspector Archibald, Toronto, gave a paper on "Race-track Gambling," and reviewed the legislation relating thereto enacted during the past twenty five years. He complained that convictions which had been made had been quashed by higher courts, and thought that the act governing gambling should be capable of only one interpretation.

Immoral Literature.

Deputy Chief William Stark, of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Association, in reading his annual report, gave an interesting summary of the work accomplished during the year by the special committee on legislation in the direction of securing much-needed amendments to the criminal code. Two years ago, the Deputy Chief pointed out, the convention took advanced ground in the matter of carrying offensive weapons, and as a result of strong representations to the Minister of Justice by the special committee the sections dealing with the matter have been amended by giving the convicting magistrate or judge power to impose imprisonment in addition to or without a money penalty. The imprisonment may be any term up to three months.

Since the last convention, the Deputy continued, a particularly aggravated case of having in possession immoral literature and obscene pictures came under the notice of the Toronto authorities, in the prosecution of which serious difficulties were encountered, as no penalty was provided by law for simply having such matter in possession.

Continuing, Deputy Chief Stark said that, accompanied by a representative of the Social and Moral Reform Council of Canada, he had gone to Ottawa and had asked for an amendment to the code, which would make it an offence for any person to have such literature or pictures in their possession. As a result the section dealing with the matter was amended along the lines suggested.

Other Amendments.

Another amendment which had been strongly endorsed by the association of the code relating to the procuring of girls for immoral purposes. The maximum imprisonment for this offence had been increased from two to five years. A new section had been added to the code defining an opium joint and an amendment to the section dealing with disorderly houses, permits of keepers and inmates of opium joints being prosecuted under this section.

Defends Third Degree.

An important resolution was passed on Thursday by the executive committee, in which sweat box methods were defended. It was as follows:

The resolution of the Executive Committee dealing with the question of sweatbox methods was in part as follows: "Whereas when a crime has been committed it is the duty of the police to use to the utmost limit the privileges in the matter of prisoners' statements or confessions defined by law and established by repeated rulings of the highest judicial authorities, and whereas, notwithstanding gravely unfair attempts made by sensational newspapers and in jury courts to discredit the police by references to the so-called sweatbox and third-degree methods, your committee have been unable to discover any justification for such references, inasmuch as no case is to be found in which a responsible police officer has been found guilty of improper conduct in respect of prisoners' confessions; resolved, that this Association protest against such needless attack on the integrity of the police and appeal to the Judiciary, the Bar and the Press of Canada to unite in discouraging a practice so unfair to the police, and one which is calculated to destroy confidence n them."

Thursday's session of the Police Constables' convention. The following officers were elected: President, Captain Emil Trudel, Chief of Police, Quebec; Secretary, William Stark, Deputy Chief of Police, Toronto; Treasurer, Inspector McClelland, of Toronto; Executive Committee—Colonel A. P. Sherwood, Dominion Police of Ottawa; Chief Detective Silas M. Carpenter, Montreal; Chief R. G. Chamberlain, Vancouver; Chief W. T. Williams, London, and Chief John Kimmins, of this city.

A. M. Stephens, staff inspector, Toronto, delivered an address on "The Conservator of Peace," which was well received.

Vancouver was chosen for the convention next year. On Thursday the visiting chiefs were tendered a banquet at the Lafayette Hotel.

IMPORTANT SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY.

A most important discovery has been made after a year's patient laboratory work aimed in a certain direction—it is Newbro's Herpicide, a preparation that prevents falling hair, and speedily and permanently eradicates dandruff. These evils are caused by a germ or parasite that burrows into the scalp, throwing up dandruff, as it seeks to sap the life of the hair at the root. There's no baldness without dandruff, and no dandruff if the germ is destroyed. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that will do the work. "Destroy the cause, you will remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar Bottles guaranteed.

An Admonition.

O Mars, when we exchange remarks some day;
As wise men say that we are sure to do,
Pray heed this early warning. Do not say:
"Hello, there! Is it hot enough for you?"

—Houston Post.

As a Last Resort.

Uncle—Johnny, wouldn't you like to be an angel?

Johnny—Not as long as there's a show for me to become a baseball pitcher or a circus clown.—Chicago News.

Figuring the Expense.

And great was the pleasure he found,
Though the fish that he caught, so the knowing ones say,
Cost him twenty-eight dollars a pound.

Could only rich become
I'd be what everybody likes—
A happy medium."

Shopping.

"I hear you are giving a bargain matinee today?"

"Yes, madam."

"May I see one act as a sample?"—Washington Herald.

Isn't the Question.

Clifford can ask questions quicker than we can answer them, and a few days ago his uncle told him he would turn into an interrogation point. I agreed with him and said: "Yes, I remember seeing a picture of a little boy turning into one. He had become more and more curved and finally had become just a large interrogation point."

Cliff listened intently, and when I had finished he instantly asked, "Well, how did they keep the dot under him?"—Circle Magazine.

Why Not?

Grandpa likes to kiss wee Sallie,
She says no;
Says his whiskers, thick and bushy,
Prick her so.

Grandpa's head is soft and shiny
On the top,
Where the hair began to thin and
Would not stop.

Grandpa kisses. Sallie questions,
So 'tis said,
"Grandpa, why not put your whiskers
On your head?"

—Chicago Record-Herald.

Careless Charles.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "what is a piker?"

"A piker is a man who starts with a shoestring and tries to run it up into a bank roll."

"How careless of you! Every time you used to go to the races you insisted on wearing button shoes!"—Washington Star.

Unendurable.

The weather we might stand with grit
And its discomforts, too,
But not the fiend who's due to ask,
"Is it hot enough for you?"

—Baltimore American.

His Business.

"What's your trade, old pal?"

"Don't call me 'old pal!' As to your question, I am a gentleman."

"Oh, I see—on your vacation now eh?"—Cleveland Leader.

Woe Is Me!

"Ostensibly—really to give a bunch of stagestruck folks a chance."

Why Not Tit For Tat.

Banker—Excuse me, neighbor, but every morning on your way to the train you walk across my lawn.

Potts—I know it isn't right. I'm awfully sorry, but I can't help it. I have only just time to catch the train, there's the lawn and the temptation, and I'll be hanged if I can resist it!

Banker—I know just how you feel. I'm that way myself. I've got a shotgun, and when I sit in my window and see you sprinting it brings on my hunting fever. I've stood it so far, but tomorrow morning I shan't answer for myself.—New York Life.

A "How to" Tragedy.

Smith liked to study "how to" books to add unto his knowledge—
On how to shave on railroad trains, and how to sidestep college,
And how to make the ham game pay, and how to write short stories,
And how to raise prize cabbages and also morning glories.
The latest of these wondrous works on which poor Smith has blundered
Is "How to Build a Bungalow For Less Than Seven Hundred."

It seems Jones lent the book to Smith
just as a passing favor,
For Smith was just about to build and sought a money saver.
Now Smith has spent three thousand flat and seeks still more to borrow,
The while the roofless bungalow looks like a haunt of sorrow.
And so, alas, it comes to pass a friendship firm is wrecked
By "How to Build a Bungalow For Less Than Seven Hundred."

—Arthur Chapman in Denver Republican.

STRUCK BY AN ENGINE

John Brown of Toronto was Crossing G.T.R. Track in Drunken Condition — Escaped With But Few Injuries And Was "Jailed" This Morning.

HAD ONLY TEN CENTS.

Only the fact that he was drunk, saved John Brown, who claims Toronto as his home, from serious injuries, when he was struck by the G.T.R. shunter below King street last night about eight o'clock. At least it is generally claimed that an intoxicated man escapes, where his sober neighbour would be seriously hurt. Brown could scarcely "navigate" as the result of continued and prolonged draughts of the liquid that deadens the senses and tangles the legs—alcoholic locomotor ataxia. He was with a pal, they were both considered tramps by the police. Brown wanted to cross the track and suddenly got away from his pal and crossed in front of the shunter which was moving but slowly. How he escaped with only a broken nose and a number of cuts about the head is more than those who saw the affair can understand.

Brown was taken to the police station where Dr. McPherson attended him. This morning he appeared before Magistrate Dumble and was fined two dollars for being drunk in a public place. He had over seven dollars yesterday, but this morning he could show only a lonely dime which was of no avail to save him from a sojourn within the confines of Castle Nesbitt.

CASE WAS DISMISSED

Complaint of Havelock Game Club For Trespass Was Thrown Out By Magistrate Edmison.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, July 31—Magistrate Edmison held court here to-day on a complaint of the Havelock Game Club that two men, Ruttan and Insley had been fishing on their preserves. Ruttan and Insley swore that they were fishing on the creek where it crosses the roadway and had not fished on the Game Club's preserves.

The case was dismissed.

MADE WHILE YOU WAIT

Process of Manufacture an Interesting Feature of Canadian National Exhibition.

The process of the manufacture department is always one of the most interesting features of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and this year it promises to be far more extensive than ever before. In all there will be about forty industries at work, showing just how shoes, silk, cotton goods, prints, and many other of the articles you use every day are made. It is impossible here to name more than a few of the exhibitors, but here are some well worth looking up.

The United Shoe Manufacturing Co. of Montreal, manufacturing ladies' and gents' boots and shoes, showing the different stages from the cutting out of the leather to the finished shoe.

Merchants' Rubber Co. of Berlin, demonstrating the manufacture of rubber shoes, showing every process fromthe crude rubber to the finished boot.

Davis & Henderson, manufacturing and printing envelopes.

The Canadian Silk Co., weaving silk and badges with photos on them.

Gundy, Clapperton, cutting glass, showing the process in which the fine quality of cut glass is produced.

Shredded Wheat, showing process in which their products are prepared and made portable and palatable.

Dominion Textile Co., Montreal, showing process of manufacture of fine cotton goods, prints, etc.

Miller's Grip Powders Cure.—Wm. Madill, Druggist.

CHARLIE QUERRIE MAY BE OUT FOR GOOD

Bad Knee Likely to Result in His Quitting Active Lacrosse.

Manager Querrie of the Tecumsehs is probably out of the game for good with a lame knee, and lacrosse loses one of its greatest exponents. He was sandwiched by Graydon and Ion in practice at the Island on Wednesday night, and yesterday he was very lame. He can hardly hobble along on the injured member, and will not likely play again. The Tecumsehs will miss their clever leader and his hurricane rushes, but his addition to the megaphone squad will still make him a factor in the game.—Toronto Star.

BLOOD TAINT—YOUNG HUSBAND FIGHTS WHOLE CITY FOR HIS WHITE BUT PROSECUTED BRIDE

Remarkable Case of Race Prejudice In Oklahama, Where a Fair-Skinned Well-Bread Young Woman, With Only One-Sixteenth African Blood In Her Veins, Is the Victim.

WM. C. UPHOFF AND HIS PERSECUTED WIFE.

Muskogee, Okla., July 29. — The lengths to which white people, below the Mason and Dixon line, will go to gratify their prejudice against the negro is exemplified in the unusual case of the bride of Wm. C. Uphoff of this city. The woman, according to her husband, has a strain of one-sixteenth negro blood. Her husband was a respected real estate dealer of East St. Louis, Ill., before their marriage, three months ago. The woman is fair-skinned and as radiantly healthful and wholesome as any woman of Muskogee. The only sign of the African blood is her thick, black, wavy hair.

When Uphoff brought his bride here where he was well known and owns property, he introduced her to his friends and they accepted her as a charming, natural, well-bred, and well educated young woman. The Uphoffs occupied a suite in the popular hotel of the city and they received their friends there and accepted the usual courtesies.

By some unknown means it was learned that Mrs. Uphoff had negro blood in her veins. That moment persecution of the couple began from all sides, and this has caused the young husband to enter into a remarkable contest with adverse public opinion.

The day following the spread of the rumour that the woman was "tainted" the hotel proprietor demanded that Uphoff declare as to the truth of the report. Uphoff admitted the truth. He was told to pay his bill and leave the hotel. He declined to go. Presently a policeman speared at the Uphoff apartment with a warrant for the arrest of the couple for alleged violation of the "Jim Crow" law. Uphoff and his wife then left the hotel. The complaint against them was withdrawn later.

The bridegroom announced that he would spend every dollar he possessed and use every resource at his command to force Muskogee to recognize his bride.

He carried his case to the newspapers. They answered that the racial distinctions must be observed.

With his back to the wall Uphoff defied the newspapers. He appealed to his friends. He insisted that his bride was as good as the wife of any white man in Muskogee: that she was far more accomplished and physically acceptable than most. Quite naturally, that was the worst attitude he could have assumed. That the young woman was educated and refined none denied, but—well, there was the "sixteenth." The outward marks undubitably had missed the present generation. But the next?

Uphoff, deserted, doggedly refusing to accept the "thumbs down" of the public, continued his intention of buying a home in the fashionable East-side residence section of Muskogee. He began to spend his money, as he had promised.

But there were no houses or lots for sale in the "East-side." The real estate dealer went to office after office of his former friends, and was met with the same answer: "Not in the market."

Uphoff took his bride to a small hotel, which accepted them. He appeared on the street with his bride. She was always gowned tastefully. One day the couple boarded a street car. Instinctively they knew it was to be a test. So did the other passengers. So did the conductor.

In Oklahama, as in many southern states, the street cars are divided into two sections, one for whites and the other for negroes. The division is indicated by a wooden sign that slides on the railings overhead. The conductor acted respectfully, but conductor acted respectfully, but promptly. He motioned the young couple to the "Jim Crow" section. There was one other alternative, and the couple took it. They left the car.

Uphoff has not given up. Here is what he has said he will do—said it in half-page newspaper advertisements: "I will exhibit my wife to the public. The public itself shall either vindicate or condemn my selection. I will abide by the decision.

The advertisements have stirred Muskogee. Exhibit his wife! Will the authorities permit it?

"Why not?" asks Uphoff in his newspaper campaign. Why not?

Uphoffs' unique plan, briefly, is this:

To determine whether the public is really sincere in its condemnation of his wife he will place her on the platform of the big convention hall. Each admission ticket entitles the bearer to one vote. The "ballot" is as follows: "SHOULD SHE HAVE MARRIED A NEGRO?"

In an interview Uphoff promised to make the ultimatum of the public, via the ballot box, final. He said he would retire to the country if the vote were against him.

THREE PETERBORO WITNESSES SECURED FOR TRIAL OF GYPSIES

It was learned this morning that Rosie, the Queen of the gypsies, has secured three witnesses, who will go to Ottawa to give evidence in regard to the wedding which is alleged to have been held here. They are Thos. Williams, Romaine street, D'Arcy Dunlop, and Thos. Mitchell. It is not known when they will go.

The Ottawa Free Press refers to the present situation of the tribes as follows:

Sheriff Wright of Hull, leaves today for Peterborough, to obtain witnesses in the trial of the whole band of Bulgarian gypsies on a charge of perjury laid by the Hull or Mexican band. They claim that Ottawa gypsies committed perjury in the trial of Eli and John Stokes for the alleged kidnapping of Katrina, the 8yr.-old girl, who, though 12 years of age, has been the cause of numerous sessions in both the Hull and Ottawa courts.

All the charges which were pending have been disposed of and were briefly as follows:

Robbery, against Stephen George, Speedo John, Peter Mitchell, Stephen John and Peter Sterio, laid by John and Eli Stokes, dismissed in the Ottawa court by Magistrate O'Keefe.

Assault, against John Stokes of Ottawa by the wife of Mr. Peter Sterio, of Hull in Hull court. Stokes fined $5 and $5 costs.

Insulting language against Eli Stokes of Ottawa, by Stephen George of Hull, dismissed.

Theft, against Katrina and parents of Ottawa, by Mrs. Peter Sterio in Hull court, dismissed.

PRISONER CAPTURED

Man Who Escaped From Police Station Yesterday at Noon Was Found Concealed in Shed of Residence in East City Last Night About 11 o'clock.

HARBOURER WAS ARRESTED.

The prisoner who escaped from the police station yesterday at noon was captured last evening at a residence in East City shortly after eleven o'clock by Police Officers Newhall, Meharry and Meagher. It was his intention to leave town on the midnight train for Montreal, but while he, to his friend, who had concealed him, was complimenting himself on how splendidly he had eluded the police, the officers walked in on him and placed both men under arrest.

It would appear that the prisoner, after successfully getting away from the police station crossed the C. P. R. bridge into Ashburnham. He was heard telling his friend that he had gone up to Auburn, and knowing that P. C. Meharry was after him he succeeded in keeping out of his sight, finally reaching his friend's home on Mark street, and there was hid in the shed until caught by the police.

In court this morning, Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on behalf of both prisoners. The one that escaped was charged with escaping from the police cell after having been lawfully convicted and placed in the custody of the police. He did not plead nor elect, and he was remanded for one week without bail.

The second man was charged with receiving a prisoner, well knowing that he had run away from the custody of the police. He did not plead nor elect and the same remand was made as in the previous case. He was allowed out on bail of one thousand dollars in two sureties.

An illuminated yacht parade is one of the special attractions in Cobourg on Friday, Aug. 6th. 24-26

DRYING BOARD FOR PHOTOGRAPHY

Designed and Made by Mr. N.A. Howard Moore—a Description.

In the July number of the "Camera Craft," a San Francisco publication, appears a description and illustrations of a home made print trimmer, the design and making of which was the work of Mr. N. A. Howard Moore of this city.

The board itself is of hardwood ten by twelve in. size. The edge against which the cutting is done, is a piece of quarter-inch steel drilled for three wood screws. The two end pieces are the same thickness, 1¼ by 6¼, each having two countersunk screw holes ine one end, and two others, three-eighths in. diameter in the other. These last two holes are one and one-eighth inches from centre to centre, and their centres are three-eighths of an inch from the two ends.

A pin is inserted in a small hole and prevents the cutting wheel from striking the steel end piece.

CHISEL CLEAN THROUGH THIGH

Mr. John Sanderson Met With Painful Accident at Work.

Mr. John Sanderson, Jr., met with a very severe accident while working at the new grand stand on the exhibition grounds recently. He was using a hammer and chisel, and in striking the chisel it slipped, the sharp instrument striking his right leg and going completely through it in the fleshy part above the knee. Medical aid was summoned and twenty-two stitches were required to close the wound. The wound is healing nicely, but Mr. Sanderson will be laid up for some time.—Lakefield News.

SCARCITY OF GIRLS

Quaker Oats Co. Will Probably Have To Advertise Out of Town.

The Quaker Oats Co. intend to make an effort to secure girls from other places on account of the fact that but few can be obtained from Peterboro.

In another column of this issue will be found the company's advertisement for girls to work in the mill and if the desired number are not obtained from this city they will be advertised for in other places. The company need the extra hands to keep up with the rush of business, but it seems as if the local supply is about exhausted.

You won't be disappointed if you get the genuine "D. & L." Menthol Plasters for stiffness, backache, etc. Successful remedies are imitated, look out for the original "D. & L." made by Davis & Lawrence Co.

SEVEN MARRIAGES RESULT FROM FIRST MEETINGS AT BURLEIGH

At Least Seven of Cupid's Darts Were Fatal—Lovesick Lake Enchants Young People and is Permeated With the Atmosphere—the Name Suggests—Last Marriage Celebrated On June 14th, 1909.

One of the grandest combinations Dan Cupid has ever evolved is the summer resort. An ocean voyage is not as disastrous to hearts as the picturesque environment of the holidaying hotel and many a man now the father of a family can trace his undoing to moonlight night down a shady road, or to a wide cool verandah or to some of the other devices which are so fatal to those who allow themselves to be allured.

It is not surprising that the Kawartha Lakes, with their elfin beauties, should have been the scenes of the entrapping of unsuspecting young bachelors, and it is a known fact that within the last two years seven marriages have been the result of friendships formed at Burleigh Falls Hotel.

"A Night, a Moon, a Maid, a Boat," is the name of a familiar song and with the fairy beauty of Lovesick Lake added to the above prescription the little god of love could not have prepared a more effective position. The lake above Burleigh on a moonlight night is beyond description. The water is transformed to liquid silver as the beams of fair Luna seek in its depths and the shore line is lost by the fringe of trees which in graceful curves, gently drooping, trail the shimmering surface.

A more romantic situation could scarce be imagined. Nature's art is found at its best and under the rays of the moon it takes on an ethereal appearance that stirs up a feeling akin to awe. It was in surroundings of this kind, or along the country road, or on the rocks near the waterfalls that Cupid's tiny arrow twanged noiselessly but fatally at least seven times, and the storied arrows caught in their flight seven pairs of hearts which have since been linked for life.

These statements are vouched for and names could be mentioned, but for a promise to the party acquainted with the facts, to withhold them.

The last wedding was celebrated in Rochester on June 14th of this year, and all the unions have been formed across the border, although the first friendships were begun at Burleigh. It is learned that the majority of the weddings wer the result of meetings last summer. It has always been claimed that the summer girl, and especially the summer resort girl has opportunities which are more numerous and valuable than those presented during the rest of the year. This is an example which substantiates the statement and will remove all doubt from the minds of those who have been heard to say that summer friendships are soon forgotten.

Presentation To Leo Quinn On Departure For Oshawa

On Wednesday evening a very pleasant event tooko place in T. Z. Webster's ice cream parlours, when a considerable number of young men of the village assembled to bid goodbye to Mr. Leo. Quinn, who is going to Oshawa, where he has secured a good position. After refreshments had been served the following address was read by Mr. W. W. Leonard, and the handsome suit case presented by Mr. J. M. Bygott.

To Mr. Leo. Quinn:

As you have decided to take your departure from amongst us to enter into new fields of labour and sport, we feel that we cannot miss this opportunity of expressing our kind feelings toward you and wish you every success in your new home, which we feel assured will be your lot.

For ourselves, we feel exceedingly sorry to loose you, especially in the field of sport, for to your efforts is due in a great measure, the success of our hockey team. For yourself we are very glad that another Lakefield boy is to make a mark for himself and by so doing keep up the reputation which our town has always enjoyed. We therefore ask you to accept from the boys this suit case, which, besides being useful we hope will keep our memory continually before you and always remind you that wherever you may settle you have the assurance of warm friends in Lakefield.

Signed on behalf of the boys of Lakefield.

In reply Mr. Quinn thanked the boys for their kind token of appreciation, and said he would always remember his many friends in Lakefield. Speeches were made by a number of those present, all expressing themselves as very sorry to see Leo. go, but wishing him every success in his new home.—Lakefield News.

A New Gum Manufactured By The Canadian Chiclet Company

The Canadian Chiclet Company, of this city, is to-day for the first time placing on the market, a gum that is bound to meet with a big sale, already large orders having been received which are being readily filled. "Fruitlets" is the name of the new chewing gum and the flavour is the real mint which is most pleasant to taste and first-class in every particular. The company has also designed a fine new package for fruitlets. The outside of it is a floral pattern with designs of fruitlets all over it with the word written on each one.

There is no doubt but that this chewing gum will be a great favourite and will meet with a large sale.

I like Chewing Gum, but oh! you Fruitlets.

Successful Tea And Concert At Bethel Church, Hall's Glen

A very successful lawn social, in aid of Bethel Methodist Church, was held on the grounds of the church at Hall's Glen on Wednesday evening, July 21st, when a most enjoyable and pleasant evening was spent. An excellent supper was served by the ladies of the congregation and from six to eight-thirty the beautifully laid tables were fully occupied.

After tea had been served an adjournment was made to the church, where a delightful programme was presented. Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., presiding in a most pleasing manner. After an opening selection by the choir, and prayer, by Dr. G. W. Marvin, M.A., B.D., the chairman delivered a brief address. Miss Dewart recited "Home, Sweet Home," in an acceptable manner.

Mr. Brummerson, of Toronto, accompanied Mr. Stratton, and sang several solos, which were much enjoyed and which thoroughly delighted the audience. The favourite selections rendered by him were "Canada," "Johnathan Jones," and "Empress of the Sea." To all of these Mr. Brummerson responded with an encore. Two selections were given by Miss Marvin, which merited well-deserved applause. Rev. Mr. Bedford, of Lakefield, and Mr. Whalen, of Victoria College, Toronto, and Mr. J. H. McClellan delivered addresses, as did Mr. Cole, of Toronto, an appreciative recitation. A recitation was also given by Miss Hazel Portland of this city.

Taking it altogether the evening was a most enjoyable one and the receipts reached the expectations of the committee in charge, who are to be congratulated on the success of the affair.

During the evening the choir sang very acceptably several selections.

Building Permits Are Being Issued At Favourable Rate

Peterborough is maintaining the building activity with which it commenced the year and the record for the first six months as compared with the same time last year is most encouraging. 1909 has been a banner year so far, and there is every likelihood that the average will be maintained until the snow flies, and the building season is at an end. The figures which have been obtained from the city clerk's office are as follows:

| | 1909 | 1908 |
|---|---|---|
| January | $ 9,280 | $ 220 |
| February | 1,165 | 50 |
| March | 5,695 | 1,445 |
| April | 31,721 | 28,110 |
| May | 42,136 | 27,240 |
| June | 44,223 | 20,125 |
| July | 5,845 | 12,233 |
| | $139,233 | $89,573 |

Increase in 1909 over 1908 was $103,550 or the increase this year is greater than last year's total by $14,077.

Last year, of course, there were no large buildings erected, but so far this year there have been only three, the largest of which was All Saints church at a cost of $25,000, the Colonial Weaving Co's. factory at $11,-000 and Lundy's block of stores on George street at $10,500. Other than those three the great bulk of the money is for new residences of for repairs and additions to residences.

WATER 20 FEET HIGH

Shot Into The Air By Striking Pocket of Gas at 200 Feet—Drill Was Lost For a Time And Special Machine Was Brought Here.

WORK IS PROGRESSING

A pocket of gas was struck 200 feet below the surface at the well that is being driven on the Kincaid farm, and the water was blown up the pipe and out twenty feet into the air. The work was retarded for a short time during the last day or so, owing to the cable slipping its hold on the drill which remained at the bottom of the well. It was necessary to send to Petrolea for a special piece of machinery by which the drill was brought up to the surface again. Work is now progressing as favourably as before, and good progress is being made.

BICYCLE WAS STOLEN

From in Front of Public Library—Belonged to Traveller.

Mr. W. A. Gooch, representing R. F. Wilks & Co., 447 Yonge St., Toronto, came to the city last Monday in the interests of the firm, and during the day had a valuable cushion framed Cleveland bicycle stolen. He had brought it here in order that he might get around more quickly. He went up into the Public Library, leaving his wheel downstairs, but when he came out the bicycle was gone.

The theft has been reported to the police, who have a clue on which they are working and which they hope will eventually lead to the recovery of the bicycle.

HID RIVAL'S CLOTHES

Miss Stella Ruby Theodore Unable To Keep Engagement.

Evansville, Ind., July 31.—To keep her from going with "Mr. P." a jealous girl stole all th clothes of Miss Stella Ruby, living near the Washington Hotel, last Saturday night. Miss Ruby says she had an engagement to meet her lover Sunday night, but could not keep it, because on Saturday night, whil she slept, some one slipped into her room and took all her Sunday clothes. The matter was reported to the police. To-day Miss Ruby received the following letter without a signature:

"Stella—Take that crazy friend of yours, Mr. P., and go down the river half way to Howell to the woods, and about half way to the centre of the woods there is a tree with a board nailed on it. About 500 feet west of the tree you will find something.

Miss Ruby was afraid to make the trip to Coal Mine Hill, fearing some trap had been laid for her, and returned the letter over to Detectives John Houghland and William Sweeney, who found the young woman's clothes where the letter directed. Miss Ruby says she is satisfied her clothes were taken by a certain young woman who was jealous of the attentions paid her by "Mr. P." The police are making an investigation.

Better results follow from the use of Miller's Compound Iron Pills than from any others.—Wm. Madill, Druggist.

REARED 17 ORPHANS

Colorado Woman Never Had Doctor For Any of Them.

Kansas City, Mo., July 31.—Mrs. Elsie Shaffell, of Moffit, Col., probably holds the record for the number of orphan children she has mothered. She has taken 17 homeless children from orphan asylums and reared and educated them. Thirteen of them are grown and one is a student at Leland Stanford University.

During all of her experience she has never needed the service of a physician. The last time Mrs. Shaffell took four children from an orphanage at one time and they were all members of the same family.

"I am going to St. Louis for a little visit and rest," she said this evening. With her husband, Mrs. Shaffell conducts the railroad restaurant at Moffitt.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church, Campbellford, are running a big excursion to Cobourg on Aug. 6th. Fare from Peterborough, 65c. Come and enjoy the day. See large bills. 26-26

THE SWORD OF DAMOCLES LIFTED IN FOUR CASES

Four "Extended" Hotel Licenses Admitted To Full Standing.

Last night the Licensed Commissioners met to consider the cases of four hotels whose licenses had not been renewed on May 1st. Following licenses were issued for the full term. Peterborough House, Queen's Hotel, Cavanagh House and the Grand Hotel

THE LATE JOHN DRYDEN

The death of Hon. John Dryden, which took place on July 20th, removes a man who has perhaps more than any other one man contributed to the agricultural prosperity of the province. As a model farmer, in the literal sense of the word, as a practical exponent of the value of advanced methods in farming and stock-breeding, he was a beacon light which threw its beams far and wide. But in the translation of his knowledge, zeal and spirit of agricultural advance to the Department of Agriculture, which he administered for ten fruitful years, lay the greatest good. In the capacity of Ontario Minister of Agriculture for ten years, he applied his belief in the merits of advanced agricultural methods. He greatly improved, especially in practical directions the efficiency of the Ontario Agricultural College, extending and making more effective the courses of study, and during his administration, enlarging the college and establishing a dairy school at Guelph, and also at Strathroy and Kingston. It may be said without exaggeration that John Dryden's discharge of his duties as Minister of Agriculture and the personal influence his official standing and his intense interest in agricultural and dairy progress, permitted him to exercise, were responsible for elevating the whole field of the Canadian farm and dairy industry and adding millions to the agricultural wealth of the province of Ontario. His name will be mentioned with praise and his example and teachings fololwed with profit as long as the grass grows green over his silent dust in Brooklin cemetery.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY.

What strikes the stranger entering our gates for the first time, if not unpleasantly, at least puzzlingly, is the circumstance that on some streets and even upon opposite sides of the same street, the pavement is in one case outside the tree line and in others, inside. This may seem a trifling matter, and perhaps is comparatively little to quarrel with, but when beauty depends upon symmetry and harmony of result, it is something that, except with good excuse, should not exist. There are, however, worse things than this in connection with pavements—and that is some of the lines and levels. On some streets there will be seen the length of a city block, where the pavement would, if produced, cross the street in a comparatively short distance, in another the "level"—on a level street—would, if produced, go under ground two or three feet in the length of a city block. In both these respects there are outrageous examples. These and the disparity of position—inside or outside of the tree line—are due to the utter absence of system, a condition that bedevils the whole street situation and militates against satisfactory street work. The council takes no definite stnad, refuses to look ahead. The city engineer lays out lines and drives his level pegs; some citizen kicks, and, if he has pull enough, a chance is made and the engineer's plans are over ridden and a cross-eyed piece of pavement laid down, without refernce to the existing, or proper, levels or lines of pavements in the vicinity.

Things like this must thus operate to the disfigurement of the city, so long as the city fathers blunder on without system, without a definite and settled policy. Why don't they get together and talk the matter over and decide one way or the other and be governed by principle, and by what is proper, rather than by expediency, with the fear of a vote going astray always before their eyes?

Twenty years ago the Examiner advocated the city—then town—procuring a grade plan of Peterborough. If that had been done there would have been avoided the expense, misunderstanding, change of grade, annoyance to citizsens who find on a pavement being constructed, their front door sills two to three feet above or a foot or two below the new pavements. The builder had to build by guess and the walk was laid to a grade struck for the occasion, and in many cases, citizsens have had to pay their share of the cost of the pavement, whose level depreciated their property many times more than the cost of the pavement, and resulted in expensive filling-in operations. If there had been a grade plan the house would have been built to it as well as the pavement, and there would have been no trouble. Ten times the cost of a grade plan would have been saved and more symmetrical results achieved. Building the streets of a city without a plan is sure to be as unsatisfactory as building a large house without a plan. In early days in backwoods settlements, houses and barns were erected by "rule of thumb"; but that was in the days when mechanics and engineers were not at hand. To build up the homes and the streets of the city by similar rules as we have been doing is to be a hundred years behind the times.

In reference to our pavements and streets, if we wish to have the highest conditions of beauty we must give attention to the provision of street curbs. As has been pointed out in these columns, in smaller places than Peterborough, these are built by the city in connection with walks when the latter are laid inside the tree line. Some public-spirited citizens, recognising the vast improvement to the appearance of their property and to the street have put in curbs at their own expense. With curbs it is possible—as it is impossible wthout them—to keep a boulevard in its highest state of tidiness and beauty; possible to prevent careless teamsters from driving over and cutting up with his wheels the newly shaven turf of a boulevard. What an unspeakable improvement to the beauty of a street would be the whole whole length—neatly curbed with corresponding boulevards fronting the neat green sweep of lawns as they exist in almost every residence street in the city.

Another thing. With curbing it is possible to provide and maintain a proper gutter to carry off surface water, something sorely needed. There is nothing among a multiplicity of neglects in street administration, so much neglected as street drainage and no streets of any city in Canada lend themselves so easily to drainage as those of Peterborough; and few, if any, are so badly drained. There is nothing beautiful in mud, and yet we have on many streets and have had for twenty years the same old mudholes along the boulevard after every rain; and in some cases half an hour's work with a grader would open a clear flow to the water and leave the street dry, as it would be in our porous soil half an hour after rainfall ceases. In some of these cases the attention of the Chairman of the Board of Works has been called to these conditions, the street commissioner has been directed to remedy the disgrace, but after the lapse of two years the same lack of outlet, the same mud holes, the same mud—twenty years old—to be carried by the feet of delivery boys upon the newly whitened back verandahs of long-suffering housewives. This sort of thing does not make for beauty—it is simply an outrage upon decency, obtaining money, in the shape of taxes, on false pretences, and spending it on streets in a way to make them worse instead of improving their comfort and beauty.

Another thing that detracts from the beauty as well as comfort of streets is the presence of loose stones—a dangerous element of untidiness. Why not have these stones raked together and removed for filling in pavement foundations? Or, better, why allow these loose stones to be drawn with unsifted gravel and dumped on the streets? Why have these stones raked into heaps on a street in the vicinity of aldermanic residences and have them left scattered about on other streets?

The neglect of our streets in the ways mentioned and in other ways that, may be mentioned, are responsible for a serious destruction of, or detraction from, the beauty of the city. These conditions, fortunately, have one beauty—they will not cost much to remedy or remove—nothing only a little taste, a little thought, and a little "do it" on the part of the street authorities.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Canadian Bisley team of 1909 paid its way in every way.

Canadian cement has been consolidated into one big batch—a merger of existing cement concerns having been effected.

The Canadian Rifle team were out for all that was going and they got it—credit, cash and cups. They won no end of glory, they captured a bagful of cups, and a very respectable amount of cash. Their cash winnings totalled $4,300, an average of $209.55 each, enough, if thus applied, to pay passage both ways.

The Toronto News has been bully-wagging La Patrie for assuming a disloyal attitude in regard to Canada's participation in Imperial naval defence. La Patrie gets back at the News by reprinting in its editorial columns a two line despatch showing that the London Times takes the same view as La Patrie—"Times editorially advocates colonial navies under control of colonies." The News could be better employed than in discrediting the loyalty of everybody that does not share its jingoism.

The Kingston Standard in criticising and belittleing the Globe's claim of credit for the Liberal Government in removing the inside civil service from political influence, asks:

> But what about the last twelve years? What was the government doing all that time, that it should now be handed a halo? And what is the halo for? For the delay in doing that which should long ago have been done?

What about the delay of the Conservative Government for eighteen years without, even then, doing anything to elevate the civil service? What is the Conservative Government of Ontario doing to remove the evils of the patronage system? It has made government patronage a chief wheel in the political machine, remodelled and adapted to the spoils system which it introduced.

THE SYSTEM TO BLAME

(Brockville Times.)

"The Peterborough Examiner begs to differ with the opinion expressed by the Brockville Times that ratepayers are rapidly becoming convinced that municipal government by paid commissioners will be the only way to stop the muddling which marks the municipal management of volunteer unpaid councillors. The Examiner declares that our statement is too sweeping, but admits that the existing system is unsatisfactory and even advises the appointment of a commission to manage the streets of Peterborough. Says the Examiner:

> "There is too much in the statement as applied to general municipal government. There are some things that municipal councils as statutorily constituted and generally composed, can do very well—at least, as well as could be expected. In the exercise of their legislative functions it is proper that they should directly represent, as they fairly will do, the people. The difficulty comes in when municipal councils undertake tor execute, to administer."

That appears to us to be a vague and weak defence of the present system of municipal management by volunteer unpaid councillors. What municipal business is there which "a municipal council can do very well—or as well as can be expected,"—which paid commissioners could not do equally well or in all probability much better?

And why should the paid commissioners who are hired not represent the people's wishes just as well as the town councils as at present composed? To hear the way in which existing town councils—in Brockville and other towns and cities in the country—are damned and criticised by the ratepayers we should think that they don't represent the wishes of the people either directly or indirectly. Paid commissioners could not be denounced with more vigour and fluency than are our town councillors under the presnt system of voluntary free service.

We do not quite understand what the Examiner means by saying that "the difficulty comes in when municipal councils undertake to administer." What are they put into office for if not to administer the affairs of the town? The trouble at present is that they so seldom do administer, —they prefer to let things slide along. They naturally follow the line of least resistance.

How many town councillors in the average town council go into office with a definite, clear-cut policy, or how many of them become councillors with the desire and determination to accomplish some specific improvement or reform in town affairs? We venture to say that not more than one in a hundred have any definite plan in their minds.

And we can hardly blame town councillors for treading warily and refusing to become too active in pushing forward schemes for public improvements. They are not paid anything for their services and we cannot blame them for refusing to sacrifice their time and energy, and to neglect their own businesses, in order to serve their fellow citizens. It is too much to expect of them, and indeed we are of the opinion that the average town council as at present composed gives as good a service as could be expected from it and fully as good as the electors deserve. We cannot expect to get something for nothing. If we want a good article we must pay for it, and cheap councillors mean cheap and expensive management. If we desire to get good administration of our municipal affairs we shall have to pay a good man a good salary to give us what we want. A good civic manager will easily earn his salary. If he does not save that by his economies he is not competent. We venture to say that the Examiner would not keep very long a business manager who did not earn his salary. And why should not a municipality have good business mangement as well as an ordinary industry or commercial enterprise?

There is too much of the spirit of Magna Charta in Canadians, to forego the right of representation in some form in regard to the making of municipal laws. But they may consent to delegate to a long term elective commission, their authority in the management of certain departments of administration that demand special aptitude and larger familiarity with their requirements than is possible with an annually or even biennially elected committee of council.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

Nobody but a blind man would be disposed to cavil at the statement that Peterborough is advancing by leaps and bounds both in population and prosperity. One can hardly turn down any street in the city without coming upon evidences of an amazing expansion in the building industry. If additional confirmation were needed it would be found in the figures in the City Clerk's department in regard to permits for building for the past six months, and the amount of valuation put on such improvements.

Last year, which, by the way, was the first year in which a record was kept, the valuation of new buildings for six months, ending June 30, amounted to $77,340. This year no less than 177 permits for new buildings, etc., have been issued at a valuation of $177,358. Certainly this seems to be Peterborough's growing time.

While on the subject of the city, and speaking strictly impersonally, why is it that so many of the side streets have no lamps? And why, also, is Central Park wrapped in atramental gloom at night through the absence of an arc lamp? Visitors to the city cannot fail to notice this defect, and to make their own comments thereon.

A young man a few days ago gave vent to a very wrathful utterance on the subject of the steamboat searchlight. He argued that it was nothing but rank impertinence to use the searchlight for the purpose of singling out boats and canoes in the quiet nooks of the river for the purpose of bringing their occupants under the prying eyes of those on board the steamer. "Is the light," he asked, "put there for the purpose of creating amusement for trippers or for the more useful one of marking the vessel's proper course down the stream?

Very few will be disposed to deny that the lock-keepers on the Trent Canal are an uniformly courteous and obliging set of men. There are to be found, however, one or two beings, who, possibly, more through ignorance than anything else, look upon the lockmaster as compelled by his position to pass boats through the locks unaided. This is entirely a fallacy. The locks are free and the lockmaster can call upon any owner or owners of a craft to give him sufficient help in accomplishing his task.

A few days since we had the bad fortune to get into a conversation with a lady who could find nothing but evil to say about this great and glorious country. She was a Canadian, born and bred; her father had made a comfortable competence in this country and the daughter seemed to have been doing her best to have a good time with as much of it as she could get hold of for spending in England and on the continent of Europe. "Weally and truly," she said, "I simply loathe Canada, don't you know; there's weally nothing about it that I like—the twadespeople are so familiar, and the servants are so howwibly howwid, and the climate's so cold, and the politicians are so self-seeking, to put it mildly, and the twains are so slow, and the hotels are so uncomfortable, and the men are so ungentlemanly and the women are so gauche and—well, taken altogether, she was a pretty tough specimen of a renegade to her country. Those of us who are at all patriotically inclined, look upon a person of this type, if he is a man, as quite capable of committing arson or bloody murder. But what can we say, when it is a woman? Thank God, there are not many of them. One thing is absolutely sure, that Canada can well spare those who take no trouble to spare her.

'ROUND THE STORES

Mr. Ruse, of the City Music Co., has some excellent chances in new and second-hand pianos and organs. The instruments may be seen any time at his warerooms and the special terms arranged for. This firm has been appointed sole agents here for the Newcombe & Co. pianofortes, as well as the Evans pianos. These makes of pianos have, for years, stood well in the ranks of popular instruments in this province.

In the windows of the Peterborough Bookstore will be seen an excellent display of sporting and leather goods. The display is a most varied one, and the department assigned to these goods should be visited by all concerned in buying below regular prices.

• • • •

At the counters of the Warne Drug Co. the shopper will find a most extensive and varied stock of choice toilet requisites. This firm should be visited by all who are contemplating a summer outing for a supply of those articles which are both a pleasure and a comfort. Here one will find standard toilet waters, face powders and bath powders, of both foreign and domestic make, and many new and popular manufactures in this line.

This is the last day of the Golden Lion's successful July stock reduction sale. To-night there will be found many interesting lines of dry goods at clearance prices. The Whitewear section is ticketing all night gowns, corset covers, drawers and underskirts at 15 off regular figures.

Merell & Meredith have a lot of catchy bargains for men and boys. All summer suits, in both the regular and outing styles are marked at prices ranging from 20 to 25 off. For a nice line of fabrics for men's summer tailor-made suits a visit to their tailoring department will be found advantageous just now.

Cressman is showing some handsome suits and other goods in the line of men's furnishings at genuine reduced prices. An extra outing suit or pair of trousers are always desirable, no matter how complete the wardrobe may seem, and such an opportunity as this firm offers should be productive of intelligent buying by good dressers.

Harry Adams has a notable blouse sale for the Saturday evening shopper. Many beautiful trimmed muslin blouses that were formally priced $1.75 to $2.50 go to-night for $1.39. Next Tuesday Adams begins a mid-season sale of whitewear.

Coleman Bros. have a new egg drink, which is becoming popular. Their business at the fountain and ice cream tables has been very brisk this week.

Skeleton suits at skeleton prices have been one of the features for men at Lang & Maher's "Daylight Store," this week. Children's Wash Suits and Boys' Blouses and all summer wearables are advertised at greatly reduced prices. Specials in men's flannel homespun pants and duck trousers are also offered.

Elegance is more often expressed in small details rather than in the larger considerations of dress and style. In the selection of stationery, and other articles essential to the facilitating of social amenities good form must be accurately observed. The customer who makes his selection of such things from Cubitt's stock, has the assurance that he is getting what the latest dictates of etiquette demand.

Every Saturday the ladies regularly watch for the "Extra Specials" at Richard Hall & Son's. The great range of goods advertised for to-day must help to make pleasant shopping for all who strive to make every dollar do its best service. Those who are unable to come out before evening should make a visit to-night to this store and have a chance to share in the many bargains awaiting them. To be stylish and to be cool—that's the rub. The problem may be solved at Richard Hall & Son's.

Whether the outing is by water or on land, by motor boat, automobile, or even an airship, one of the necessary accompaniments is some pretty Peterborough souvenir piece of jewellery. The beautiful assortment shown by Frank Schneider & Co., is very catching. These Peterborough souvenir designs are to be had in spoons, flags, hatpins, brooches, belts, etc. The well-arranged window display is quite attractive.

FOR BABY'S SKIN TROUBLES

There are times in the life of nearly every child when Dr. Chase's Ointment proves itself a blessing. The tender skin chafes and is irritated by the clothing. Oftentimes baby eczema develops from this very cause. In a dozen ways Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used to sooth and heal the skin and prevent suffering of the little one. No treatment is so well suited for this purpose and none is so entirely satisfactory.

WOMAN LAWYER, ILL TURNS TO FARM WORK

Here's a picture of Grace Ballentyne, lawyer, Des Moines, Iowa., a woman who does things with a vim.

She won a noted case in the supreme court of her state last winter, against an array of high priced legal talent of the opposite sex. But because of her long, hard fight and the rush of business that followed it, her health failed.

Her doctor ordered immediate outdoor work. Did she go out into the back yard and wearily pull weeds out of her flower bed? Oh, no—not she!—She bought a 1600-acre farm near Wallace, Idaho, and with the help of one man she is doing all the work on that big acreage.

Her first crop is now ready to harvest, and if she finds that it pays, and that she is a successful farmer, she'll stay.

If it doesn't pay she'll stay anyway until her health comes back and she can return to her practice of law—for she's plucky and unafraid, is this little woman of large brain.

MISS GRACE BALLENTYNE

HOW TO MAKE ENGLISH JAM

BY ALICE GITCHELL KIRK.

Put together in an earthen vessel or stone crock one quart of damson plums and three quarts of blackberries. Add half a cup of water, cover and set in a vessel of cold water, or in a steam cooker. Boil until the damsons are ready to drop from the stones. Remove the stones and stir the fruit until a smith mass. Add an equal amount of sugar and boil steadily for about 20 minutes. This is a very nice jam for tarts.

First Half Of August Cooler

Second Half Warmer Than Usual

Washington, D. C., July 31.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 28 to August 1, warm wave 27 to 31, cool wave 30 to August 3. This disturbance was expected to cause a great high temperature wave and dry weather and that the cool wave would inaugurate a long spell of cool weather.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about August 5, cross Pacific slope by close of 6, great central valleys—longitude 105 to 85—7 to 9, eastern states 10. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 5, great central valleys 7, eastern states 9. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 8, great central valleys 10, eastern states 12. The cool wave preceding this disturbance will bring showers where the drouth is not too firmly set and after that cool wave passes rainfall will not be plentiful during balance of August.

This disturbance will come during a spell of average low temperatures and for two weeks following August 3, the temperatures will average cooler than usual. About August 4, 5 and 6 the storm forces will put on some angry faces and then the weather will be rather quiet for ten days.

I am expecting a shortage in rainfall in the Ohio valleys and eastern Canada during August which may do some damage to the corn crop and cut the early fall pasturage short. Indications point to dry weather in the southern states except in southwestern Texas, where rains are expected. Probabilities are that more rains will fall in the upper Mississippi valleys and middle Canada during August than in the Ohio valleys, while some parts of the Missouri valleys where the great floods occurred in July will have a deficiency in rainfall.

I expect first half of August to average cooler than usual and last half to average warmer than usual. Most rain will fall during first half of the month and very little during last half. My frost forecasts for September will appear in next bulletin. I could not get them ready for this issue. I am of opinion that frosts will do some damage next month in northern sections.

Three severe weather periods are expected in August within the five days centring on 5, 17, 30. These dates are for meridian 90 and you must never forget to allow time for the usual average eastward drift of the disturbances.

Make your calculations for a great hot wave cenring on August 20.

IT'S DOG DAYS, BUT "DOG DAYS" IS BIGGEST HOAX YET

REMARKABLE FACTS ABOUT MAD DOGS

Europe averages only one death a year from mad dogs.

In Chicago alone two deaths have occurred in 1909 from mad dog bites.

Madstones will not cure or help mad dog's bite.

Killing a suspicious dog that has bitten someone is unwise; the dog should be kept alive to watch for the disease.

If you think your dog is going mad, don't shoot it; call in a competent veterinarian and have him look at the dog.

It's dog days!

And those two words stand for one of the biggest hoaxes ever sprung on the world.

Few persons who call this hot weather dog days really know how the term started. The old Greeks, whose pet Paris poodles weren't as good-natured as ours, paid more attention to stars than they did to spaniels.

So they let astronomy go to the dogs when they called the brightest star in the sky the dog-star. Its other name is Sirius. The Greeks preferred to call it the dog-star because the constellation that Sirius belonged to looked to them like one of Jupiter's pet canines running a Marathon all over Mount Olympus after a piece of beef. Steak was high in those days, too.

This bright bowwow star rises with the sun over the horizon in August, so we call this time of year dog days. Dog-star days would be better.

Mad dogs cause more trouble in hot weather than in winter, and in some remarkable way people got to believe that the dog-star really made dogs go mad.

As soon as we tear the July leaf off our calendars and August stares at us, the face of a dog rises up like a mind-ghost. Then we begin to watch every restless dog that gets in our way, even if he is only chasing the butcher's waggon with fond but vain hope.

All the dog wants is his dinner, and yet we think he wants to bite somebody.

Seriously, though, there are a few things the readers of the Examiner ought to remember. There's a difference in a mad dog and a mad dog scare, such as we hear about so much.

Rabies, the disease that makes dogs go mad, is the least understood of animal complaints. The disease hydrophobia, which is human rabies, suggests another hoax. It comes from two Greek words that mean "afraid of water." Mad dogs are supposed to fear water, when in reality it is the glitter of water that they fear; it hurts their eyes, which are always affected by rabies. For the same reason they hide in dark corners and under the shed to escape the glare of day.

Another dog days hoax is the madstone. That revered geological specimen, generally owned by the Indian doctor or the herb healer in the next county, once was supposed to be a sure-thing cure for hydrophobia. But the experts tell us it does no more good than a piece of blotting paper.

Muzzles are still another hoax. Dr. W. W. Fair, the noted American authority on diseases of animals, says wire muzzles now in use will not protect against a mad dog's bite. A furious dog can snap and bite through the wire, he declares. He recommends tying up restless dogs.

Even now the Pasteur treatment, which is supposed to have saved so many lives, is being attacked by Letand, the great French authority, and doctors in this country. They say that everybody who has been cured by the Pasteur treatment would have recovered anyway. So, they argue, what's the use to take the cure?

Deaths in Chicago are more frequent from hydrophobia than in any other city of Europe or America.

In Europe there is strict supervision over dogs. The dog-catchers over there are highly respected individuals, and the chief dog-catcher in a European town wears a badge twice as big as the chief of police.

He has a whole force of deputy dog-catchers. A dog over there must behave himself, or the next morning his master will whistle and then say: "Dog-gone."

PALE, LANGUID GIRLS

Weak Blood During Development May Easily Cause a Life of Suffering.

A Tonic Such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Needed to Build Up the Blood and Give New Strength.

At no time in her life does a girl stand in greater need of pure red blood and the strength which it alone can give her, than when she is developing into womanhood. It is then that any inherited tendency to anaemia or consumption needs only the slightest encouragement to rapidly develop. This danger is especially threatening to girls who are confined long hours indoors, in stores, offices and factories—girls depressed by worry and cares. All these conditions quickly impoverish the blood and are among the most common causes of sickness among growing girls and young women. If at any time a girl finds that her strength is failing and she is becoming pale and nervous, has no ambition and is languid, it is a certain sign that her blood is failing to meet the demands upon it, because it is impure and thin.

It is at a time like this that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable to young women and growing girls. They build up the blood, make it rich, red and pure, tone the nerves and give new health and strength to every part of the body. They have cured so many cases of this kind that they may truly be called a specific for the common diseases of girlhood. Miss Minnie Smith, Creighton street, Halifax, says: "I have proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are all that is claimed for them in cases similar to mine. About three years ago I suddenly began to run down. I grew so weak that I could hardly attend to my school studies. I suffered from headaches, my heart would palpitate violently at the least exertion, and my appetite was very fickle. I tried doctors' medicine and emulsions, but the treatment did not help me. Then I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I gratefully recommend them to other ailing girls."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Elaborate Evening Coiffure

In the evening coiffure the real popularity of the bangs is seen. Until recently bangs did not play any part in hair dressing for evening affairs, but so many fashionable women have fringed their hair that the girl who wants to be stylish must fringe hers.

Here are two views of the very latest method of dressing the hair for full-dress occasions, and it defies description. It is just an elaborate mass of waves and puffs and curls, and the more you can pin on the better, and the more fashionable you are.

ONE THOUSAND POSITIONS

As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, every link in Canada's Greatest Chain of High-grade Business Schools has been kept in the highest state of proficiency known to business science. While over one thousand students were enrolled last year, the demand for graduates was three times the supply. The Peterborough Business College, which reopens August 30th, invites the most critical inspection from prospective students. Owing to the prestige of this chain, every graduate of neat appearance and good character is guaranteed a good situation. The new advertisement of this college appears on page 1. 2d-16

POST CARD COLUMN.

Dear Mr. Editor, — We have city delivery and postal boxes in different parts of the city, presumably in the interest of the the public convenience. My experience is that the street boxes are a delusion and a snare. A card on each box gives the hour up to which letters are collected, meaning, anyone would think, that a letter posted previous to that hour, would be collected and sent away on its journey. But on more than one disgusting occasion, and others tell me they have had the same experience, I have visited the box pillar at the corner of Park street and Charlotte street before the time announced for the collection only to be told by Mr. Warne, who conducts the grocer's shop at that point, that the collector had paid his visit some time before, and several minutes before the announced time of closing collection. Then I have had either to go down town to the C.P.R. station, or to the Post Office. Is that in the interest of the public convenience? What would you think of a railway train scheduled to depart at 10 o'clock pulling out from the station at 9.45 or 9.50? This matter has been reported to the authorities without any improvement.

Yours truly,

"STUNG."

System Poisoning
CONSTIPATION

Do not be satisfied with temporary relief—Cleanse the system and make sure lasting with DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Constipation begins with the bowels but it does not end there.

You must also consider the way it affects the liver, the kidneys, the digestive system and in fact the whole human body.

Headaches, backaches, aching limbs, indigestion, biliousness, kidney derangements, and the most serious diseases imaginable, often have their beginning with constipation of the bowels.

There is one treatment which has a direct and combined effect on the bowels, the liver and the kidneys and gets these organs into good working order in remarkably quick time, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They afford relief quickly but they do more than that. They positively cure constipation and insure lasting regularity of the bowels by setting the liver right.

Policeman Peter O. Morris, 16 Wascana Ave., Toronto, Ont., states:

"I was troubled for years with habitual constipation and have spent considerable in so-called remedies and can gladly say that I have been completely cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and shall be pleased to personally recommend them to any person who wishes to interview me."

It scarcely seems wise to trifle with medicines which merely afford temporary relief, when by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, you not only get prompt relief but also a thorough cleansing of the whole excretory system and lasting benefits by the restoration of the health and activity of the liver.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

LUXURIOUS BEAUTIES OF YILDIZ PALACE PROVES ONLY A MYTH

Famous Home of Deposed Sultan Looks Like a Barrack Hospital—Abdul Hamid's Residence For 35 Years a Nightmare to Artistic Eye.

WEALTH ENTIRELY LACKING

London, July 30.—A correspondent of the Evening Standard rubs all the gilt off the famous Yildiz gingerbread in the following description of the former Sultan's palace of palaces:

The much-vaunted pleasure grounds of the terrible Sultan — which, seen from the outside, suggest the possibility of a lovely grounds and splendid trees—are without beauty or attraction of any sort. Abdul Hamid was known to have a strange aversen to flowers, but it might have been thought that he would have made up for this by planting wide avenues and laying out green lawns with rare or noble trees.

There is nothing, however, beyond what can be seen in any private garden, and not half as much as several of the finer ones on the Bosphorus can show. The paths are narrow and the shrubs meagre, and the park of Yildiz is as great a fraud as the palace itself.

Two Storied Buildings.

There are lovely palaces at Constantinople — perfect architectural gems, in polished marble and gold; but Yildiz looks more like a modern barrack hospital, in stucco and plaster There is not one palace, but many two-storied buildings lying scattered about the park, and few of them have the slightest pretension to any beauty of design or decoration.

A building of much interest but no beatny is the shooting lodge and armoury. One or two rooms were filled with showcases containing rifles of every description and cartridge-making machines, most of them presented by German firms. Opening out from these was a closed-in gallery with targets runing along wires and a dummy man. The Sultan very seldom came to the shooting gallery—perhaps once in every two or three years — but the other members of the family often practised.

Sultan's Room Small.

The Sultan's own rooms are mostly small, with very narrow doors—wide enough only for a man to squeeze through, and in every one used to lie a revolver. The harem is a long and ugly, low, barrack-like construction, with strong barred windows. Through these the gaping crowd can see a most nondescript collection of curiosities. These are vases of great beauty, and extraordinary knick-knacks.

One of these is a model of a steamer presented by the Shirket-i-Hairieth Company. It is about two feet long, the hull being of mother-of-pearl, and the fittings of silver, on a yard or two of silver sea. It is "dressed" with strings of precious stones, diamonds, emeralds and rubies, from stem to stern, and flies a ruby-eyed flag with with the crescent and cross picked out in large brilliants. The paddle-boxes are also studded with brilliants.

On an inlaid table lay a fly-whisk, Instead of the usual fibre or horsehair, the whisk was made of egret plumes, and the ebony and gold handle was encrusted with the quadruple ring of great brilliants.

The Bosphorus Reproduced.

Over against the harem is the artificial lake, or, rather, canal, which runs for about half a mile through a park. It is marked off by various landing stages named after the villages in the Bosphorus touched at by the daily steamers. It was here that the fair prisoners, who could not enjoy the real thing, were wont, accompanied sometimes by the Sultan himself, to make imaginary trips to Therapia or Beicos on an ungainly and hideous water-bicycle to hold about half a dozen passengers. There were drawbridges here and there to heighten the illusion; but it is almost inconceivable to a Western mind that any civilized being above the age of ten could have found amusement in navigating this canal.

At the end of the water is a small kioak, from an upper room in which a huge telescope sweeps the magnificent views up and down the Bosphorus, and over the Golden Horn and the Marmora. This was rather a favourite resort of His Majesty, it is said, and of the palace ladies, and well it might be, for the natural panorama is superb. But what a hideous mixture of furniture inside! Red plush sofas and arm chairs in one room, gilt chairs in another and cupboards and curtains that never matched each other or anything else—it was a nightmare to the eye.

There are no silken carpets, no delights of colour no suggestion even of wealth and pleasure in the bare plastered exteriors and shoddy interiors one is shown.

And this was the Sultan's residence for thirty-five years.

TO UNVEIL GIANT BUST OF JIM HILL

BUST OF J. J. HILL

Seattle, July 30.—A giant bust of Jas. J. Hill, railroad builder of the northwest, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern road, is to be unveiled here at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, August 3, Minnesota day.

It was cast of bronze in Brooklyn, N. Y., and cost over $8,000. It is 6 feet high, weighs nearly a ton and is the largest piece of its kind in the world.

WHERE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR ONE OF THE BY-LAWS SHOULD REST

City Council of 1909 Made Only a Small Share of the Expenditure For Street Extensions and Water Fronts.

The present city council has been somewhat criticised for the expenditures which made necessary the submission of the by-laws on Thursday to provide for the cost of street extension and for filling in the water front. A glance, however, at the following statement, will show that the council of 1909 is responsible for only a very small share of the expenditure, though it had to assume the responsibility of the whole and provide for meeting it:

STREET EXTENSION EXPENDITURE

The net amount expended in each year, including interest charges to the 31st of December, 1908, was as follows:

|---|---|
| In 1904 | $ 1122 31 |
| In 1905 | 913 98 |
| In 1906 | 1552 21 |
| In 1907 | 12475 18 |
| In 1908 | 3195 06 |
| In 1909 | 42 22 |
| | $20300 96 |

From this deduct proceeds of sale of Debentures in 1905, under Bylaw No. 1119 ..... $6000 00

$14300 96

To this must be added interest from 1st January, 1909.

EXPENDITURES ON WATER LOTS

The net amount expended in each year, including interest charges to December, 1908, was as follows:

|---|---|
| In 1906 | $1508 88 |
| In 1907 | 2116 94 |
| In 1908 | 535 30 |
| In 1909 | 813 05 |
| | $4972 17 |

Mr. H. D. Burnett As A Writer On Electrical Subjects

The current number of the Canadian Electrical News" contains a seven page, elaborately illustrated article, the second section of his treatise on "Tungsten and Carbon Lamps," by Mr. H. D. Burnett, of the Canadian General Electric Company staff. In connection with the article is printed an excellent photogravure of Mr. Burnett, and the subjoined sketch:

Mr. H. D. Burnett, the writer of the paper on Tungsten lamps, was born and educated in Michigan. After finishing a course in Detroit High School, he spent four years at Michigan University, from which he graduated with the degree of B.S. Then spending one year in teaching science and mathematics in Cleveland High School, he entered the Brush Electric Works, leaving Cleveland six months later to accept a position with Thomson-Houston Electric Company, Lynn, Mass., in their lamp department.

At the time of the amalgamation of the Thomson-Houston and Edison Companies to form the General Electric Company, Mr. Burnett was superintended the transfer of that of the Thomson-Houston Electric Company. When the lamp works were closed at Lynn and the lamp business transferred to the Edison works at Harrison, N. J., Mr. Burnett came to Canada to take charge of lamp manufacture for the Canadian General Electric Company. He superintendd the transfer of that department from Hamilton to Peterborough in 1894, and has been in charge of the lamp works as superintendent from that time up to the present, during which period he has seen the annual shipments of Canadian General Electric lamps increase over nine-fold.

GRANT OF $500

Made To Peterboro and Ashburnham Horticultural Society.

The city of Peterborough has for immediate sale $91,500 worth of debentures which are made up of $70,000 for the new water works dam, and $21,500 for the street extension and filling in the water front. The balance of the water works and the Smith street bridge by-laws will not be sold until required.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was held yesterday afternoon, when the above action was decided upon.

Ald. Phelan and City Clerk Armstrong were also appointed delegates from the city to the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Board, which meets in Toronto on Sept. 1 and 2. The Clerk was also authorized to pay the city's annual fees of $15.

The assessors were paid $100 each on account.

The annual grant of $500 was made to the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society. This money is used in taking care of the park.

The committee also considered and passed the usual list of accounts.

W. A. EXCURSION

Held Yesterday To Stony Lake Was a Delightful Outing.

The excursion on the steamer Stoney Lake, over the Lift Lock and around the lakes, held yesterday under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church, was a great success. The day was a delightful one and many took in the event. The trip up the canal was made in splendid time and the day on the lakes was all that could be desired. It was the steamer's regular trip and stops were made at the various resorts. Burleigh was reached shortly after twelve o'clock, where dinner was served, after which the sail was made to the head of the lake.

The ladies speak in the highest terms of the kind and courteous treatment given at the hands of the boat crew.

500 FROM MARMORA

Monster Excursion Through Peterborough On August 18th.

Four of Marmora's Sunday Schools are arranging to hold a big excursion to Peterborough on Wednesday, August 18th. It is expected that there will be in the neighbourhood of 500 people take in the trip and one of the attractions will likely be a baseball game between Marmora and a picked team from the City League. A gentleman from Marmora stated to the Examiner last night that there would probably be more than 500 on the excursion, which is destined for a park above Peterborough. However, there will be a large number remain over to see the game and spend the day in the city. The Marmora team plays fairly fast ball and are reported to be able to give a local nine a close argument.

A FINE PROGRAMME

Laid Behind the Counter Until Relief Came.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING OF AN OWEN SOUND CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

MR. WM. KRANTZ, Owen Sound, Ont., writes: "Having read some of the testimonials of cures effected by Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I thought it advisable to say a word of praise for its merits.

"Some years ago I was much troubled with stomach trouble and cramps. I used to roll on the floor in agony, and on one occasion I went into a faint after suffering intensely for four hours. A short time after this, in driving to town, I was attacked again and had to lie down in my rig, seeking relief.

"When I reached the drug store I asked the druggist for a quick remedy and laid behind the counter until relief came. The remedy I received from the druggist was Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Whenever, after that time, I felt cramps coming on, I found speedy relief in the above mentioned remedy, and I am now cured of this dreadful malady. The bottle is small, but its contents effect a marvelous cure. I can recommend it highly for the cure of cramps."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for 65 years. It is not a new and untried remedy. Ask for it and insist on getting what you ask for. Refuse substitutes. They're dangerous.

Committed for Trial.

Brockville, July 31.—Newell Service and Fred Howarth, Rockport residents, charged with perjury in making affidavits to the effect that one Alexander Kirkwood illegally instructed in a polling booth in the Township of Escott Front on Jan. 4 last a voter named Cornelius McEvoy to mark his ballot for local option, appeared for their preliminary hearing here yesterday.

They were sent for trial, bail being accepted in $2,000.

Plumber Is Sporty.

Great Falls, Mont., July 31.—Because he was rich enough to buy an automobile and then use it to convey himself to and from his work, Otto Klessig, a journeyman plumber, got into trouble with the union and yesterday was arrested for trying to whip the secretary of the local branch. After the purchase of the automobile, Klessig was fined $25 for using it to ride to and from work, in alleged violation of the union rules.

Pulled Neighbor's Hair.

Kingston, July 31.—For pulling a bunch of hair out of the head of her neighbor, Mrs. Mary Ann Coulay, Mrs. David Tanner was fined $6 by Magistrate Farrell. Mrs. Tanner resented remarks passed about herself and children.

Not All Decorated.

Port Hope, Ont., July 31.—Because it costs between 50 and 60 cents to decorate a grave the local Oddfellows have cut off sixteen outside members' graves. The graves will be decorated on Sunday.

Quebec, July 31.—News reached Quebec about midnight that fast freight train No. 75 westbound on the Intercolonial had left the track about one mile west of Laurier station.

Senator Cox Returning.

Toronto, July 31.—Senator Cox and his bride are expected back on either Monday or Tuesday from their honeymoon. They have been abroad for the past three months.

MEXICO SHAKEN BY SEVERE QUAKE

Twenty More Are Known to Be Mortally Injured by Sharp Shocks That Sweep Over an Area of a Thousand Square Miles — Mexico City Suffers and Acapulco Is Partially Razed Yesterday.

Mexico City, July 31.—With Chilpaucingo destroyed and Acapulco partly razed and the loss of life problematical, Central Mexico from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Queretaro on the north to Oaxaca on the south, an area of more than 1,000 square miles, was shaken at an early hour yesterday by a series of the most severe earth shocks felt in the region for the last quarter of a century.

The quake was severe in Mexico City, but not public in destruction. Reports telling of the loss of life are meagre, but the official figures thus far given show 13 killed and more than a score mortally injured. While word comes from G. Payros, an American commercial traveler at Chilpaucingo, Guerrero, that that city was destroyed and the inhabitants are living in the open, suffering from the elements, the loss of life is not definitely known. The shocks continued at Chilpaucingo last night with subterranean rumblings, flashes of lightning and hail.

Acapulco, Guerrero, was partly razed. According to the observatory records, the first shock of the series was felt at 4.15 yesterday morning. It was severe causing the bells of the many cathedrals of Mexico City to toll, breaking crockery and in some instances levelling walls.

The inhabitants of the capital had hardly recovered from fright when a second and more severe shock caused an outpouring of nearly all the residents. This movement was of a twisting character and lasted with marked severity 90 seconds. The tall buildings of the capital swayed and in some instances cracked, the pavement opened in places and in the poorer quarters, a number of houses collapsed.

So far as can be learned from police records, six persons lost their lives in Mexico City and its environs as a result of the second shock. Two were men of the lower classes. The others were a woman and a child. The American colony escaped unscathed. They, with the entire native population, remained in the plazas until daylight.

The property damage in Mexico City is slight.

Rust Cannot Hurt Much.

Toronto, July 31.—"If the western Canada wheat crops is due for a setback by rust, we will hear about it within the next two or three days," said a Toronto grain dealer yesterday. "Hot days following a season of moisture is the kind of weather that makes rust, and that is what the west is getting now," he continued.

"The grain is so far advanced towards maturity, however, that it is doubtful whether an attack of rust would do any real damage."

The western states are still talking rust, but the reports are sufficiently contradictory, about the presence of rust, to create little or no uneasiness."

Italian Kills Chinaman.

Haileybury, July 31.—One Chinaman was murdered and another badly wounded in the King Edward restaurant here last night by an Italian, who stabbed the orientals, following a dispute regarding the payment for a meal.

The Italian entered the eating house in an intoxicated condition, and after concluding his meal started to leave without paying the full amount demanded by the Chinamen, who were employed in the restaurant. The men remonstrated with the Italian, who drew a knife and stabbed them.

Fire at Campbellton, N.B.

St. John, N.B., July 31.—A telephone message from Dalhousie last night states that the Champeaux lumber mills on the Quebec shore, opposite Campbellton, were destroyed by fire.

Eight vessels in danger were worked out into the bay and escaped the fire. The mill was a very fine one, valued at over $130,000.

The loss was estimated at $50,000. Campbellton sent a fire engine across the bay to assist.

Will Live on Yacht.

London, July 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—George Orr, representing Dr. Orr of the Canadian National Exhibition, accompanied by Dr. Hamilton, called on Lord Beresford yesterday. His lordship accepts with great pleasure George H. Gooderham's offer of the use of his yacht as his residence during his stay in Toronto. Lord Beresford remains one week in that city.

Dropped Dead at Work.

Prescott, July 31.—Eric Ericson, aged 50 years, dropped dead Thursday while he was at work. He was employed at the Dominion Lighthouse depot as a coppersmith.

He is survived by a widow and two daughters, at home, and one son, living in Ottawa.

Atlantic Cables Not Cut.

London, July 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At a meeting yesterday of the Anglo-American Cable Co., the chairman stated that although the Eastern Telegraph Co. had reduced the rates on press cables, the Atlantic companies had no such intention.

Celebrate Wolfe's Victory.

London, July 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The 130th anniversary of Wolfe's victory at Quebec will be celebrated by a banquet on Sept. 13. A committee, headed by Lord Roberts, has in hand the execution of a bronze statue of Wolfe.

Struck by Lightning.

Galt, July 31.—During the severe electric storm Thursday night lightning struck a Wellington street house occupied by William Wilford and badly wrecked it. The 10 o'clock car on the G., P. & H. was hit and the motor burned out. Motorman Hommth had a narrow escape. At the Metzger's farm, Hespeler road, a bolt set fire to a huge stock of wheat, which was completely burned up.

ORDER IS BEING RESTORED IN SPAIN

She Is Afraid That Success of Moors Against Spanish Troops May Inflame the Entire Mohammedan Population of Northern Africa—Slaughter In Barcelona Is Very Large, Say Reports.

Madrid, July 31.—The Government's report from Catalonia indicates that the situation continues to improve.

Both King Alfonso and Premier Maura seem satisfied that the worst is over, that the rebellion in Barcelona has been quelled, and that order soon will be restored in the remainder of the captaincy-general.

Nevertheless, to be on the safe side, large bodies of troops of all arms continue to be hurried to the scene.

No figures, not even estimates, of the loss of property and life in Catalonia is vouchsafed by the authorities, but private despatches leaking out through the frontier indicate that there has been a greater slaughter at Barcelona. Reports continue to filter in of the destruction of property, especially churches, monasteries and convents, against which the fury of the mob was centered.

The only other regions creating particular anxiety are the Biscayan provinces. There is some apprehension that the followers of Don Jaime, the pretender, may attempt to raise the white flag of the Carlists.

Bodies Mutilated.

Melilla, July 31.—The Moors have withdrawn from the outskirts of the city. It is believed they are concentrating for a new effort. They burned hundreds of their dead whom they were unable to carry off.

The ground was covered with heaps of corpses. The bodies had been stripped of their arms and many of them mutilated after death.

Moors Forces Augmented.

Ceuta, Morocco, July 31.—The natives in the region surrounding this seaport are preparing to join their fighting brethren on the heights before Melilla. A holy war is being preached from Ceuta to Moulmuga, and the whole country is aflame with fanaticism. The position of the Moors on Mount Mouiniga, where 30,000 warriors are congregated is considered here to be impregnable.

King Edward Not Acting.

London, July 31.—The Associated Press is officially authorized to state that there is not a word of truth in the rumor that King Edward is asking France and Germany to intervene in Spain, nor in another rumor to the effect that it has been suggested that a mixed force of French, British and German troops should be sent to co-operate with the Spaniards at Morocco.

Christians vs. Moors.

Paris, July 31.—The news of the terrible defeat inflicted on the Spanish forces by Moors at Melilla and the confirmation of the extent of the insurrection in Spain causes apprehension here. The triumph of the Moors in the Riff country perhaps will inflame all Islam and lead to an uprising in Algeria and the Soudan. Some of the Paris newspapers therefore boldly suggest that in the interest of duty Europe should come to the rescue.

The Eclair says it is impossible for Europe to bow before the insolence of the triumphant Moors and that Christian civilization cannot afford to allow Spain to be beaten.

Gas Company Loses Case.

London, July 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The judicial committee of the Privy Council yesterday dismissed with costs the appeal of the Dominion Natural Gas Co. v. Perkins.

About three years ago last February George Perkins was burned to death and J. H. Collins fearfully burned in an explosion of natural gas in the roundhouse of the T., H. & B. yards at Hamilton. Action was taken against the Dominion Natural Gas Co. and the railway company, and a jury awarded Collins $7,000 for his burns and Mrs. Perkins $3,000 for the death of her husband.

PAINS

In Neck, Shoulders, Arms, Joints, Muscles

This means Rheumatism, the disease that next to Tuberculosis plays greatest havoc in the nation. But there is a cure—Ferrozone—a concentrated vegetable remedy that has the power to neutralize Uric Acid, and therefore it cures permanently.

FERROZONE CURES

"For years I had been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pains, and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame, and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength, and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy, and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

(Mrs.) Edw. Warman,
Kent Jnct., N.B.

You will be cured for all time to come by using Ferrozone; try it—now—50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

WRIGHT BROTHERS WERE SUCCESSFUL

Orville With Wilbur and Army Lieutenant Aboard Performs Brilliant Flight Over Measured Course Before Big Gathering of Officers and President Taft—Forty-Two Miles an Hour—New Record.

Washington, July 31.—Orville Wright yesterday evening attained the zenith of hard-earned success.

In a ten-mile cross country flight in the aeroplane built by himself and his elder brother, Wilbur, and accompanied by Lieut. Benj. D. Foulers, an officer of the army signal corps, he not only surpassed the speed requirements of his contract with the U. S. Government, but accomplished the most difficult and daring flight ever planned for a heavier than air flying machine.

Incidentally, he broke all speed records over a measured course.

Wright's speed was more than 42 miles an hour. He made the ten mile flight in 14 minutes and 42 seconds, including more than twenty seconds required for the turn beyond the line at Shulerhill, the southern end of the course. He attained a height in crossing the valley of "four-mile run," of nearly 500 feet, and the average altitude of his practical level course was about 200 feet.

President Taft arrived upon the parade ground at Fort Meyer just in time to see the aeroplane land and to participate in the demonstration which welcomed the triumphant aviator. He sent Col. Treat, commanding officer of the artillery at Fort Meyer, to bear his congratulations to the victors.

Lieut. Foulers climbed into the passenger seat beside the motor. Wilbur took his place at the right tip of the planes, and Orville clambered into his seat behind Foulers. He gripped the levers, and nodding to his brother, slipped the cable, which released the starting weight. The aeroplane shot down the track.

Orville brought the machine at great speed twice around the field, then with a short turn he swept about almost over the heads of the closely-banked spectators.

Soon the aerial navigators were home again over the drill grounds, flying very low. Orville steered straight across the field and at a height of about twenty feet, swung round again to the southward, and landed easily far down the field. The task was done, and in triumph. Cheer upon cheer welcomed the return.

To-day the official board will determine the speed made yesterday. It is agreed that it exceeded 42 miles per hour. The Wrights will therefore receive $30,000, including a bonus of $5,000 for their aeroplane.

DAINTY and ORIGINAL STYLES in SUMMER FROCKS

ALTHOUGH August is the hottest month of the year, it has been set apart in this country for the height of the summer season, when all outdoor festivities are at their gayest and most formal pitch. Naturally, the younger members of society, the future débutantes and social leaders of the coming decade, are not as much influenced as the older folk by the demands of formal life of the community in which they dwell, but in every summer colony even the youngest maidens move in certain well defined little cliques, with their own special dances and other forms of amusement, and they, as well as their older sisters, must be provided with correct, if simple, midsummer outfits.

While to a certain extent less costly than a summer trousseau of a grown up, there is after all little difference between the style and kind of frock worn by a school girl and that of her débutante sister. She must have her tennis dress, her dainty waists and well fitted separate skirts, her smart afternoon gowns of linen, lawn or organdie, and the pretty party frocks, with collarless yoke and half length sleeves. She must have also at least one smart linen coat and skirt, and a similar suit in white serge or homespun, while her hats, though of simple design, are numerous. For evening, instead of a décolleté dinner or ball dress a pretty frock, with Dutch neck and elbow sleeves, is worn, a low gown being inappropriate until the season, or possibly the year before, she is to come out.

ONCE a girl is sufficiently tall and can wear a tailor made suit becomingly her gowns will be of somewhat different style from the guimpe dresses and frocks of that description generally becoming to girls up to fifteen or sixteen years of age. The lines of all coat and skirt costumes are such this year that, although somewhat severe, this style of dress is not at all too old for a girl of sixteen, and nowadays coats and skirts to match in linen or pique are smart for very young girls even though the skirt does not reach to the shoe tops and the coat is a loose back reefer.

Guimpe and suspender dresses in linen, piqué, duck and even lawn are worn up to twelve or fourteen years of age, but for older girls simple frocks of a princess model buttoning either in front, on one side or down the back, finished with turned down lace or embroidered collar and leather belt, are more in vogue. In some of these models the belt consists of a stitched band of the material, while others are finished with a wide belt of suede or patent leather.

For both afternoon and evening dotted swiss is once more fashionable, and trimmed only with a fine point d'esprit embroidery the dresses of this material are all exceedingly pretty. Organdie, batiste, flowered silk mousseline and soft clinging mull are all attractive for summer gowns, but in short dresses the fabrics with so little stiffness as swiss and organdie are perhaps better to select than the mull and too fine batiste.

THERE is a charming simplicity in all frocks for young girls this summer, the many flounces, ruffles, frills and ruchings which formerly adorned all muslin gowns being now things of the past. A simple lace collar or band of insertion at the throat shaped to form a yoke, one or two ruchings or flat bands of lace to end off the sleeves at the wrists, a few clusters of hand tuckings and a band of embroidery or lace or a ribbon belt being all that is demanded of a frock for most formal wear.

Save those gowns which are a mass of French embroidery, there is comparatively little trimming of either embroidery or lace, and when real or an exceptionally good quality of machine lace cannot be had then the less attempt at trimming the better. Machine tucking or shirring on a thin frock is also far from smart, and, fortunately, the simplest gowns this year if prettily cut and finished will perhaps give just as good effect as those of most elaborate workmanship.

White is ever the favored summer shade, as it is the most economical, even when frequent laundering has to be taken into consideration. White should certainly form the foundation of a girl's summer outfit, with some few gowns of pink, blue and pale green for occasional wear. Colored under slips are no longer worn with even the most sheer or profusely embroidered batiste gowns, but bright hued ribbon belts will prevent any monotony in the all white. Round belts of moire ribbon boned to be about three inches wide, finished in back with one or two flat rosettes instead of long sash ends, are more in vogue this summer than the wider girdles of a year ago. Sashes with long streamer ends are worn by quite little girls, but the ribbon belts held in shape by one or two pieces of boning are smart for older girls. When such ends are becoming they may, of course, be worn, but as a rule the plain round belt is preferred.

ONCE again there are tucks and sometimes rows of shirring laid about the hips in the majority of dresses of sheer texture. The tucks run down the skirt to within a few inches of the knees, while when shirring is employed it reaches only to a depth of some six inches or less below the waist line.

The so-called "Moyen Age" model of the deep yoke skirt, which is flat about the waist and hips, with the lower part of the skirt laid in inch wide plaits or tucks, with a flounce added just at the knees, is not likely to come into favor for young girls, whose skirts are too short to make it possible for this design to be becoming. Much modified, however, with the skirt brought up to meet the waist only an inch or so higher than where the belt would ordinarily be and the full part joined some inches above the knees, this fantastic dress of the Middle Ages is not unattractive. This model is visible again in the gowns made all in one piece and quite unadorned to within a few inches above the knees, where a flounce is added, which is laid in numerous tucks or plaits opened out just above the hem, so that at the feet there is considerable flare.

A necessary part of a girl's summer outfit is a good fitting princess slip in either lawn or silk to wear under sheer white gowns. This slip is quite plain, adorned only with an edging of lace at the neck and about the armholes, with a flounce edged with the same narrow Valenciennes to give a certain flare about the hem. It is a good plan to have a wide piece of belting stitched about the inside of this slip, for this stiff ribbon will hold the garment in place and make any boning unnecessary. Nearly all these frocks have a piece of belting at the waist line, or if there is only a band of fine lace about the waist this is held in neatly by three to five pieces of wide feather boning. This belting, which has been introduced only a little more than a year, has made a remarkable difference in the fit and effect of all thin as well as heavy dresses, and is now as important a part of a schoolgirl's morning dress as for the most close fitting tailor costume.

FLOWERED materials — organdie, mull, lawn with pink the dominant color—are more in favor than the plain shades of pink or blue relieved with insertions or appliqued medallions of lace. A flower designs calls for but little trimming, and for that reason if for no other is often desirable. The waist, if for evening wear, should be finished only with wide or narrow lace insertion, Valenciennes and baby Irish being about equally popular, forming a flat yoke, and with square cut neck and perhaps below the yoke some few bands of the lace running down the waist between bands of narrow tucks. The sleeves reach just below the elbow and are quite narrow, finished off with a flat cuff fashioned like the yoke. The yoke should be either square cut or rounded and be of correct depth to reach just to the low neck slip underneath.

For evening a collarless gown is extremely pretty and most suitable, for this fashion has now become so popular that it has burst all bounds of reason and good sense, and a girl who restricts this so comfortable form of dress to afternoon and evening wear, never going without a collar when in the city or in travelling, will be sure to be in good style. Naturally the high boned collar is more trouble, for any kind of standing collar must be made to stand up well and fit perfectly, but it may be noticed that a good collar is characteristic of a well dressed girl.

MOURNING costumes for very young girls are always somewhat of a problem. In summer all white is now considered appropriate for even deepest mourning, but the frocks must be of the simplest, without any lace or embroidery trimming.

White organdie trimmed with insertions of net or point d'esprit lace or with white crêpe is permissible even in deepest mourning for afternoon or evening wear for a very young girl. Sheer white lawn or mull made up with the utmost simplicity, and even white dotted swiss, is correct for summer afternoons.

For tennis or golf a black belt, tie and hat will not give the effect of second mourning, but will serve to distinguish between the severe style of white dress that is to-day so regularly worn during the forenoon.

One or two black lawn or batiste dresses, a black linen and a black rajah or poagee coat and skirt costume will be found necessary in a summer mourning outfit for a young girl. White pongee is permissible for lighter mourning and coat and skirt costumes in this material are much in vogue still.

It is becoming more and more the custom to wear the deepest of mourning for a short while, but to make the term of deep mourning very brief, and this applies to young girls' fashions even more than for older persons. In hot weather it is naturally impossible to wear all black, and since black and white combinations, as well as grays and mauves, are so much in vogue for everyday wear when not in mourning, the onetime second mourning is now scarcely regarded. All white is considered more correct than black and white in deepest mourning, and as soon as the period of all black has expired colors may once more be donned. Children, however, may wear the lighter mourning, as mauve, gray and black and white combinations, to designate lightening mourning, since these are colors which they would not wear under ordinary circumstances.

For travelling all black must be worn and at all times in city black is obligatory with crêpe for a near relative if the girl is more than sixteen years of age. For out of doors, however, even in the afternoon or evening the cool organdie frock, with its simple trimming of net or white crêpe, is quite within the strictest limits of good taste.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"TAKE plenty of time to dress, my dear child," admonished the April Grandmother gently. "The girl who boasts that she can 'get ready to go anywhere within five minutes' usually gives other people the impression that her clothes have been thrown at her and that she has adjusted them without the aid of a pin cushion or a mirror. And no matter how handsomely garbed, she will not look like a young gentlewoman if her collar is parting from its band, her blouse divorced from her skirt and her boot heels covered with grime.

"Be certain to pin your hat securely," cautioned the April Grandmother. "Unsteady headgear, particularly of the present unwieldy type, causes one to unconsciously make grimaces, which are likely to become facial mannerisms. The eyebrows are either raised to an extreme height, causing deep lines extending straight across the brow, or the head is tilted so far forward that the jaw is forced backward, forming a double chin for the fat faced girl and a network of wrinkles for her thin sister.

"Dressing in haste has its effect upon the manner as well as upon the appearance. The girl who suddenly realizes a defect in her toilet instantly becomes self-conscious and behaves awkwardly or is disagreeable to other people simply because she is dissatisfied with herself. That state of mind causes deep lines running downward from the mouth corners and curved ridges about the inner ends of the eyebrows, hopelessly marring a face before its owner is twenty summers old.

"Such lines are always misleading to mere acquaintances, who are apt to imagine that the furrowed face indicates a farrowed disposition, and that is something from which most women and all men flee. More than one really lovable girl whom I knew in my youthful days is now 'braiding St. Catherine's tresses' simply because she spoiled her chances of happiness by habitually appearing in wabbling hats, bedraggled skirts and dusty shoes.

"The girl who is not pretty," concluded the April Grandmother, "should be particularly careful about dressing neatly. The consciousness that the toilet is beyond criticism is an important aid to anyone who is endeavoring to cultivate attractive manners—an asset which will be of infinite value long after bright eyes have become dull, pink cheeks have faded and slender fingers have broadened."

TOWEL COLLECTING.

TOWEL collecting is the initial step in America toward the establishment of that time honored custom of Europe, the gradual accumulation of household linen for the daughter who is approaching marriageable age. As every piece of dower chest linen must be distinctly marked, the first question for the towel collector to decide is whether to use one, two or three small initials or an inch square monogram as her marking scheme.

As the embroidery art is not readily mastered, the tyro would best begin with a dozen natural colored all linen glass and dish towels, which may be purchased already hemmed or by the yard, working the distinguishing mark in one corner with very dark red, blue or green embroidery linen. The same material is used for the two yard long hand roller towels, which usually are marked near the centre of their joining seam.

Next in order come the large, full bleach Turkish bath towels, which should carry a corner marking in a pale shade of pink, blue or green, and to accompany them are the hard wearing huckabacks of twenty-two by forty-two inch dimensions. These may be finished plain or with hemstitching and have colored initials embroidered in any color suitable for a bathroom.

Guest room towels are of two widely contrasting sizes—the largest almost a yard square and the smallest only eighteen by thirty inches. Both types of towels should be of fine, thick linen or of closely woven, heavy damask, but they may be decorated in an infinite variety of styles. Among the simplest towels of this order are those having edges of buttonhole embroidered scallops or points or with widely hemstitched or drawnwork ends showing a cross stitch pattern above the hem. A charming design for an all white damask towel is an oak or laurel wreath surrounding the distinguishing initial, and another is a dot and eyelet embroidery pattern used in connection with reticella squares or crochet lace bands.

Flower Rosettes.

INSTEAD of ribbon or chiffon rosettes on the satin mulls now so popular for bedroom use, tiny nosegays of imitation rosebuds make a most attractive finish to the dainty slipper. These flower rosettes are easily made and cost far less than any rosette to be purchased in the shops. The flowers should first be carefully tied together and then sewed to a foundation of buckram or stiff linen. A ruching of lace as a border is most attractive or a band of gathered satin ribbon will give the same effect.

Types of Lingerie Petticoat.

FOR travelling, shopping and general running about the most practical petticoats are of tan colored linen trimmed with scalloped braiding, of natural colored grass cloth with a deep flounce embroidered in the same tone, of natural pongee trimmed with several embroidery ruffles or with a Spanish flounce edged with linen Cluny lace.

Flowered lawn and dimity skirts trimmed with lace and beading run through with wide ribbon are used with colored tub frocks; tailored white rep petticoats are worn under linen tailor mades, and for lingerie gowns there are petticoats of English long cloth, trimmed with hand embroidered white cambric insertions and edgings, or of linen batiste, with muslin embroidery flounces.

For summer service an embroidery trimmed skirt will prove infinitely more useful than will one that is garnished with lace, as the heavier type of trimming is not only durable, but easily laundered.

Hair Ribbon to Match Stockings.

TWISTS of ribbon in the hair are as popular with the girls this summer as they were last, but there is a new touch about them which fashion imperiously decrees. They must precisely match in color and shade the stockings. So, as stockings are varied in hue this season, hair ribbons are also and if you wish to look smart you must not thoughtlessly twist a blue ribbon around your coiffure when you have donned pink stockings, or vice versa.

Ribbon and Silk Cases for the Accessories.

EVERY girl should take a pride in her possessions. Her room, for example, should be always ready for inspection, her desk should be orderly, her mantel attractive, with its pictures and vases; her bureau drawers in such order that there need never be any rummaging for a mislaid article. It is in such things that a girl's character is shown, and it rests with her to give what impression she will to the casual visitor.

When she visits, too, she carries with her a bit of the atmosphere of that room of hers, and her hostess can quickly tell from the degree of order in which the guest chamber is kept just what the bedroom at home must look like. Let her take care, then, to rise early enough to leave her room in shipshape condition before she hastens down to the breakfast table.

Even the very packing of the trunk shows up certain traits of character, for the naturally neat girl will have a case for everything and everything in its case; will have every collar boned before she leaves home, so that even if the actual packing has been attended to by her maid the articles in the trunk and the cases in which they are held will be characteristic of the girl herself. Nor is it ever possible to keep in order all of one's manifold collars, belts, veils, scarfs and ribbons unless each different kind of article has its own specially designed case, and if the trunk and the bureau drawers at home are to look always attractive these cases must be of the same kind of chints or ribbon and each box covered with the same design of paper or cretonne.

Many girls prefer boxes for their various veils, belts, handkerchiefs, &c., while others maintain that soft silk cases are the more convenient. Certainly a soft case is preferable in packing, while perhaps for the majority of small articles—the accessories of the costume—flat boxes are best. It is therefore a good plan to have both sets, one for visiting, the other for house use.

For gloves, handkerchiefs and veils an envelope shaped case is most generally employed, the size and shape differing, of course, for each article, a square case about eight inches in size being good for both handkerchiefs and net veils, while for gloves a case about fourteen by four is good. It is not necessary to go by any exact measurements, however, and often the width of the case is determined by the breadth of a piece of ribbon which it is desired to use for the purpose.

Stiff cases of covered cardboard, the side pieces held together by ribbon strings, are also liked by many girls. A piece of cardboard of the desired size is cut from an old box and covered first with a single thickness of cotton wadding through which a mixture of orris root and heliotrope has been plentifully sprinkled. After the wadding has been basted the ribbon cover is added, either silk, satin or brocade being used, silk ribbon, of course, being easiest to work with because of the selvage.

There should be, as well as the other cases, a bag for every shoe, as much to protect the shoe itself from scratching as to do away with the quantities of paper with which at one time a well packed trunk was filled. Any soft pretty flowered material will do for a shoe bag, although for patent leather slippers the bag should be of flannel. There should be a corset bag, too, in all well fitted out trunks. This last is made of ribbon about five inches in width, in length of course made to fit the corset, the bag being drawn in at the top with pretty strings. This same style of bag of six inch ribbon and about three yards in length is made for parasols, regulation umbrella cases in which the sun shade must be tightly wound round the stick being impracticable for constant use, as they cause the silk to crack at every crease. A parasol, when not in actual use, should always be kept in a case of this sort, which protects the pretty handle from scratching or fading out as well as the silk from becoming soiled.

There could be no more acceptable gift for a friend about to start for boarding school or on a trip abroad than a complete outfit of pretty bags and cases in either chints or ribbon for every article from her sponge and brush and comb to her slippers and parasol. With these might be included a half dozen tray covers of fine madras or linen, with the owner's initials daintily embroidered at one end or in the centre, for in extensive and continued travelling theme paper soon becomes torn, while a real tray cover needs only an occasional visit to the laundry to keep the trunk looking always smart and trim whenever opened by inquisitive customs officials.

Comfortable Dressing Sacques.

EASILY laundered kimono shaped dressing sacques of polka dotted dimity are finished with a printed striped bordering of contrasting color. Flowered lawns made up in the same manner have crossbar collars and cuffs trimmed with embroidery and lace, while those of crossbar have allover embroidery trimmings. Many of the printed lawn sacques have deeply scalloped edges and some of them have elbow length butterfly sleeves and string belts which tie at the back.

Plain white muslin sacques of the semi-fitted type have wide handkerchief collar and turnback cuffs of printed lawn; others have square necks, front plaits and belts finished with fagot braid edged white bands, and some of those developed in sheer crossbar mull are made in blouse effect with ribbon run beading yokes and kimono sleeves. Embroidered beading threaded with ribbon trims the all white dotted Swiss jumper dressing sacques, which are drawn on over the head, but many of those made in this style of floral printed muslin are edged with colored scalloping, while the ones composed wholly of white muslin embroidery wide flouncing do not require any trimming.

Tourists' dressing sacques of the sort that may be folded into small compass and even laundered by the amateur, if absolutely necessary, are of cotton crêpe printed in Persian effects, of albatross bordered with wash ribbon and of challie edged with scalloping. Equally washable, but not equally launderable, are the dressing sacques of China silk trimmed with Valenciennes and ribbon threaded embroidery beading, of India silk and lace and of printed satin foulard garnished with ribbons.

Hints on Pumps.

MANY girls find the low cut shoes and pumps difficult to keep on at the heel, but since this style of boot is fashionable they persist in wearing them on all occasions. A piece of waxed tape, the narrowest width procurable, run through the binding at the top of the shoe and tied beneath the bow or rosette in front, will help considerably to keep the boot from "pumping" up and down at the heel. The same scheme may be tried with satin evening slippers.

For suede pumps, black or white, bows made of the same leather are now more fashionable than either felt ribbon pump bows or fancy buckles.

In purchasing suede pumps it is better to buy those with wooden heels, as the leather heel rubs off so quickly and thus ruins the whole effect of the shoe. In white shoes especially it is advisable not to have the leather covered heels, which become stained so quickly with grass or mud, and which stains it is often impossible to eradicate.

WHO WANTS TO 'TASSLE' WITH ME

GIOVANNI RAICEVICH, ITALIAN HEAVYWEIGHT WRESTLER.

This man looks like one of those white-faced and white-suited comic acrobats we see on the vaudeville stage. But he isn't. He's more formidable than most of the vaudeville artists.

This is Giovanni Raicevich, 220-pound Italian wrestler. He has cleaned up a lot of wrestlers in his own country and on the continent of Europe. Now he is ambitious to take on Gotch and Hackenschmidt and other big fellows on this side.

Who wants to take a chance at this big Italian first? He's on his way across the ocean now with a valise full of recommendations and challenges.

CRUEL UMPS--HE ROBS DEVLIN OF WHOLE SUIT OF CLOTHES

Arthur Devlin of the New York Giants, was called out at the plate the other day when he tried to stretch a beautiful three-bagger into a home run. He made a bitter kick over the decision.

"Never mind, Arthur," one of the other players called to him.

"We got a big safe lead without the run?" he snarled back. "Naw, that aint' it. But I'm a poor man, and can't afford to be robbed that way. That umpire's decision cost me in the neighbourhood of $56.

"I haven't been buying any clothes lately, hoping to make a homer. I was figuring it up as I went around—I'd get a suit out of it, and a hat, and a pair of shoes—and my feet are pretty near on the ground—and a pair of suspenders, and some candy—and then that mutt called me out."

JOHN L. SULLIVAN WAS NEVER CHAMPION OF THE WORLD

Here's something you can get a bet on anywhere—and win.

Make some remark about John L. Sullivan, and then add: "He deserved to be the champion of the world."

Then watch yourself get a rise out of about a dozen people who think they know all about sport.

John L. Sullivan was never Champion of the World.

This is the decision of the sport-sharks—the fellows who know.

The great John L. was champion of America, but he only fought one foreigner—Charley Mitchell. He fought him in France to a drew, and once in this country, beating him. The conditions were bad in the French meet, and everything went under the rules then Corbett was a world's champion, and Fitzsimmons and Jeffries were, but Sullivan was not—so say the authorities.

JOHN L. AS HE APPEARS TO-DAY

OLD "FITZ" DISCUSSES KETCHEL'S CHANCES WITH JACK JOHNSON

Bob Fitzsimmons says that Stanley Ketchel can't whip Jack Johnson. Fitz has his own notions about Ketchel's chances with the black champion and his reasons for figuring Johnson the winner are worth listening to, at least. I found Fitz at his Dunellen farm yesterday, down by the little brook, building a bath house. The old hard thumper was as enthusiastic over the result of his tinkering as if he had just won a battle.

How do you like that bath house? See those canvas sides? Those used to form part of the scenery in the second act of my four-act drama, 'A Fight for Life.' The boys will use this when I open up the farm. You know, this ranch is going to be the greatest of them all when I open her up. The short-winded brigade will get health and rest here and old Bob will get the chance to do humanity some good.

Then he took me over the ranch, through the corn fields, the melon patches, the orchard and hen houses. Suddenly he brought up the Ketchel-Johnson affair. "Say, I have been reading a lot about that fellow, Ketchel," remarked Bob. "He thinks and so do a lot of you fellows, too, that because he is considered as good a middleweight as I was myself that he will be able to whip Johnson. That sounds good to him, perhaps, but they all overlook something. It would seem reasonable that if I whipped Corbett when I weighed 156 or thereabouts, and won the heavyweight title, Ketchel could do the same, he being a little heavier than me, in fact.

FITZ GIVES A POINTER.

"Now, listen. Don't fool yourself. Ketchel is a little fellow, for all that. He's not tall and never will be. I am five feet eleven and three-quarter in my socks. With my fighting shoes on I stand six feet. Don't overlook that. Though I weighed a little over 150, I had broader shoulders than a man weighing 280 in perfect trim. No one denies that I hit the hardest punch of any man who ever entered the ring. I hit harder than Jeff, and Jim will admit that himself. Besides that, I was foxier than any of them, if I do say it myself. I may not have been the prettiest thing that ever danced about a ring, but the noodle was always there. And when I hit them they went down.

"And, while we are on the subject, I don't think either of those fellows are thinking too much about training camps. Johnson is hitting the high places himself, and that's no business for a champion. You can't keep a title that way, no matter who you are. Nobody ever fought and won a battle in that boat.

KETCHEL IS TOO SMALL.

Now, put it down that with both men in perfect shape, and I trust they will be, Ketchel is too small. That talk of his being my weight and what I could do, HE could do, doesn't go. I'm a big man, for all my weight, and he isn't. Johnson is a great boxer and a crafty one. He probably forgot more about the fine points of the game since he was champion that the impulsive Ketchell will ever take the time or pride to learn. I have never seen him perform, but everybody tells me, open, open; too open. And I hear that he shifts three times in a row. Can't do that, my boy, and be safe."

"I think I know something about the shift business. You have to open up to shift, and every time that I worked it, I let myself wide open, and half the time expected to get crossed on the jaw and dropped. That was the chance I took. But three times! Blawst me, no! He must be as open as a barn door, and the first good righthander that meets him will halt him. A fast puncher will get that boy. Withal, he must be a wonder at twenty-two to do all that he has done. That's starting young, I must say."

And then came the inevitable. "I'll fight him. I have backing for $10,000, and I'll fight him, winner take all. I'm perfectly serious and if I am willing to gamble like that, he should. But I don't suppose that he will fight me. I'd like to see him beat Johnson, but he can't. He can't. He can't jump up and batter that black hulk down. Nature will win that battle, and she favours the big black. Let old Fitz tip you off to that."

JOHNNY EVERS THE GRAND LITTLE INFIELDER OF CHICAGO CUBS

Last fall, when Chicago and Detroit met to play for the championship of the world, Frank Chance, leader of the champions, planned and won one of the most beautiful strategic struggles ever fought and the campaign that he arranged, and that his men carried out was worthy of a Napoleon.

The game was the second one of the series and was played in Chicago on Sunday before a huge crowd.

Both teams realised that the game meant almost everything; to Detroit a chance for the title, to Chicago almost a certainty of retaining its honours, and before the game meetings of both teams were held.

Chance planned a campaign, depending entirely upon what pitcher Detroit might choose, and his orders issued the moment "Wild Bill" Donovan, one of the great pitchers of the country was selected, were conveyed to his men in one word: "Wait."

They waited—waited—waited, while the huge crowd went wild as inning after inning reeled away and neither side was able to score a run.

Donovan in that game had perhaps as much speed as any human being ever possessed. His fast ball jumped and darted, and his curve, pitched with tremendous power and speed, broke almost at right angles.

Inning after inning, as Chance sent his men to face that human gatling gun which was firing the national cannon ball at and around them, he monotonously commanded — "Wait." and they went up and waited.

One strke, one ball, two strikes, foul, two balls, foul; sometimes three strikes, sometimes a weak fly that netted nothing.

To the crowd it seemed as if Donovan never could be beaten as the Champions appeared helpless before his wonderful speed.

Still Chance commanded: "Wait—wait him out." Every batter went up to the plate intent on making Donovan pitch as many balls to them as possible.

They fouled, they waited; sometimes they let him strike them out, but never hit until compelled to do so, and when the eighth inning came neither had scored.

Hoffman led off that inning and still his orders were "wait," and he waited until he could wait no longer,

In that moment Chance ,the commanding general, ordered the charge. Tinker was the next batter, and the order for that charge was conveyed in a word "Switch."

That was all, but Tinker rushing eagerly forward to the batter's position knew that the leash that had held the Champions all day had been cut and that he could hit when he pleased, even the first ball.

Crash! Tinker smote the sphere a terrific blow and like a swallow the ball darted out to right field, high, higher, until soaring over the heads of the crowd, struck high over the right field seats and the crowd went wild.

Then, like soldiers attacking a breached wall the Champions attacked, and before the inning was over they had made six runs and their waiting game had won.

Chance had calculated from the first that Donovan was pitching with too great speed, and that no human being could hold such a pace through the innings, and during all th time that the crowd thought that Detroit would 'win, the leader of the Champions was sitting watching every move, waiting for the first sign that Donovan was tiring or beginning to lose his speed.

At the start of the seventh inning he thought he detected signs of weariness, but the smiling Tiger still was strong. After Hoffman scratched that hit at the start of the eighth Chance saw Donovan lower his pitching arm as if weary, and he issued his order—and after Tinker drove that home run he ordered, 'Take a crack at the first one.'

Lik a general, he had fought the breach and ordered the charge, and his men, held in leash so long, leaped to the plate and began the bombardment that brought victory.

CATCHING A LONG FLY; IT'S A WONDERFUL THING

(By Owen Ghagan.)

At a baseball game the other day I was sitting alongside a fellow who looked like a college professor. You know the kind—glasses and a Van Dyke, and has forgot all his small words.

Ty Cobb had just made one of those long running catches—full head of steam, the ball going like a bullet, and Ty jumped at the right minute makes a jump and spears her.

"What a wonderful correlation of mind and muscle such a feat requires,' says the college professor, real enthusiastic with his hands and languages.

"Righto, prof." says I.

But after awhile I figures out just what he means. And he is dead right.

It's a wonderful thing to catch a ball like that.

A hit ball goes a certain distance, depending on the force it is thrown to the batter, the force and squareness he hits it with, and the angle it meets his bat. The fielder has to figure out instantly just how far the ball is going, and start like a flash for that spot.

Before the ball has passed the pitcher, the fielder is running like a race horse for the place it is going to light.

If the thrown ball is a curve, the fly is apt to curve, too. Then air currents and the direction of the wind have to be figured in.

The ball comes tearing out five times as fast as the fielder can run. It's going over his head. There is only one little fraction of a second for the fielder to jump in which he can have any chance of catching the ball.

The fielder has to jump at just exactly the right instant, so that he would be at his greatest height in the air when the ball reached the point over his head.

If he jumped too soon, he would be coming down when the ball went over. If he jumped too late—even an instant too late—the ball would be gone.

Mind and muscle working together—and like lightning—that's catching a long fly. And maybe instinct—a trained, scientific, ball bearing instinct.

The professor knew that it would take him about a day and a half to figure out on paper just where the ball would light. And another day and a half to figure just exactly when to jump.

And, of course, that would make him a little late in making the catch.

Ty Cobb had to figure it out in a tenth of a second.

No wonder it drove the professor into long, hard words. He could well afford to take off his hat to Ty. And I bet Ty was making more money than he was.

ENGLISH ATHLETIC EVENTS OF INTEREST DURING WEEK

Following the great victory over Surrey by an innings and 185 runs, Lancashire met and defeated Notts by ten wickets. Form like this stamps the Lascastrans as possible champions for 1909. In the Notts match the Lacemen took the first innings and scored 120. Of this modest sum James Iremonger made 43. Lancashire started badly, as four wickets were down for 48. MacLean joined Makepeace and the pair scored rapidly, passing the Notts' total with ease. The partnership added 78 runs, when Makepeace was out for a skilful 30. MacLaren mad 66 ere he was beaten by Tom Wass, and it was easily his best innings of the season. Kenneth McLeod hit up 27 which included but one single. It was left however, for the tail end to wag. which it did in no uncertain manner. Huddlestone and Dean made 56 and 48 respectively the innings eventually closing for 280. Notts made 162 in their second attempt. Iremonger again showed his value, scoring a splendid 45, which considerng the state of the wicket was a great effort. The rest gave an even and moderate display, Lancashire winning as stated by ten wickets. It must be said that Notts had all the worst of the wicket, Saturday morning's rain giving the Lancashire bowlers every assistance. This makes the tenth win for the Red Rose.

The first game of the season under ths heading was played off at Lords, the professionals winning by 64 runs. The Players won the toss and scored 203 runs. Wooley made 55, being top scorer, and as half the wickets were down for 111, it was mainly to Woolley's splendid contribution that the "Pros" reached anything like a respectable total. With the batting strength of the Gentlemen this was not a big total to face, but before Blythe and Thompson they faded completely away, finishing with a poor 110. Blythe took 5 wickets for 48 runs, but on his second spell with the ball his analysis read: 25 overs; 1 maiden; 2 runs; 4 wickets. Thompson took 4 for 9 runs apiece. The Players' second innings realised 189 and this time Hayes was the man, scoring a faultless 56, a perfect innings without a single bad stroke. D. W. Carr, the latest bowler to startle the batsmen introduced the "googlie" art. Not only dd Mr. Carr, who by the way is a Kent man, tie up the batsmen, but had Mr. Shields, the wicket keeper, completely fog bound, breaking the ball on both sides of the wicket. Hayes and Whoolley were the only two men to play Mr. Carr's peculiar "Bosanquet" style of bowling with any degree of confidence. Carr took in all 8 wickets, 3 in the first innings and 5 for 90 in the second. Considering that but a week ago, Mr. Carr was unknown to first-class cricket, his success with the ball was wonderful. Faced wth 282 to win, the Gentlemen started well, but after Warner left, three wickets went down for 41. Hutchings and Evans made a change in the scene, taking the score to 154, when Evans was brilliantly

Captain J. G. Greig, the Hampshire batsman, recently scored 104 for Single Vs. Married at Poona (India.)

The leaders in the batting averages are:

| | Runs. | Ave. |
|---|---|---|
| W. W. Armstrong | 897 | 52.76 |
| Hobbs | 1450 | 50.00 |
| V. S. Ransford | 929 | 48.89 |
| W. Bardsley | 1077 | 43.08 |

The leading bowlers are:

| | Wkts. | Each |
|---|---|---|
| Smith (W. C.) | 49 | 9.51 |
| F. Laver | 49 | 12.59 |
| Blythe | 134 | 12.91 |

The County championship is in an interesting condition.:

| | P. | W. | L. | D. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Lancashire | 14 | 10 | 2 | 2 | 66.66 |
| Yorkshire | 16 | 8 | 2 | 6 | 60.00 |
| Kent | 13 | 8 | 2 | 3 | 60.00 |
| Middlesex | 10 | 4 | 1 | 5 | 60.00 |
| Sussex | 13 | 4 | 1 | 8 | 60.00 |
| Surrey | 17 | 9 | 4 | 4 | 45.45 |

No closer game has been seen for a long time than that at Northampton in the early part of last week between Hampshire and Northants. The game was a tie on the first innings, and when the home side pulled through by one wicket, Thompson took 9 wickets and G. A. T. Vials scored 129—his first hundred in important cricket.

Reginald Foster, the famous Oxford Worcester cricketer, has just accomplished a performance that seems almost beyond belief. In a game between Mr. H. W. de Zoete's XI and Witham, the latter declared with 342 for eight wickets, leaving their opponents only an hour and a half to bat. Four wickets fell for 60 runs, when "Reggie" Foster went in, and he laid about him to such an extent that he scored 262 in 75 minutes, and whilst he was in, only 18 other runs were made. He hit six 6's and thirty-four 4's, and made 60 runs from 18 consecutive balls.

Kent hold the last wicket record Frany Wooley and Arthur Fielder making 235 betwen them, in the game against Worcester last Wednesday.

Mr. Walter Brearley has been ordered a week's rest from cricket by his doctor.

STRONG HOCKEY TEAM FOR WINTER

From all appearances, Oshawa is going in to do its best and win the intermediate O. H. A. championship during the coming winter. It is somewhat early yet to talk of hockey, but the hockey sports of the lake shore town have their eyes open already picking up the good men. It is learned on good authority that they have already secured Kenny Randall, the fast centre man of the champion Lindsay Midgets, Frank Cofey, another of last year's Midgets, Leo. Quinn, who played a sensational game for Peterborough last year, and who hails from Lakefield, and also Ken. Lane, last year captain of the 45th regimental team. It is also reported that they have endeavoured to secure Captain Billy Stoddard, of the Lindsay Midgets, but have so far failed.

There is no doubt but that Oshawa has its eyes on the silverware which now rests secure within our borders. —Lindsay Post.

"PAT CORNER, THE MASTER DETECTIVE"

This is a very strong drama, telling a story of great robberies in many bank vaults in the city of Copenhagen, Denmark, and how the thieves were finally caught and punished by the world famous detective, Pat Corner, of Denmark. It is a picture of great interest to everyone who sees it.

"A HOT TIME AT ATLANTIC CITY."

This is a very funny picture filled with amusing incidents. Count Carsford, a new arrival at Atlantic City, leaves his rooms for a time and two tramps enter, dress in his clothes, take his cards and his Royal Bank Cheque Book, and then you should see the "Royal Hot Time" they have with the ladies on the Atlantic Beach. Don't miss it. It takes over 1000 feet of film to show all the fun they had.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest illustrated songs, entitled "Drifting." It is a good one; don't miss it.

Remember, to-day is Fan Day and Night, so get a Fan—it may be the last this year.

IMPERIAL CITY OF JAPAN SWEPT FOR MILES BY DISASTROUS FIRE

Osaka, Japan, Aug. 2.—Confusion still prevails here as a result of Saturday's disastrous fire. Thousands of persons are homeless and hunger is staring many of them in the face.

A system of relief has been organized by the municipal authorities, but it is inadequate. Outside cities and towns are assisting.

The number of casualties has not yet been determined, but hundreds of injured persons are crowding the hospitals.

The latest estimates are that 20,000 buildings were destroyed, including banks, the stock exchange, the museum, Government edifices, and factories.

Losses are given roughly at several million yen. It is feared that consequently some of the insurance companies will fail.

The conflagration lasted more than 25 hours. The streets of the city are very narrow, and the houses mostly of wood construction.

Under a strong breeze therefore the buildings were easy prey for the flames. The firemen fought valiantly against the odds of lack of water and wind, and many of them fell unconscious.

The belongings of the people who were able to save anything from their burning homes are piled in great heaps along the railroad tracks from Osaka to Kobe, where they were removed early Saturday morning when the fire broke out.

All day Saturday and far into the night the male populace assisted firemen and the troops in quenching the conflagration. An area of over four miles square, containing some of the city's handsomest structures, including the Buddhist temple, the largest in the world, was burned over before the fire was controlled. The stock exchange, one of the most important of this country, was entirely destroyed. This loss, it is believed, will tend to dislocate the business of Osaka, which, with its manufacturing concerns, is one of the chief commercial cities of Japan.

The Emperor is deeply concerned over this disaster.

WOMAN FOUND IN STABLE CRUSHED TO DEATH BY VICIOUS STALLION AND INQUEST ORDERED

London, Aug. 2.—The mysterious death of Mrs. Martin Jenkins of London Township has convulsed the whole neighborhood. Excitement is intense and the sole topic of discussion is the mysterious death.

The coroner's jury after viewing the remains Saturday night adjourned until Tuesday night when all available evidence will be heard.

On Friday morning the husband, James C. Jenkins hurriedly despatched two of his sons to neighbors' houses with the news that Mrs. Jenkins had been kicked by a horse and was dying. Mrs. Morrow and Wm. McNaughton, the neighbors summoned, hurried to the scene, and when they arrived found the woman lying in one of the stalls in the stable unconscious. Her head was battered and bruised, and she died within an hour. Just beyond the stalls there is a box stall in which a stallion is kept. The door of this was open and the stallion was found in the barn yard. There were horses in the other stalls.

Dr. McNeil of Arva was summoned but the woman was dead when he arrived.

Dr. McNeil is the coroner and in consequence of the rumors afloat, in the neighborhood, he ordered an inquest, but after consultation with the legal authorities decided to call on Dr. Ferguson to conduct the investigation. Upon the facts being laid before Crown Attorney McKillopin he ordered an inquest, which opened on Saturday night.

The story told by the husband is that he was in a field near the barn and noticed the stallion in the barn yard. He drove it into the barn and there found his wife lying on the floor with her head smashed in.

The woman was carried into the house, where she died soon afterward.

The family moved from Westminster Township six years ago, and there are six children.

The funeral of Mrs. Jenkins was held yesterday, and was an immense one. The services were conducted by Rev. John Mahan of Arva, assisted by Rev. B. L. Hutton of London. Interment was made at St. John's.

In the neighborhood of the tragedy there appears to be considerable ill-feeling towards Jenkins, though apparently with little real grounds. Jenkins is about 55 years of age, and the deceased, who was his second wife, was 42. They have not always lived happily together, having been living separately for about a year. The farm is well tilled and is about seven miles from London.

Various theories are advanced as to how the woman met death. When found she was laying in the middle stall with her head in the passage leading to the box stall in which the stallion was kept. The most likely accidental theory is that the door of the box stall was left open or loose and that the stallion broke out while the woman was in the barn gathering eggs and knocking her down, crushed out her life. The left side of the skull was caved in and the scalp badly torn. There were also wounds on the left eye and on the top and back of the head. The injuries were more than sufficient to cause death.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR FOR MONTH OF JULY

The vital statistics for July show a marked increase in the number of deaths and marriages over that of last year, but the number of births is somewhat less. The figures are as follows:

Mr. Hugh Hendry, of Lindsay, Secures Position in Local Store.

Mr. Hugh Hendry, who during the last year has been clerkign for Mr. J. McCullough, the boot and shoe man, has decided to accept a more lucrative position with the R. Neill firm at Peterborough. Mr. Hendry's many friends will be pleased to hear of his good fortune, but nevertheless will regret to learn of his departure. During his year's sojourn in Lindsay he has gained for himself a large circle of friends. He is a member of the Woodmen of the World and was a popular entertainer in town, possessing a good voice, and the ability to please a large audience. He was a member of the Queen street Methodist church quartette. Mr. Hendry will take charge of the ladies' department of the R. Neill boot and shoe shop in the Electrical City.—Lindsay Warder.

Continued Secrecy From Spain Gives Revolution Worse Colour

Paris, Aug. 2.—Although official Spain minimizes the Catalonian insurrection and insists that the revolt has been crushed, a far different story emanates from the frontier.

Refugees and travelers declare that the revolt is still rampant, and that desperate combats continue at Barcelona, where 50 revolutionists are reported to have been wounded in a conflict which occurred as late as Saturday night.

Information concerning the actual situation in Barcelona and the rest of the province is rarer to-day than ever before. Although some of the news from the frontier is from revolutionary sources, and, therefore, open to suspicion, more reliable intelligence leads to the belief that although Barcelona is calmer, the insurrectionists have taken to the suburbs and the outlying country, where they are sowing the seeds of revolt and inflaming the populace to maintain the struggle to the bitter end.

Barcelona Province is in the hands of prowling hands of workmen, heavily armed, who occupy the railroads and highways to prevent communication, and who refuse entrance to new comers. Cassan de la Selva is in the hands of revolutionaries, and at Palamis, where the monastery was fired upon and the monks tortured, the situation is described as critical and the lives of foreigners endangered.

The opinion in semi-official circles here concerning Spain's internal condition is pessimistic and the belief is expressed that the trouble is not yet over. Official Madrid announces that Barcelona is tranquil, but qualifies this statement with the words, "This is especially so in the centre of the city."

From Melilla comes the news of another Spanish convoy being ambushed and several of its officers being wounded before the troops succeeded in extricating themselves from the attack of the tribesmen.

Rumors are afloat that a general strike will be launched to-day at Madrid, and that strike is being organized in the Biscayan region. All persons subject to military duty are forbidden to leave Spain under grave penalty, and elaborate measures have been adopted to forestall a possible outbreak in the other provinces of the country.

Official denial is given to the report that the temper of the Madrid garrison is hostile. Another official statement says that the number of victims of the fighting at Barcelona is unknown, but frontier reports, one of them of alleged authoritative inspiration, declares that the killed or wounded will aggregate 3,000 and that the number of insurrectionists summarily shot as between 40 and 190.

Official Version.

Madrid, Aug. 2.—An official statement issued yesterday says that the latest advices from Barcelona are to the effect that order reigns, especially in the centre of the city, where the public is circulating and a majority of the stores are reopened. Work has been commenced again in several factories. The newspapers probably will reappear to-morrow. A French torpedo boat is awaited to take official correspondence. The number of victims of the outbreak, according to the official note is not known exactly. Troops are actively engaged in clearing the streets and demolishing the remaining barricades erected for the revolutionists.

Shot Alligator In The Eye After It Had Seized Her Arm

Examiner Special.

Paris, August 2. — The Princess Sira, who performed with a large number of alligators at Luna Park, has had the narrowest of escapes. Saturday evening during the act, one of the biggest of the lot, attacked one of the smaller ones, and the woman attempted to separate them. The big brute turned upon her and seized her arm in his mighty mouth. Luckily she had the strength and presence of mind to pull her revolver and fire the five chambers at the reptile. Four of the bullets glanced off harmlessly as though directed against the side of a battleship, but the fifth entered through the eye to the brain. Slowly the brute's teeth loosened and, womanlike and promptly, Princess Sira fainted. She was taken to the hospital and it will be several days before she can again do her act. She confessed that she thought that her last hour had come.

The Bride Waited Long For The Groom—But He Never Came

The non-appearance of the bridegroom at the time appointed for a marriage to have been celebrated at Lakefield last week, caused consternation in a home in the vicinity of Burleigh Falls. It appears that the young lady and gentleman who had contemplated entering matrimony had arranged that the ceremony be performed in Lakefield on Wednesday last, whereupon the bride to be and the lady with whom she was staying set out for the village and reached it at the time the happy event was to be celebrated. But there they waited at the minister's house. No bridegroom showed up and after a wait of some hours the two women returned home, and it is said that the man who failed to put in an appearance had left Lakefield and his destination was not definitely known.

TO BLAME, ANYWAY

In one paragraph of the article, "Beautify the City," in Saturday's Examiner, reference was made by way of inquiring "why loose stones were raked in heaps in front of aldermanic residences and left scattered about on other streets." This question was asked on the information of a gentleman who does a great deal of driving and without any specific knowledge of the locality. It appears, however, that the stricture was only in part justified. It is learned that in front of one "aldermanic residence" at least, there were street stones raked into heaps, but the stones were so erected by himself, and not by the city. This leaves the street authorities still to blame. They, and not the citizens should remove the obstructions to street traffic which they place in placing unscreened gravel on our streets. A citizen keeps his private premises and boulevard in perfect condition, and to have the street correspond is forced to do the work of the city for her shame's sake. This should not be. A man with a dump cart could be employed to collect the loose stones, which, being used for permanent filling, would pay his wages and save the purchase of a corresponding quantity of stones and, at the same time, remove a dangerous obstruction to comfortable traffic on our streets. The object of spending money on the streets is to make them smooth and comfortable for driving. This is not done, when gravel with which large stones are mixed is dumped on the streets and the large stones left to create a nuisance. If any citizen should place such a number of loose stones on the streets on purpose he would be brought before the police court and very promptly, too. What is the difference in effect, between permitting and creating an evil? If there is a moral, there is no material, difference; rolling stones left on the streets by the city constitute as great an obstruction to comfortable wheel traffic as if they were placed there maliciously.

SUCCESS OF THE ROSS RIFLE

Last year at Bisley the Ross rifle, the service rifle of the Canadian forces led the van in high scoring, and this year the triumph has been repeated. There are a few disgruntled people, who, with very little knowledge of the subject, denounce the Ross rifle, and in the face of it the highest scores in the world are made by this rifle at every shoot. An attempt was first made to have it appear that the rifles used at Bisley were especially made for the use of those employing them. This ridiculous story was first circulated by the Ottawa Citizen, a Conservative paper, with no special knowledge of the subject, or at least no overwhelming desire to be just and fair. Both Sir Frederick Borden and the Ross Rifle Company have emphatically stated that the rifle used at Bisley is the same rifle issued to the forces, yet there are those, led by the Ottawa Citizen, who sit at a desk and talk learnedly of things which can only be known to those who go out with a rifle and face the target. The Ross rifle adopted by the Canadian Government is the best small arm in the world today. This is the opinion of the English press. A correspondent in the Ottawa Citizen speaking of the rifle says, "Boodle and graft seem to have been effective and got in their deadly work." This is hard upon Col. Sam Hughes, Conservative president of the Dominion Rifle Association, member from Victoria and Haliburton, who says the Ross rifle is the best small arm the world has produced to date. Would the Citizen correspondent suggest that Col. Sam Hughes, M. P., was influenced by boodle or graft to express such an opinion? Our Conservative carpers are hard to suit. The Canadian team scores a big triumph. It's all due to their steady nerves and true eye. If they had lost the blame would have been thrown upon the Ross rifle. The Canadian marksmen must be more than human to have achieved such triumphant scores, handicapped with what its enemies and the enemies of the Government pronounce a worthless rifle in whose construction "boodle and graft seem to have been effective and got in their deadly work." Such criticisms in the face of the known results of the case of the Ross rifle are simply insane.

THE BRITISH EDUCATION SYSTEM

(Montreal Herald.)

One hears a good deal of criticism of the English system of education, and the belief is widely prevalent among oversea critics that secondary education, which embraces schools of technology, is neglected and that it is in consequence of this neglect that the country is being out-paced by Germany in industrial production, to the great disadvantage of British manufacturers in the markets of the world. That there has been a large measure of truth in the reproach can hardly be doubted, but the blame, it is to be feared, is to be attributed more to defects in national character than to defects in the schools. The Anglo-Saxon is a good deal more of a pleasure-loving being than his Teutonic rival, who is more serious-minded in regard to essentials of life and more thorough. Certainly the German manufacturer gives far more if his means to the education of his craftsmen and devotes far less to the social pleasures of life than does the British.

It is therefore unfair to blame governments when the fault lies with the individual. The British House of Commons has just passed an education vote of $140,000,000 for the support of elementary and secondary schools. The education Minister, Mr. Runciman, in his statement to the House, showed that about sixty new secondary school had been added to the national equipment during the past year and that the number is now 800, as against 272 in 1902. The credit is due to Mr. Balfour for having awakened the public from apathy to some sense of responsibility in this matter, but since the present Government came into power the number has been increased by 200. There are now about 135,000 pupils in these schools, not a great number when the industrial population of the country is considered. In 1907 Mr. McKenna, then head of the Education Department, made the larger proportion of these schools free to workingmen's children, and there are now nearly 42,000 of these taking advantage of the privilege. Still the impression largely prevails that the British secondary schools are a kind of preserve for the training of teachers. This is a pity because the congested state of the teaching profession should be of itself sufficient to warn off possible candidates who ought to find more lucrative careers in the higher branches of industry.

TAKE A COLD SERIOUSLY

The possibilities of every cold are dreadful to contemplate. Bronchitis, pneumonia, consumption, usually begin with a simple cold. Why not fight the cold from the start and ensure success by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It allays inflamation, keeps the cough free and loose and protects the bronchial tubes from danger.

VICTORIA CLUB'S MEET ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

The arrangements for an afternoon of sports on Monday next, Civic Holiday are nearing completion, and the Victoria Harrier Club, under whose auspices the affair is being held, promise a bigger list of events than was at first expected. There is a probability of a ball game being pulled off to add to the interest and with a select programme by the band there should be as interesting a card of events as has been held here in a long time. The prizes are of the best and there are sufficient of them for a good list that will include special races. Entries for the 100-yards and other open events must be sent in to Mr. Chas. Thorpe on or before Thursday, August 5th. Further announcements regarding the sports will be given during the week.

Vice-Consul is Murdered.

New York, Aug. 2.—Dr. Lake Wing, Chinese vice-consul at New York, a graduate of Lehigh and Yale Universities, and married to an American woman, was mortally wounded at his offices in a lower Broadway building Saturday afternoon by a man of his own race, who gives voluble but confused and contradictory reports of himself in pigeon English.

Dr. Wing died last night in St. Gregory's Hospital shortly after 8 o'clock. He had been shot in the back with a revolver.

Michael McDonnell, for 27 years special watchman at the Chinese consulate, identified the murderer as Wong Bow Chung, who, he says, was formerly a steward on the U. S. battleship Indiana.

Makes a Hero by Surgery.

Paris, Aug. 2.—"Such emotions as fear and melancholy are conveyed by a small nerve which springs from the human brain near the medulla oblongata, the top of the spinal cord."

So announces Dr. Bonnier, a distinguished surgeon, who adds that he has removed this nerve and so relieved greatly persons suffering from melancholia and timidity.

Other surgeons seem sceptical about the value of Dr. Bonnier's discovery. But newspaper paragraphers find opportunity to discuss the possibility of turning a coward into a hero by a surgical operation.

Fruit Farmer Suicides.

St. Catharines, Aug. 2.—Stephen M. Clemens, aged 50 years, committed suicide Saturday by hanging himself. About two months ago he came to this district and purchased a fruit farm a short distance from the city.

Saturday evening his family missed him and after a search his son found him dead hanging to a tree a short distance from the house. He came here from Drayton.

Despondency is given as the cause of the rash act. He leaves a widow and one son.

White-Black Man Dies.

Rochester, Aug. 2.—Jacob Thomas, a remarkable colored man, died yesterday in Le Roy.

Thomas' color in the last twelve years changed from the darkest hue of the negro to white, so much so that he would be passed in the streets as a white man.

Stricken In Church.

Fergus, Aug. 2.—During church service yesterday morning, James Pattison, a leading merchant of Fergus, and a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian choir, took a hemorrhage of the stomach and was carried from the choir in a dying condition, passing away almost instantly.

Several in the congregation fainted and the service was discontinued. Mr. Pattison is the only son of a widowed mother. He was at one time a member of the council, is a director of the Fergus Horticultural, the Agricultural Society, a prominent Mason, and leading Conservative.

From Pro-Boer to Premier.

Hon. John Merriman, whose Privy Councillorship heads the recent list of Birthday honors, is one of the most prominent figures in Cape politics. He was one of the strongest pro-Boers at the time of the South African war, but in spite of this was made Premier of the Cape last year. No one can deny his brilliant ability, and Somersetshire—the county of his birth—has good reason to feel proud of him. His father was the Bishop of Grahamstown, known as the City of Saints, on account of its many churches. It was there that Mr. Merriman received his early education, afterwards coming to England and entering Oxford University.

The Ontario Clay Belt.

That part of Northern Ontario tapped by the Provincial Railway is attractive from an agricultural as well as from a mining standpoint. Mr J. L. Englehart, chairman of the Provincial Railway Commission, just returned from an inspection of the country contiguous to the line, speaks enthusiastically of the richness of the soil and of the wealth of timber which clothes it. Much building is going on at new settlements along the route, and the prospect is that before many years the great "clay belt" 500 miles north of Toronto will support a considerable and a prosperous population.

Sausage.

Sausage has even from very early times been a popular table delicacy. Aristophanes was familiar with it, and in Roman days the sausages of Lucania were in high esteem. They were made from pork and the nuts of the stone pine, flavored with bay leaves and other things more familiar. Bologna was celebrated for its sausages long before the German sausage had even thought of invading the rest of the world, and until quite lately it was commonly called in England a "polony."

Had the Old Man Cornered.

Do you think you can support me in the style to which I have been accustomed?" she asked.

"I don't know," he replied, "but I know this—I'll be able to support you in a better style than you will be accustomed to after this if you don't accept me. Your dad has sold short on wheat, and I've got is cornered."

How to Keep Servants.

Some people might do worse than follow the plan of Archdeacon Sinclair, who, talking about servants recently, said that he had never had any difficulty in keeping servants; if there was any difficulty, it was getting them to go away, for they wished to stay with him all the rest of their lives. He made it a rule never to interfere with the work of a servant. He each morning wrote down on a slate what the servants were to do, and he never imposed any censure. He also liked his servants to go out whenever possible, and enjoy themselves as much as they could.

Caught In Her Own Trap.

"It's real mean!" the young woman exclaimed.

"What's the matter?" her mother inquired.

"Before I married Herbert I made him promise to pass every evening at home with me, and now he says he's sorry, but he can't take me to the theatre without breaking his word."

"IN THIS MOUNTAIN"

PASTOR RUSSELL AT CONVENTION IN ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Word "Mountain" in Holy Writ Is Always a Symbol of the Kingdom of Heaven—The Feast Is the Message of Divine Grace for Which the World Was Starving—Present Feast Is of Spiritual Things.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 1.—The Bible Students' Convention is in session here. Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, addressed the Convention twice to-day. One of his discourses was from the text, "And in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things" (Isaiah xxv, 6).

As you are all undoubtedly aware, the word "mountain" throughout the Scriptures is used as the symbol for kingdom. Earthly governments are represented as mountains and hills, while the Lord's government is represented as being established "in the top of the mountains." It is this mountain or Kingdom of God that is referred to in our text. It has not yet been established in the earth, and hence the blessed work foretold in our text is not yet realized. We still properly pray, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." True, a beginning has been made: For more than eighteen centuries since our Lord's ascension, and the bestowment of the holy Spirit at Pentecost, the Church has been in process of selection, and the Church is sometimes styled the Kingdom, because its members when glorified will constitute the Kingdom class—the Bride—who, with the heavenly Bridegroom, will share the Kingdom honors and services for the world.

It is true, also, that our Lord is exalted a Prince and a Savior, and that shortly, at his second advent, he is to take to himself his great power and reign as King of kings and Lord of lords—but he has not yet done this. He declared at his resurrection, "All power in heaven and in earth is given unto me," yet he also in his last message to the Church distinctly pointed out that the time for taking possession of his Kingdom was future, and that the time will surely come when he will take unto himself his great power and reign, because the time to reign will then have come (Revelation xi, 17).

More than this, the signs of the times, read in the light of the lamp of Truth, the Word of God, seem clearly to indicate that the time is nigh at hand for the setting up of Christ's Kingdom. How glad we all should be! What rejoicing it should cause to the whole world of mankind, to know that the reign of sin and death is nearing its conclusion; that Satan, the prince of this world, will shortly be bound for a thousand years that he should deceive the nations no more until its termination! How we should rejoice that "the night is far spent and the day is at hand;" that the Millennial morning is already dawning; that the Sun of Righteousness is already rising, and that soon the whole earth will "be full of the knowledge of the glory of God as the waters cover the great deep."

The bare announcement of the Kingdom of God would strike mankind variously in proportion as the character of the Kingdom and its work might be understood or misunderstood. Thus to-day to many the mention that the Kingdom of God is nigh at hand would carry the thought of a wreck of matter and the crush of worlds. Not only our Second Advent friends believe, but the creeds of practically all denominations of Christians recite, that our Lord's second advent and the establishment of his Kingdom will signify to mankind the end of probation, the end of hope, and usher in to all except the elect few a great burning day.

Far too long we have allowed these traditions of men to becloud our judgment, to come between our hearts and the great blessings set forth in God's Word as now due to the Church and to the world. It is very proper that those who are living in alienation from God in willful sin should realize that the establishment of his Kingdom will mean a reign of righteousness which will be strictly opposed to their pernicious ways—opposed to every form of immorality, opposed to every form of injustice and iniquity, opposed to every form of trickery and sham, and false pretense. But surely Christians who are seeking to live in harmony with the Divine Law of Love for God, for the neighbor, for the brother, for enemies, have every reason to look forward, to long for, to hope for the coming of the Lord's Kingdom as the most desirable thing possible to be imagined. Indeed, it is thus described in Bible language: "The desire of all nations shall come" (Haggai ii, 7).

However much the few, favored by present conditions, may be pleased to have them remain as they are, the masses of mankind, if they were but converted from ignorance and superstition and brought to a knowledge of the truth as God's Word presents it, would be glad and rejoice in the salvation which is to come to the world through God's Kingdom. The god of this world hath blinded the eyes of understanding of mankind and put darkness for light, and under the terrors of the words "doom's day" has obscured the glorious blessings which belong to the day of the establishment of the Kingdom of the Lord (II Corinthians iv, 4).

True, the Kingdom of the heavens will be introduced, the Scriptures tell us, by "a time of trouble such as never was" before and never will be afterward: a time of trouble which will involve all nations, and peoples, and kindreds, and tongues, and every part of the world; a time of trouble from which there will be no escape except for those who have made the Lord, even the Most High, their refuge and habitation (Psalm xci, 9). But then, even that plowshare of trouble the Lord proposes shall be overruled so that it will constitute a channel of blessing to mankind, by preparing their hearts for the message of divine love and grace centered in Christ and his redeeming work at Calvary.

Turning from the ignorance and superstition and darkness and terrors of the dark ages, let us look still further—to the inspired Word of God through the Apostles and Prophets. From these let us hear some description of the blessings which God intends His Kingdom shall bring to our sin-cursed race. The Scriptures tell us that God has prepared a great feast for humanity; they intimate figuratively that mankind has been starving for the message of divine grace—that the millions of our race have gone down in ignorance and superstition, famished for lack of the Word of God. The Bread which came down from heaven—the message of truth and grace which our dear Redeemer brought and exemplified—has indeed been supplied lavishly to some. Some of us have feasted upon the good things of our Father's Word and plan. But the great mass of mankind have been so deaf and so blind that they see not, neither do they understand or receive the grace of God under present conditions. How glad we are that "all the blind eyes shall be opened, and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped" (Isaiah xxxv, 5), and that the whole world will thus be prepared for the true knowledge of God, whose goodness and loving kindness and tender mercies will undoubtedly have a softening and mellowing effect upon hard hearts. At all events, the divine program will be carried out; the Kingdom of God will be established amongst men: they will have the opportunity of contrasting the reign of righteousness with the reign of sin and death. So many as will be rightly influenced by this knowledge may lay hold upon eternal life by accepting the divine arrangement. Truly it is the goodness of God that leadeth to repentance.

There are many hungry hearts in the world; many whose bodies are well nourished have famished hearts which cry out for love and sympathy. He who reads the hearts, who knows what is in them, has prepared this feast which will surely satisfy every legitimate, righteous desire. Those who already are the Lord's people, and who have already feasted at the bountiful table spread for the Church, can approximate to some extent the bounty that will be spread before the world in this great feast foretold through the Prophet, in our text. There will be several differences, however, between our present feast and that one for the world.

(1) The present feast is merely a feast of promises which must be partaken of by the exercise of faith. The feast described in our text will be a very actual one; the realities of the blessing of restitution, of health, of strength, mental, moral and physical, will there be bountifully supplied, to be partaken of freely by all who appreciate them.

(2) The present feast spread for the Church is a spiritual one relating to a heavenly Kingdom glory and honor—things not seen as yet, except by the eye of faith. To the contrary, the feast for the world, referred to in our text, will consist of earthly bounties and blessings, most tangible in kind as well as excellent in quality; all that was lost in Adam will be tendered to such of his children as will accept the mercy. The Prophet in attempting to describe the bounties of that feast uses highly symbolical terms, and describes it as "a feast of fat things, full of marrow and of wines on the lees, well refined." Assuredly no language that we could use could fully and properly set forth the riches of God's grace provided for the world of mankind under the ministration of his Kingdom. The earth shall yield her increase, streams shall break forth in the deserts, the wilderness shall blossom as the rose, the solitary place shall be glad (Isaiah xxxv).

The Lord through the Prophet, after describing the feast of blessings and refreshments, portrays the destruction of things injurious to mankind, saying, "And he will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people,—the veil that is spread over all nations" (verse 7). This veil is none other than the veil of ignorance and superstition which hinders mankind from seeing that the Creator is their friend, that righteousness and truth are to their advantage, that the ways of the Lord are righteous altogether. The sunlight of the new dispensation, the reign of righteousness, will scatter the clouds and the darkness, the veil of ignorance, and let into the hearts of mankind "the light of the knowledge of the goodness of God as it shines in the face of Jesus Christ our Lord." What a wonderful change, and how glad mankind will be, not only to have that feast prepared, but also to be rid of the darkness which would hinder them from appreciating it and coming to a knowledge of the Lord and his grace!

The Prophet proceeds to describe further, saying, "He will swallow up death in victory." For several thousand years Death has had the victory, and the human family have been swallowed up by it. The Scriptures describe the six thousand years of earth's history as a period of the "reign of Sin and Death." It is conservatively estimated that death has swallowed up twenty thousand millions of humanity, and that ninety thousand are going to the tomb every day. The Lord tells us through the Prophet that with the establishment of his Kingdom will come a wonderful change; instead of death continuing to swallow up the race, dying shall cease. None shall die then except for willful sin. How glorious a time that will be! All of our sorrows are more or less intimately associated with the reign of Sin and Death. How we may well rejoice in the new dispensation which di-

Some Hints to Keep People Well.

Ninety-nine per cent. of the ordinary sicknesses are caused by the bowels, the kidneys or the skin.

As you know, these organs are the great purifiers of the human system. They filter impurities from the blood and pass them from the body. If the kidneys, bowels or skin weaken or get tired out or fail to do their regular work—then the blood becomes laden with impurities and poisoned. If it be the fault of the kidneys, then the skin is overworked in its efforts to throw off the excess of urea or waste matter. The glands become inflamed and enlarged—pimples break out—and there may be a rash or eczema of the skin. If it is the fault of the skin, then the kidneys are strained by overwork and there is constant pain in the back, dizziness, neuralgia, headaches and rheumatism. If it be the fault of the bowels, the blood is poisoned, the skin and kidneys weakened, the stomach upset—and, of course, there is Constipation and Biliousness.

How easy it is, then, to be free of all these troubles!

"Fruit-a-tives" is not merely a remedy for any one of these troubles but a cure for all. "Fruit-a-tives" acts on the skin, the liver, and the kidneys. "Fruit-a-tives" keeps all these great organs well and strong, and thus insures the blood being always pure and rich. With "Fruit-a-tives" in the house to take at the first sign of not feeling well, you need not have a day's sickness. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

vine love will execute for the releasing of our race from this dying process—from this bondage of corruption; permitting them to return to the liberty of the sons of God, freedom from death, freedom from sin.

But even this is not enough. The Lord purposes that he will not merely restrain the power of death, so that it shall cease swallowing up our race, but additionally he purposes that he will "swallow up Death in victory." The tomb, which figuratively has engorged itself with twenty thousand millions, will be forced to disgorge, to release its victims. "All that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth." The saintly few whose faithfulness to God has already been tested will come forth to the perfection of life. The unsaintly masses, the majority of whom have never known God truly, will come forth to the resurrection of trial, of judgment, of discipline. Death itself shall be destroyed.

St. Paul quotes from the Prophet Hosea, saying, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" He does not quote this as applicable now, for Sin and Death still have their victory in the world. Thousands are still slaves of sin, and millions are still bounden by the power of the tomb. St. Paul and the Prophet pointed down to the glorious epoch of the Millennial Kingdom (following the resurrection change of the Church) when all shall be brought to a knowledge of the truth, from the least to the greatest; and when all that are in the prison-house of death shall come forth, because Jesus has redeemed every member of our race from the power of the tomb.

We remember our Redeemer's tender words, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Those of us who have accepted his gracious invitation, and obtained from him the rest of faith, found that it meant to us the wiping away of our tears, the cancellation in a large degree of our troubles. We, then, should be able to understand the next statement of the Prophet in our text, "The Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces." It is the same message given to us in Revelation, where the same Kingdom, under the figure of the New Jerusalem, is brought to our attention. It will be the Heavenly Father who will wipe away the tears, not directly but indirectly through his Son, the Redeemer. More and more as we come to an understanding of the grace of God, as illustrated in his divine plan of the ages, we come to realize that "all things are of the Father and all things are by the Son"—that the two, while distinctly separate, are also distinctly one in love, in sympathy, and in co-operation in the work of relief which has already begun in the Church, and which ultimately is to extend to the world during the Millennium.

Tears are the marks of sorrow, pain, suffering; and the poetic statement that God himself will wipe away the tears of mankind is a beautiful and forceful suggestion of how the power of the Highest is shortly to be employed, not in the eternal torment of the world, but in its blessing, its uplifting, the wiping away of its tears and sorrows.

When we remember that there are no tears in heaven, and that the joys of that blessed state are because of its sinlessness, our hearts overflow with thanksgiving as we catch the poetic thought included in the assurance—that all sin, and all sorrow as the result of sin, and all tears and marks of sorrow, will forever pass away in that happy day. Truly we may be glad and rejoice and give honor to our God as we see his right eous dealings with our race manifested—as the clouds and shadows flee away and permit the sunshine of divine love and grace to take their proper places before the eyes of our understanding.

Let no one imagine that this signifies universal salvation. Other Scriptures show us that while universal opportunity for salvation will be accorded, none except those who avail themselves of it by a hearty acceptance of the Divine arrangement, and a hearty obedience to the laws of the Kingdom — these only will get the great blessing of life eternal; only their tears will forever be wiped away. All others, willful sinners, will be destroyed in the "Second Death."

LITTLE KNOWN WEALTH

PARTS OF CANADA THAT ARE ALMOST UNKNOWN.

Inland Lakes of the Northland Are Full of Fish, Including the Enconnu Which Weighs as Much as Fifty Pounds — Less Than 2,000 Persons Are Rulers of This Vast Empire of the North.

The vast inland lakes of Canada's great northlands, as well as the smaller lakes and rivers, are teeming with fish; whitefish, salmon trout, mountain and arctic trout, King salmon, pike, pickerel, and great varieties of other fish are to be found. Jackfish weighing up to 45 pounds, trout 50 pounds, and sturgeon over 100 pounds in weight are common. Herring in vast numbers from the Arctic Ocean find their way up the Mackenzie River as far as Great Bear Lake. At Great Slave Lake and along the Mackenzie River, they have a fish peculiar to those parts. It was noted by Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the discoverer of the river that bears his name, who called it the "Enconnu" (or unknown), which name has stuck to it ever since. It is a large, silvery-scaled fish, salmon-like in appearance, and weighs up to 50 pounds.

While this district cannot truthfully be called an ideal one for stock-raising, although it is considered so by many (the ideal country for stock-raising existing only in imagination), the abundance of upland and lowland hay, pea-vine and red-top, and the heavy growth of marsh grass, make it an easy matter to provide food for the wintering of stock. Horses forage the year round, and even those not wanted in harness for the winter are turned out after the ground freezes in the fall to shift for themselves through the winter, and are taken in again and put to work in the spring. Even colts are frequently left out for the winter, and like the older horses, they paw away the snow and find an abundance of nourishing food beneath.

Cattle frequently stay out until Christmas, after which dairy cows and young stock are stabled and fed, while the rest are turned out to a straw-stack, which is their only shelter. The latter are generally found to be in as good condition in the spring as those that are stabled. The percentage of loss is not more than five per cent., as compared with ten per cent. in the south. The dairying industry is proving a financial success, and it is certain that with improvement in the breeding of the herds stock-raising and dairying will soon develop into an important and profitable industry.

The Rocky Mountains are the home of the famous mountain sheep and goat, the fierce grizzly and the cinnamon bear, all well known there. Elk and a number of deer are also found here. In the vast country between the Rockies and Hudson Bay, as well as the west coast, moose, deer, and black and brown bears are common. The grey timber wolf, coyote wolverine, fox, beaver, otterfisher, marten, mink, ermine, lynx, rabbit and squirrel are found to be well distributed.

The saskatoon, or service berry, is peculiar to the northwest, and is much sought after by the bears, whose liking for the delicious fruit often lands them within easy reach of the hunter's rifle. Strawberries, raspberries, currants, high and low bush cranberries, gooseberries, cherries and a number of other berries are found in great abundance.

A mere handful of white people, less than 2,000, rule this empire of the north, and attend to the business, which is already estimated by the million-dollar standard. The 30,000 Indians are peaceable, having been taught by precept, judicious treatment and tactful handling (if not always by example) that the white man's mission among them was one of peace and good-will. In no country in the world are life and property safer than in this region, remote as it is from all the restraining influences of civilization (and bad whisky). The work of that splendid body, the R.N.W.M.P., is greatly appreciated by all alike, as they do their duty without fear or favor, and do not count their personal safety or comfort anything while in discharge of their duty. Canada has, in her Mounted Police, a body of men of which she may well be proud.

The opinion of such a man as Hon. Edgar Dewdney, for many years Minister of the Interior at Ottawa, later Governor of British Columbia, will be of interest. Speaking of the part of the Peace River district that lies in British Columbia, he said: "There are undoubtedly many rich mineral deposits still untouched." "Gold has been exploited there for a number of years and nitrate silver has also been discovered in large blocks." "The Peace River country is at present practically uninhabited. It can hold and feed millions. The climate is by no means severe." "The opening up of this land by railways will mean an immense influx of people north, for there is little doubt that it is one of the richest and most attractive portions of British Columbia."

The present Dominion Government is adopting a wise course in pursuing a vigorous and clear-cut policy in the opening up of this country, as evidenced by the extension of the surveys, the extension and the improvement of the mail service, the establishment of an experimental station on the Peace River at Fort William, the building of telegraph lines, the improvement of the waterways and in the establishment of a northern land district. The Provincial Government see a great future for this land, and are laying out roads, building bridges, assisting railroad construction, building telephones, establishing schools, encouraging agriculture and stock-raising and taking up the regulations of the judicial affairs of the newer portions of the country.

THE QUEEN AT HOME.

Her Majesty Is Very Busy Even In Her Vacations.

The Queen shows none of that dislike for Buckingham Palace that was displayed by the late Queen Victoria, and spends many weeks there in the course of the year. She has converted her private suite of apartments in the palace into one of the most comfortable residences it would be possible to imagine. These rooms, which number nine in all, are situated on the first floor of the main building of the palace, and over look the beautiful gardens, just now at their best, with the lake just visible in the distances. These rooms have been entirely refurnished since Her Majesty took up her residence here upon the King's accession, and immediately adjoin the larger suite occupied by the King. The whole of Their Majesties' apartments are entirely cut off from the rest of the palace, so that privacy is assured.

Owing to the heavy and fatiguing duties that Her Majesty is called upon to undertake while in London during the season, and the fact that it is usually past midnight before she is able to retire, she rises considerably later than when she is at Sandringham or in Denmark at the beautiful villa she shares with her sister, the Empress Marie of Russia, on the banks of the Sound, with the gloomy old castle of Elsinore just to be seen across the waters. It is not much before nine that the Queen takes her cup of tea or chocolate—usually the latter — and leaves her rooms for a stroll in the grounds until the light breakfast of which she partakes is ready.

The forenoon is almost entirely devoted by the Queen to her correspondence and other routine duties. Her Majesty's post-bag almost rivals that of the King in its bulk, and it takes her some hours to go through it and deal with the contents.

Lunch, afternoon calls or a host of other duties and then five o'clock tea. These teas are, however, quite unceremonious, but, of course, there are certain little rules that have to be observed. For instance, no one may speak to the Queen without first being addressed.

The King and the Prince of Wales are both particularly fond of dropping in for a cup of tea and a chat with those present; but they are quite on the same footing as any other guest.

Tea is served at Buckingham Palace in which is known as the Tapestry Room, which immediately adjoins the Queen's private boudoir. The guests assemble as near five o'clock as possible, and await the entry of the Queen, when they rise. The Queen has a pleasant smile and a word for all present, and conversation speedily becomes general, Her Majesty singling those out whom she wishes to address more directly. She takes her seat at the table and pours out the tea in person. Twenty minutes is the allotted time for the guests to remain, unless they are directly invited to remain longer by Her Majesty. Anything savoring of "scandal" or unjust criticism of those not present is strictly taboo at these teas, and one very well known society lady now fails to find herself invited to the palace on an afternoon through an unguarded remark, spoken of the German Emperor.

COATED TONGUE HEADACHE DIZZY SPELLS

Your overworked stomach is on strike. It refuses to secrete pepsin enough to act upon the food. Refuses also to secrete acid enough to enable the pepsin secretion to do its work.

What's the result?—dyspepsia, headache, sick all over.

Give to the stomach the assistance it requires—or in other words try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which cure more weak stomachs than any other medicine you know of.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills put the kind of life into a weak stomach that enables it to digest and assimilate all kinds of food.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Cured Mr. William Hare, a Well-Known Lumberman in Parry Sound.

"I consider that Dr. Hamilton's Pills make the best all round medicine. My stomach got disordered and all kinds of complications set in. My blood grew thin, my color got pale, and I had the worst kind of headaches. The food I ate all disagreed with me and I was constantly bilious and suffering from acute dyspepsia. A wonderful change took place when I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they gave me appetite and strong digestion. I had no more bad dreams, no sick stomach or headache. I was in fact like a new man, and will always recommend and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sure to benefit at once. Try them. 25c per box, at all dealers, and insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut in yellow boxes only.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) E. THODY, 141 Yorkville Ave., Toronto.

Children Had Eczema

SUFFERED AGONY UNTOLD

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Many a mother's heart has been torn by the suffering of her little one who has fallen a victim of eczema. Only such mothers appreciate to the full the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for this horrible ailment.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:

"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure of eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment, and we hope more people will learn about it so that their poor little ones may be saved from suffering."

Chafing and irritation of the skin, from which nearly all babies suffer more or less, is a frequent source of eczema. There is no treatment for chafing so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Pore-clogging, unsanitary powders are being discarded by all who have once learned the value of this great Ointment in keeping baby's skin soft, smooth and healthy.

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home in the treatment of pimples, barber's itch, scalds and burns, poisoned skin, sore feet and every form of itching skin disease. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE OTONABEE POPULAR IN LINDSAY WATERS

The people of Lindsay appear to have become attached to the steamer Otonabee, which recently ran a number of excursions out of the Scugog town. Probably the most successful excursion in connection with the visit of the steamer to the Lindsay waters was the one run by the Woodmen of the World from Lindsay to Peterborough. The large capacity of the steamer which is nearly double that of any other boat on these waters was taxed to its fullest extent by the Lindsay people upon almost every occasion.

During the last few days the Woodmen of the World have received so many requests that their trip to Peterborough by steamer and thence to Lindsay by rail be repeated, that Alderman Hicks, Manager of the Company, visited Lindsay on Friday last and completed arrangements with the Woodmen of the World to do so.

The steamer Otonabee will also run an excursion from Peterborough to Lindsay on Tuesday, the 10th of August, leaving the Wolfe Street wharf at 8 a.m. and reaching Lindsay in time to connect with the 8 o'clock train for Peterborough. The round trip tickets will be fixed at the low price of $1.00 so that all who care to do so may take in this delightful trip. The Woodmen will run their excursion from Lindsay to Peterborough on the 13th, the intervening dates being filled in with excursions to other points on the upper waters.

THE MYSTERIOUS NERVES

How like electricity is the mysterious nerve force which courses through the body, controlling the movement of every muscle and the working of every organ. The secret of keeping the marvellous nervous system in health and vigour is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

When the dimpled baby's hungry,
what does the baby do?
It doesn't lie serenely and merely sweetly coo;
The hungry baby bellows with all its little might Till someone gives it something to curb its appetite;
The infant with the bottle which stills its fretful cries
A lesson plainly teaches—it pays to advertise.
The lamb lost on the hillside when darkness closes round,
Stands not in silence trembling and waiting to be found;
Its plaintiff bleating echoes across the vales and meads,
Until the shepherd hears it, and
hearing, kindly heeds,
And when its fears are ended, as on his breast it lies,
The lamb has made this patent: It pays to advertise.

Horse Drowned In Peculiar Manner At Gore's Landing

Was Driven Into Water Near Wharf for a Drink and Got Beyond its Depth—Party of C.G.E. Anglers Spent the Week End at Cottage.

VISITORS AROUND THE LAKE

Examiner Special.

Rice Lake August 2nd.—A very curious accident happened at Gore's Landing during the week by which a mare owned by Mr. Jas. B. O'Neill was drowned. Mr. J. G. Jackson (of Jackson & Clark, Cobourg) drove out to Rice Lake on Wednesday, and in the evening he was about to return when the horse was driven down to the lake for a drink. The horse went into deep water and encumbered by the buggy was drowned. This is a serious loss as the animal was valued at $150.

Althoug it is rather ancient history and has been retold several times the Cobourg version of Madden Howard's rescue of two tourists who were in danger on the lake off Hiawatha is worth mentioning again. It is as follows:

That the age of chivalry is not gone is apparent from the daring deed of Madden Howard, the well known Indian champion paddler of Hiawatha, who rescued two Americans in a wild storm on Rice Lake some weeks ago and refused reward.

It has just leaked through on good authority however, that some weeks ago one of the sudden squalls for which Rice Lake is famous came down with unwonted fury and lashed the waters into a plentiful supply of billows and foam. Some Indians standing on shore taking in the fury of the storm which prevented their going out to fish, saw two men in a boat rise up in the distance and disappear It was plain that they were in great danger. Howard thought for a moment and then crying out "I can't stand that boys," stripped off his clothes and pushed off in his light canoe. He too, soon disappeared from the view of those on shore After a long hard struggle against wind and waves, Howard reached the men, who were exhausted, and clinging to their upturned canoe. He grasped one by the hair and lifted him off the crest of a wave into the canoe and taking the other in tow he paddled with the wind for Paudash Point, which was safely reached. Each of the rescued Americans offered him money, but Madden shook his head, "No, me not want anything; didn't do it for money!"

Needless to say when the tourists arrived home they didn't forget him, and he now wears a handsome testimonial of his unselfish courage and skill. These facts are vouched for.

Among the Torontonians registered at Cedar Isle the past week were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmanson, Mr. Geo. Noble, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. McGaw and others.

Examining Papers Of Pupils Of Collegiate Institutes

Eighty-nine Hundred Candidates Provided Plenty of Work for Examiners—Appeals Will Not Likely be Successful This Year.

PAPERS BEING RE-READ

Reading the answer papers of the candidates for entrance to the model and normal schools and to the faculties of education and for pass and honor matriculation, has been under way since July 2nd. There were in all about 8900 candidates for these examinations, which is about 500 in advance of 1908. In addition to the regular staff of 10 in the registrar's branch of the department this work has necessitated the employment of 35 examiners-in-chief, who set the papers and read the appeals; 220 associate examiners, who with the examiners-in-chief read the answers, and over 30 temporary clerks who attend to the entering, numbering, and distributing of the answer papers and the checking and recording of marks.

Before the answers are read, numbers are assigned to the candidates and proper records made to conceal their identity from the examiners. The examiner-inchief discusses the value to be assigned to the answers with the associate examiners. The marks awarded by the associate examiners are carefully checked. This year for the first time all the additions and transcription of marks on the papers are checked by a staff of clerks and mistakes communicated to the examiners for correction. This year also for the first time, in cases where the margin of failure is comparatively small, the papers are re-read by the examiner-in-chief. Finally the reports of the teachers as to the standing of their pupils are considered and allowances made in deserving instances by each revising board. Candidates who have still failed after their papers have been re-read by the examiners-in-chief, will receive statements of marks endorsed in such cases as re-read. In all other cases of failure where the statements of marks are not endorsed as "Re-read," an appeal will be allowed if desired. A fee of $2 should accompany each appeal. It is unlikely that appeals in any of the examinations will prove successful.

The Funeral Obsequies Of The Late Honourable John Dryden

On Saturday Hon. J. R. Stratton, a former colleague, and Mr. J. H. McClellan and Dr. Eastwood, former neighbours of the late Hon. John Dryden, and electors in his constituency, went to Brooklin to attend the funeral of Mr. Dryden. At Bowmanville they called for Hon. Senator Beith, who accompanied them.

The funeral concourse was one of the largest, if not the largest, ever assembled in Ontario, thousands being present. The beautiful lawns and grounds were crowded with people; and horses attached to vehicles, were tied to the roadside fences, on both sides of the highway, literally for miles.

The funeral ceremonies and services were conducted by Rev. C. J. Cameron, B.A., of the Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, assisted by Rev. W. B. Tighe, B.A., a former resident of Peterborough and pastor of the Brooklin Baptist Church, who gave an address suitable to the occasion, referring to the fruitful public career of the late Mr. Dryden and the personal virtues which had won him the high esteem of his neighbours and the public, as demonstrated by the tribute implied in such an immense attendance assembled to pay the last tokens of respect. The remains were laid at rest in the Brooklin cemetery about one hundred yards distant from the late residence, and under the spreading shade of a stately maple tree, a fitting resting place for a statesman who had done so much in both a private and public capacity to advance the interests of the country of which the maple is the national emblem.

Tourists Have To Walk Around Road To Wharf At Lakefield

The tourists to the lakes these days have a round about way to take to get from the station to the wharf in order to take the steamers. This has been made necessary by the action of the proprietor of the Lakefield House, who has nailed boards around his property and thus prohibits persons from taking the short way through his property. Tourists now have to walk up the railroad track to get to the steamboat and considerable inconvenience is experienced.

The action of the hotelkeeper is said to be due to the fact that Lakefield is a local option place.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM HARRINGTON

The death occurred this morning at an early hour of William Harrington, the little two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Harrington of Lot 15, Con. 8, Ennismore. The illness which proved fatal was of but a week's duration.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at nine o'clock to St. Martin's cemetery.

D. W. LEITCH DOING SPLENDID WORK

Bell Telephone Construction Gang Busy Laying Conduits.

Foreman D. W. Leitch of the Bell Telephone Company who has been in St. Thomas looking after the underground construction work on Talbot street and adjoining street for the company, has completed his labors He will do two weeks' work there and proceed to Sault Ste. Marie.

The placing of the underground work here has been put through speedily and efficiently. There was little tying up of the streets and the pavements were left in the best of condition, reflecting creditably on the ability of Mr. Leitch and his men.

The conduits are now ready to receive the cables, which will be installed as soon as the new building is ready to receive them.

GREAT FISHING AT SOUTH BEACH

Lunge are Biting Ravenously and Guests Easily Get the Limit.

South Beach, August 2nd.—Exceptionally fine luck has been found in the fishing at this popular summer resort during the past week. A big lunge was captured by Mr. E. S. Osborne of Rochester, this lunge measured 48 inches long and weighed 16¾ lbs. Mr. Len Hall of Rochester has been fortunate enough to bring in the finest catch of fish for this year at the Beach. On Friday Mr. Hall came in with the limit of five large lunge averaging about 7 and 8 lbs. each, also the finest string of bass brought in this year. The limit of the law was the only drawback to Mr. Hall's unusual luck. Other catches are large and the feature of the day is in trying to see who will bring in the largest strings of fish.

South Beach is well filled at present, in fact this popular resort is becoming more popular than ever. Musical dances and parties have been the order of the past week and the singing of Miss Jessie Lentchford of Rochester has been greatly enjoyed. Among the late arrivals at the Beach are the following: Mr. E. S. Osborne and family, Mr. Geo. Atkinson and family of Rochester, Mr. Ed. Brain and family, Elizabeth, N. J., Rev. J. J. Sheehan, Traverse City, Mich., Miss Margaret Sheehan of Bay City Mich., Miss A. Cahill, Toronto, Miss H. M. Cahill, Peterboro, Mr. L. J. Lechair, Brockville, Geo. Smith and family, Rochester, Thos. Pierpont and family, of Rochester, Robt. Wright, J. J. Turner of Peterboro. Several laarge parties are booked for the Beach this week and festivities will be at their height during the balance of the season.

What a Great Man Said to the Great American People.

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent the best years of his life in perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his receipt to the American people he said, "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a fair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair; it gives vigour and strength to the hair roots." Wm. Madill sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle and guarantees it to do all that is claimed for it, or your money is refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., and a bottle will be sent you all charges prepaid.

PARTY FROM BURLEIGH HAD AN EXCITING TIME AT EEL'S CREEK

Canoe Upset and Two Men Had to be Rescued--Jolly Party Enjoying Holiday at Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls--Grand Concert at "Viamede" Last Friday--Saturday Boats Had Heaviest Traffic of the Season.

Stony Lake, Aug. 2nd.—The past week at the lakes has been a delightful one, the days being bright and sunny and the evenings idal. The moonlight on the lakes has been grand. All the resorts are practically filled and the summer season is at its height. The steamers up on Saturday carried large numbers, the noon boat carrying one hundred and five, and the Stoney Lake, Saturday night had over two hundred.

Dances are held nightly at Juniper Island now, and Saturday evening saw the largest crowd present this season.

Yesterday morning service was conducted by Mr. Colville, Y.M.C.A. secretary from Toronto, assisted by M. Cole. Mr. Wendel presided at the piano and Mr. Harold Swan sang a solo in excellent voice.

AT BURLEIGH FALLS.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Hotchins, Mr. and Mrs. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. McCallum of Cleveland, who are stopping at the Park Hotel, went on a trip yesterday to Eel's Crek. Everything went alright until after dinner, when Messrs. McCallum and David started to run the rapids. Their canoe was upset and the two men thrown into the water. They held on to their canoe until assistance arrivd and were brought to shore. They had an exciting time drying their clothes on the rocks, this being necessary before they could return to Burleigh.

The hotel is full of guests at the present time, the guests having arrived in large numbers during the past week. A jolly party consisting of the Misses Goodman, of Rochester, N.Y., and Miss Feinberg and Shoenkoff, of New York city, are staying at the hotel and by their excellent piano playing and singing are making things quite lively. Dances have been held each evening in the pavilion and very enjoyable times were spent.

Yesterday morning divine service was held in the pavilion, a large number attending. Rev. Mr. Lord, of Apsley, conducted the service, and Miss Doran and Mrs. Kingbury sang a duet.

GUESTS AT PARK HOTEL.

The following guests are registered at the Park Hotel: H. M. Hunter and wife, J. L. McCartney and wife and son, Pittsburg; Hugh N. Hamilton, Youngstown, E. Waits, Leo. Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Goodman, Misses Grace and Harriet Goodman, Rochester, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. R. A. How, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Magill, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis, W. R. Davis, Toronto; Dr. S. Eagleson and Mrs. S. Eagleson, Madoc, and Mrs. McGregor, Madoc, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Breach, Buffalo, N. Y., A. A. McIntosh, London; J. T. Krouse, J. Barraclow, and F. J. Rapp, Butler, Pa.; E. M. Tempest, Solido; S. L. Keiden, Idye Powers and E. H. Waktan, New Hensington, Pa.; A. Luebeck and wife, Rochster, N.Y.; Miss Amy Root, Buffalo. Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Rogers, and Geo. E. Sweet, Toronto; John E. Bell, Pittsburg; Thos. McGowan, Coming, N.Y.; J. L. Terry, Buffalo, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs J. Margie, E. B. Foley, Mrs. M. A. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. J Downer, Misses Edith Feinberg and Dora Shoenkoff, New York city; and Mr and Mrs. J. S. Wilson, Brampton.

AT VIAMEDE.

The gayity continues at this beautiful resort and the large number of guests are having a most enjoyable outing. Everything that tends to make their stay the most pleasant is being provided by Mr. and Mrs. Graham.

The fishing, too, continues very good, and big catches during the past week have been reported by Mrs. Urquhart and Mrs. Gordon, of Toronto, and Messrs. Clarkson Taylor, of Cincinnati and Albert Emery, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Waldon, of Toronto.

A GRAND CONCERT.

On Friday evening last the talented guests at "Viamede" provided a most enjoyable programme. It surpassed anything that has previously been given and everyone is loud in his praises of the excellence of the concert so kindly arranged by the committee Each number received merited applause and many were the recalls accorded. Mr. S. C. Bell, of San Antonio, Texas, presided, and the following was the interesting programme presented:

Piano Solo—Mr. Waldon.
Comedy—"Love of a Bonnet." Mrs. Emery, of Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Bell, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Bell, of San Antonio, Texas; Miss Urquhart, Toronto; and Miss Bessie Mowry, Peterborough.
Song—Mr. Waldon.
Skirt dance—Miss M. Aikens.
Song and dance—"Don't You Want a Paper, Dearie"—Misses Urquhart and Misses Bell and Bonnar and Messrs. Whalen, Shaw and Damp.
Mandolin Solo—Mr. A. Emery.
Vocal Trio—Messrs. Waldon, Bond and Armstrong.
Spanish dance—Miss M. Aikens.
Solo—Mrs. Steinberg.
Highland Fling—Katie Weir.
Song—Dorothy Bell.
Piano Solo—Mr. Waldon.
Trio—Messrs. Waldon, Bond and Armstrong.
Scarf Dance—Miss Steinberg.
Spanish Dance—Miss Steinberg and Mr. Whalen, Miss H. Urquhart and Mr. Shaw, and Miss Bell and Mr. Damp.

The committee who had charge of arrangements consisted of Miss Steinberg, and Messrs. Waldon, Shaw and Shedd. The pavilion was decorated most beautifully by Dr. and Mrs. Huff, of Pittsburg, Pa., and Mr. Shedd.

Ice cream was served at the conclusion.

Service was conducted in the pavilion last evening at 8.30 by Rev. Mr. Lord.

BIG REGATTA AT COBOURG THIS WEEK

Three Days Celebration That Will Attract Hundreds to Lake Front.

This week will be a gala time in Cobourg. The largest regatta ever held on the Lake will take place next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 4th, 5th and 6th. The local committee have been constantly working to get all arrangements completed so that everything will work out according to the program. The committee have raised $500 for the general fund and $200 for fireworks, and all the clubs taking part have made generous contributions. The following are the members of the local committee: J. D. Hayden, W. Burnet, J. J. Daly, Percy Clark, L. Crossen, Mayor Harry Field and J. M. Sutherland, secretary. Two attractions outside the general program will give all our citizens and the host of visitors that will come to our town great pleasure and satisfaction, viz: the illuminated boat parade on Thursday night, and the grand display of fireworks on Friday night by Prof. Hand of Hamilton. The band will be on hand on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Another feature will be the Canadian Power Boat Association races, when the motor boats will vie with each other as to speed. It is expected that over 300 boats will take part in the different events.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY

The interest in the mountain districts that are being opened up by the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is becoming keen to the Alpine climber and the lover of adventure.

Mr. L. Stennett Amery, of All Souls College, Oxford, England, was a visitor at the Grand Trunk Pacific offices yesterday en route to the Yellowhead Pass via Edmonton, and the new Transcontinental survey route, for the purpose of exploring the mountains in that locality and with the principal object of making the ascent to Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies and the highest mountain in Canada. Mr. Amery's party consists of five members including a Swiss Guide, and the party will be joined at Edmonton by Mr. Amery's brother, who is coming directly from South Africa for the purpose of making the trip. 1d-1w.

WESTERN FARMERS ANXIOUSLY HOPING FROST WILL NOT BE FELT

Mr. L. S. Downer, of Frobisher, Sask., formerly of Downer's Corners, is home on a visit after being four years in the west. He left the farm work in charge of his son to pay a visit to his old home and since arriving in Peterborough on Saturday night he has renewed many acquaintances. His decision to go west was formed upon a doctor advising him that the change of atmosphere would cure his wife, who at that time was very ill. This morning he met his old physician, Dr. Burnham, and told him that he was glad he had acted on his advice, as Mrs. Downer has entirely regained her vigour, and is enjoying excellent health.

Mr. Downer has 300 acres under cultivation this year, 240 of which are in wheat. The crops are in excellent condition but there will be a feeling of insecurity for the next two weeks until the wheat has passed that condition in which it will not be hurt by the frost. Although the standing grain is most pleasing to the eye at present, a frost may be felt at any time and serious damage done. If the weather remains favourable for the next two weeks the harvest will be a splendid one and will mean a fortune to the western farmers.

Mr. Downer did not speak very highly of the class of harvesters who went west last year. Only good men would be engaged in the future, the farmers having become disgusted with the kind that were to be had in 1908. The price paid to good men is $3 a day and board.

Oak Orchard Likely To Become A Favourite Summer Resort

Oak Orchard, one of the most picturesque and healthful spots on the whole Kawartha chain of lakes, has passed into the hands of Mr. Sam. Pearson, purser on the steamer Manita. The price was in the neighbourhood of $6000, and it was purchased from the Peterborough gentlemen who have had it for some time. The deal was closed last week and Mr. Pearson will start at once to make plans for next year.

Oak Orchard is on Pigeon Lake Narrows, and is composed of about 65 acres. The front or shore part is laid out in a double row of lots with a beautiful avenue of white oak trees between. It is high and on a hot day it gets all the cool breezes. The front part is heavy with white oak, while the back part is heavily wooded with big pines. It is an ideal spot for a month's holidays, where quietness, fresh air, cool breezes, shade and the pine aroma is wanted, while the fishing is the best on the Kawartha Lakes. The boating could not be better and if Mr. Pearson conducts the place himself, as he now intends to do, it will be extremely popular next season.

On the property is a fine hotel, which now has accommodation for ten beds. This will be offered. Teams may enter from of shape, and will be conducted for the benefit of the touring and pleasure seeking public.

APPRECIATES THE COURTESY OF CREW

Lindsay Woodmen of the World Pass Resolution of Thanks to Crew Of Otonabee.

Lindsay, Ont., July 28th, 1909.
R. Hicks, Esq.,
Manager Otonabee Navigation Co.,
Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in informing you of a resolution voted on and unanimously carried at the regular meting of Lindsay Camp, No. 153 W. O. W., on Tuesday evening, July 27th, extending our hearty thanks and appreciation to yourself, and purser and members of the crew of the steamer "Otonabee" for the kind manner in which we were treated on our excursion to Peterborough per steamer "Otonabee" on Friday, July 23rd last.

Kindly convey our thanks to the officers and members of the crew of the said steamer.

Yours truly,
W. BOUCK,
Asst. Clerk, Lindsay Camp, No. 153, W. O. W.

DEFECTIVE WIRING BEING REMEDIED

Mr. VanWinkle's Report on Recent Visit to Peterborough.

Peterborough has been comparatively free from fires traceable to defective electric wiring. That fires did not result from such cause is not due to the absence of defective wiring. It appears that under older methods the results have not been thoroughly safe but there has been improvement. In nothing else should there be more careful inspection and careful work. While we sleep in fancied safety with defective wiring, the width of a hair may produce a blaze which may easily prove disastrous to life and property. Recently an inspection by the underwriters' expert has remedied many defective local conditions and it is to be assumed that our wiring is now in fairly good shape. The following from the Canadian Electrical News bears upon the subject

"The Canadian Fire Underwriters have sent Mr. B. Vanwinkle to London, Ont., to inspect and report upon the condition of all mercantile risks in that city. Owners of defectively wired buildings will be expected to bring them up to the standard required by the Underwriters. In his recent visit to Peterborough Mr. Vanwinkle succeeded in effecting a large number of changes in the wiring conditions; the usual defects, found in older styles of wiring, being very much in evidence.

"The large volume of new building operations in progress in Toronto is keeping the Underwriters extremely busy and the present staff is hardly adequate to keep abreast of the demands made upon it."

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY

The laying out of the line for the new Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through British Columbia has verified many predictions and revealed new facts regarding the character of the country.

Inland from Prince Rupert some 200 miles, curtained off from the coast by the coast range there are many dairying. The most interesting of these is the Bulkley Valley. The Bulkley River which emptjes into the Skeena River near Hazleton has a beautiful valley lightly timbered with an occasional cedar swamp but exceedingly fertile. Pea-vine in this valley grows high enough to hide a horse. Cattle and horses are fed on an average of 90 days in the year here in this sheltered vale. There are in the Bulkley Valley already established a number of ranches which are in reality experimental farms. Mr. Thompson on Thompson River, a small stream flowing into the Bulkley, is an old Colorado ranchman and he declares this section is the most delightful in which he has ever lived. At the junction of the Maurice River the country is called Pleasant Valley and it is aptly named.

The little lakes that lie up among the hills are literally alive with fish and salmon run up the Bulkley to a distance of 300 miles from the sea. Mr. Barrett, of Lake Barrett, has a splendid ranch and is the owner of 150 head of mules. These ranchmen have experimented with wheat, oats, barley and almost every variety of fruit and vegetable and seem to be able to produce almost anything that grows even in the fruit valleys of southern British Columbia.

Another sure indication of the desirable character of the climate and soil is the present of wild strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, high and low bush blueberries, cranberries and many other varieties. Where berries grow wild as they do here, it is easy to imagine what might be done by cultivation.

The ranching, stock-raising, dairying and agricultural possibilities of this section are sufficient to make it a most attractive territory, but this is not all. The mineral prospects of the region round about are most encouraging. This is especially true of the Talqua River district. In fact the whole territory inland for 500 miles is good prospecting. Everything is here provided to make it great country and there is an abundance of timber and coal. 1d-1w.

PAYNE BILL PASSES.

Tariff Measure Finally Adopted in the U. S. Senate.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The House on Saturday night adopted the conference report on the tariff bill, 195 to 88. The Republicans shrieked in their delight over the final outcome, and Chairman Payne was the central figure of an admiring and congratulatory crowd of colleagues.

Twenty Republicans voted against the report and two Democrats for it.

The day opened with what appeared to be part of an organized filibuster against the conference report, when Mr. Mondell, Wyoming, demanded the reading of a lengthy document. This proceeded for about an hour and a half, when with about two-thirds remaining to be read, Mr. Mondell permitted the debate to go on.

Chairman Payne defended the report and appealed to his Republican colleagues to support it, prophesying at the same time that when the bill was enacted into law it would meet with the approval of the country.

Mr. Clark, the minority leader, and many of his colleagues denounced the bill and chastised the Republicans for failings, as they alleged to revise the tariff downward, and thus keep their party pledges.

Perhaps the most sensational speech of all was by Mr. Mann of Illinois, Republican, who said he would vote against the report, provided the rates on pulp and print paper as reduced by the House, were not retained. He denounced that particular schedule and declared that Canada would take such action regarding pulpwood, and print paper as to place an almost prohibitive price on paper in this country.

At 9.07 p.m. the House with the conference report ready to be messaged to the Senate for action, adjourned until Monday noon.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The plant of the Niagara Pulp Board Co. was destroyed by fire Saturday night. Loss $50.

Henry Isles, a farmer of Firdale, Manitoba, was drowned on Saturday while bathing in a slough.

The plant of the Canadian Canners Limited, at St. Catharines, was totally destroyed by fire early Saturday morning.

The Vancouver exhibition management will invite Louis Bleriot or the Wright Bros. to make airship flights in that city.

The 23-year-old son of Matthew Moody, manufacturer of Terrebonne, fell under the Quebec train on Saturday and was killed.

A committee of the Selkirk Centennial Exposition for 1912 waited on Earl Grey Saturday at Winnipeg, and presented through him an invitation to King Edward to open the fair, and, failing him, the Prince of Wales.

Minister of Defence Cooke of New South Wales, declares that whatever the Imperial Defence Conference decided Australia would be asked to shoulder, and he was confident she would respond. Australia must do more than hitherto.

Irish Best Administrators.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—An interesting story comes from Ottawa supplementing the many rumors about the coming appointment of an archbishop of that archdiocese.

It appears that the Irish-Canadian element sent a document to Rome declaring amongst other reasons why one of that nationality should be appointed, that the French-Canadians, while good and faithful missionaries, were failing in administrative capacity, and as administrative talent would be required in a very high degree in the capital, an Irish-Canadian should be the successor of the late Mgr. Duhamel.

Thief Gets Jewelry.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 2.—Mrs. E. D. Smith, who was robbed of jewelry valued at $1,000 three weeks ago, is to-day mourning the loss of about $250 in cash and jewelry. Between one and four yesterday morning her house was entered and rifled. Several rooms were entered and jewelry, the property of guests, stolen.

This house was robbed three weeks ago by Edward Barrymore, who was sentenced to five years for robbing the Walker House in Toronto. It is believed the thief may be a friend of Barrymore's.

Killed In Runaway.

Vancouver, Aug. 2.—Benjamin Friedman, manufacturer of the Robello Cigar Factory, was killed Saturday morning by his horse running away. The horse swerved into the curb and in attempting to balance the rig Mr. Friedman leaned too far out of the rig and his head hit a telegraph pole. He died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Campaign by Trolley.

Boston, Aug. 2.—A four week's tour of Massachusetts by trolley is planned by the Votes for Women committee of Massachusetts Suffrage Associations to begin early Monday morning next. Meetings are to be held out of doors in all cases unless weather conditions are unfavorable.

Large Hailstones.

Morden, Man., Aug. 2.—A hail storm on Friday wiped out an area six miles wide extending to the boundary. Hailstones were reported to be seven inches in diameter. Some were picked up one hour after the storm one inch in diameter.

Turret Bell is Raised.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Aug. 2.—The freight steamer Turret Bell, stranded three years ago, on the north side of the Island during a big gale, which wrecked several other vessels, was towed into this port yesterday afternoon.

KING REVIEWS FLEET.

Ships in Solent Drops Escape in Parade in the Solent.

Cowes, Eng., Aug. 2.—The last of the great naval pageants, which for the past few months have played such a prominent part in the campaign waged around the question of Great Britain's sea power, took place Saturday afternoon in the Solent, where eighteen miles of warships were reviewed by King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

Anchored in three main columns, with smaller craft in flanking lines, every ship dressed and newly painted, the fleet presented a magnificent spectacle, and the scene was strikingly picturesque, as the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, bearing Their Majesties, and escorted by the Admiralty yachts, and the White Star Line steamer Adriatic, on which members of the House of Lords and the Commons had gathered, passed down the lanes of ships.

The surrounding waters were crowded with steamers and craft of all kinds, which were thronged with spectators. The gaiety of the scene was greatly heightened by the permission given the officers to entertain their friends. Every warship was dispensing hospitality with naval lavishness, and the preponderance of women in summer garments gave the quarter-decks the appearance of garden parties in miniature.

Last night the Indomitable, the Invincible and the Inflexible — three battleships of the Dreadnought class —sailed to meet the Russian Imperial yacht Standart and escort Emperor Nicholas and the Russian Imperial family to Cowes. This will be the first official visit of the Russian monarch to Great Britain. The coming of Emperor Nicholas to-day is regarded as sealing the triple entente between Russia, France and Great Britain, and indicating that the period of estrangement and suspicion between Great Britain and Russia is now ended.

Officially, the visit will be afloat, although it is expected that the Russian monarch will land privately at Cowes Tuesday and pay visits. King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the Prince of Wales will sail at 10.45 on the Victoria and Albert, to meet the Russian Imperial party, who will board the King's yacht for luncheon, and the subsequent review of the British fleet.

Mexico Again Shaken.

Mexico City, Aug. 2.—Mexico City was again severely shaken by an earthquake Saturday. A shock more severe than any yet experienced rocked the city for one minute and 40 seconds at 12.43 p.m.

No great damage was done, though innumerable public and other buildings were cracked. The national palace suffered considerably.

Reports from Governor Daminis Flores, of the State of Guerrera, declared that in Acapulco, the largest and strongest buildings were razed by the force of Saturday's tremors, and there has been heavy property loss throughout that section.

At Acapulco the custom house with its warehouse, the military barracks and a number of other prominent buildings were absolutely destroyed, while the municipal palace suffered serious damage.

Building Burns; Five Killed.

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—An explosion of gasoline, followed by a destructive fire in a four-storey building on West Third street Saturday afternoon, is known to have caused the death of five persons and the injury of six others. The police believe that the bodies of four other persons are still in the ruins.

The dead: Roam Bouska, 3 years old; Mrs. Gagnon, 50 years old; child supposed to be Clifford Gamble, 3 years old, and two unidentified men.

The explosion blew the building to fragments in an instant and set fire to and badly damaged the central police station and another adjoining building.

Chief of Police O'Connor suffered an irreparable loss in the destruction of his private gallery of crooks, a collection of 20,000 pictures.

French Element is Pleased.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Naturally the French-Canadian element are elated over the new Senatorial appointment from the west replacing Senator Perley.

It was at first announced that a Mr. Price had been appointed, but the man who really got the job is no other than the Hon. Benjamin Prince, a French-Canadian from the Province of Quebec, who went west and grew up with the country. He was formerly a member of the Northwest Assembly and a Conservative, but went over with a good many of his compatriots in 1896.

He is well and favorably known here, and should, with Senator Roy from Edmonton, make a good French-Canadian team from the west in the Upper House.

More Sharp Shooters.

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Nearly two and one-half millions of trained, disciplined sharp shooters have been added to the defensive forces of the German empire last week by the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Bethmann-Hollweg. The chancellor has taken this far-reaching step by given permission by degree to 2,402,644 members of 27,676 veterans' societies to practice rifle shooting on the military rifle ranges throughout the country, with army rifles at an annual charge of 87 cents a piece. Cartridges will be supplied to the shooters at 62 cents a hundred.

Heretofore all requests made by the veterans' societies in this direction have been refused.

The Premier's Holiday.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left yesterday for a three weeks' holiday. This week he will be the guest of the Shawinigan Fish and Game Club near Charlotte Mills, Quebec, and the following two weeks will be spent with Lady Laurier at the Premier's old home in Arthabaskaville. During Sir Wilfrid's absence from the capital Hon. Charles Murphy and Hon. Mackenzie King will be left in charge of affairs.

Snow in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 2.—The annual spectacle of snow falling in July in Omaha occurred during an early storm Saturday night, which followed all extremely hot day. The flakes fell intermittently for nearly ten minutes.

Ten Dead In Wreck.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 2.—Ten persons were killed and at least thirty were injured in a head-on collision of two electric trains on the Spokane and International Railway late Saturday afternoon.

The wreck occurred at Coldwell, Wash., a station between Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, and Spokane. Both trains were going at the rate of about 15 miles an hour. They crashed together without warning.

The heavily laden coaches were crushed, and the men and women in them were thrown from their seats, some being hurled to the tops of the coaches, while others were sent flying through the windows. Several coaches left the tracks, and passengers were caught under the pile of broken wood and steel.

A partial list of the dead included: Will Allee, Wenatchie, Wash.; Walter Lalquist, Spokane; A. T. Whitney, an attorney of Memphis, Tenn., and an unknown woman and son.

Sbaretti Off for Rome?

Montreal, Aug. 2.—It is learned today that the rumor to the effect that his excellency Mgr. Sbaretti had gone to Rome on an official mission is to say the least premature.

One thing is certain the papal delegate did not give it to be understood that he was leaving for the city of the Popes, and that it was only supposed that he had taken his departure for the eternal city. As a well-posted gentleman in ecclesiastical matters observed yesterday if the delegate has really gone to Rome he certainly never intimated to anyone of either high or low estate that such was his intention.

Comic Editor Shot.

Havana, Aug. 2.—Postmaster-General Nodarse Saturday night entered the home of Senor Torriente, editor of an illustrated weekly, Felicia Comica, and fired several shots, seriously wounding Torriente. Nodarse then escaped.

The cause of the attack is said to be rumors concerning the relations of a certain high Government official with Nodarse's wife. The publication of a scandalous cartoon Saturday is believed to have induced Nodarse to attack Torriente.

Swept Out to Sea.

Avalon, N.J., Aug. 2.—Swept out to sea in a disabled sailboat, Dr. A. A. Sargent, his wife and two children and three friends, all of Philadelphia, were rescued late Saturday night by the Avalon life-saving crew, who found the party drifting helplessly on the ocean.

The life-savers went out twice in search of the disabled boat, finding the party on the second trip drifting up the coast off Sea Isle City.

Miners Adjust Differences.

Pittsburg, Aug. 2.—There will be no further suspension of work in the mines of the Pittsburg Coal Co. All the differences were amicably adjusted at the conference between President Lewis of the U.M.W. of America and the operators.

Wright's Fast Time.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Orville Wright traveled 47.431 miles an hour in his flight Saturday in returning from the Alexandria end of the course to Fort Meyer. This is the official report made by the trial board at the War Department yesterday. His speed to Alexandria from the Fort Meyer end of the course was 37.735 miles an hour, making his average 42.438. The Wright brothers will receive $30,000 for their aeroplane, $5,000 of which is the bonus for excess in speed over the contract requirement.

Doukhobors on the March.

Winnipeg, Aug. 2.—A despatch from Canora, Sask., says: Word has been received among the Doukhobors here that another nude parade was instituted among their people in the vicinity of Swan River last Sunday. During the march one old woman died and was left by the roadside, while the deluded procession sped onward.

Found Wounded Tramp.

Kingston, Aug. 2.—Three tramps at Tweed started up Stoco Lake in a rowboat. They stole a pig from W. Bowers on the way. At night J. Marshall of Lost Channel drove a wounded tramp into Tweed. A bullet had pierced his head and passed down into his shoulder. His wounds were attended to, and all put under arrest.

Financier Killed.

Biarritz, France, Aug. 2.—C. C. Cuyler, a prominent citizen and financier of New York, died at the Hotel Biarritz at this place Saturday night, from injuries received in an automobile accident near Cambo Friday. Mrs. Cuyler, who was riding with her husband, was slightly hurt, but not seriously.

PARK STREET ATHLETIC NINE DEFEATED T.A.S IN GREAT GAME WEST ENDS DOWNED STRATHS

Dusty Twirled Great Ball, Allowing Only 3 Hits—Harry O'Brien's Batting a Feature—Kirn Played Plucky Game for West Ends.

T. A. S. HAVE PROTESTED

There were many and diverse happenings in the City League ball games at Nicholls Oval Saturday afternoon, in the first contest Jack Pilling's aggregation from the South End bumped the T.A.S. 9 to 7, and the result is that both teams are even up for the league leadership.

In the second game the West End defeated the Strathconas 6 to 5 in a listless and long-drawn contest and now the High Commissioners occupy the bottom position in the honour role.

The Park St.-T. A. S. game was protested by Manager Quinlan in the first innings on the grounds that the balls in use were not new as called for by the rules, but were out of shape and damaged.

The work of the Umpires McCabe and Kendry in this contest was no easy, nor thankful job, and they were handed a lot of abuse from both sides, they were accused of being short-sighted, while a lot of other derogatory criticism was handed out, and by players who should have known better to say the least. After this the officials should use their authority and eject such players from the game, as the fans don't want rowdy ball and won't stand for it.

The heaving in the T.A.S. interests Saturday was looked after by Manager Quinlan in person. He pitched a good strong heady game, except in the seventh chapter, when he was combed for five hits and six runs.

Dusty was the Park St. nominee to do the serving and he kept the T.A.S. hit output down to very modest dimensions. The T.A.S. could practically do nothing with his offerings until he started to weaken in the closing sessions, then they annexed four counters, a base on balls, a hit by pitcher and four Herculean errors, which were contributed by Messrs. Pentland and Bell.

In addition to Dusty's superfine twirling ahe all round work of Harry O'Brien, the stirling outfielder, had much to do with the down-fall of the T. A. S.

The game came very nearly coming to an abrupt finish in the sixth when with two out Dusty gave Quinlan transportation to first, Doherty, the next hitter drove the sphere down over third base, O'Brien who thought the ball was foul didn't appear in any hurry to field it, both runners crossed the plate, tying the score. Umpire McCabe declared the hit fair and Park St. left the field, claiming they had been the vistims of a raw deal, and it was some time before they could be prevailed upon to take their positions again. However, after a short council of war, they came back, retired the side, went in and hammered out six runs and a victory the next session.

The score by innings:

The T. A. S. won the toss and took the field. H. O'Brien, who was first up, singled to left, stole second and third. Jim Pilling fanned. O'Brien tallied on a passed ball. Bell flew out to Doherty, but Jack Pilling hit safely, stole second and scored when McFadden missed Dusty's second strike. Dusty skied to Flaherty. Two runs.

Callaghan, who was first up for the T.A.S. got life on Bell's error, and again Bell gave him another charity when he tried to steal second by heaving the ball to the tennis nets which allowed the runner to score. Flaherty struck out. M. O'Brien was safe on Jack Pilling's fumble, he stole second, but was left there as both Quinlan and Doherty fanned. One run.

Both sides were retired in order the next four innings.

In the sixth H. O'Brien was first up for Park St., he singled, stole second and third. Jim Pilling hit the air. Bell laid down a nice sacrifice, O'Brien scoring. Jack Pilling hit safely oved second and pilfered the middle cushion. Ben Dusty lifted an infield fly which both O'Brien and Quinlan went after with the result that neither got it. Pilling froze to second but was caught sleeping off the bag a minute later on a snap throwo by Quinlan. One run.

In the T. A. S. portion of the inning, Flaherty skied out to Pentland. M. O'Brien fanned. Quinlan got a free passe to first and stole second. Doherty drove one over third which H. O'Brien made no effort to field thinking it a foul, both runners crossed the counting station. McCabe said the ball went inside the line and Park St. left the field, only to come back after a short consultation. McFadden flew out to Ben Dusty. Two runs.

Park St. went to bat with a vengeance. Simmons, the first man up singled. Pentland duplicated his feat in the direction of right. Simmons raced for the plate, and Milloy grabbed up the sphere and laced it home, the ball went wide and Simmons recorded one, Pentland taking third. Ted Pilling fanned. N. Dusty then proceeded to boost his own game and singled to centre, scoring Pentland. He stole second and went to third when Harry O'Brien dropped his third in their play, while they fielded fairly well, they ran the bases and batted in a very indifferent style, on the other hand the West End were in the game at all stages and took advantage of every opportunity that came their way.

As umpires or men who knew the rules of base ball were very scarce, the job was given to an unknown who said he was a stranger here. He might have been, but he also was a stranger when it came to interpreting the rules. Hardly did he render a decision but what he practically had both teams around him disputing it. His work on the ball and strikes end of it certainly put the pitchers' efforts to the bad. He did his best to square things up but at that he was none too good.

Kirn did thet wirling for the West Ends and Three-Fingered Gorham for the Straths. Both acquitted themselves very well and kept the hits well scattered, but Gorham's errors in the eighth practically cost him the game.

safety of the afternoon over Flaherty's head. He stole second and drew a throw from Quinlan which resulted in another out being recorded and Dusty slept on third during the assassination of O'Brien at second. Jim Pilling waited for four wide ones, stole second. Bell drove the sphere over Doherty's head for three sacks, forcing in Dusty and Pilling. Jack Pilling took one in side and toddled next first, stole second. Ben Dusty got life on M. O'Brien's second misplay, while the other runners scored. The agony was over when Simmons, who started the trouble in the first place grounded out, Callaghan to O'Brien. Six runs.

In the last of the eight the T.A.S. got back three runs. M. O'Brien lifted one to Ted Pilling and tok his seat again. Quinlan got his second pass, stole second and third. Doherty also waited for four bad ones. McFadden hit to Pentland who threw to catch Quinlan at the plate, but Bell dropped the ball. Doherty and McFadden tried a double steal but the former was nipped at third. Cahill singled scoring McFadden. Milloy got left on Pentland's bad throw to first. Cahill completing the circuit. Giroux fanned.

Park St. went out, one, two, three, in the ninth.

Callaghan was first and got life on Pentland's error. Bell again tried to see how far he really could throw the Spalding and Callaghan came home. Flaherty went out via Jim and Jack Pilling. M. O'Brien fouled out to Bell. Quinlan got hit with a pitched ball and purloined second and third, but Doherty broke up the game by fanning the air.

Second Game

In the second contest the West Ends presented a patched up nine while the Straths placed on the field the same team which beat the T. A. S. so decisively two weeks ago. The game they put up on Saturday was a weird exhibition in contrast with the one they played against the T. A. S. There seemed scarcely any life at all

The batting of Dickie and Fallon constituted the features.

Score by innings:

The Straths went to bat, and Curtis, who was first up, singled and stole second, but was out trying to pilfer third. Shaw was safe on Dobson's fumble. He stole second and third and scored on Gibson's error. Weatherstone and Kendry flew out to Menzies.

The West Ends went out in order.

In the second the Straths had a great chance but only scored once. Andrews was safe on Menzies' fumble. He stole second. Heaslip walked. They pulled off a double steal. Ray fanned. Gorham got a complimentary but Curtis' best effort forced Heaslip att he plate and Shaw went out, Fallon to Mensies.

The West End added in one in third half. Callaghan was out, Gorham to Heaslip. Dickie got life on Heaslip's error. Fallon hit to Gorham, who threw Dickie out at the plate. Seymour got life on Ray's fumble, Fallon scoring. Heaslip tagged Seymour off the bag.

Both sides went out in order until the last of the fifth, when the West End tied the score. Fallon, who was first up tripled to Centre. Seymour fanned. Kirn hit to Kendry who tried to get Fallon at the plate, the umpire declaring he was safe though he looked to be out. Gibson flew out to Kendry who doubled Kirn at second.

The Straths added two in the sixth. Heaslip singled and stole second. Sheridan doubled to left scoring Heaslip. He stole third and scored on a wild pitch. Ray flew out to Kirn. Gorham fanned and Curtis skied to Kirn.

West End out in order in their half.

Both teams scored one in the seventh. Shaw got a base on balls, stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch. Weatherstone and Kendry fanned and Andrews flew out to Callaghan.

The Straths got Heaslip and Sheridan on bases in the 8th,they worked a double steal. Ray flew out to Kirn, Gorham fanned. Heaslip crossed the plate on a pass which was a strike, but was ordered back by the umpire.

The West End tied up the score again in their half. Gibson singled to left, stole second. Dobson grounded, Gorham to Heaslip. McGill hit an easy one to Gorham who threw wide to first. Gibson scoring and McGill taking third. He scored a minute later on a wide throw to third by Andrews. Mensies got a walk, stole second and third, but was out trying to steal home. Callaghan grounded to Heaslip.

The Straths went out in order in the ninth.

Dickie was up for the West End. He hit the first ball for three bases. Fallon singled to left and the game was over.

Sparks from Ballyhoo

Is the T.A.S. on the toboggan?

It's hard luck, Straths.

Dusty pitched a great game.

"Ted" Pilling made a nice catch of M. O'Brien's fly in the eighth innings.

Harry O'Brien boosted his batting percentage several points. He got three nice singles in his five journeys to the plate.

Even an umpire is human, although a majority of baseball cranks seem to forget the fact. Ever see an arbitrator get a sound crack on some part of his person with a hit or pitched ball, and then notice what the crowd does? They regard it as a joke. That's the way they looked at it when Umpire McCabe was struck by a foul tip in Saturday's game. There was a general laugh and even the players were not solicitous, although McCabe was doubled up with pain for a minute and McCabe is one of the best officials that ever handled the indjcator in this city.

Dickie clouted the ball hard for the West End.

The T.A.S. missed Lajoie Derocher. Laj. will likely spring a few new ones in his next game after his two weeks' sojourn in Uncle Sam's domains.

Bell has a good arm but it's very expensive to say the least.

"Bill" Shaw slumped Saturday, as did some of the other good hitters.

Cahill made a nice try for O'Brien's floater in the third.

"Dooley" Sheridan with a few more workouts will be as good as ever.

It's up to the league to see about balls for the next Saturday games.

The umpires should cut out taking back talk. Put the offenders out of the game.

Kirn had his hand badly split by a line drive from Heaslip's bat.

The grounds on which the T.A.S. protest is based are very flimsy, and it is not likely it will be allowed.

It looks as if the Park St.-T. A. S. postponed game will decide the championship.

MARATHON RACE

In connection with the annual Lifeboat Gala at Roundhay Park, Leeds, a Marathon race was decided over a rather severe course, the start being made from the park, and the route being along Streetlane to Moortown, along the Harrogate road to Harewood, then through the avenue to Collingham, and down the Wetherby road to Roundhay Park, finishing with a mile on the running track, a total distance estimated at eighteen miles.

There were 23 entries, and the following were the starters: K. B. Nicholson, Bradford; R. Hill, Bradford. A Aldous, Sheffield; J. Timmons, Mansfield; A. James, Leeds; G. Hopkinson, Bradford; C. B. James, Loughborough; H. Kitson, Yeadon; H. Fox, Leeds; A. Harenhand, Sheffield, J. Moss, Leeds; S. Stevens, Leeds; S. Goodrich, Leeds; C. J. Bryant, Preston; C. J. Marples, Leeds; T. Huggins, Leeds; S. Francom, Birkenhead; C. Binns, Leeds; and W. Whittaker, Leeds.

Aldous cut out the work from Huggins, with Beanland third; but turning into the Avenue (32 min. 4 sec.) the order was Harenhand, Aldous, and Huggins. At Collingham (57 mins. 53 secs.) Aldous got from Harenhand with Francom third. In the run home Francom took the lead, and eventually won easily, the following being the order of finishing of the first half-dozen: S. Francom, Birkenhad, 1 hr. 51 min. 12 secs.; A. Harenhand, Sheffield, 1 hour 53 mins. 30 secs.; J. Goodrich, Leeds, 1 hour 54 mins. 41 secs.; C. B. James, Loughborough, 2 hours 2 mins. 5 secs.; G. Binns, Leeds, 2 hrs. 10 min. 34 secs.; J. Timmons, Mansfield, 2 hours 10 mins. 40 secs.

THE PRINTERS' PICNIC ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

The Banner Excursion Event of the Year On Monday Next.

The excursion of the year is yet to be held. It is booked for Monday next, Peterborough's Civic Holiday. None other than the Printers are in charge of it and that means another record in the line of fun, merriment, and a general good time. The Otonabee has been secured to take the Printers to Idyl Wyld, where they have been going annually since their first picnic and it simply means that if the weather man is as good as he has been in the past an enjoyable time will be spent at Idyl Wyld, the coolest and airiest spot on the whole Midland chain. The sports will be a big factor in the entertainment, but by no means the principal one. There will be something doing all the time, continuous as the Circus side show and more entertaining and pleasant.

The Printers have been so successful in the past that the are confident of a good crowd and those who made the trip before will be sure to go this year. Further particulars will be given in the near future.

SUNDAY'S MEETINGS WERE WELL ATTENDED

Large Number Present at Services Under Y. M. C. A. Auspices in the Tent.

In the tent next to the Customs House yesterday the Young Men's Christian Association conducted two meetings for men.

At four o'clock in the afternoon, Dr. Middleton presided and Mr. J. S. Ferguson gave an address based on the words: "I am not ashamed of the Gospel; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." Mr. Ferguson's words were to the point and convincing, and the men who listened to him will not soon forget his message. At the conclusion of the address Mr. A. C. Davenport rendered a solo which was appreciated.

At the evening meeting at a quarter past eight o'clock, Mr. J. F. Thornton presided and Mr. Riddiford, of Park St. Baptist Church, gave the address. Before Mr. Riddiford spoke the Orpheus Male Quartette, Messrs. Miller, Cole, McCann and C. B. Thornton, sang a selection in their usual pleasing manner. Mr. Riddiford appealed to the men present, "to admit God into their lives, to submit to His will and to commit their way to Him."

Mr. Hassard, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. conducted the closing exercises and urged the men to cultivate more the friendship of Jesus Christ and let Him rule their lives.

600 TONS OF WATER FELL TO THE ACRE

Heaviest Rainfall During July Than for Last Thirteen Years.

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, August 2.—Mr. Telford, of Bridgenorth, states that during his fifteen years' experience in keeping a record of the rain fall, July of this year has outdone any of the previous years. There has been a fall of 6.15 or 3 1-7 inches fall on a level, which means over 600 tons of water to the acre, and there is no knowing the estimate of good it has done to the oats and peas and the pasture.

POST CARD COLUMN.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me space in the columns of your paper concerning the treatment of Victoria Park on the nights of the band concerts. The park is served in a shameful state. It seems to me as though the people take a delight in seeing how much mess they can make for they tear paper up in so many little pieces and with the quantity of peanut shells thrown about it is almost impossible for one to pick them up. Now sir, this can be avoided for there are paper baskets on the spot to receive such as that and I believe myself the people all like to have a decent place to go and have a sit down or to listen to the music that they ought to know enough to respect it, for there are those who have spent money to help beautify the place and it is impossible for any person to see what everyone is doing. I am not complaining of the lower portion of the park, that isn't so bad, but it is the upper park more especially, the half fixed this spring.

Trusting you will insert this in your paper, dear sir, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
H. HEDGE,
Caretaker.

Poulticed With Mud.

A noted explorer, recently returned from Central Africa, tells of a unique method employed by his companions and himself to alleviate the dreadful agony of prolonged thirst.

In part of the "Dark" continent there are great stretches of country where no water fit to drink is to be found, although there are here and there pools of thick, stagnant mud.

In such country the party wandered for five days without water, and might have perished but for an idea that occurred to their leader.

Following his advice and example, they collected the stagnant mud, wherever it was to be found, and made it into long poultices, which they fastened round their bodies next the skin. This simple process they found to give great relief; and no doubt the hint will be welcomed by all who are likely at any time to find themselves in a similar predicament.

Rooks' Hatred of Crows.

A curious incident in the history of the Gray's Inn settlement of rooks is mentioned by a London correspondent. It appears that a couple of carrion crows settled in the gardens, and one day it was discovered that the rookery was deserted. The benchers, who are particularly proud of their rooks, gave orders for the carrion crows to be destroyed, and the gardener prepared pigeons' eggs with good doses of arsenic. The crows swallowed them and seemed to grow fatter and healthier. At last strychnine was used, ad the pair were seen picking at the eggs. One of them fell as it flew to the nest; the other reached the branch, reeled and dropped. Then a curious thing happened. Not a rook had been seen for weeks at Gray's Inn, but the next day they were all back as though advised by telegram.—Manchester Guardian.

How Is Your Watch Running?

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts—jewels, springs, wheels, etc.—be just right, or good timing is out of the question.

SPECIAL NOTICE

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE. Up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST here.

"CONVICT FOR LIFE, OR A BROTHER'S LOVE"

This most beautiful and pathetic drama depicts the love of a brother for his brother. One brother gives his life for the other; no greater love can be shown. Although it has a very sad ending, it is one of the best pictures seen here.

"THE POLICEMAN'S REST"

A very funny comedy, telling a story of the Policeman who liked a rest, and yet while taking his rest he was still dangerous and caught the thieves, who thought they caught him. It is full of fun.

"PAT CORNER, THE MASTER DETECTIVE"

This is a very strong drama, telling a story of great robberies in many bank vaults in the city of Copenhagen, Denmark, and how the thieves were finally caught and punished by the world famous detective, Pat Corner, of Denmark. It is a picture of great interest to everyone who sees it.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest illustrated songs, entitled "Drifting." It is a good one; don't miss it.

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

CANADIAN AERODROME DEMOLISHED AFTER FOUR SUCCESSFUL FLIGHTS

Young Canadian Aviator in Trial at Petawawa Travels Up and Down Field Carrying Passenger, But Finds a Knoll While Landing —Will Rush New Machine at Once—Principles a Success.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 3.—From the aviators' standpoint, the future of the preliminary trials of the "Silver Dart" over Petawawa common early yesterday was the successful working of the new motor.

The aerodrome attained the highest speed yet made in Canada — forty miles an hour or over—and carried for the first time an additional passenger.

Four flights, or hops, were made, the first three being about half-mile each and the fourth about three-quarters of a mile.

Unfortunately, when making the fourth landing, the sun dazzled the aviators and the forward wheel of the aerodrome struck a knoll at an angle and the machine ricochetted and fell on its side, wrecking the wings and framework. The motor remained uninjured. The aviators received only a few scratches.

The trials were held before sunrise. No wind was blowing and weather conditions were perfect. J. D. McCurdy, with whom the "Silver Dart" has always been associated, was in the front position, in charge of the controlling apparatus, and Casey Baldwin went along as a passenger.

The propeller was started and, under heavy pressure, the aerodrome moved swiftly forward. After traveling a short distance along the ground until proper speed had been acquired, a slight turn in the bow control was made and the "Silver Dart" gracefully slid into the air, moving at a uniform distance of ten feet from the ground.

The aerodrome made three successful flights up and down the field, northwest to a clump of jack pines and back again to the shed, maintaining perfect balance and being under control all the time.

The surface of the field on which the trials took place is uneven. The ground is anything but level, and little rounded hummocks rise irregularly here and there, leaving countless small depressions, separated by tiny ridges. One walking might notice these irregularities, but it would be difficult to do so when riding and on account of the thick scrub, almost impossible when sailing through the air.

When the aviator is seeking a landing, the idea is to light on a crest and slide gently down the slope, but if the air is bad and he strikes a knoll at a greater angle than on the level, the shock is much worse. This is just what happened yesterday. On the fourth flight, McCurdy sought a landing about seventy yards from the shed, but owing to the sun, could not see the knoll. The machine was traveling eastward at an high speed and the forward wheel struck the ground heavily. The machine bounced and fell on its side fifty yards further on, and about twenty yards from the shed a shapeless mass of splinters, twisted steel and torn silk.

The loss of the "Silver Dart" is keenly felt by Baldwin and McCurdy. It was the first flying machine made in Canada and represented months of painstaking work at Baddeck, N.S., and from its hundred or more successful flights it had become an object of affection. But the purpose for which it was set up has been achieved, and the principles are amplified in "New Baddeck No. 1." Work on this new machine has begun and the motor will be installed without delay. This will not take long. Numerous changes in the "Dart" made the assembling difficult, but the "Baddeck" already looks like a "drome," and by Friday or Saturday next an aerodrome mightier than the "Silver Dart" will be flying over Ottawa Valley, a fitting exponent of Canadian enterprise.

The Royal Troops Hold Barcelona

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Biarritz, France, Aug. 3.—Regular train service out of Barcelona was resumed to-day. Pasengers arriving here from Barcelona say the troops are actively engaged in fortifying their position in anticipation of anothre attack by the Revolutionists, who, refuged in the neighbouring mountains and villages, are raising levies and marshalling a formidable force. Barcelona is now entirely held by the Loyal troops, the last of the rebels having quit their stronghold to-day. Other sections of Catalonia, however, are still storm centres of revolution. The rebels control San Felice, Palamos and Casa De La Silva, and are urging the secession of Catalonia from Spain.

CZAR OF RUSSIA PAYS OFFICIAL VISIT TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING

Cowes, Aug. 3.—The Russian imperial yacht Standart, bringing the Emperor and the Empress from Cherbourg to Cowes, on a visit to King Edward, anchored in the Cowes roadstead shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday.

Their Majesties were given an official welcome even more imposing than usually attends such occasions. Not only were King Edward and Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales and a large gathering of other members of the royal family present to greet their guests, but 150 of the pick of the British war fleet, dressed in flags from stem to stern and flying the Russian ensign, encircles the anchorage allotted to the Standart.

The presence of the English Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, M. Iswolsky, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Count Von Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, further emphasized the significance attached in the diplomatic world to this visit of the Russian Emperor to England.

The unusual welcome of yesterday morning was arranged designedly for the double purpose of helping to strengthen the links in the chain binding Great Britain, France and Russia in a triple entente, and to dissipate any ill-feeling engendered by the harsh denunciation of Emperor Nicholas and his methods, so frequently vented by the members of the Labor party both in and out of Parliament since the coming of the Emperor was first announced.

The function, however, was distinctly official in character and so strongly were the spectators entrenched behind the cordon of steel walls that there was no chance for a popular demonstration either for or against Emperor Nicholas.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra went out on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert and met the Standart outside of Spithead. King Edward went over to the Standart and welcomed his guests, and then escorted them to the Victoria and Albert, where luncheon was served. After this repast the two sovereigns reviewed the assembled fleets from the Victoria and Albert.

King Edward, Emperor Nicholas and the Prince of Wales and Admiral Sir John Fisher, chief naval aide to King Edward, and Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, and a number of lesser officers, were on the bridge of the Standart.

[illegible] Majesties entertained the Emperor and Empress at dinner with King Edward and Queen Alexandra and the members of the British royal household on board the Victoria and Albert. All the ships in the harbor were illuminated last night.

The dinner was a brilliant function. The dining-room was beautifully decorated with red roses, and on the table was a magnificent display of gold plate.

Besides the King and Queen and the Emperor and Empress, the guests were the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, Reginald McKenna and Mr. Lovatt.

The King then proposed a toast to the Russian monarch, declaring that the navy was only in the interests of peace. His Majesty also referred to his pleasure at recently meeting a number of members of the Russian Duma, and made allusion to Emperor Nicholas' former visit to England.

In responding, Emperor Nicholas said that the magnificent naval review he had witnessed bore full testimony to England's greatness. His Majesty said he always would remember the days he had spent with the beloved and venerated Queen Victoria.

Czar Will Visit Turkey.

Cherbourg, Aug. 3.—Foreign Minister Iswolsky yesterday confirmed the reported intention of Emperor Nicholas of going to Italy and Turkey, but said these visits would not occur until the fall. Emperor Nicholas will go to these countries direct from the Crimea.

Repression in Russia.

London, Aug. 3.—A letter protesting against the unrelaxed repression of liberty in Russia is published here.

It is addressed to Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and asks whether it is impossible to bring friendly pressure upon the Russian Government to ameliorate the alleged conditions. The letter is signed by over 100 clergymen, newspapers, members of the House of Commons and others.

The Times in an editorial on the letter denounces the choice of the day of arrival in British waters of Emperor Nicholas for the publication of such a letter, as bad taste, and gratuitous boorishness.

THREATENED GENERAL STRIKE IN MADRID SEEMS TO BE AVERTED

Paris, Aug. 3.—The international situation in Spain to-day seems to be improving. Barcelona has emerged from her isolation and the threatened general strike in Madrid appears to have been averted, at least temporarily.

The first train out of Catalonia's capital city since the beginning of the tragic events there reached the French frontier last night, bringing censored and plainly inexact newspapers accounts of the insurrection in the outlying parts of Catalonia. The rest is shrouded in mystery.

GENERAL WEYLER,
Military Ruler of Spain, Who Is Blamed for a Large Part of the Disturbance In That Country.

Several of the smaller cities are reported to be in the hands of the revolutionists, and many villages have proclaimed the district a republic. Troops are being steadily distributed throughout the rebellious district, and barring new serious outbreaks, the insurrectionists eventually will be forced to capitulate.

It is said that the authorities are determined to crush the insurrection before the return from South America of Deputy Alejandro Lerroux, chief of the Republicans at Barcelona, whose period of exile for political reasons was set aside by the Chamber of Deputies last April.

Reports from San Felice, Palamos and Cassa de la Selvo say that these places are still in the hands of the revolutionists.

In striking contrast of the estimate of the victims of the disorders given by the Barcelona newspapers, which arrived yesterday at Cerbere, is one of 5,000, emanating from private advices received from Madrid. This latter estimate, however, is labelled "Perhaps exaggerated."

An official statement issued in Madrid last night concerning the proposed general strike there says that numerous masons failed to report for duty yesterday, but it is explained that this was due to a fear of a clash with the unionists.

Spain's censorship to-day is more inexorable than ever. No news has been received from the various points in the north, where the trades unions had planned a general strike.

Refugees arriving at the frontier speak of the "terrible slaughter" and estimate the dead at thousands, but allowance must be made for their panic. Whether or not the ringleaders who were captured and tried and condemned by court-martial actually have been executed is not yet clear. Some reports declare that General Santiago has not yet approved the death sentences in the cases of these men. It is known, however, that Emiliano Iglesias, editor of The Progresso, was shot without trial in the fortress.

Some reports insist that a republic already has been proclaimed, and that a regular junta is directing the operations of the revolutions.

A special despatch from Cerebere reiterates previous reports that a number of communes in Catelina have proclaimed a republic, and declares that the municipality of Palmos has declared that city to be free and independent.

Butchery Was Terrible.

Oran, Algeria, Aug. 3.—The steamer Imir came in here yesterday from Melilla and her officers, referring to the fighting there between the Spaniards and the Moors of July 27, say the former made the mistake of advancing in solid masses through a gorge dominated on both sides by hills, when the enemy mowed them down as fast as they issued from the pass. The unfortunate soldiers of Spain did not know where the fusillades came from. The butchery was terrible.

FROM THE INTERIOR TO THE SEA

The Montreal Herald is responsible for the statement that arrangements are "all but complete" for a ship canal with river and lake connections between Montreal and New York. It is stated that nine or ten millions of the estimated cost of thirty millions have been spent between Lake George, the southern extremity of Lake Champlain and the Hudson River. A Mr. Smith, who is acting for the promoters of the scheme, says that the capital is nearly all subscribed and that the work will be begun forthwith at the Montreal end, from the St. Lawrence at Longeuil to the Richelieu River at Chambly. Mr. Smith claims that when the canal is completed, and the Georgian Bay canal built, it will mean that United States traffic from Duluth and other points at the head of Lake Superior, will get to New York three days ahead of any other route. Mr. Smith should remember that he will not have to wait till the Georgian Bay canal is completed, to handle grain and other shipments from the interior of the United States. Before the Montreal-Hudson River canal is finished the Trent Canal will be open from end to end and with transhipment at Midland, grain from the United States West or the Canadian West can be shipped without again breaking bulk via the new canal to New York ahead of any other route. The Trent Canal will not allow itself to be 'side-tracked."

KNIGHTS A-TILT

If Sir Hugh Graham, the new made newspaper knight thought that the proper and pleasant way to signalize his recognition of the honour was to toady to the Mother Land, to gain favour at the expense of slandering Canada, he made a mistake. At the Imperial Press Conference, he accused Canada of sponging on the Mother Country in the matter of defence, a statement that brought emphatic protest both here and at home. Recently Sir Hugh was brought to task by the octogenarian Imperialist Sir Charles Tupper, who has politically been sleeping with Sir Hugh for years, and had the support of the former's newspaper in the last election run by the Cumberland War Horse—with, it is stated, a stipulated understanding that the knightly prefix Sir Hugh-'s name now bears might be forthcoming. However, Sir Charles could not let Sir Hugh's faux pas pass without rebuke as contained in Sir Charles' reply to Sir Hugh's unwarranted statement, in the following extract from an article in the Nineteenth Century

"I cannot," Sir Charles says, "conclue without expressing my dissent from the disparaging remarks made in reference to the neglect by Canada to discharge her duty in regard to the defence of the Empire. Canada has spent hundreds of millions of dollars in the construction of transcontinental railways which have been declared by the highest British naval and military authorities to be of vital importance to the defence of the Empire. She has reclaimed from the wilderness, by opening it up to settlement, the great Rupert's Land, which is being rapidly occupied by British subjects and will soon provide this country with all the bread-stuffs which it is unable to produce. Canada, with a population of under five millions, accomplished this work without assistance, a greater exploit than has ever been achieved hy any such population in the world."

The old knight thus unhorses the new knight in right knightly style.

LAURIER GOVERNMENT'S COURAGE AND FORESIGHT

Every day provides evidence of the courage and foresight of the Laurier Government—the policy adopted finds justification in events as they transpire, and the administration is vindicated as history is made.

One cannot read a newspaper without meeting with a statement as to the crops of the three western provinces—in many of the districts fear is expressed that difficulty may be experienced in moving the crops. The difficulty of transportation is one to be met with each harvest and it is a difficulty that will be more embarrassing as the years roll by.

What would have been the position of the west had there been no Grand Trunk Pacific? This road is now completed from Winnipeg to Edmonton, and will be an important factor in moving the crops of this season.

When this project was under consideration by the House, it met with a most determined opposition from the Conservatives — their objection was based upon the contention that the railway was unnecessary, and that the people as a whole would not approve of it. Mr. Lennox, South Simcoe, said:

"Canvass this country from one end to the other, go where you will, and the preponderating voice is, and the overwhelming voice will be when the scheme is fully understood, absolute condemnation of this measure."

Dr. Sproule referred to the country through which the road would pass as the "great lone land" and he also said that the people should be given an opportunity of expressing themselves at the polls with regard to it. These gentlemen had an idea that the people would be opposed to the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, but events proved otherwise. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he would go to the country and stand or fall by the measure. It was the only important question before the electors of 1904, and the result was a great victory for Sir Wilfrid, and a sufficient answer to the men who had such little faith in the future of the west. From most reliable sources it appears that the crops will reach the 140,000,000 bushel mark for wheat alone, and the total crops will not be far short of 275,000,000 bushels.

How could these crops be moved with the facilities which had been taxed to their utmost by the smaller output of years ago? The task would be impossible and the west would suffer in proportion. Thanks to the progressive and courageous policy of the Liberal Government, provision is made for moving the produce of farms which have been occupied in response to invitation of the Immigration Department of the Government. The Grand Trunk Pacific has 1,000 miles of railway already built and in operation in the west, with 5,000 freight cars and 175 locomotives. Over 100 grain elevators are prepared to handle the wheat as it is delivered along this new line. For a railroad upon which nothing has been done, according to Tory papers, and for a project on which millions have been spent with nothing in sight, according to the same authority, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway certainly looks like a healthy enterprise.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The mayor of Brockville calls on his subjects to follow Peterborough's example in providing concrete bridges for the St. Lawrence town.

A CASE IN POINT

(Renfrew Journal.)

Unfair comparisons are sometimes made between the city papers and the local journals. The local paper costs a dollar a year, and often the city journal is sold at a lower rate and at the same time the subscriber believes he sees an advantage in the additional amount of pulp matter received. The man who is swayed by this consideration forgets that no city paper can take the place of the local journal. Not only has the local journal the advantage in the important matter of local news, but it also has another call for local support that should at no time be overlooked. The local paper is published solely and wholly in the interests of its own county. Those connected with it have, of necessity, interests that are identical with the interests of the other residents and no local paper can injure the town without injuring itself, nor help its community without directly benefitting thereby. The city paper, on the other hand, by the very force of circumstance and the pull of human nature, looks first to its own city. It has no real interests in surrounding towns either to help or to hinder. The desire to make a sensation or to pen a breezy article, will too often outweigh the thought of possible injury to a town near-by, and usually the city paper is too indifferent to make amends for injury so done. The local paper is left to battle for its own town, and to catch up if it can to injurious stories and slip-shod slanders thoughtlesly put into motion.

TO PROTECT THE CHILDREN

(Lethbridge Herald.)

One of the meritorious plans for the amelioration of social conditions which stands to the credit of the Liberal Government of Great Britain is an act designed to protect child life and morals. The legislation not only forbids the sale of liquor or tobacco to children, but goes into the home to ensure the safe and decent treatment of the children there. Under the provisions any person other than the relative of an infant who undertakes the custody of such child, for payment, for a longer period than forty-eight hours, must notify the local authorities, who will thereupon appoint a suitable person to visit the house at frequent intervals and see that the child is properly treated. The object of the regulation is obvious. The public authorities must protect the child against the carelessness, sometimes far from accidental, which brings young lives to an end. With the same object in view the law allows the municipality power to remove a child from premises that are crowded or unsanitary, and from the custody of persons who, by reason of inebriety, or of criminality, or of ignorance, or of immorality, are unfit to take charge of children. This, of course, is not done without due inquiry, and is only undertaken as a last resort.

The value of the prevention of crime is illustrated by the case of Ada Jurck, drunkard, thief and general vagabond, who died seventy-five years ago, which was mentioned at the International Women's Council in Toronto. She had 836 descendants, of whom 700 were located. Of these 106 were illegitimate, 144 were beggars, 64 were kept by charity, 181 were women of ill-fame, and 76 were criminals, 7 of them being murderers. In 75 years this family cost the state $1,250,000. It might have cost a hundred dollars or so to have given this Ada Jurck, when she was a child, a decent home.

WORK, WAGES AND LIFE IN GREAT BRITAIN

(Manitoba Free Press.)

In spite of the enormous emigration, the population of the United Kingdom has doubled between the years 1851 and 1908, Ireland alone showing a decline. That the average length of life is greater in the United Kingdom than it was three score years ago, and that the infant mortality under one year of age has in that period been reduced from 150 per 1,000 to 118, are other facts demonstrated by the statistics in a recently published British blue book, dealing with the progress in the public health and in social conditions.

In addition to the facts already cited, the statistics in the blue book referred to show that typhoid and small-pox have almost been stamped out in Great Britain, that the death rate from tuberculosis is less than one-half of what it was three score years ago, that the mortality has been lessened considerably in ninety out of the ninety-five groups of occupations into which the blue book divides the occupations of the British people, and that there has been a decline in outdoor pauperism from 50 per 1,000 to 15.3.

The figures in this blue book certainly do not bear out the assertions of physical decadence among the British people. On the contrary, they show steady and remarkable progress during the sixty-seven years covered. There is less congestion than there was, better housing, and improved sanitation; and there has been constant progress in the standards of living. Child labour, it is to be noted, is on the decline, no children under ten years of age being now at work, whereas quite a number of children of that tender age were returned in the official statistics of half a century ago as "employed." There has also been a decrease in the proportion of wage-earning children under fifteen years of age.

With an increase of about 40 per cent. in wages there has been a decrease of about 24 per cent. in the cost of the necessaries of life, so that the purchasing power of the British workingman's pay has risen considerably. But the figures in regard to employment show that the average British workingman of to-day has to face practically the same proportion of days of disemployment in the year as the British workingman of 1851. It is to meet this that the advanced legislation proposed by the present Government for the provision of labour exchanges and insurance against unemployment, sickness and accident, is designed; and it is hoped that improvement of the poor laws and of the relief system will have the effect of lessening the evils of indoor pauperism, which appears to have kept pace with the increase in the population of the British Isles.

LOVE AND THE PAY PATIENT.

By L. S. EBERLE.

[Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

He signed his name Robert W. Edwards, M. D., and had paid several dreadly valued dollars to have it put on a neat brass plate. But really he was Dr. Bob, though he never heard himself called thus till after the very end of the story.

It was Miss Eleanor Blake who called him Dr. Bob. She was careful to let none but her own ears hear the words. When she spoke to him or of him she was most punctilious and respectful.

Miss Eleanor Blake was Dr. Bob's office nurse. Their attitudes toward one another were impeccably professional, but by a strange coincidence Dr. Bob also dropped the formal "Miss Blake" when conversing to his own inner consciousness concerning her. She became "Nellie" on these occasions, which were numerous.

Miss Nurse Blake was well born. She had perceptions. It went to her wholesome heart to see with what smiling poise Dr. Bob waited—and waited. He did not adopt bravado. He never grew embarrassed or apologetic, nor did he flinch in meeting her eyes day after day in the empty rooms.

So she loved him, quite hopelessly, she assured herself, for his quiet, professional manner never broke through once.

Then came the first call! Eleanor answered the telephone and kept all the elation that was bumping up and down in her heart out of her quiet, businesslike voice as she reported to Dr. Bob. She was only sorry that the patient had not come to the office so that she might have the glory of ushering him in.

Dr. Edwards hurried to the address she gave him. He said, "I don't think I shall be long, Miss Blake," and she said, "Very well, Dr. Edwards."

The address did not indicate a very good part of the city. He could not expect a rich call from that quarter. But it was a beginning—a beginning.

It took Dr. Bob some time to reach the address given him, for it led him by devious ways to an old office building, up many flights of rickety stairs and to a dark room at the end of a hall. There was no response when he knocked, but a frowsy boy from the next office appeared.

"You Doct' Edwards?" he asked. Dr. Bob admitted that he was.

"He told me t' give you this here," said the boy and handed him a folded paper, then disappeared. Dr. Edwards opened the paper. The words "Fooled again" and a slangy sentence or two greeted his eyes. He went downstairs, wondering which of the fellows at the clinic had devised the subtle joke.

Dr. Bob returned quietly to his office. Eleanor as she saw him return so soon, with his face more quietly composed than ever, conjectured that he had found his patient beyond human help. She was sorry on his account.

She tried to work off her vague feeling of sympathy, for she did not know what, by going into the operating room and cleaning again the often cleaned but never used instruments. She stayed at her work till after hours, till suddenly the consciousness that she was alone and lonely came over her.

She finished her task quickly, then quietly opened the door into Dr. Bob's office.

Dr. Bob was sitting at his desk, his arms across it and his head on his arms. There was a stillness about him, a look of having been motionless forever, that brought Eleanor to his side with one terrified dart. She seized his hands, and he looked up at her. His stillness was pain, not—what she had feared.

That foolish joke had brought down crushingly on his head all the burden of all that waiting and hoping, and the sight of it took away every conscious thought in Eleanor save that the man she loved was suffering.

She took his hands in hers, whispering in a mechanical way: "Let me help. Let me help. Let me help." But she was scarcely aware of it.

Dr. Bob looked at her with light in his eyes. He laid his hands on her shoulders and gazed down at her with a face wise and loving.

"When the first patient comes," he said.

Eleanor decided against the new summer suit. She was saving very strenuously, for she had a purpose in view.

One day she counted her money. Then she put on her hat and went to call on a cousin. The cousin had married poor, had a swarm of children and was chronically ill. When Eleanor came away the cousin said she'd go to the doctor tomorrow and swore between kisses, hugs and tearful maunderings that she'd never, never tell who had sent her.

The patient—the first patient—was to arrive the next day! The weather was the hot, soggy kind that enervates a spring feverish world in May. The saying that Eleanor had thus had meant much overwork and late hours. She was physically at her limpest and nervously at her most uneven. She was haggard with anxiety and was made a coward by each footstep sounding near the door.

The hour came for Rhoda—but no Rhoda came with the hour. Eleanor watched eagerly from the window. And then she saw Rhoda at last.

Rhoda was stealing swiftly along the opposite side of the street, in her hand a box containing the chiefest treasure from the window of a big milliner's store, the purse that had contained Eleanor's savings clutched as tightly in her hand as if it still had in it the money that had been tempted from her.

Eleanor obeyed a blind impulse. With one reckless rush she left the office door and plunged into the stream of passing vehicles and across the street.

A moment later she was lying white on the pavement, blood trickling from her shoulder, and a crowd gathering about her and the panic stricken chauffeur whose machine had run her down. Then Dr. Bob was bending over her and raising her tenderly, lovingly, in loving, strong arms.

When she came to again she was lying on a couch in an operating room that was very familiar to her, with implements about her that she had cleaned herself day after day for the patients that never came.

She lay still and white till Dr. Edwards began to wonder at her slow recovery. He did not know what wondrous dreams had suddenly turned to ice that weighted and froze and broke her. But he did know that the pulse was gaining no strength, the cheeks were bloodless and the eyes listless and dull, and he did know that he would like to fling aside his remedies and try how kisses would redden the pale lips.

Then miraculously there was a wave of crimson over her face, her lips parted with the very breath of inspiration, her eyes burned victoriously, and Eleanor turned to him. She stretched up her arms to him irresistibly.

"Your first patient! Your first patient! You have one now! Your promise, your promise!"

"But," said Dr. Bob when he was capable of recollecting anything, "it was to be my first pay patient."

Before he could prevent, Eleanor lifted herself, bandaged shoulder and all, from the operating couch and stood before him more like Diana triumphant than the pale creature who had lain there. She was counting the money in the purse at her girdle, but as she counted her face fell and despair again overcame her. Then—inspiration!

"With my professional percentage deducted!" she exclaimed and fell to counting again. But even now—must she lose? Then—inspiration again! "Will you take stamps?" she asked, laughing, embarrassed, holding out in a wondrously mixed handful the amount of the fee to Dr. Bob, helpless between love and laughter.

"Nellie, Nellie!" said Dr. Bob.

Maggie in her excitement popped her head in without knocking.

"It's from Mrs. Martin's—the rich Mrs. Martin's," she said breathlessly, "and she wants you immediate, sir."

Texas Gives Up Mars For Melons.

We don't care much to signal Mars,
But we've about a million cars
Of melons, we give you a tip,
All ready now to pick and ship;
Cucumbers till you just can't rest,
And onions—say, we've got the best
And biggest ever raised, I guess!
Just ask Bermuda. She'll confess.
We've got no time to signal Mars.
We're loading truck on to our cars.
—Houston Post.

Going Some.

"My uncle used to smoke his pipe and blow smoke rings that would float across the room and ring the door-knob."

"My uncle," said the other liar dreamily, "used to blow some that would ring the doorbell."—Puck.

The Ways of Fate.

Fate hit me very hard one day.
I cried: "What is my fault?
What have I done? What causes, pray,
This unprovoked assault?"

She paused, then said: "Darned if I know!
I really can't explain!"
And just before she turned to go
She whacked me once again.

"So you played those tips on the market?"

"Yes. I took a flier in Wall street, but something went wrong with my steering gear."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Belleville Woman Drowned.

Belleville, Aug. 3.—At Bellingham, Wash., Mrs. Guy Hudgins, aged 24, drowned whilst bathing. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Stainton of Deseronto. The fatality occurred on the first anniversary of her wedding. Mr. Hudgins is well-known in Belleville.

CURES Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Seasickness, Summer Complaint, and all Looseness or Fluxes of the Bowels.

NOTICE—We wish to warn the public against being imposed on by unscrupulous dealers who substitute the so-called "Strawberry Compounds" for Dr. Fowler's.

If you want to be on the safe side, ask for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and insist on getting what you ask for.

The original is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price 35 cents.

MRS. THOS. W. WEAVER, Coal Creek, N.B., writes: "My little girl was taken ill with a very bad attack of diarrhoea. Nothing seemed to do her any good. Hearing of your wonderful medicine, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I went at once and got a bottle, and to my great surprise, after taking a few doses, she was completely cured."

MR. ALBERT JEFFRIES, Owen Sound, Ont., writes: "I always keep a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house, and would not care to be without it, as I have proved it again and again to be a never-failing remedy for diarrhoea. Whenever I am threatened with it one teaspoonful of the 'Extract' fixes me completely."

Delicious Preserves

No housekeeper need again apologize for "store" goods when guests arrive unexpectedly.

It is easy to make appetizing, wholesome and less expensive preserves with St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar, that every housekeeper is putting up her own stock this summer for next winter.

Their reward will come when they delight their friends and guests with preserves of thier own make. And what just pride can they take as these delicious home-made preserves are praised!

The children too, will enjoy the pure luscious fruit as it is preserved by St. Lawrence Sugar.

St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar is made from pure cane sugar, and contains more saccharine substance, than sugar made from other natural products.

In preserving a smaller quantity of St. Lawrence Granulated is required. It is therefore more economical for the thrifty housekeeper.

It is sold in bulk in smaller quantities at your grocers, but we recommend the 20-pound cotton sacks, put up at the refinery specially for the home. This quantity is convenient for preserving time, and besides, you can be sure of the genuine brand, by buying it in these original packages.

Ask your grocer to supply you with St. Lawrence Granulated in these 20-pound sacks, and get clean sugar and strictly full weight.

If he cannot supply you with these 20-pound bags send his name and address to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will tell you where it can be obtained.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catalogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance:—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents on an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

COMPLIMENTARY CITIZENS' BANQUET TO HIS HONOUR JUDGE G. M. ROGER, CONGRATULATORY AND VALEDICTORY

Highly Enjoyable and Successful Function at the Oriental Hotel—A Farewell to Judge Roger and a Kind Welcome to Judge Huycke—Large Attendance of Representative Citizens.

A GRATIFYING SUCCESS

Seldom has any departing citizen received a more delightful compliment and godspeed than that accorded to His Honour Judger Roger, at the complimentary citizens' banquet given him at the Oriental Hotel last night, in recognition of the honour to which he has been advanced, and as an expressive appreciation of his qualities as a citizen and a regret at his removal. The occasion, moreover, served other purposes—a reception to His Honour Judge Huycke, who was present and received a welcome which must reconcile him, if anything were needed in that direction, to the resignation of his home and the assumption of citizenship in Peterborough. The occasion also served as a vehicle of tribute to the sterling character and judicial services of the late Judge Weller, which will for all time constitute a model upon which his successors, however, distinguished, may profitably form the spirit of their judicial administration.

The banquet was a success in every way. There was a large attendance and the affair throughout was excellently managed. The addresses were concise and brief and in all respects it was an event of which the guest of the evening will carry away the most pleasant memories. The occasion has a sad side for him, too. Mr. Rogers is a native of Peterborough, has grown up with it, and has been associated with its progress in all the varied relations of citizenship in which he has borne his share with fidelity and public spirit; and to the natural regret of severing these relations, was added the concrete testimony of the very high respect which he has won, and of sincere regret at his departure, circumstances which do not tend to lessen his own. It is known that Judge Roger found the necessity of leaving Peterborough one of the most formidable obstructions to the acceptance of his new dignity, to overcome. Last night's banquet gives him the strongest assurance that compensation exists in the fact that in the way of esteem for his qualities of mind and respect for his sterling qualities of personal character he still has a home in the hearts of the citizens of Peterborough:

Expressions of regret at their inability to be present were read by Mr. Robert Fair from His Honour Judge Benson, of Port Hope; Sheriff Proctor, of Cobourg, and Alderman Phelan.

Those present were: J. A. Culverwell, T. H. Adams, G. E. Elliott, F. W. Doan, Jas. Ferguson, J. C. Shook, Richard Hall, M. A. Morrison, D. Walker, A. P. Poussette, K.C., Louis M. Hayes, K.C., Robert Fair, R. W. Travers, D. Hughes Charles, J. R. Stratton, M.P., Mayor Rush, E. C. Huycke, G. C. Wainwright, N. F. MacNaughton, T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., G. A. Gillespie, Dr. Greer, B. Lastar, R. S. Kingan, R. M. Glover, H. C. Winch, E. F. Mason, R. N. Scott, Warden of the County of Peterborough, J. E. Belcher, J. Green, J. J. Turner, Jr., W. A. Richardson, Harry Morgan, W. R. G. Higgins, R. Ruddy, K.C., R. M. Waddell, Ed. M. Elliott, M. Comstock, A. P. MacLean, J. H. Burnham, E. S. Clarry, W. H. Belding, W. G. Morrow, S. R. Armstrong, W. H. Hill, W. R. Morris, R. E. Wood, A. E. Dixon, James R. Bell, D. Belleghem, V. E. Eastwood, George K. Martin, F. D. MacGregor, G. N. Gordon, W. S. Davidson, W. McIlroy, John Crane, and W. H. Denham.

The supper was served in the beautifully decorated dining room of the Oriental. The menu was all that could be desired, Mr. G. N. Graham leaving nothing undone that provided for the convenience of his guests. The service was excellent and many were the complimentary words spoken.

During the evening a quartette consisting of Messrs. Denham, Crane, McIlroy and Davidson was heard in a pleasing number. Mr. McIllroy's solos, "Love's Old Sweet Song," and "Loch Lomond," were greeted with loud applause. Mr. W. H. Belding sang in excellent voice, "The Boys of the Old Brigade," while Mr. Walter Davidson delighted those present with two comic selections which were greatly enjoyed.

Mr. John Crane presided at the piano.

The Toast List

His Worship Mayor Rush presided and after ample justice had been done to the many good things, the toast to the King was proposed and honoured by singing the National Anthem.

Parliament of Canada, Etc.

Mayor Rush proposed the toast of the Parliament of Canada and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, coupling with it the names of Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

In responding to the toast, Mr. Stratton expressed his appreciation of the hearty and kindly way in which the toast to the Parliament of Canada and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario was given. He referred to the splendid laws Canada possessed and to their observance by the people of the Dominion. Departing from the subject of the toast Mr. Stratton said:

"We have all known Judge Roger for a number of years. He has been a good and loyal citizen and has always taken a deep interest in those matters which concerned the welfare of Peterborough." Striking a humourous vein Mr. Stratton referred to Judge Roger's administration as Mayor of the city. He had been twice elected and on each occasion by acclamation, a fact which spoke highly for the esteem in which he had always been held by his fellow citizens and their trust in thus placing him in the position of Chief Magistrate. Under his administration Peterborough and Ashburnham had been united into one municipality forming one city and the tying of this matrimonial knot, so to speak, will always be remembered as having been accomplished by Judge Roger. Mr. Stratton said the occasion combined pleasure and regret, pleasure in that Judge Roger's ability had been recognized, regret that his appointment to the bench necessitated the severing of many ties of friendship and regard. He was sure that the people of the sister counties, who would come before Judge Roger would receive justice not unmingled with mercy. Mr. Stratton said that general regret was felt upon Judge Roger's going to Cobourg, but it was a pleasure to know that he carried with him the highest regards and the best wishes of the citizens of Peterborough. We are receiving one of the neighbouring town's foremost citizens in the person of Judge Huycke. Mr. Stratton concluded by congratulating Judge Roger and Judge Huycke upon their appointments and wishing them every success therein.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., member for West Peterborough, in replying to the toast to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, remarked that he believed as Mr. Stratton had said, that it was not a time to speak of Parliament, but an occasion to say farewell to a fellow townsman. He was one of the foremost residents of Peterborough and the citizens had shown their confidence in him by bestowing honours time and time again upon him. Mr. Bradburn remarked that he had attended school with Mr. Roger, and had known him all his life. He was pleased to know that he was not going far away from them, but was to preside over the sister counties of Durham and Northumberland.

Our Guest

His Worship Mayor Rush, then proposed the toast to our Guest, and in doing so he made in part the following remarks:

"It is now my pleasant duty to propose the toast to 'Our Guest,' his Honour the junior judge of the Counties of Durham and Northumberland. It is difficult for us, despite his added dignity of position to speak of Mr. Roger in any stilted terms of title, for we have known him so long and so familiarly that it comes much more natural to speak of him by his well-known first name, or even by his as well known initials, than by any formal address or title. Born here, brought up here, educated here, and living here all his life, Mr. Roger is essentially one of us. He has not only lived in this community all his life, but has served the city well. He has given service in his profession, but in addition as an alderman and mayor he has given his time and ability to forward its best interests, and as an active member and elder of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church to which he belongs, the church of his fathers—I came near saying the church of his father—he has done much towards elevating the ideals of the people. Mr. Roger's father, the late Rev. J. M. Roger, was a pioneer Presbyterian clergyman here, and his son has assisted to carry on the good work his highly esteemed father helped to establish. Mr. Roger was also one of the founders of the Young Men's Christian Association, and has always taken a deep interest in that excellent work for the uplifting of young men, being at the present time a director and trustee of that institution.

"In the lighter affairs of life our friend was at one time deeply interested, and many of us recall with a glow of pride the enthusiasm which the exploits of the famous four-oared crew, of which he was a member aroused in Peterborough, and recollect the share we all felt in its triumphs. Mr. Roger's influence will be missed in Peterborough. He has been to a great many of us a good friend, and at all times a good citizen, and while the citizens regret his departure from the city, Judge Roger carries with him the respect and esteem and the very heartiest good wishes of all."

Judge Roger's Reply

His Honour Judge Roger in rising to reply to his toast which was drunk most heartily, was greeted with rounds of applause. He said, at the outset, that he supposed there was in everyone's life, a time when he could not fittingly express himself, and that was the feeling he experienced in expressing his appreciation of the good will of so many kind friends.

Speaking reminiscently His Honour remarked that he landed in Peterborough in the year that it was incorporated as a municipality. He had also helped to welcome King Edward the Seventh, on his visit to Peterborough, when he was one of the school children who had assembled to sing before the King, who was then Prince of Wales. These were recollections that he was glad to carry with him. He added that he had the pleasure of renewing that acquaintance with King Edward during his visit to England this summer. While the King did not recognize him, he was glad to join in the great cheering with which he was greeted on all sides.

Continuing His Honour said that he had lived here all his life. All his professional career had been spent here and he would be inhuman if he did not feel some regret at leaving Peterborough. He felt the sincerest regret, having decided to change, however, he hoped that he would be as good a citizen in Cobourg as his friends had said he had been here.

To the new Judge, His Honour Judge Huycke, he said that he would find the bar of Peterborough, men who weren't excelled in any city in Canada. They worked most harmoniously together. The reports of Judge Huycke from every town in which he was known were most congratulatory and of the highest standard. Again thanking his friends for their expressions of good will he took his seat amid great applause.

The Bench, The Bar, Etc.

To Dr. M. A. Morrison fell the honour of proposing the toast of "The Bench, The Bar and Learned Professions." As Canadians, he said, we are proud of our judiciary. They are men above reproach and we compliment the Government and the Minister of Justice, in particular, upon the newly appointed judges of Peterborough and Northumberland, and Cobourg, respectively. We honour Judge Huycke as a citizen and as the judge of this county, and as to Judge Roger, we regret his departure, but congratulate him upon his elevation to the bench. Dr. Morrison called upon Judge Huycke, A. P. Poussette, Dr. Greer, and J. H. Burnham to reply.

Judge Huycke said that he appreciated the flattering way in which the toast had been responded to. He would not assume that what Dr. Morrison had attributed to the judiciary was applicable to himself, as he was but merely appointed, in fact the baby judge. In words full of feeling he referred to the late Judge Weller, a gentleman who had been held in high esteem in life and whose demise had brought general regret to all those acquainted with him. Judge Huycke said he was not sure yet whether he was a citizen of Peterborough or of Cobourg. He assured the gathering that Judge Roger's fame had preceded him, and while his departure was regretted in this city the people of Cobourg were about to receive him with pleasure and joy. Judge Huycke stated that it was one of his regrets that he had been lifted from the arena of the court where he had tilted at law with his fellow lawyers, because he had enjoyed these legal fights. He paid a high tribute to lawyers than whom his experience had proved to him there was no body of men more honourable, or who endeavoured to do their duty so well. Judge Huycke said he recognized the responsibility of his position. The Parliament of Canada never had occasion to impeach a judge, and very few were known to British history. A judge represents the Crown and for that reason it is esteemed a great honour and dignity to be appointed to weigh the scales of justice between man and man. Before the court all men are equal. If, at one time, it may have been true that justice was the patrimony of the rich that condition has passed out of life. Judge Huycke expressed his gratitude for the cordial welcome extended to him. He would endeavour to uphold the best traditions of the bench, so far as his ability would allow him.

In replying to the toast to "the Bench, the Bar, and Learned Professions," Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., after some introductory remarks regarding lawyers and their duties, spoke very interestingly of his associations with the guest of the evening. His Honour was one of his oldest friends. For twelve years the speaker was associated with him in business, during which time they became very close friends. Commencing practice in 1874, Mr. Poussette was in partnership with Mr. Roger until 1886. He congratulated his friend upon his elevation to the bench. Peterborough was losing a good citizen.

Mr. Poussette took occasion to add one word of congratulation to His Honour Judge Huycke, and he had no hesitation in saying that the new judge would give every satisfaction in his new sphere.

Dr. Greer, on behalf of the medical profession, expressed his gratitude for the warm manner in which the toast had been drunk. He felt honoured for the opportunity of being present and for representing the medical profession upon this occasion. Peterborough had a goodly showing of the medical men, and speaking of a young man's choice of professions in choosing law or medicine, the latter presented the greater opportunities of putting into practice all the human virtues. Dr. Greer touched upon the great benefits the medical profession is doing for mankind in research and in the development of all the branches of medicine. On behalf of the medical profession of Peterborough, Dr. Greer expressed his regret upon the necessary departure of Judge Roger. He congratulated His Honour upon the recognition of those virtues and qualities which his appointment implied.

Mr. Burnham, in replying to the toast, remarked that though he had fought in many a political fight with Judge Roger, he had always found him honest and fair in every way, and to His Honour Judge Huycke, with whom he had attended college, he tendered his congratulations. He was sure that he would prove a credit to the Judiciary of Ontario.

City and County Corporations.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., proposed the toast to "the city and county corporations." In doing so he remarked that they were citizens of no mean city. Peterborough was the centre of a large and flourishing county. It was under such wardens as Warden Scott, and such Mayors as the guest of the evening, and the present one, that the county and city made such splendid progress. His Honour Judge Huycke, he continued, was a Christian gentleman, and the best wishes of the Peterborough bar and the citizens generally went with him to his new home.

To Judge Huycke, Mr. Hayes expressed a warm and cordial welcome. He hoped his residence in Peterborough would be pleasant and happy.

With this toast, Mr. Hayes coupled the names of Mayor Rush and Warden Scott.

Mayor Rush and Warden Scott expressed their appreciation of the kind remarks made in reference to them. They spoke words of congratulation to the guest of the evening and His Honour Judge Huycke.

The Board of Trade.

In proposing the toast to the Board of Trade, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, spoke in concurrence with what the previous speakers had said in reference to Judge Roger. As councillor of the town, and Alderman, and Mayor of the city, he had served Peterborough faithfully and zealously.

Speaking of the Board of Trade, Mr. Armstrong said that it worked along much the same lines as the city council, giving the latter much effective assistance in its mercantile and manufacturing interests.

The names of Mr. G. A. Gillespie, President of the Board of Trade, and Mr. Hughes Charles, an ex-president, were coupled with the toast.

Ald. Gillespie said he had known Judge Roger only one year, and he could with pleasure reiterate what had been borne out by the previous speakers. He had found him fair and broadminded and possessing good judgment, and he felt that Judge Roger would bring honour to himself in his new appointment. Ald. Gillespie congratulated both Judge Roger and Judge Huycke upon their promotions to the bench.

Mr. Charles' remarks were congratulatory, expressing his pleasure at the elevation of Judge Roger and Judge Huycke. He joined in extending his best wishes for many years of success on the bench.

HONORARY COMMITTEE

The Honorary Committee in charge of the Complimentary Banquet to His Honour Judge Roger, which proved to be such a delightful success last night was composed of the following gentlemen:

His Worship Mayor Rush.

Why Not Fill Your Body WITH NEW ENERGY

And avoid the weakness and tired feelings of spring—You can do this by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

You need not be a victim of circumstances and suffer all the weakening and depressing effects of spring.

Tired feelings, headaches, indigestion and nervous troubles all fly when the system is flooded with rich, red blood.

Energy and vigour only come after all the ordinary waste of the system are supplied. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so wonderfully successful as a blood builder that you soon begin to feel strong and healthy by its use.

By means of its great restorative treatment you can rebuild the body when it has been wasted by worry, overwork, lingering colds or the depressing and debilitating effects of spring.

There is no reaction after the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because it is not a stimulant. On the contrary it is a blood forming, system building medicine which by working hand in hand with Nature proves of lasting benefit to the system and thoroughly drives out weakness and disease by filling the system with new energy and vigour.

Mrs. H. A. Loynes, nurse, Phillipsburg, Que., writes: "I was all run down and could not do my work. Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten lbs., do my own work alone and feel like an entirely different person."

Early Steamboating Days On Rice Lake And The Otonabee

Of all the beautiful reaches of navigation about Peterborough, that "down the river" is among the most popular and beautiful; it should be the most popular because it has longest served the pleasure and convenience of the public. When this city was in its infant days, the terminus of the highway of approach to Peterborough was Rice Lake and the Otonabee River. This route was followed by the early immigrants from the mother land who made Peterborough and vicinity their destination. After the long ocean voyage—from six weeks to three months—came the next stage up the St. Lawrence to Cobourg, overland, to Sully's Landing," and Harwood, and last by Rice Lake and river, to Peterborough.

Much unwritten history of this route is lost and few survive whose memory can go back a couple of generations. Among these few is Mr. T. R. Pengelly, of South Monaghan, who has lived there now 69 years. He is familiar with the conditions of lake and river navigation, and his memory well stored with local nautical lore, goes back to 1845 and even before.

Speaking with the Examiner yesterday of early steamboat days on the Otonabee, Mr. Pengelly said that in the thirties we had on this route two steamers. The earlier was the Pamaudash, which was about the size of the present day craft. It carried freight and passengers, doing a thriving business, till it was wrecked in the uncharted waters of the riotous Otonabee—about six miles from the mouth at the debouchure of a small stream since called, no doubt in remembrance of the catastrophe, "Steamboat Creek." Here the sunken hulk of the Pamaudash lies buried in slime and ooze, over grown with water weeds, only its projecting ribs showing where the pride of the Otonabee came to everlasting anchor.

Then came—or about the same time—the steamer Sir Francis Bond Head, which plied these waters. She was about the same size as Pamaudash, and was also wrecked—on the sunken reefs of "the Yankee Bonnet."

The next was a boat owned by the late Captain John May, whose name and memeroy are perpetuated in tradition and legend and in "May's School House in North Monaghan, near St. Peter's Cemetery.

His craft was a sail boat at first. By a stage of evolution it came to be operated by paddle wheels driven by horse power. The next advance was steam power. This and other boats carried freight and passengers, brought overland from Cobourg to a point called in these days "Sully's Landing"—about half a mile west of Harwood. At that time Mr. Carver was postmaster for the hamlet of Peterborough — in a log building situated in rear of the present Bank of Montreal building, and between that and the river. There were no good roads in those days, and the river was the favourite means of travel of South Monaghan and vicinity to Peterborough.

The next steamer venture was the Forester built in 1848 by the late Thomas Short, of Keene, which was the home port and the point of shipment of a vast variety of products which Mr. Short handled. He was regarded as a public benefactor because he was a means of shipping out by the Forester, the products of the farmer of all kinds of grain and wool, pearlash,, etc., etc., Later came such craft as the Whitewing, Golden Eye, etc., but their identity is lost in the changes of name and rig and register, which perpetuated some of them to near the present day.

Mr. Pengelly remembers well the pioneer life and its privations and mutations. He thinks the people of the present day, though they seem to have more conveniences are "not a bit more comfortable nor happy" than they were in the old days. Their ideas have enlarged, their desires increased and it takes more money and a harder struggle to meet them, with less of solid contentment than in the primitive days of the simple life.

Mr. Pengelly's memory not only covers the prosaic side of Rice Lake and Otonabee River aquatics, but the poetical side as well. He has in his possession two poems relating to this district—one a poem on "Rice Lake," composed between 1840 and 1845, by Wm. Black, and dedicated to Mrs. Hayward of Glen Linden Farm.—west of Gore's Landing. The other is a poem on "The Otonabee River," by a Miss Page.

SEND THE BLIND TO SCHOOL

Principal Garadiner of the Ontario Institution for the Education of the Blind, Brampton, asks the assistance of the Examiner in impressing upon the parents and friends of children with defective sight the advisability of sending such children to the Ontario Institution for the Blind to be educated. The Institution, located at Brantford, and maintained by the Government of Ontario free of charge for board and tuition, is a school for the education of children and youths of both sexes under the age of twenty-one. It is not an hospital, nor an asylum, nor a home, but a school where children, who cannot see well enough to attend the Public Schools, are given an English education (including music) and taught to do such useful work as the blind are capable of doing. Such education and training must promote the comfort, happiness and independence of those who are deprived of the blessing of sight, therefore the Examiner recommends those interested to correspond with H. F. Gardiner, Principal O. I. B., Brantford, in time to complete arrangements before the opening of the next session on September 22nd.

COULD NOT KEEP THIS SECRET

I don't care for publicity but would like to tell every one suffering from piles about Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Regatta At Crowe's Landing Provided Grand Sport And Event Was Splendid Success

Under the Auspices of Upper Stony Lake Cottagers' Association Yesterday Afternoon—Harold Knapman Won the Classic Race of the Day—Many Close Finishes.

UPSET IN GIRLS' TANDEM

Examiner Special.

Crowe's Landing, August 2.—Favoured by the most beautiful summer weather, a record attendance and exciting events, the third annual regatta of the Upper Stony Lake Campers' and Cottagers' Association, held this afternoon on the splendid course, off "Bellvidere" summer resort, was by far the most successful in the history of the Association. The weather could not have been better, had it been made to order. Overhead there was a vivid blue sky, flecked here and there by a snowy cloud, while the blue water of the lake was ruffled by a slight breeze, fresh enough to prevent the sailing races from being a drifting match, while at the same time it was cool enough for the spectators who found the high banks at the Landing a vantage ground from which every foot of the races could be seen.

The attendance was the biggest yet. Of course the people of the neighbourhood turned out en masse. Norwood was represented by a big contingent, which drove out, many private launches and carried crowds from the lower part of the lake, while the normal attendance was increased by the presence of the big excursion from Bowmanville, Orono, and other points, which arrived on the StoneyLake. The other steamers of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company brought large quotas on their regular trips and as a result many hundreds of people watched the races from the hills or from the many small boats which dotted the lake.

The races were run off in order, and with no delays—a feature that the crowd thoroughly appreciated, every race, with the exception of the open sailing was filled and there were no scratches. As a rule the finishes were close, and some of the races brought the crowd to its feet in excitement. As a result of the way in which the judges and tecommittee carried out their duties there were no hitches in the programme, and everything went off smoothly.

Unfortunately, there was only one entry in the open sailing race for the splendid silver cup, donated by Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and the result was a "walk over" for Harold Knapman's "Cygnet," that splendid pennant winner which has captured so many prizes at the Kawartha regattas. The youthful skipper sailed around the course alone and was awarded the cup.

Llewellyn and W. Hall had an easy time of it in the dinghy race, in which their only opponent was R. Nicholl. The former's craft won by nearly a mile, being much the speedier craft in the light wind, and it was splendidly handled.

J. E. Roxborough won the open sailing without any trouble. Mr. Oxley, his opponent, dropped out before the race was over. The results of the different events were as follows:

Open sailing race.—Silver cup, presented by Hon. J. R. Stratton, Harold Knapman.

Dinghy race—Silver cup, presented by Messrs. H. G. Buck, J. R. McKelvie, and A. Gibson—W. T. Hall, Stony Lake.

Canoe sailing race.—Silver cup, presented by Mr. John Finley, ex-M.P.—J. E. Roxborough, Stony Lake.

Men's single canoe paddling race—silver medal, presented by H. LeBrun, 1st, R. Ball.

Ladies' single canoe race—1, Genevieve Sanderson; 2, Stella Lennox.

Boys' Tandem Canoe Race. — H. Lees and B. Lees; 2nd, H. Altman and K. Waters.

Men's single skiff race.—1st, silver medal, presented by A. Gibson—1st, J. Simpson; 2nd, G. Fraser.

Ladies' single skiff race (with Coxswain)—1st Genevieve Sanderson; 2nd, Mrs. Rapp.

Girls' tandem skiff race, 1st, G. Sanderson and A. Knapman; 2nd, Mrs. Rapp and S. Lennox.

Boys' tandem skiff race.—1st, Harold and Bruce Lees; 2nd, H. Altman and K. Waters.

Men's tandem skiff race—J. C. Acton and G. Fraser; 2nd, H. and J. Simpson.

Ladies' tandem canoe race — 1st, Misses Sanderson; 2nd, Jessie Starr, and Mary Gibson.

Crab race—1, Harold Lees; 2, Bruce Lees.

Tandem canoe race (lady and gentleman)—1st, C. Gordon and Miss Sanderson; 2, V. R. Craig and Miss Starr.

Boys' swimming race (115 lbs. and under)—1st, Bruce Lees; 2, Harold Lees.

Girls' swimming race.—1st, Stella Searight, 2nd, Miss Grace Wilson, (Toronto).

Upset race—1st, C. Blewett; 2nd, Harold Lees.

War canoe race (four in a canoe)—1st, K. Hull, D. Drain, F. Hull, and D. Drain; 2nd, Colin Lees, Harold Lees, Bruce Lees and Keith Walters.

The only accident happened during the course of the ladies' tandem canoe race, when the canoe containing Mis Stella Lennox and Miss O. Meharry was capsized shortly after turning the buoy. There was great excitement among the crowd on shore, as it was known that Miss Lennox was unable to swim. Fortunately, however, the two young ladies had presence of mind enough to cling to the overturned canoe, and Mr. Rich. Lees' launch which was near at hand, was hastened to the rescue, picking up the girls in a short time. They were none the worse for their mishap.

One of the most exciting races of the afternoon was the contest in the boys' tandem skiff, in which Bruce and Harold Lees and Henry Altman and Keith Waters finished a few feet apart, the last pair being in the lead, but they were disqualified on account of finishing outside of the finishing buoy. They discovered their mistake in time to get second place. A feature was the showing of Harold and Bruce Lees, sons of Mr. Rich. Lees, of Peterborough, who, between them, carried off no less than seven prizes, getting first in the boys' tandem canoe and skiff races; first and second in the swimming race, and second in the upset.

Distribution of Prizes.

In the evening the presentation of prizes took place in the pavilion, and a very large number was on hand to enjoy the festivities of the evening. Mr. Harry Buck, President of the Upper Stony Lake Campers' Association, acted as chairman, and presented the prizes. There was a short, but most enjoyable musical programme, every number being received with applause that showed how much it had been appreciated by the audience. An encore had to be given in nearly every case.

Following was the programme:

Piano duett—Mr. and Mrs. Rapp, Cincinnati.

Solo—Mr. F. T. Waldon, Toronto.

Solo—Mrs. Steinberg, Toronto.

Violin solo—Miss Julia Choate, of the Conservatory of Music, Peterborough.

Solo—Mr. Waldon.

Mandolin solo—Mr. Emery.

Spanish dance by an octette from Viamede.

The latter was one of the most pleasing events of the evening, the different movements being cleverly executed by the four young ladies and four gentlemen who composed the party.

At the conclusion of the concert came the presentation of prizes, each of the winners getting a hearty reception, after which the decks were cleared for action, or, in other words, the chairs were removed and the festivities were brought to a close with a most delightful dance, which was one of the most pleasing features of the day.

Herpicide Is Used to Cure Dandruff.

E. H. Lyon, New York, N.Y., says: "I am very fond of Herpicide and enjoy using it. It is refreshing."

Dr. J. H. Bush, Toledo, Ohio, writes: "Newbro's Herpicide has given better satisfaction than anything I have ever used."

Mrs. Borkey, of Chadron, Neb., says of Herpicide:

"It cleaned my head of dandruff and stopped my hair from falling out. It is the best remedy for dandruff I ever used, and I have used a great many."

R. S. Coleman, Ann Arbor, Mich., says:

"I have used two bottles of Herpicide and derived benefit therefrom."

WAS PUT ON THE BLACK LIST TO-DAY

Man Who Is a Continuous Disturber of the Peace In Court To-day.

One more name was added to the already long list of blacklisted persons, at the police court this morning. An Antrim street resident was charged with creating a disturbance by swearing loudly. Several neighbours testified to having heard the bad language and they said that they had been kept awake by it at night for the past seven months.

Chief Roszel asked that the defendant be placed on the blacklist. P. C. Newhall gave evidence as to the accused's drinking habits

His Worship fined him two dollars and costs and ordered that he be posted in all the local hotels.

THE NOX TASTELESS LIQUOR, DRUG AND TOBACCO CURE.

We have yet to hear of one failure to cure where a fair trial has been given. Can be given without the person knowing it, is harmless and absolutely without taste. Mother, sister or wife, you would be doing a great work by giving this remedy to some members of your family. We will mail a full month's treatment for five dollars. ### BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Frank Davis, aged 26, whose parents live in Ottawa, shot himself yesterday at the west cannery, at Vancouver, where he was bookkeeper.

Bernard L. Tarbox of Boston, Mass., a bigamist, now living in Canada, is defendant in a $25,000 suit brought by his "affinity's" parents.

Frank Martin of Martin's Island, was in court at Chatham charged with selling liquor without a license and fined $100 or three months in jail.

Three-year-old Nellie Hill of 162 De Grassi street, Toronto, who was so terribly burned Sunday noon, died in the Hospital for Sick Children at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The St. John, N.B., police last night arrested two Greeks for selling "Free Speech," a Moncton publication, in this city. It is thought other arrests will follow, as these men are said to have been acting for others.

Three hundred persons are aboard the British steamer Waratah en route from Sydney for London, and failure to hear any report of the vessel since she sailed from Durban, Natal, July 26 has resulted in some alarm.

James H. Dunn, at one time a Montreal stock broker, but who has accumulated a large fortune in London dealing in stocks, has purchased the magnificent country home of Lord Charles Beresford, some miles out of London.

Wealthy Man Goes to Chain Gang.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—The last chance of escape from a sentence to the chain gang passed from William H. Mitchell, for years one of the most prominent men in Southern Georgia, when the state court of appeals affirmed the lower court's sentence that he must serve a year for assault and battery upon his relative, Miss Lucile Linton.

Mitchell nearly a year ago disguised himself as a negro woman and attempted to abduct Miss Linton. She is wealthy and a social leader of the community in which Mitchell lived, in and about Thomasville.

Big Lockout In Mills.

Stockholm, Aug. 3.—The labor conflict in Sweden which originated in a dispute over wages in the woolen and cotton industries, is assuming large proportions.

In the beginning 13,000 men were locked out, and other industries since have become involved until to-day the employers' federation declared a lockout of the iron foundry hands numbering 30,000 men. This brings the total of the men locked out to 80,000.

A general strike is threatened for Aug. 4.

Firemen's Tournament.

Parry Sound, Aug. 3.—The annual tournament of the Northern Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held here on Wednesday. It is expected that at least 10,000 visitors will be present. Special trains are coming from all directions. Band competitions and various contests between volunteer fire companies have been arranged, as well as a big program of athletics. Capt. Alex. Gunn and Wm. Simpson of the Toronto fire department will act as judges.

Mob Lynches Murderer.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 3.—George Johnson (white), who murdered John W. Moore, a farmer, near Platte City, Mo., June 20, was lynched at Platte City early yesterday.

Two men took a third man to the jail, representing him to be a prisoner. When the sheriff opened the jail door the three overpowered him and fifty other men soon appeared and battered down the door of Johnson's cell.

A Valuable Handbag.

New York, Aug. 3.—A handbag found on an excursion steamer July 9, was claimed yesterday by Mrs. Grace Livingston Wheeler of Philadelphia. The bag contained $2,755 in new bills, two gold watches, two diamond rings and other valuables.

George Washington Lincoln, the colored porter on the steamer, who found the handbag, was rewarded with $100.

"Oleomargarine Used Here."

New York, Aug. 3.—"Oleomargarine used here," must be printed plainly conspicuously, beginning yesterday, on all bills of fare in those restaurants throughout the state which serve substitutes for butter. Lunch carts, boarding houses and other eating places which do not rise to the dignity of menu cards, must post signs in places where they can easily be seen and read.

International Aviation Congress.

Paris, Aug. 3.—It is reported here that France intends to call an international conference to discuss the question of aviation.

A summer's activity and progress in aviation in France will be crowned by the assemblage of the most renowned aeroplanists at a "week of aviation," arranged to open at Rheims on Aug. 2.

Nervous, Tired, Anxious, Thin

What causes nervous collapse? Most people say worry, anxiety, brooding, but these are simply the outcomes of a lowered physical condition. When strong we throw them off, but when run down they hold us if by chains.

The true cause of nervous collapse is in the blood. When thin and watery it contains no nourishment for the nerves, no support for the muscles—result is collapse.

The truest food for the nerves is the nourishing blood that Ferrozone forms. Ferrozone builds up the nervous and depressed, not by stimulation, but by the surer way of adding flesh, blood, and sinew. The whole system is vitalized; the nerves are fortified—you can sleep, work hard, and be free from brooding anxiety.

FERROZONE Makes Health

No health winner so certain as Ferrozone, no nerve strengthener more potent, no system tonic so well adapted to the wants of the rundown, nervous, or sleepless. Ferrozone is certain to cure if you give it a chance. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

WANTS FULL CHARGE.

Australia Must Control Own Forces, Declares Argus.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Argus says that the Imperial Defence Conference deliberations cannot lead to a successful conclusion unless Britain makes a full, intelligent provision for the diversified interests and local aspirations of the colonies. Australia is unalterably determined to build her own navy and train citizens by a system of compulsory cadet service.

"But," The Argus continues, "Australia, first and foremost, demands the service both of our soldiers and of our ships, and cannot permit another voice in their control. In an imperial crisis, Australia would gladly place the whole armament at Britain's disposal, but by consent not by compulsion."

The Argus remarks that the Little Englander now seems as rare as the Canadian or the Australian who would wish to cut loose from the Empire.

Trade Expert From Germany.

London, Aug. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The German Commercial Treaties' Association has memoralized the German Chancellor for the appointment of a German trade expert in Canada. The request is based upon replies received to a circular addressed by the association to a large number of firms trading with Canada, by whom such an appointment is considered highly desirable. At the same time many firms remark that the end of the tariff war is of far greater importance, as before normal trade relations have been restored between Germany and Canada, no very great results are to be expected from the appointment of a trade expert.

Glenallah Hits Breakwater.

Port Colborne, Aug. 3.—The steamer Glenallah, owned by the Inland Navigation Co. of Hamilton, struck the breakwater here early yesterday morning, doing twenty to thirty thousand dollars' damage.

The steamer had passed through the canal and was on her way out. When nearing the breakwater, her wheel chain became clogged. She struck the breakwater head on. Her forward compartments are full of water. She was loaded with a general cargo, Montreal to Fort William.

Fatal Exhibition.

Providencetown, Mass., Aug. 3.—"It was not a prize fight nor a boxing bout, but an exhibition for a moving picture machine," said Admiral Seaton Schroeder yesterday, in reference to the death of Hanson H. Foster, a colored messmate on board the battleship Vermont Sunday night, after going six rounds with a messmate on Friday evening. Foster died of cerebral hemorrhages, caused by a blow or fall.

Scarcity of Labor.

Port Arthur, Aug. 3.—J. Dix Fraser, manager of Atikokan Iron Co.'s blast furnaces, states that the blowin will take place early this week. Everything is practically ready to recommence the manufacture of pig iron.

Contractors who are endeavoring to hire men for railroad work on the N.T.R., north of Nepigon, are finding it very difficult to procure labor.

11,300 Buildings Burned.

Tokio, Aug. 3.—An official report on the damage by the great fire at Osaka places the number of dwellings destroyed at 11,368, including eleven office buildings, eight schools, four banks, ten business blocks and twenty temples. There was but one death, due to illness, caused by the fire.

An investigation of the disaster has been begun. About 500 are receiving public assistance.

British Control of Railroads.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Franklin K. Lane, a member of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, is at present in France studying the regulations applied to French railroads.

He has just come from England, where he found the control, both in the matter of rates and the issue of capital, to be most effective.

Car Thieves Rounded Up.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 3.—A gang of thieves who have been responsible for a long series of robberies from Canadian Pacific cars, were rounded up Sunday night. They gave their names as D. Lambert, C. Hunter and G. Cardell. Many hundreds of dollars' worth of goods were found at the homes of the men.

Invents Noiseless Cannon.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 3.—Hiram Percy Maxim announced yesterday that he had invented a noiseless cannon of large bore and that in October he will go to Europe to demonstrate it. He is making preparations for the test here. His patents for noiseless weapons cover Japan as well as European countries.

C.N.R. Crop Report.

Winnipeg, Aug. 3.—The Canadian Northern Railway crop report yesterday is very optimistic. All crops are in fine condition. Barley cutting has started and will be in full swing in a few days.

Wheat cutting in southern Manitoba will start about the 10th of this month.

Heavy Storm Near Kingston.

Kingston, Aug. 3.—A heavy hailstorm at Battersea and Mount Cheney did considerable damage to crops and smashed many windows. A cow, belonging to Albert Webb, Sunbury, was killed by lightning.

Connaught Forced to Retire.

London, Aug. 3.—It is reported as a sequel to the Duke of Connaught's resignation last month, of the inspector generalship of the Mediterranean forces, on the ground of "the ineffective nature of the work and the useless expense to the nation involved therein," that the Army Council has requested the duke to retire from the presidency of the selection board, which deals with the selection and promotion of officers in the army.

Played Indian; Two Boys Burned.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—As a result of playing Indian, two boys were burned, one badly and another slightly, at Outremont, a suburb. The two boys, who took the part of Indians, tied a younger playmate to a "torture post" as a white prisoner. Sparks from the fire set fire to one of the bigger boy's clothes. Both "Indians" then ran away, leaving the little fellow, who was released by a neighbor.

A Marine Innovation.

Washington, Aug. 3.—All American steamship companies are directed to equip the boilers of their vessels with an independent water feed by Oct. 31 next in a decision by Assistant Secretary McHarg of the Department of Commerce and Labor, under penalty of having their licenses revoked.

Wheat Prices Decline.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The wheat market was bearishly affected yesterday by ideal conditions for the rapidly maturing crop in the Northwest, and prices declined more than one cent on all deliveries.

Wrote First Republican Platform.

Elmira, N.Y., Aug. 3.—Dr. William C. Doane, aged 83 years, died here yesterday. He was one of the committee which wrote the first platform for the Republican party in 1855.

May Prove a Check.

London, Aug. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Morning Post remarks that the important movement towards West Indian reciprocity with Canada, which the royal commission has been appointed to further, is likely to be checked again by the threats contained in the Payne U. S. tariff law.

Suffragettes In Town.

Boston, Aug. 3.—A flying cohort of woman suffragists started by trolley from this city yesterday to make a tour of the state in the interest of "votes for women." The suffragists expect to take advantage of the county fairs in holding their rallies.

One Experimenter Hurt.

L'Orient, France, Aug. 3.—While experimenting here yesterday with a new military aeroplane of his invention, Lieut. Cros of the French army was caught in a squall and dashed to the ground. He sustained severe injuries on the head.

Legion of Honor for Paderewski.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Ignace Paderewski, the Polish pianist, has been made an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

G.T.R. President In Canada.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, reached here yesterday and is the guest of C. M. Hays. Next week Sir Rivers will go west accompanied by the president and vice-president of the G.T.P.

Here is a New Kind of Soap

You are now using some soap and naturally think it is good. But here is a kind that is different from any you know—one that has taken us 43 years to perfect.

Try one cake and compare it with what you now use. We welcome such a test as this for we know in advance the result. You will never go back to the other kind. Here is a soap made from vegetable oil pure enough to use on your table. We pay far more for this in France than we might pay. So we get only the best.

Cocoanut oil from the isle of Ceylon is brought over 12,000 miles and mixed with the olive oil. Then both are boiled doubly long.

After this we mill them by our own special process. We have scoured the best factories of England, France and Austria for almost half a century to perfect this process. We have combined the best ideas of foreign lands with our own improvements to attain perfection.

When milled, the soap falls like flakes of snow into enormous bins and is then crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture. Then it passes through granite rollers and comes out in miles of silky ribbon.

After being dried eight times it is pressed into cakes and is simply perfect soap. It lathers into a rich creamy foam and wears as thin as a wafer. It leaves the skin rosy and pink like an infant's. So we call it Infants' Delight.

The perfume is dainty and pure—it suggests only the delicate scent of the roses. Use one cake today and see what a wonderful difference there can be in soap.

10 Cents a Cake At All Dealers

How to Shampoo

Place a pint of warm water on the stove and shave up a cake of Infants' Delight. Let it simmer until the soap is dissolved. Then pour into a wide jar to cool into jelly. Clean the hair with a brush, wet it with warm water, and rub the soap jelly into the scalp thoroughly. Rinse off the thick lather and repeat this lathering and rinsing until a towel. This will leave the hair soft, shiny and lustrous.

BOWMANVILLE DEFEATED BY SENIOR LEAGUE PICKED NINE

Interesting Game at Riverside Park Yesterday Afternoon —Visitors Put Away by the Score of 9-4— Got an Early Lead Which Was Soon Pulled Down.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

It seemed a little like old times at Riverside yesterday afternoon, when an all-Peterborough team stacked up against a Bowmanville aggregation that had accompanied the excursion from the lake towns, with Bowmanville as the starting point. And, to make things the more pleasing the locals, an all-star outfit selected from the City League, trounced the visitors to the merry tune of 9 to 4, thereby starting them home again singing "Gee! But I Feel Blue."

It was a fair exhibition, not as good as the Barrie game, nor even some of those the city league has dished up, but for all that there were bright spots here and there that relieved the tendency to listlessness.

Bowmanville got to Quinlan for three counters in their first time up, but "Ab" settled down in the second innings, and kept his hand firmly on the helm until the 27th Bowmanville player was retired and the game won. The visitors were minus their regular pitcher and had no alternative but to send in Hooper, who was touched hard and often. Mike O'Brien had a home run to his credit and three-baggers were beginning to be commonplace about the time the last curtain was rung down. Ben Dusty must have had all kinds of horse shoes inside his shirt, the way he glued to three long flies, one of them being nailed by a sensational one hand stab. Quinlan was given good support behind the bat, and in the field and Hooper being rather easily solved, the game was taken in hand in the fifth and little doubt remained as to the outcome.

The Personnel.

The team lined up as follows:

Game by innings:
Bowmanville .. ..3 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—4
Peterborough .. ..0 1 1 1 2 0 2 2 x—9

The Play.

Game opened about 2.30 with Umpire Dan McCabe at the indicator and Bowmanville at bat. Weeks, first man up, went out, Kendry to M. O'Brien; and Hooper, next man up, flew to Weatherstone. Wilcox singled to left and was followed by Jones, who singled to right. With two on bases, Tucker doubled to left, scoring the two runners. Johnston next up, put out another two-base hit, scoring Tucker, but Quinlan then ended the suspense by striking out Candler.

Peterborough went out in order.

Second innings—Bowmanville went out in order. For Peterborough, after Quinlan and McFadden were out, Weatherstone, who had reached first on a fielder's choice, scored on Curtis' three-base hit. Dusty flew out.

Third innings—Bowmanville was retired in order. Giroux singled, but was caught stealing 2nd, after Callaghan had been retired; Kendry reached first on Weeks' error and stole second; O'Brien was hit by pitcher. Quinlan was safe on Weeks' error, scoring Kendry, but McFadden struck out.

Fourth innings.—Bowmanville out in order. Weatherstone flew out to Weeks. Curtis was safe on catcher's wild throw, and stole second and 3rd, scoring when Giroux doubled to left. Callaghan singled, but Dusty, running for Giroux, was out between 3rd and home.

Fifth innings. — Bowmanville was again retired in order. After Kendry was out, O'Brien, for the second time, was hit by pitcher, and went to third on Quinlan's single, both scoring a moment later on McFadden's single. Weatherstone hit into a double, McFadden being caught off 2nd on his fly.

Sixth innings.—Both Peterborough and Bowmanville were retired in order.

Seventh innings—After Candler and Blackburn were out Mutton singled, scoring on two errors of Weeks' hit; but Hooper struck out. Callaghan was out, Johnston to Blackburn. Kendry singled and came home on O'Brien's home run hit to the raceway. Quinlan and McFadden were out.

Eighth innings.—Bowmanville were again retired in order.

Weatherstone was safe on Wilcox's error, going to 2nd; Curtis was out to 1st base, Dusty flew to Johnston, but Weatherstone scored on C. Giroux's third hit of the day, a three-bagger. Kendry singled, scoring Giroux. O'Brien flew out to Mutton.

Ninth innings — Bowmanville was retired without any scoring.

Final score, 9-4.

AN EGG EIGHT INCHES IN CIRCUMFERENCE

Mr. Dan. McMillan, Bolivar street, called at the Examiner office this morning and showed a monstrosity in the shape of a hen's egg. He found it the other day and last evening a second one of similar size was found. It measured exactly eight inches in circumference.

PREVENTION IS WORTH WHILE.

When you consider the risk to life, the expense, the anxiety which is involved in an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation, it is certainly worth while to avoid it by keeping the liver and bowels regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Doctors are now unanimously of the opinion that appendicitis comes from a neglect to keep the liver and bowels in a healthful condition.

EXAMINER WANT ADS. RECOVER THE LOST AND BUY AND SELL

It only needs the record of one week to give new emphasis to the charm that Examiner "Want Ads." work in recovering the lost, and bringing buyer and seller together. It is not magic, but is very like it, the way it works. Here is the record of known results for one week.

Mr. Lewis, city, lost a locket, and it stayed lost for a week. He inserted an ad. in the Examiner, and the first insertion of it brought back the long missing locket.

Mr. Ed. Carpenter, 58 Robinson St., announced in the Examiner "a skiff and canoe for sale." The first insertion sold the skiff by 7.30 o'clock of the night of its appearance and the canoe was sold shortly after.

Mr. Scott, Park St., had a cash register for sale at $65. One ad in the Examiner, costing ten cents, effected the sale—a commission of only one hundredth per cent.

Mr. Fred McFadden lost a $5 silk umbrella. A one-term ad. in the Examiner restored the umbrella.

The instances given demonstrate forcibly the value of Examiner want ads., but the fact that an Examiner ad. can, at the first attempt, bring back an article with which is associated such misty ideas of ownership and moral responsibility as an umbrella is truly remarkable—a record. They might even make good in restoring a lost reputation.

If you want anything—want to sell anything; want to find anything; patronize the Examiner want ad. columns. They bring results every time; every shot hits the bullseye.

HASTINGS ITEMS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Hastings, August 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Turner are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

Miss Jessie Anderson is receiving congratulations on the success which her pupils met with in their recent examinations in piano and theory. Among the list of successful pupils we notice the names of Miss Ethel Sherwin and Miss Maggie McGuire of town.

Successful Students Who Tried For Normal Entrance

Collegiate Institute Students Obtain Honours—Advice in Regard to Future Action — Matriculation Results to be Announced in Short Time.

PETERBOROUGH'S PUPILS

The results of the examination for entrance into the Normal Schools are given below. The certificates of successful candidates and the statements of marks of those who failed will be mailed to principals or inspectors in the course of a few days.

The successful pupils are as follows: W. H. Adamson (honours), H. F. Elliott, J. A. Eyres (honours), D. Fessenden (honours), R. L. Fitzgerald, J. J. Garvey, J. Halliday, J. A. Kerr, F. M. King, K. I. Leary, J. McCarthy, M. Perdue, Z. Paget, E. H. Pue, A. J. Rahal, K. E. Read (honours), M. H. Smith, F. H. Torrance.

Successful candidates who desire to attend the coming session of the Normal Schools are reminded that their applications for admission must be made to the Deputy Minister of Education no later than Tuesday, September 7. No student will be admitted who will not be at least 18 years of age before September 1.

For those applicants who are required to pass the September examinations in the prescribed lower school subjects the session will begin on Tuesday, September 21, at 9 a.m. For applicants with the prescribed certificates from approved schools, and for applicants belonging to Grade A. it will begin on Monday, September 27, at 9 a.m. No applicant who is required to pass the September examination will be admitted without doing so. It would be well, therefore, for applicants to make certain of their status before the first mentioned date.

As already announced, the appeal examiners have re-read the papers of each candidate whose marks would in former years have justified an appeal. Where such a candidate has still failed, his statement of marks will be stamped as re-read, and no further appeal will be allowed. In all other cases of failure appeals will not be refused if made before September 1, and accompanied by the fee of $2. In view of all the precautions taken, however, it is most unlikely that such appeals taken would succeed.

Large Havelock Residence Destroyed By Fierce Fire

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Aug. 3.—The citizens were aroused about 5 o'clock by the sound of the fire alarm, which summoned the people to the west end of the town on Concession street, where a pretty large white house, owned by Mr. Petrick McNichol, of town, and occupied by Mr. Dobson, had caught on fire, starting in one of the bedrooms upstairs, and caused, it is thought by the pipes coming apart. No fire had been in the house since noon, and the pipes must have come apart and sparks caught on something and been smouldering away during the afternoon, for, when first noticed, smoke was creeping out from parts of the roof. The bucket brigade were soon on hand and did their utmost to extinguish the flames, but it had too much of a headway. No one was in the house except the children, and the smoke was first noticed by Mr. Wm. Falkner, who rushed over and made his way upstairs, only to be forced back by the smoke. The furniture down stors was all saved, but the upstairs furniture, bedding and clothes were burned. The house and contents were partly covered by insurance, but will not nearly cover the loss sustained. Two biuldings on eithe side, namely, Mr. Frank Burton's, and Mr. Jos. Marks' residences, were saved, which is a most wonderful surprise as one building is only about twelve feet from the burned building. Credit is due to the many who worked and did their part in carrying water to save the other buildings from the river. Havelock seems to be noted for willing workers in the case of fire, as our little town has no fire protection save the "Bucket Brigade." Mr. Frank Brenton's residence on the south side, was considerably damaged, but it is well insured; Mr. Marks' dwelling is also slightly blackened by the fire and smoke, and is also heavily insured.

Rev. Dr. Symonds Says Indian Tortured His Adopted Boy

Examiner Special:

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Mr. A. H. Skroder, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Women and Children, returned from North Hatley, near Sherbrooke, this morning, where he has been investigating an alleged case of great cruelty.

The case is one of alleged maltreatment of a six-year-old boy named Nathaniel Meigs, who had been adopted by an Indian named Harry Masse. The latter worked for Mr. Reid, a wood merchant, and last winter he adopted this little boy, whose parents had both died. Mr. Skroder says that the little boy had been kept without food for hours, and was so hungry that he stole some of the lunch of the three wood-cutters working under Masse. The latter was so infuriated that he took the child and bound him hand and foot to a tree, spread-eagle fashion, leaving him there all day in the sun and heat without food.

Whe nhe was cut down he was in such a state of exhaustion, it is stated, that for a time his life was despaired of. He slowly recovered, but the ordeal was a terrible one for a child so young.

The attention of Rev. Herbert Symonds, of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, who is staying near the place, and of Mr. Reid, the employer of Masse, was called to the case, and they notified the local authorities. The child was removed from the care of Masse and placed with Mr. Lebarron.

This morning Mr. Skroder received notification from the Solicitor General that a warrant would be issued against Masse to-day in Sherbrooke.

Fourteen Hundred Excursionists Visit Peterborough To-day

Two large excursions are visiting the city to-day, the larger one coming from Beaverton. Eight hundred and fifty persons came from Beaverton, while the excursion train from Millbrook carried over five hundred.

The Beaverton people are spending the day at Jackson Park, while the Millbrook and Bethany excursionists took the steamer Otonabee over the Lift Lock up to number five dam, where dinner was served. The excursions were run under the auspices of the Methodist churches of the two places.

AN INCONVENIENCE

Closing of Lakefield Hotel Necessitates Longer Walk From Station to Wharf

Tourists to the lakes these days are more or less inconvenienced to get from the Lakefield station to the wharf in order to take the steamer. Hitherto the proprietor of the Lakefield House has generously allowed the tourist and travelling public, to cross his premises as a near cut to the wharf. Perhaps this was mutually advantageous. The thirsty could obtain a lemonade, the smoker could obtain a cigar if desired. Mr. Lawless, the proprietor, feels that he has been somewhat hounded by the license inspector, and the last prosecution to be trid for the same offence in Peterborough and the same offence in Lakefield was hardly fair play. It seems that Mr. Lawless, who is the owner of a hotel at Bobcaygeon, and who is running a temperance hotel at Lakefield, ordered a barrel of whisky to be delivered at his yard at Lakefield to be transferred with other goods from the Lakefield House to Bobcaygeon, and for this was tried at both Peterborough and Lakefield, and the case was dismissed at both places. Mr. Lawless has decided to close the Lakefield House for some months and in consequence has closed the gates and entrances to the yards as well as the house itself, and has placed a notice, in brief "No Trespassing," otherwise prosecution. The "shortcut" was quite a convenience to the travelling public and the action of the proprietor of the premises will cause a little longer route to be taken to the wharf.

The Curved Ball.

It was not until 1878 that the question of pitching a curved ball was settled once for all. George Wright's Boston nine was playing the final series of that year in Cincinnati. The curve ball controversy raged in the city of the Red Stockings. Wright was asked to prove that a ball could be curved. He agreed to test the matter after the final game.

The Cincinnati team put up two ten foot fences about twenty yards apart, with a post between them, all on a line. Tommy Bond, a right handed pitcher, stood at the left of one fence. After two trials he threw a ball which went to the right of the post and finished to the left of the second fence. He repeated this six or seven times.

"The wind did it," said the doubters.

"Then we'll try it the other way around," said Wright. He stationed Mitchell of Cincinnati, a left handed pitcher, to the right of the first fence. Mitchell threw a curve ball to the left of the post, which finished to the right of the second fence. News of this, telegraphed to every part of the country, settled the question forever.—Collier's Weekly.

His Shipwife.

The suburbanite was entertaining a friend who followed the sea. Showing him his room after his arrival, the host noticed that there was but one pillow on the bed.

"By the way, captain," he asked, "do you use more than one pillow?"

"Well, I use one for my head," replied the captain, "and one for a shipwife."

"Shipwife! What in the world is that?"

"It's evident that you're a landsman. Every salorman knows what a shipwife is. It's an extra pillow placed under the legs or arms to ease the position. It isn't so necessary on land, where you have a wide, comfortable bed, but it's almost a necessity at sea, where you are cramped up in a narrow berth, with no room to stretch. Any one who has been at sea for a long period knows what a shipwife is. We get so used to using one that we're not ruhy at home on land unless we have one. Better let me have another pillow for a shipwife, John."—New York Press.

Erskine M. Phelps of Chicago was introduced at Nice to Lord Blank of England. As he was smoking, he said to Lord Blank, "Will you have a cigar?"

"Thank you, but I smoke only one brand, the Henry Clay."

"All right; I'll order some," said Mr. Phelps.

The box was brought. It was embellished with the familiar picture of "Harry of the West." As he took his cigar Lord Blank said, "When old Clay was alive he made a good cigar, but his sons don't keep up his reputation."

"Henry Clay! Why, he didn't make cigars. He was a statesman and ranked as high with us as Gladstone and John Bright do in your country."

"I beg your pardon," said the noble lord. "I've smoked these cigars all my life, and I tell you old Clay made a —— sight better cigar than his boys do!"—Argonaut.

"THE CRYSTAL BALL"

A most powerful clairvoyant drama, you will see a convict escape from prison and by accident set fire to a house; he enters, and sees the husband looking into a Crystal Ball and seeing his wife burning to death, he takes a ride for a life and saves her. It is a most thrilling picture and the best fire scene ever shown in Peterborough.

"CONVICT FOR LIFE, OR A BROTHER'S LOVE"

This most beautiful and pathetic drama depicts the love of a brother for his brother. One brother gives his life for the other; no greater love can be shown. Although it has a very sad ending, it is one of the best pictures seen here.

"THE POLICEMAN'S REST"

A very funny comedy, telling a story of the Policeman who liked a rest, and yet while taking his rest he was still dangerous and caught the thieves, who thought they caught him. It is full of fun.

Mr. LoRus will sing a new illustrated song entitled "If I Had The World To Give You."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Mrs. Burwash at Preliminary Hearing in Haileybury Says She Acted as Agent Between John Piche and McKelvie While Former Was in the West—Expected Money, Says Piche — Got $1,200.

Haileybury, Aug. 4—Andrew McKelvie, a director in the Temiskaming & Hudson Bay Mining Co., prominent in the Cobalt district, was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Atkinson on a charge of having bribed John Piche to leave the country and avoid giving evidence in a suit intended to prove that the company's claim had been "blanketed."

Two witnesses, Mrs. Elizabeth Burwash and her brother John Piche swore that McKelvie had given him (Piche) $1,200, and 100 shares of the company's stock to disappear.

Magistrate Atkinson, in giving the decision said, "It is better that I should commit Mr. McKelvie for trial, as in a higher court his innocence, if he is innocent, can be established, whereas, if I were to let the matter drop now, there always would be more or less doubt in regard to his sending Mrs. Burwash (Piche's sister), out west."

There was a large attendance in the magistrate's court yesterday, and intense interest was manifested. A. G. Slaght appeared for Mr. McKelvie. Crown Attorney Browning prosecuted. Mr. Slaght objected that, as the alleged offence occurred three years ago, the prosecution was debarred. He was overruled.

Mrs. Burwash swore that relations between the company and Piche, it's original prospector, became strained on account of the filing of certain affidavits. She then became the agent through which Piche and McKelvie got together and arranged the terms, $1,200 cash, and one hundred shares of stock.

She had seen McKelvie and then went for her brother. She had not taken part in the conversation, as the men were inclined to be quarrelsome.

"McKelvie wanted to come to a settlement and my brother would not listen to him," she said. Asked to relate what had been said, she could not remember, nor whether an agreement was reached that night. She had seen McKelvie and demanded $3,000 and the stock, but McKelvie had only agreed to $200 cash and a check for $800 on the Union Bank, in addition to the stock, which was made out in her name. She said she sent the proceeds to her brother in the west. The check had been signed by one McCannus, payable to her.

She also said that she got $200 from McKelvie later to go out west and tell Piche there was a warrant out for his arrest, and have him keep out of the way.

After an hour and a half Piche was called. He was asked: "Are you the man who made the discoveries on the Hudson Bay?" and replied "Yes."

During cross-examination Piche said he knew he was to be the chief witness in the case of the Attorney-General vs. Thompson, and said that William Pinkerton of the law firm of Pinkerton, Clute & Bartram, Toronto, was dickering with him for the purpose of having him withhold certain evidence which he had. Piche said he was going to leave the country anyway, as he was afraid of Pinkerton, as the former had got him to sign a paper that he had not read, and he also did not want to go on the stand against the company and without evidence.

Mr. Browning: "Tell me again the exact reason for your leaving."

Piche: "It was because I expected to get something out of the hundred shares given to Mrs. Burwash, and at the same time, that I would not appear in court concerning the pending suits."

Mr. Slaght, in arguing for a dismissal, said that as no date had ever been fixed for the Attorney-General's action against the company, it could not be said that there was any occasion on which Piche was to appear as a witness, nor had he ever been subpoenaed. Hence Piche had been perfectly free to go where he pleased. He declared Piche had not been in collusion and charged that Piche and his sister were "accomplices up to the hilt."

TROUBLE IN SWEDEN

Impending Labor War Is Causing Consternation in Capital and Young Socialists Are Trying to Make a Revolution Out of It — Diet Moves to Stockholm and the Troops Are Called Out.

Stockholm, Aug. 4.—A labor war throughout Sweden, scheduled to begin to-day, threatens to develop in Stockholm into something approaching a miniature revolution.

The trouble will be enormously aggravated by the present general strike and lockout.

The members of the Young Socialists party are striving to give the movement a revolutionary character and the Government, warned that a political campaign is going on at the same time, has taken steps to nip expected disorders in the bud.

The authorities have decided, at the first signs of insurrection, to declare Stockholm in a state of siege. Soldiers are being quartered in different sections of the city and suburbs, and the entire standing army of Sweden is ready for eventualities.

King Gustave has summoned the members of Parliament to Stockholm, and a special session of the Rigsdag is expected.

Great consternation prevails in the capital at these unexpected and dangerous developments in the situation. A civil guard corps is being organized for the protection of property, and the banks are closed and carefully guarded. All the ferries running out of Stockholm have ceased operations, and the large steamers engaged in the summer in carrying visitors and residents to the seaside resorts in the Archipelago have suddenly stopped running, discharged their crews, and are being laid up for the winter. This summer traffic is usually continued until the month of October.

It is expected that the present total of about 100,000 idle workmen will be largely increased by to-morrow.

It is anticipated also that the cab and street car services in Stockholm will stop running Wednesday, and arrangements are being made to-day to run the waterworks and the electric light plants by soldiers.

The bridges leading to the islands adjacent to Stockholm are closely guarded. Many stores already have been closed and no milk is being delivered in the city. The sale of spirits, beer and wine has been prohibited in both shops and restaurants.

The labor conflict that is at the bottom of this trouble originated in a dispute over wages in the woollen and cotton industries. In the beginning 13,000 men were locked out and other industries since have become involved, until to-day the employers' federation declared a lockout of the iron foundry hands, numbering about 30,000 men. A total of 80,000 men were reported locked out yesterday.

The employes of the Stockholm municipality and the state telegraph linemen have joined the strike movement, but the railwaymen's union have declined to do so.

Examiner Special.

Fraserville, Aug. 4.—While playing with several other children by the roadside on Monday little Miss Kathleen Kidd stepped upon a hornet's nest and was badly stung. They were of the black variety and before the little one was aware of what she had done they swarmed around her, stinging her nervously about the head, arms and legs. She suffered extreme pain for a time, but is now nearly over the effects of her experience.

MORE TALK OF STRIKE

Rumor Is Current That the Military Forces at Glace Bay Are Looking For Permanent Quarters Preparatory to Spending the Winter There—Prosecution of Strike Leaders Is Thought Possible.

Springhill, N.S., Aug. 4.—Strike talk has been prevalent to a certain extent among the Springhill miners for some time past. The award of the conciliation board, of which Judge Longley was chairman, is claimed by the men to be couched in indefinite terms. There is one recommendation of the board which the employes are disposed to accept. This is with respect to fines and docking, though it is less favorable than they had asked for.

With respect to recognition of the union, the board seems to have left that an open question and this tends to bring about an acute feeling. The men say they will insist on the demand for recognition. On the other hand, it is claimed the company has asserted that recognition of the United Mine Workers will never be granted.

There was an immense private meeting of the men of the U.M.W. held last night. Vice-President McCulloch and District President McDougall made carefully prepared speeches. McCulloch said he did not come here to advise the Springhill men to strike, but left that matter wholly in the hands of the local union. The whole resources of the U.M.W. would be at their back. He complained bitterly of the despotism on the part of the troops in turning back the procession the other day at Glace Bay.

He also said the prospects for the U.M.W. winning out in the fight could not be brighter.

Soldiers May Stay All Winter.

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 4.—It was currently reported yesterday morning that the Department of Militia had completed arrangements with the Dominion Coal Co. for the purchase or lease of a piece of land at Glace Bay, where it is intended to erect a barracks for a company of soldiers, so that they can stay here all winter.

It was reported at strike headquarters yesterday morning that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, is collecting information in connection with the strike of the laborers at Inverness with a view of prosecuting officers of the U.M.W. for unlawfully ordering a strike or committing a violation of the Lemieux Act. It is claimed that the men were called out before the board of investigation made and inquiries into the trouble that existed.

TARANTULA IS ON EXHIBITION

Brought From Texas by Mr. Ross Kendry, Who Found it in His Coat.

A tarantula, one of the largest members of the spider family, is on exhibition in the window of Lang and Maher's store. It was brought from Raymondville, Texas, by Ross Kendry, the speedy sprinter of the Strathconas, who caught it on May 12th. It had got up his coat sleeve and was made a prisoner. Ross brought it back with him when he came home about the first of June. The bite of the tarantula is deadly and there is practically no cure. Ross had left his coat hanging unused for a week and the tarantula found its way into his sleeve, where he discovered it on putting the garment on again. One of its peculiar abilities is that it jumps about five feet. The enter houses if windows are left open. When away from their holes they will show fight, but if near home they will disappear.

Besides the glass containing the tarantula, there were the rattles of two rattle snakes. One of these Ross killed himself after it had struck him with its fangs. The wound is four punctures in the flesh, made by the fangs, and the way to get the poison out of the system is to cut the flesh between the punctures and let the blood flow freely. Afterwards, caustic pautash or soda is rubbed over the wound to clean it. Ross bears the scar, a grim reminder of his first encounter with a rattler.

In regard to tarantulas they get into bunches of bananas and local fruit dealers frequently find them while pulling apart the fruit.

THE RAILWAY COMMISSION.

Daily experience with the Dominion Railway Commission adds to the credit of the Liberal Government in establishing it. Its services to the country have been rendered in a great variety of ways. It stands as a stern, but just arbiter between what some consider the exaction of the railway and express companies, the telegraph and the telephone companies. It regulates the relations of the railways and the municipalities concerned in the matter of level crossings. In this direction it has issued an order calling upon all railway companies to meet by June 1, 1911. The statutory requirement regarding the fencing of railway tracks and the provision of effective cattle guards. That the usefulness and popularity of the commission have a wide and constantly enlarging range, and that the business coming before it is consistently on the increase is shown by the report of the statistical and record branch of the board for the past fiscal year. There were received 3,479 applications, equivalent to more than ten for every working day in the year and 354 more than dealt with the preceding year. The number of rulings made was 51,913, an increase of 6,499; orders issued, 2,949, or 462 more than in 1908. The cases heard at public sittings numbered 735—an increase of 446.

CANADIAN GOSPEL OF THRIFT.

The Hamilton Spectator, a staunch Conservative journal, has gone back upon its somewhat rabid past record, and has assumed a reasonable independence in criticising the acts of its own party and commending those of its opponents.

In the following extract from its columns it is forced by the excellence of the Government Annuities Act to accord it great praise. The Spectator says:

With all its sins, the Laurier Administration has done one act that will redound to its credit for all time. While the British Government is providing for old age of thriftless citizens and placing a perpetual tax on the industrious, the Canadian Government comes in with a new gospel of self-help and plans that every man and woman can provide an annuity for the days when they are unable to earn a living. The British plan fosters pauperism by providing pensions for the improvident who live from hand to mouth, spending their earnings without one thought of the morrow. The Canadian plan begins with youth, and educates boys and girls to lay by even as small a sum as 25 cents weekly, so that when they reach the age of 55 or 60 years they will have an assured income that will at least make them independent of the world. It begets a spirit of pride instead of dependency. The larger the weekly sum paid the larger the annuity; none less than $50 a year can be paid, and none more than $600. Once a person begins to save money by opening an account in a savings bank, the habit becomes fixed every pay-day, and things will be made to bend to that purpose. The plan is simple and easily understood, and the name of Sir Richard Cartwright will be a blessing in every home where advantage is taken of the annuity. Dr. Samson, of Windsor, has been commissioned by the Government to educate the people up to the new Gospel of Thrift. The pulpits of Western Ontario are being opened to him.

Every philantropist, every lover of his kind and country is in duty bound to make known the great personal and national advantages of the Government Annuities system. It should form a subject of study in our schools and be preached from our pulpits. It should be an especial study for organised labour unions. Its adoption and practice by our working people would be of inestimably more advantage than higher wages. Wages, high or low, are of advntage only as they are properly used. If a man gets a ten per cent. increase in wages, and advances his scale of living accordingly he is little the gainer. He may be able to adopt a more expensive style of living, but if his increased wages do not become a factor in providing against the inevitable "rainy day" or old age, they are of little practical advantage. General increase of wages has necessarily resulted in increased price of all the commodities that enter into our daily living; and it is questionable, if under the present rate of wages as compared with those of fifteen or twenty years ago, there is more money saved or more solid advantage gained as compared with half a generation ago. What a man earns or receives by way of income, is of little import compared with what he saves. Possession of a little hoard in a savings bank gives a man a feeling of independence, and confidence which makes him a better workman and a better head of a family, a better citizen, than the man who lives up to the ultimate cent, and, in case of sickness or reverse, with the supply cut off practically, becomes a pauper, or at least dependent upon the help of neighbours or the authorities. When we realise the extreme value of the acquirement and practice of habits of thrift, too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the usefulness of the Government Annuities scheme. The Government has not only provided the machinery for saving, which will insure a comfortable old age, but it is taking measures for bringing its advantages to popular attention. Mr. S. T. Bastedo, superintendent of Government Annuities, has issued a circular to manufacturers inviting them to cooperate with the Department in bringing the annuity scheme to the attention of their employees. He further urges employers to assist actively in the work by contributing somewhat to the annual cost. By this means, he believes, many will be induced to make provision for their old age, who otherwise would dissipate their present income and would eventually become a burden on the public. Industrial Canada, the official publication of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, gives this plan its hearty approval. It points out that in Germany compulsory provision for old age is made, and that a like system in Great Britain would have obviated the enormous drains on the public treasury which have been entailed by the present gratuity system, the British Old Age Pension scheme, which, compared with the Canadian system of reward of personal thrift, is a mere pauperizing expedient.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labour, is doing well, says the Kingston Standard, to keep his hands off the Glace Bay strike. That is a conflict not so much between capital and labour as between a home and a foreign Labour Union, and it were better that it should be fought to a finish. Canadian workmen should be allowed to handle their own Unions and manage their own affairs.

MAIL'S FRENZIED FINANCE.

The Toronto Mail seeks to explain why London financial critics attribute to the policy of Sir James Whitney's Government the cause for the low figure placed upon Ontario securities by the British investor. The Mail attempts to withdraw attention from the Ontario Government and concentrate it upon the operation in London recently concluded by Mr. Fielding. This paper would make it appear that the credit of the Dominion has been depressed, and consequently Mr. Fielding floated his loan at a low figure. The reasons given are as follows:

"Financial mismanagement, the squandering of money on a colossal scale, the unproductive sinking of millions on so-called capital account, the swelling of cost beyond all estimate, the rash undertaking of enterprises without any idea of what the cost would be, the giving away of public assets—these and like causes have brought down the scale on the side of Dominion credit, and have impaired the confidence of investors in our government."

No Truth in it.

This statement is unpatriotic, unCanadian, untrue and audacious. Neither the Mail nor the seekers after office, whom that paper represents, have ever presented any evidence of financial mismanagement. On the contrary the Conservatives increased the public debt $118,000,000 and had nothing to show for it. They so mismanaged the finances that they could not make both ends meet at the end of the year, but were compelled to borrow money to pay running expenses. If there has been any squandering of money on a colossal scale it must have been in Conservative days, for the Liberals have had a large surplus every year since coming into power.

The charge of sinking millions on so-called capital account is untrue. The system of charging expenses of a certain character to capital account is the same to-day as it was in Conservative days, and no objection has ever been made to it in the House.

The present Government have not entered into any rash enterprise without counting the cost, as alleged. On the contrary the Conservatives here urged the Government to commence at once the building of the Georgian Bay Canal at an expense estimated at $100,000,000, which figure would be found $50,000,000 too small before the canal was completed. On this point it is interesting to remember that Mr. Foster promised the people of Prince Edward Island a tunnel which could not be built under $10,000,000, and it might be three times the amount. This is an example of a rash promise, but it was made by Mr. Foster.

Then there is the charge of giving away public assets. Think of such a charge coming from the Mail. Can one understand the short memory which forgets the 25,000,000 acres given away freee to the Canadian Pacific. The 60,000,000 acres of land given free to railways as bonus—the 23,000 square miles of timber limits without a dollar going into the Treasury, and all this by a Conservative Government, while the Liberal Government never gave one acre of land as a railway bonus, and not a mile of timber that was not put at public competition and sold to the highest bidder.

Public Credit is High.

These are the transactions which the Mail says have depressed the public credit. The truth is that the public credit is not depressed, and nothing of the kind mentioned by the Mail was ever done by the Liberal Government. Had the Mail attributed such things to the Conservative Government, the charge would have been abundantly true.

The Conservatives are not so careful of the public purse as they would have us believe. A few sessions ago Mr. Foster announced his intention of taking a day to criticize the expenditure of the Government. Shortly after a bill was passed giving Mr. Foster and others, a pension of $3,500 a year. Did Mr. Foster take the day and criticize the expenditure of the Government? No, he dropped the matter! It would have been very inconsistent for this man to charge the Government with extravagance and justify the payment to himself of $3,500 a year for doing nothing. What happened was that at a subsequent session, the bill providing these ministerial pensions was revoked. Foster lost his pension, and forthwith returned to his task of charging extravagance.

In this connection it should be remembered that when finance minister, Mr. Foster exercised his idea of economy by cutting down the stipend of the charwomen of the House of Commons.

Liberals Improved Public Credit.

When the Liberal Government came into power, they found the credit of Canada greatly impaired, English financial papers were hostile to the Dominion in consequence of the loose administration of the Conservatives, leading English papers were most severe in their condemnation of Canadian public men, and the future of Canada was gloomy. All this was changed after Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power. He proved himself able to bring about prosperity, where before there had been none; his policy changed the commercial depression into a period of revived trade throughout the Dominion—the credit of Canada immediately became good, Canadian securities were sought, honest and economical government succeeded dishonesty and extravagance, and the result is seen in the condition to-day contrasted with the dark days which preceded 1896. The fact that Mr. Fielding negotiated the largst Colonial loan ever offered in London is proof positive that confidence in the Canadian government is not impaired in England, and proves that the statement of the Mail is both unpatriotic and false.

Mail's Childish Criticism.

In criticising the Fielding loan the Mail makes a curious blunder which destroys the entire argument presented. Alluding to the British investor, the Mail says:

"British investors who are usually shrewd men, and whose commitments are usually made after consultation with competent advisers, cannot be deceived by such clumsy methods."

When one considers that the entire loan offered by Mr. Fielding was guaranteed by these same shrewd men, who could not be deceived by clumsy methods, the absurdity of the Mail's reasoning becomes manifest.

Mail Squirms Again.

The Mail and Empire cannot recover from its disappointment over the great success of the Fielding loan recently floated in London. In its issue of July 28 comparison is made between a $10,000,000 bond issue floated by the Grand Trunk Pacific and Mr. Fielding's loan. In the first place the Mail cannot distinguish between a bond issue at 82 1-2 which must be redeemed at par and a loan at 98 1-2 redeemable at par. Commenting on this the Mail says: "Thus the company's loan was negotiated on terms practically as favourable as those the Government obtained in the money market."

In the first place the word "practically" has no legal meaning, the loan was as favourable or it was not. Let every reader judge for himself. The Grand Trunk Pacific issued bonds at 82 1-2 cents on the dollar, and the Government borrowed money at 98 1-2 cents on the dollar.

Here is another comment: "Evidently the Grand Trunk Pacific can float a loan more cheaply than our Government can." This comment follows the statement that the Grand Trunk Pacific cannot borrow as cheaply as the Dominion Government. The Mail also overlooks the fact that the Dominion Government guarantees the bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific; if it were not so the bonds of that company would not have brought fifty cents on the dollar. No bond will sell at par, or near it, when issued for construction purposes. A comparison between these two financial operations can lead to no useful result, and had the Mail been familiar with the rudiments of finance, such a comparison would not have been made.

The Deadly Parallel.

The Mail argument concludes with the following contradictory statements, proving how little thought is given to the writing of such opinions as one finds in the Mail:

Had the Company itself gone into the market with a government guarantee it would have done as well."

"Canadian government auspices seem to be of no particular advantage in the London money market.

The first statement is that the company would have done as well, providing it had a Government guarantee and the second statement is, that a Canadian Government guarantee is of no particular advantage.

The Mail is politically blind and does not hesitate to decry the credit of Canada or belittle great public works if by so doing some mud may be cast upon the administration. The arguments of the Mail, however, would not deceive a ten-year-old boy.

No misrepresentation by the Mail will change the fact that Canada is well governed, or that her credit stands high in the money markets of the world. The people have read so many times the prejudiced statements of the Mail, that the injury done by them in the past is impossible in the future.

They Help Your Stomach Out

And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

Human Life Increased

BOY FURTEEN YEARS

Longer life is due to better understanding of Nature's Laws and use of such medicines as Dr. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

During the last century the average life of man has increased by about four years. Insurance statistics prove this.

What is the reason?

People are learning to take better care of their health and to follow the laws of sanitation and hygiene.

The first law of health and the most important calls for "Daily movement of the bowels."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have helped to prolong the life of many because they have enabled them to follow this first law of health.

A torpid, sluggish condition of the liver and kidneys is certain to bring constipation of the bowels, clogging of the digestive and excretory systems, poisoning of the blood and give rise to the most dreadfully painful and fatal of diseases.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills purify the blood and cleanse the system as no other treatment can because of their unique and combined action on the filtering and excretory organs—the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Mrs. B. Morrow, Bracebridge, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They not only relieved the trouble but have entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer, and have improved my health in a general way."

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. Royal Theatre

SPECIAL NOTICE

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE. Up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST here.

"THE CRYSTAL BALL"

A most powerful clairvoyant drama, you will see a convict escape from prison and by accident set fire to a house; he enters, and sees the husband looking into a Crystal Ball and seeing his wife burning to death, he takes a ride for a life and saves her. It is a most thrilling picture and the best fire scene ever shown in Peterborough.

"CONVICT FOR LIFE, OR A BROTHER'S LOVE"

This most beautiful and pathetic drama depicts the love of a brother for his brother. One brother gives his life for the other; no greater love can be shown. Although it has a very sad ending, it is one of the best pictures seen here.

"THE POLICEMAN'S REST"

A very funny comedy, telling a story of the Policeman who liked a rest, and yet while taking his rest he was still dangerous and caught the thieves, who thought they caught him. It is full of fun.

Mr. Loftus will sing a new illustrated song entitled "If I Had The World To Give You."

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Mrs. Burwash at Preliminary Hearing in Haileybury Says She Acted as Agent Between John Piche and McKelvie While Former Was in the West—Expected Money, Says Piche — Got $1,600.

Haileybury, Aug. 4—Andrew McKelvie, a director in the Temiskaming & Hudson Bay Mining Co., prominent in the Cobalt district, was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Atkinson on a charge of having bribed John Piche to leave the country and avoid giving evidence in a suit intended to prove that the company's claim had been "blanketted."

Two witnesses, Mrs. Elizabeth Burwash and her brother John Piche swore that McKelvie had given him (Piche) $1,600, and 100 shares of the company's stock to disappear.

Magistrate Atkinson in giving the decision said, "It is better that I should commit Mr. McKelvie for trial, as in a higher court his innocence, if he is innocent, can be established, whereas, if I were to let the matter drop now, there always would be more or less doubt in regard to his sending Mrs. Burwash (Piche's sister), out west."

There was a large attendance in the magistrate's court yesterday, and intense interest was manifested. A. G. Slaght appeared for Mr. McKelvie. Crown Attorney Browning prosecuted. Mr. Slaght objected that, as the alleged offence occurred three years ago, the prosecution was debarred. He was overruled.

Mrs. Burwash swore that relations between the company and Piche, it's original prospector, became strained on account of the filing of certain affidavits. She then became the agent through which Piche and McKelvie got together and arranged the terms, $1,600 cash and one hundred shares of stock.

She had seen McKelvie and then wired for her brother. She had not taken part in the conversation, as the men were inclined to be quarrelsome.

"McKelvie wanted to come to a settlement and my brother would not listen to him," she said. Asked to relate what had been said, she could not remember, nor whether an agreement was reached that night. She had seen McKelvie and demanded $3,000 and the stock, but McKelvie had only agreed to $200 cash and a check for $800 on the Union Bank, in addition to the stock, which was made out in her name. She said she sent the proceeds to her brother in the west. The check had been signed by one McCarron, payable to her.

She also said that she got $200 from McKelvie later to go out west and tell Piche there was a warrant out for his arrest, and have him keep out of the way.

After an hour and a half Piche was called. He was asked: "Are you the man who made the discoveries on the Hudson Bay?" and replied "Yes."

During cross-examination Piche said he knew he was to be the chief witness in the case of the Attorney-General vs. Thompson, and said that William Pinkerton of the law firm of Pinkerton, Clute & Bartram, Toronto, was dickering with him for the purpose of having him withhold certain evidence which he had. Piche said he was going to leave the country, anyway, as he was afraid of Pinkerton, as the former had got him to sign a paper that he had not read, and he also did not want to go on the stand against the company and without evidence.

Mr. Browning: "Tell me again the exact reason for your leaving."

Piche: "It was because I expected to get something out of the hundred shares given to Mrs. Burwash, and at the same time, that I would not appear in court concerning the pending suits."

Mr. Slaght, in arguing for a dismissal, said that as no date had ever been fixed for the Attorney-General's action against the company, it could not be said that there was any occasion on which Piche was to appear as a witness, nor had he ever been subpoenaed. Hence Piche had been perfectly free to go where he pleased. He declared Piche had not been in connivance and charged that Piche and his sister were "accomplices up to the chin."

TROUBLE IN SWEDEN

Impending Labor War Is Causing Consternation In Capital and Young Socialists Are Trying to Make a Revolution Out of It — Dist Moves to Stockholm and the Troops Are Called Out.

Stockholm, Aug. 4.—A labor war throughout Sweden, scheduled to begin to-day, threatens to develop in Stockholm into something approaching a miniature revolution.

The trouble will be enormously aggravated by the present general strike and lockout.

The members of the Young Socialists party are striving to give the movement a revolutionary character and the Government, warned that a political campaign is going on at the same time, has taken steps to nip expected disorders in the bud.

The authorities have decided, at the first signs of insurrection, to declare Stockholm in a state of siege. Soldiers are being quartered in different sections of the city and suburbs, and the entire standing army of Sweden is ready for eventualities.

King Gustave has summoned the members of Parliament to Stockholm, and a special session of the Rigsdag is expected.

Great consternation prevails in the capital at these unexpected and dangerous developments in the situation. A civil guard corps is being organized for the protection of property, and the banks are closed and carefully guarded. All the ferries running out of Stockholm have ceased operations, and the large steamers engaged in the summer in carrying visitors and residents to the seaside resorts in the Archipelago have suddenly stopped running, discharged their crews, and are being laid up for the winter. This summer traffic is usually continued until the month of October.

It is expected that the present total of about 100,000 idle workmen will be largely increased by to-morrow.

It is anticipated also that the cab and street car services in Stockholm will stop running Wednesday, and arrangements are being made to-day to run the waterworks and the electric light plants by soldiers.

The bridges leading to the islands adjacent to Stockholm are closely guarded. Many stores already have been closed and no milk is being delivered in the city. The sale of spirits, beer and wine has been prohibited in both shops and restaurants.

The labor conflict that is at the bottom of this trouble originated in a dispute over wages in the woollen and cotton industries. In the beginning 13,000 men were locked out and other industries since have become involved, until to-day the employers' federation declared a lockout of the iron foundry hands, numbering about 30,000 men. A total of 80,000 men were reported locked out yesterday.

The employes of the Stockholm municipality and the state telegraph linesmen have joined the strike movement, but the railwaymen's union have declined to do so.

Second Narrow Escape Of Little

Gasoline Exploded on Yacht Emily Last Night—Similar To The Accident On The Caprice.

SCORCHED BY FLAMES

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Kingston, Aug. 4.—Gasoline exploded on the yacht Emily at Government wharf last night, and William Little and Frank Woodrow saved themselves by jumping overboard. They, however, were scorched. This was Little's second experience, as he was through the explosion on the Caprice three weeks ago. The damage is not great.

Make no mistake but be sure to go with the Lawn Bowlers on their 2nd Annual Excursion to the Great Horse Show at Cobourg, Thursday Afternoon, August 19th. td-29

SEVERELY STUNG

A Little Fraserville Girl Stepped on Nest of Hornets With Painful Results.

Examiner Special.

Fraserville, Aug. 4.—While playing with several other children by the roadside on Monday little Miss Katheleen Kidd stepped upon a hornet's nest and was badly stung. They were of the black variety and before the little one was aware of what she had done they swarmed around her, stinging her severely about the head, arms and legs. She suffered extreme pain for a time, but is now nearly over the effects of her experience.

MORE TALK OF STRIKE

Rumor Is Current That the Military Forces at Glace Bay Are Looking For Permanent Quarters Preparatory to Spending the Winter There—Prosecution of Strike Leaders Is Thought Possible.

Springhill, N.S., Aug. 4.—Strike talk has been prevalent to a certain extent among the Springhill miners for some time past. The award of the conciliation board, of which Judge Longley was chairman, is claimed by the men to be couched in indefinite terms. There is one recommendation of the board which the employes are disposed to accept. This is with respect to fines and docking, though it is less favorable than they had asked for.

With respect to recognition of the union, the board seems to have left that an open question and this tends to bring about an acute feeling. The men say they will insist on the demand for recognition. On the other hand, it is claimed the company has asserted that recognition of the United Mine Workers will never be granted.

There was an immense private meeting of the men of the U.M.W. held last night. Vice-President McCulloch and District President McDougall made carefully prepared speeches. McCulloch said he did not come here to advise the Springhill men to strike, but left that matter wholly in the hands of the local union. The whole resources of the U.M.W. would be at their back. He complained bitterly of the despotism on the part of the troops in turning back the procession the other day at Glace Bay.

He also said the prospects for the U.M.W. winning out in the fight could not be brighter.

Soldiers May Stay All Winter.

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 4.—It was currently reported yesterday morning that the Department of Militia had completed arrangements with the Dominion Coal Co. for the purchase or lease of a piece of land at Glace Bay, where it is intended to erect a barracks for a company of soldiers, so that they can stay here all winter.

It was reported at strike headquarters yesterday morning that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, is collecting information in connection with the strike of the laborers at Inverness with a view of prosecuting officers of the U.M.W. for unlawfully ordering a strike or committing a violation of the Lemieux Act. It is claimed that the men were called out before the board of investigation made and inquiries into the trouble that existed.

CONTRACT AWARDED TO MR. JAS. BOGUE, LOWEST TENDERER

The representative of West Peterborough has received the following letter:

Dear Mr. Stratton,—I have your letter of the 31st ultimo. Mr. James Bogue, of Peterborough, is the lowest tenderer for the grading, sodding, etc., at the Peterborough Drill Hall, and a report to Council has been prepared awarding him the contract at $4,300, but, as, in the absence of the Ministers, it may lie at Council for some little time. I have given instructions to the Chief Architect to notify Mr. Bogue to start work without delay.

Yours very truly,

700 Men Have Joined The P.M.W.

Late Dispatch From Glace Bay—Workman Drowned.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 4.—Ewan Eiduck, a Polander, was drowned last night while swimming in an old reservoir. He was alone and, it is thought, took cramps.

A. Graham, President of U. M. W. Local, has been sent up to Supreme Court for intimidation.

Grand Master MacNeil states that over 700 new members have been initiated into the Provincial Workers' Association in the last three weeks.

TARANTULA IS ON EXHIBITION

Brought From Texas by Mr. Ross Kendry, Who Found It in His Coat.

A tarantula, one of the largest members of the spider family, is on exhibition in the window of Lang and Maher's store. It was brought from Raymondville, Texas, by Ross Kendry, the speedy shortstop of the Strathconas, who caught it on May 12th. It had got up his coat sleeve and was made a prisoner. Ross brought it back with him when he came home about the first of June. The bite of the tarantula is deadly and there is practically no cure. Ross had left his coat hanging unused for a week and the tarantula found its way into his sleeve, where he discovered it on putting the garment on again. One of its peculiar abilities is that it jumps about five feet. They enter houses if windows are left open. When away from their holes they will show fight, but if near home they will disappear.

Besides the glass containig the tarantula, there were the rattles of two rattle snakes. One of these Ross killed himself after it had struck him with its fangs. The wound is four punctures in the flesh, made by the fangs, and the way to get the poison out of the system is to cut the flesh between the punctures and let the blood flow freely. Afterwards, caustic pautash or soda is rubbed over the wound to clean it. Ross bears the scar, a grim reminder of his first encounter with a rattler.

In regard to tarantulas they get into bunches of bananas and local fruit dealers frequently find them while pulling apart the fruit.

THE EGYPTIANS' SECRET.

The Egyptians of Pharaoh's time were a wonderful people. The pyramids, for instance, put our modern buildings to shame. Where such huge blocks of stone were carved—how they were moved and put in place—are mysteries to modern minds.

The Egyptians were skilled physicians, too. We know that they used fruit juices in treating many diseases. Some years ago, a physician in Ottawa discovered a method of combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, by which the most remarkable results have been obtained.

Whether "Fruit-a-tives" (these combined fruit juices in tablet form) are a re-discovery of the prescriptions of the ancient Egyptians, will probably never be known.

Certainly, the ancients never had a more effective remedy than "Fruit-a-tives" for all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowel Troubles. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c—or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE ANXIOUS MOTHER AND BABY'S SUMMER ILLS

BY JOSEPHINE HILL.

An anxious mother may make herself and others miserable by imaginary symptoms, but a careful mother may prevent sickness by a quick recognition of the symptoms of children's diseases. In most instances the symptoms are definite, and the remedies are simple, but the chief importance is to notice promptly and to administer immediately, if you would prevent an illness.

Croup, of course, is what many mothers dread, but, fortunately that illness seldom comes in warm weather. If it does—and you can tell it by the wheezing, a short dry cough, and a tendency to choke on the part of the child—use immediate remedies. Give a teaspoonful of the syrup of ipecac at intervals of a half hour, until there is free vomiting. Also keep the air in the room warm and moist by having a kettle boiling and steaming. Keep warm clothes around the child's throat. A piece of thin flannel soaked in turpentine and plenty of vaseline will prevent another attack during the night.

Colic will make the baby scream or be restless, sleepless and fretful. You can tell by the way the child draws up its knees that it has pain in the abdomen. The gas distends its abdomen, and to get out this gas is your chief care; so do this: Give very warm water to drink, containing a few drops of peppermint; or if this fails, give more hot water, containing two or three drops of gin. Rub the child's abdomen gently, and even putting the child up against your chest—almost over your shoulder — seems comfortable for the baby. Also apply warm cloths to the abdomen. If all this fails, inject very warm water into the lower intestine by means of an infant's rubber bulb syringe. All young mothers should own such a syringe. Your family physician can tell you where to get it and how to use it.

If there is inclination to too frequent activity on the part of the liver, check it up before it gets beyond your control. Many a young infant has lost its life by this gradual wasting of its strength; so before it has progressed 12 hours at the most, give calcined magnesia—the dose comes on the bottle—or castor oil, about five drops. Put a piece of flannel over the abdomen, and where the skin shows signs of chafing use powdered starch or talcum powder to heal it. Soap and water irritate a chafed spot.

Street Railway Extensions Depend Upon The Franchise

Mr. John Stuart, of Chicago, and Mr. Gray, resident solicitor for the Quaker Oats Co., of Chicago, are in the city in connection with the proposed thirty-year franchise for the Peterborough Light and Power Co. He met the Manufacturers' Committee yesterday afternoon and again last night for the purpose of winding up the agreement between the city and the company.

Mr. Stuart explained that the reason they brought this matter up now was to get their affairs in such shape that they would be enabled to go ahead with their plans which included several other propositions besides the light business. Their franchise does not run out for five years yet but they would like to get an extension now, if possible. Their plans include also the railway extension and other things. If they are unable to carry out their plans now they will be in an awkward position and would probably have to give up many of their propositions.

If they get the franchise through they will get busy at once as they have a great deal of work to do this fall, and they want to get it started. Mr. Stuart did not say just what extensions to the railway the company proposed to make first, but it is reasonable to suppose that the line to Lakefield will not be delayed longer. There are branches and loops in the city which are also planned.

Young Men Disorderly In Chinese Restaurant Were Fined

For being disorderly in C. Q. Woo's Chinese restaurant on Thursday last, Fred Wicker, John Hefferman and Alex. Turner were arraigned before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning. They pleaded not guilty, but after hearing the evidence His Worship fined Wicker and Hefferman each five dollars, the costs in the case of the second one, amounting to $2.25.

It appears that on Thursday last, the three went into the restaurant and ordered something to eat. When the time came to pay the trouble began. Turner paid thirty cents, but he owed forty-five. The other two didn't pay at all, according to C. Q. Woo's evidence. Hefferman struck him in the mouth, loosening some of his teeth, and cutting him up. They ran out of the restaurant, and C. Q. Woo, in terror, ran to telephone for the police, and then took up the chase for his men. He ran up as far as the Cordage Works.

His Worship stated that foreigners who live peaceably in this country were entitled to the protection of the law, and as far as he was concerned they would have it.

He imposed the above fines.

BOY'S WIRELESS FIRST NEWS FROM GALVESTON

JOHNNY EICHMAN.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug 4.—When telegraph and telephone companies were helpless to get any message from Galveston during the storm of July 21, a bright little San Antonio boy caught with his home-made wireless outfit a message, which said in cipher: "No lives lost and no danger menacing." The code words were interpreted by signal corps soldiers at Ft. Sam Houston.

The wireless station over which the boy received the message was built entirely by his own hands and from knowledge gained in electrical books in the bookseller's store at which he works. The boy's name is Johnny Eichman, and he was 15 years old last January.

RETAIL MERCHANTS' IMPORTANT DECISION

The Executive Committee of the Retail Merchants' Association of Peterborough recently held a business meeting, at which a secretary was appointed and matters of general interest to the merchants discussed. It was decided to establish a Credit Reporting and Collecting Department, and the Secretary was instructed to push the same as the merchants feel their confidence has been abused with this class of people who obtain credit by promising to pay and then neglecting to do so.

After the age of 50 people find that their strength is not what it used to be and they frequently suffer from sudden exhaustion, and weak heart action. To all such we recommend the invigorating tonic, Ferrovim, composed of fresh beef, Citrate of Iron and pure old Spanish Sherry Wine. Nothing could be more beneficial in such cases. $1.00 a bottle.

PREACHED TO KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MONDAY

Rev. Father McColl Spoke to Assembled Knights in Toronto.

About thirty-five of the members of Peterborough Council of the Knights of Columbus attended the initiation held under the jurisdiction of Toronto Council in Toronto. One hundred candidates were given the three degrees in the presence of over one thousand members from all parts of the United States and Canada. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, assisted in giving the second degree.

Rev. Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's cathedral, preached from Ephesians vi, 16. The purpose of this society, he said, was similar to that of the knights of the days of chivalry, to serve God religiously, to battle for the faith, to support the rights of the weak, the widow and the orphan, and to keep faith inviolably with all.

Defenders of the Faith.

The combat then was physical; today it is intellectual, a war of ideas and principle. The Knights of Columbus were instituted in order to have an educated body of laymen, who, thus intellectually armed, would be able to defend the faith and assist the church in all kinds of good works.

We were confidently told in these days that faith was a weakness and blindness. It was on the contrary, the most perfect act of the human reason. Men who rejected faith and the principles of authority should, if consistant, reject all human testimony as a criterion of certitude, which would not only arrest all progress, but would render existence in this world practically impossible. Three-fourths of our knowledge was learned from the testimony of others. If reason thus forced us to believe the testimony of man, the testimony of God was greater.

By fighting the fight of faith we were fighting for the rights of life, liberty and equality as found in Christian nations, for Christian morality, for the sanctity of the home and the stability of society.

If the order were to prosper, this life must be one of constant activity. If we loved God and our neighbour we would make sacrifices for them.

THE STEAMER OTONABEE OVERLOADING INCIDENT

The Department of Marine is anxious—and it is in the public interest—to provide that steamers carrying passengers do not embark more passengers than a specified number—considered safe according to the capacity of the craft.

Yesterday an excursion party from Millbrook arrived in the city to proceed to the lakes. Necessarily there was somewhat of a rush, and more passengers embarked upon the Otonabee than she is by the departmental regulations permitted to carry. When the purser had taken up the tickets it was descovered that there were on board the Otonabee fifty or sixty more passengers than she was legally entitled to carry. The "Water Lily," which was at Nassau, having preceded the Otonabee, was telephoned to return and embark the Otonabee's overload of pasengers. This was done.

Meantime the Collector of Customs had taken steps to enforce the law regarding overloading. Proceeding up the river he placed the Otonabee under seizure for breach of the regulation, but she was permitted to continue the voyage.

It does not appear that in this case there was any intention of transgressing or evading the regulations, but an excess number of passengers having inadvertently been embarked, once the fact was discovered, immediate steps were taken to comply with the law. The officers of the steamer, though having inadvertently transgressed the letter of the law did not transgress the spirit of it, and on learning the facts the department will no doubt take a reasonable view of the incident.

BIG FISH CAUGHT IN PECULIAR MANNER

On Monday morning before leaving for the city, Mr. Roy Wilson went out trawling around his island, at Stony Lake. He had not gone far when he landed a fine 'lunge which went over seven pounds.

A twenty-three-pounder was caught in a most peculiar manner in front of Juniper Island the other morning. The big monster apparently must have been sick for it came to the top of the water and remained for a few seconds. Quickly a gentleman who was near it, hit it with a paddle filling it. He got it in his canoe and took it home.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. # Some Of The Terms Of Proposed Agreement By Which Peterborough L. & P. C. Get 30 Year Franchise

Company's Present Franchise Not Terminated Until 1914, But to Sell Bonds for Extending Lines Here They Need Long Term Franchise — Their Proposition.

DEADLOCKED ON DISCOUNT

The Manufacturers' Committee spent five hours yesterday discussing with the Peterborough Light and Power Co. a proposition which they have presented and which is of interest to every citizen. It is the lighting problem, a few advance notices of which have been given at Council meetings and particularly by Alderman Morrow, who opened the question some time ago of a general flat rate, particularly for domestic lighting. No definite action was taken last night, the committee and the representatives of the company failing to agree upon the matter of a rebate. The present rebate allowed by the company is 25 per cent., but it was thought that 35 per cent. should be given the citizens if the franchise was granted to the company. It was stated to the committee that the discount would be increased to 30 per cent., but further than that the company would not and they claimed they could not very well go. Aldermen Metheral and Duffus considered that 35 per cent. should be granted and at least 33 per cent. Both parties held to their contentions and at ten o'clock an adjournment was called with the question undecided. The committee will have to discuss it again among themselves and will likely have some motion to present to the Council.

Afternoon Session

Those present were Chairman Alderman Gillespie, Alderman Duffus, Alderman Morrow and Mayor Rush.

Mr. John Stuart, son of Mr. R. Stuart, Mr. Gray, of Chicago, general solicitor for the company, and Mr. J. H. Larmonth, were present as representatives of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

The chairman announced that the object of the meeting was to consider the several clauses in the agreement which the city solicitor had drawn up and which did not meet with the approval of the company. The city clerk then read over the proposed agreement.

There were several objections to the agreement, and it was admitted by both the city and the company that thirty years was a long time to be tied to. Alderman Gillespie suggested that these various points be left to an arbitration board to be adjusted every five years.

Alderman Morrow was of the same opinion, and he would support such an arrangement.

Mr. Stuart and Mr. Larmonth both said that they would desire to keep their plant abreast of the times and would not want the city to get ahead of them.

The first chief obstacle in the way was the poles on the streets in the business section. The committee's object was for only the business sections but the agreement was so worded that any future council could compel all wires to be put underground.

Mr. Gray suggested that the company remove all poles on George street and erect new poles of a nicer appearance and flush up to the curb. This would get away with much of the unsightliness. Then at the end of five years provision could be made for laying the conduit.

Alderman Morrow suggested that the wires on the main business streets be placed underground and that no further extensions of the conduits be made until the city had reached a population of 30,000 people, and then the matter would be settled by the board of arbitration. Alderman Morrow's suggestion was that the city would have the right to lay the conduits at any time it was thought advisable. The district included from Murray to Sherbrooke, and Water to Aylmer.

Mr. Gray's idea was that the conduit scheme be left out of existence for five years and the company would rebuild its George street pole line at once. This was agreed to by both parties.

A Flat Rate

The next question taken up was that of rates. Alderman Morrow wanted the commercial and domestic lighting to be the same, and he suggested a new and lower scale of prices.

To this the company objected but suggested that the rates be left as they are now for the next five years.

Alderman Morrow also wanted a flat rate for domestic lighting and wanted to know why the company would not agree to it.

The representatives of the company stated that there was no telling how much the people would use on a flat rate. Many would use irons, toasters, etc., without making a report to the company. Mr. Larmonth said that he had figured out the amount of current used by their meter customers and the amount used by the flat-rate customers and found that the latter used 500 per cent. more. He also claimed that to give a flat rate they would have to place the cost so high that it would be almost prohibitive.

The committee adjourned at 5:30 to meet again at 7:30 in the evening.

Evening Session

In the evening the committee met again with Alderman Metheral, Alderman Duffus, Mayor Rush, and Chairman Alderman Gillespie present.

The committee resumed the discussion on the meter rate question. The chairman asked the representatives of the company if they had anything to offer.

Mr. Stuart said that they had talked it over a little, and had come to the conclusion that they should be allowed the right to install meters as the flat rate was not at all fair. As far as the rate is concerned they did not think that they should be asked to reduce if any as no other place had a cheaper rate. But if they secured the franchise they would increase the rebate from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. for domestic lighting. This they thought was a fair concession as they had not made anything out of the plant as yet. By rights they were not justified in making any such concession. They would also agree to continue the flat rate for commercial lighting.

Alderman Duffus said the people were waiting to see what changes were going to be made and they thought this was an opportunity to make some change which would be satisfactory to both the company and the people.

The aldermen and the company discussed the rate business at some length, but did not get much nearer a settlement.

It was pointed out that Peterborough paying 7c. without a meter rate was getting light cheaper than St. Catharines which was paying 5.85c. and 25c meter rent. As a matter of fact Peterborough will get its light as cheap or cheaper than any other city or town in Ontario with the exception of probably one or two.

Mr. Larmonth said that he would like to have the by-law submitted to the ratepayers as soon as possible after it passes the Council. The company will pay the expense of submitting the by-law, which will be near $250. This is the usual custom.

Alderman Metheral said he thought the company should give 33⅓ per cent. discount, and he would not vote for anything else.

Messrs. Stuart, Larmonth and Gray retired from the meeting at a quarter to ten o'clock, and the aldermen discussed the rate among themselves, but they could not come to any agreement, and Alderman Duffus moved that the meeting adjourn.

Mayor Rush said that he had gone into this question pretty well and he would second a motion to send the recommendation to the Council, but no such motion was forthcoming and the meeting adjourned.

SYNOPSIS OF THE PROPOSAL

The following are a few facts gleaned from the meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee and the representatives of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. The company agrees:

To reconstruct the pole line on George street, and to erect new poles of uniform size and flush with the curb. This is to be done at once.

At the end of five years to put their wires in the business section in conduits which the city would construct and rent to them.

To allow the city to string wires on their poles if the city desired to go in for street lighting. A reasonable rental to be paid.

To increase the rebate from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent for the next five years and at the end of that time to rearrange the rates before the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

The city to grant the company a franchise to do business on the streets for 30 years. This is not to be an exclusive franchise.

The present rate of lighting paid by the citizens is 7½ cents per 1,000 watts. The extra discount of 5 per cent. will cut the rate to 7 cents per 1,000 watts.

The present minimum charge is $9.00 a year.

The company claims that charge by meter is more economical from the standpoint of the consumer than of company.

The wealthier citizens use irons, toasters, heaters, etc., on flat rate and no charge is made because they are hid.

Alderman Morrow maintains that the citizen of ordinary means prefers the flat rate, and does not abuse its privilege. The other members of the committee concur with him.

The company reserves the right to order the domestic consumer to pay by meter rate.

The company asks for the 30-year franchise in order to sell their bonds to carry on extensions in the city. Bonds based on long term franchises sell best.

PAY YOUR DEBTS

Why people do not pay their debts it is difficult to explain as it is generally supposed that men have consciences and that it is an infallible guide to between right and wrong. While some possibly might fail to meet their obligations because they cannot obtain the money yet in this age of prosperity and activity it would seem that where there is a will there is a way.

Monaghan Farmers Lose Sheep By The Attacks Of Roving Dogs From The City

Recent Depredations Alarm Farmers Whose Flocks Are Being Depleted—Those Nearer City Suffer Heaviest—Dogs Not Often Caught.

NO REMEDY APPARENT

Recent depredations of sheep-worrying dogs has stirred up considerable feeling among the farmers in the vicinity of Springville, and it has been learned that during the present year there have been many losses reported from flocks in Monaghan. On Monday night one or more dogs attacked the sheep belonging to Mr. R. J. Armstrong with the result that in the morning one of the flock was found dead and several others had been severely worried. This is by no means the sole instance of this kind of recent occurrence, and the farmers are at a loss to know how to deal with the situation. Mr. John Armstrong, William Whitfield, and Albert Bowles have each lost about five or six sheep not very long ago and during the spring and summer these depredations have been altogether too frequent. In a few cases the dogs have been waylaid and killed, but for the most part they manage to make good their escape after committing their ravages.

Are City Mongrels

The Examiner in an interview with Mr. F. E. Wilson, of Springville, learned that the majority of the sheep have belonged to farmers residing near the city and it is the general opinion that city dogs, probably worthless mongrels, that are allowed to roam, not being of sufficient value to be given the attention a valuable animal receives have been responsible for the raiding and destruction of the sheep. There have been farm dogs that have been guilty of this offence, but in all cases they have been discovered and destroyed. Asked in regard to a feasible remedy that might be employed to protect sheep raising, Mr. Wilson replied that it was a question which presented many difficulties and was not easy of solution. There had been an old by-law which provided compensation to the farmer who suffered a loss from sheep being worried by dogs, but it had been abused. Farmers sought compensation when their sheep had died from other causes and the by-law was finally repealed.

Dogs on the Farm

Mr. Wilson remarked that dogs were practically a necessity on the farm, but many of the farmers had three or four and some of these he considered were not needed and should be removed. Farmers could be protected by insuring their sheep, but not many employed this means. For the present it seems as if there is no remedy for dogs worrying sheep and matters will likely run along in the same groove with losses here and there and occasionally a dog being caught red handed.

Successful Private Regatta At "Hazelwood Lodge" Thursday

Enjoyable Affair Off R. W. Grubbe's Summer House, Eel's Creek—List of the Winners of the Different Events—Bridge Party and Dance in the Evening.

TRAMP TO BLUE MOUNTS

Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, July 31.—A very enjoyable private regatta was held at "Hazelwood Lodge," Mr. R. W. Grubbe's summer home, at Eel's Creek on Thursday, the event proving a great success. A large camping party from down the lake has been under canvas at the rapid in Eel's Creek, and the members with some of the cottagers of the neighbourhood took part in the events which were hotly contested and remarkably exciting, the finishes in some cases being remarkably close. Mr. H. H. Grubbe very acceptably fulfilled the duties of judge.

The results of the races were as follows:

Ladies' Doubles—1st Miss Watt and Miss Gwen Hall, 2nd Miss Aylmer and Mrs. Pack.

Men's Singles—1st Mr. C. Wright, 2nd Frank Cross.

Mixed Doubles—1st Miss Roberts and Mr. B. Wright, 2nd Mrs. Pack and Mr. C. Wright.

Men's Doubles—1st B. Wright and L. Inglis, 2nd F. Cross and C. Wright.

Ladies' Swimming—1st Mrs. Pack, 2nd Miss Watt.

Men's Swimming—1st Lester Inglis, 2nd H. I. Bird and P. Parrington (tie).

Dunnage Race—1st Miss Edith Aylmer, 2nd Miss Watt.

In the evening there was a bridge party and dance at which the prizes were presented by Mrs. Bliss, of Buffalo.

The members of the camping party undertook to walk to the Blue Mountains, situated about six miles from the head of the lake. It was the hottest day of the week and unfortunately the party took the wrong road and after walking about twelve miles found themselves nowhere near the mountains and turned back in disgust.

Mrs. R. Carton and Mr. Victor Carton, of Peterborough, are visiting at the lake.

Mr. R. J. Winch and grand-daughter, Miss Agnes Pentland, arrived at "Yarrow Brae" on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Davidson, of Peterborough, spent a couple of days this week at "Glencairn," the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gibson.

Cheese Sold At 11 7-16 Cents At Regular Meeting Of Board

3637 Boxes Offered This Morning—Meeting Was a Rather Quiet One—Season is Now Half Over—A Few Went at 11 3-8.

TO WHOM IT WAS SOLD

The Peterborough Cheese Board met this morning after an adjournment of three weeks. Three thousand six hundred and thirty-seven boxes were boarded and the most of them were sold at 11 7-16 cents. The bidding was lively at the commencement, but Messrs Cook and Weir took nearly the entire offering with Mr. Watkins and Kerr getting a number of the factories.

Several factories were not represented and the total boarding was not as high as it might have been. At the corresponding meeting last year 4,222 boxes were sold outright at 12 cents.

The cheese boarded this morning were as follows:

|---|---|
| Keene | 150 |
| Warminster | 130 |
| Shearer | 175 |
| Central Smith | 180 |
| Selwyn | 152 |
| Villiers | 106 |
| Warsaw | 180 |
| Westwood | 200 |
| Oakdale | 125 |
| Daisy D. | 80 |
| Lakefield | 115 |
| Pine Grove | 105 |
| King Edward | 110 |
| Maple Leaf | 130 |
| Myrtle | 125 |
| Ormonde | 125 |
| Young's Point | 90 |
| Lang | 165 |
| Fraserville | 105 |
| Indian River | 100 |
| North Dummer | 65 |
| East Emily | 130 |
| Trewern | 137 |
| Bensfort | 150 |
| Cedardale | 80 |
| Stony Lake | 30 |
| Cavanville | 120 |
| Fleetwood | 100 |
| Shamrock | 115 |

The Bidding

Mr. Kerr opened at 11 cents, but within a few seconds this was bid up to 11 7-16 by Mr. Watkins. His selections were Keene, Shearer, Central Smith.

Mr. Weir got further selections at 11 7-16 cents. He called Selwyn, Young's Point, Cedardale, Lang, Trewern.

Mr. Cook got next choice at the same figure 11 7-16 cents. He took Oakdale, Daisy D., Warsaw, Westwood, Villiers, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Ormonde, Indian River, Warminster, Fleetwood, Myrtle, North Dummer.

Mr. Weir offered 11¾ cents for further selection and Mr. Kerr 11¾ cents for balance of the board. He took Shamrock, East Emily, Bensfort, King Edward. At 11 7-16 cents he took Cavanville and Fraserville. Mr. J. L. Squires got Stony Lake at 11 7-16 cents.

The Fraserville salesman engineered a good stroke by getting 11 7-16. He was offered ¾ several times but refused and finally got the best price.

An adjournment was called for two weeks.

SICK SKINS IN SUMMER

Summer is the hardest time for the human skin. Its delicate tiny pores, if worked under the best conditions, would have a rough time because of the heat. How when they have to work when impaired or damaged by sunburn and heat spots? No wonder one has rough patches, freckles, etc.

Zam-Buk heals sick skins. When a patch of skin on face, neck, or arms is blistered by the sun, apply Zam-Buk at once. It will cool and soothe beautifully, and new skin will be quickly formed. When you are footsore, or have some chafed places, Zam-Buk will give you ease. When the mosquitoes raise lumps on you, Zam-Buk will stop that terrible itching and smarting. Keep Zam-Buk handy, use it freely, and this will be the happiest summer you have ever spent, viewed from the skin health standpoint. All druggists and stores.

Suspended Sentence For The Man Who Threatened To Kill Wife

George Millboro pleaded guilty at the police court this mornig to assaulting his wife. His Worship allowed the prisoner to go on suspended sentence, stating that the police would keep an eye on him and any reports of ill treatment to his wife would be promptly dealt with.

Mrs. Millboro, wife of the prisoner, said that yesterday her husband came home and threatened to take her life by cutting her throat. She was afraid of him. He came home drunk on numerous occasions and he was very violent when drunk.

A neighbour swore that she heard the accused threaten to kill his wife yesterday. She was a fine woman and worked hard. It was not her fault that the family did not get along.

Millboro promised to treat his wife as he should and to leave drink alone. His Worship said that he did not care to send him to gaol, but he would give him a chance to try and do better.

Uproar in Cortes.

Lisbon, Aug. 4.—Free thinkers from all parts of Portugal, represented by a Liberal committee, yesterday presented to the Cortes a petition for the suppression of the religious orders in Portugal and the abrogation of the existing laws against freedom of conscience. The committee was accompanied to the Houses of Parliament by an immense crowd. Among other things the petitioners asked the abrogation of the recent law permitting religious associations to acquire landed property.

Senor Camacho moved the consideration of the subject, and when the motion was voted down, the galleries broke out in protestation. The deputies engaged in a struggle in which desks and chairs were overturned and the chamber had to be cleared twice.

England Must Control G.T.R.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—"Financial control of the G.T.R. must remain on the other side," declared Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, president of the road, in an interview here yesterday morning. British directors had the greatest confidence in General Manager Hays, and the management was left practically in his hands, but financial control was another matter. Canadian directors with no great financial interests at stake would be liable to be lavish with the company's money, and such a state of affairs, said Sir Charles, would be detrimental to any road.

Sir Charles said that the G.T. could make no alliance with the Allans or any other steamship company till their lines were completed.

Twice Injured; Farmer Dies.

Kincardine, Aug. 4.—Samuel Irwin, aged 50, a well-known farmer of the 6th concession of Greenock, was engaged cutting hay, when his team started to run away, throwing him in front of the knife. His thigh was fearfully mangled.

The horses were stopped and Irwin was being conveyed home in a buggy, when the team, which had been unhitched from the mower and left in charge of his young son to bring home, got away from the lad, and, running down the road in the wake of the buggy, one of them jumped into it, crushing the injured man against the dashboard, breaking his shoulder and further injuring him. He lived some hours.

Hon. Sydney Fisher Goes West.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, left yesterday on an extended trip through Western Canada. He proposes to see crops while standing, having heretofore been in the west only after the crops had been cut. Mr. Fisher will travel by both train and team. He will go over the Grand Trunk Pacific and will make a number of addresses. He will take six weeks to reach the Pacific coast, and will visit the Seattle Exposition before returning.

Hon. Mr. Fisher is the fourth Minister of the Government to make a western trip this summer.

Got Back at Constable.

St. Catharines, Aug. 4.—Constable A. B. Tufford of Beamsville, was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to $4, by Magistrate Riggins at Beamsville for being drunk and disorderly.

The constable secured liquor in this city a few days ago, Beamsville being a local option town, and on returning to Beamsville under its influence was espied by James Karr, whom Tufford had arrested some time ago, for being drunk. Karr laid the charge against him.

Womanly Health

How to Preserve It

The good looks of every woman depend largely upon the proper working of her stomach and other internal organs.

If your stomach is strong and digestion is good, the cheeks flush with color, eyes dance and sparkle, breath will be pure, and your hair smooth and glossy.

Let indigestion creep in, and the skin becomes sallow and rough, pimples break out, eyes get dark circles, ill-breath is all too apparent.

Get the stomach toned up with Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they increase the secretion of the gastric juices, promote vigorous digestion, increase the supply of blood, and thereby invigorate the entire system.

REPUDIATES REVOLUTION.

New Carlist Pretender Will Have Nothing to Do With It.

Vienna, Aug. 4.—Don Jaime, the pretender to the Spanish throne, declares in an interview here that he has no intention of interfering in the present crisis in Spain and that his retirement to Frohdorf, in Lower Austria, far from the Spanish frontier, is proof of his peaceful purposes.

"The Carlist party is a party of order," said Don Jaime. "I never will take upon myself to bring an entire people into danger for my own ends. Never will I lead Spaniard against Spaniard. Should I return to Spain at the head of an army it will be only to restore order. This might happen should the revolutionaries drive out King Alfonso, or the welfare of the country require it. The popularity of King Alfonso is declining through no fault of his own and Queen Victoria is certainly less liked than the King. Spaniards dread foreign influence; Victoria has remained a stranger too long, and the people never will forgive her."

Two Thousand Were Killed.

Hendaye, France, Aug. 4.—A copy of El Mundo, a newspaper of Madrid, received yesterday places the number of killed at Barcelona during the rioting of last week at 2,000, and the wounded at 2,500.

Can't Return to Boston.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 4.—Through the action of U. S. officials here, Mrs. Gallant, an elderly woman, a native of Summerside, P.E.I., but for twenty-four years resident in Boston, may be prevented from returning to her relatives in Boston.

The woman had been visiting in Summerside and on her way back to Boston was stopped here by the U. S. immigration officials as she was penniless. Relatives in Boston sent $60 to her, but through an attack of rheumatism, she is now helpless and U. S. officials refuse to allow her to proceed until her relatives file a $500 bond that she will not become a public charge. This, she claims, they are unable to do.

Emperor Off Cruising.

Cowes, Aug. 4.—King Edward, accompanied by his guest, the Emperor of Russia, who arrived here Monday, spent yesterday cruising on his old cutter, Britannia, and in the meanwhile M. Iswolsky, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs; Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, and Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, are discussing matters of diplomacy aboard the Admiralty yacht Enchantress.

With the exception of the cruisers forming the escort of the Russian Emperor, the great fleet that was here on Monday has dispersed and the roadstead remains in the possession of the racing yachts, assembled for the regatta.

Rescuer Nearly Drowned.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—In an effort to save a drowning lad at Brooklyn, N.Y., Dr. Harry Hunter, son of Justice of the Peace George Hunter, came within an ace of losing his life.

The lad took cramps and Hunter went in after him. His clothes held him down, and just as he was about to pull out the lad, his feet got fast in the mud and he, himself, fell face downwards. The boy then went down, but a mounted policeman succeeded in rescuing Hunter, who recovered after they had worked over him an hour.

Officers Help Aviators.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 4.—Officers of Canadian permanent force are evincing enthusiastic interest in the science of aviation, and willing hands are assisting in assembling the various parts of "Baddeck No. 1."

Capt. Tyrrell, R.E., and Lieut. Perrin, R.C.E., both of whom are well-known in Toronto, are working with head and hand. "Baddeck No. 1," will be tried out Friday or Saturday of this week.

Cattle Killed by Lightning.

London, Aug. 4.—A bad electrical storm passed over Yarmouth and the district south yesterday morning. The barns and crops of George Doan were burned. Cattle belonging to Archie F. Campbell and others in the same district were killed in the pastures by lightning. Around Mount Brydges many cattle were killed.

Young Father Drowned.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—John O'Connell, aged 15, an inmate of St. John's Industrial School, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing in the lake at Victoria Park.

About sixty of the boys of the institution, accompanied by some of the teachers, were in the lake. O'Connell, who was a good swimmer, was about 100 yards out, when he was seized with cramps, and making an outcry, some of his fellows got hold of him and brought him part of the way to shore. They became exhausted and were compelled to swim to shore.

Unconscious From Bee Sting.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 4.—Miss Lizzie Sawyers of this city has been unconscious 12 hours as the result of having been stung by a bee while picking fruit near Maryville. Her tongue and throat have swollen to an abnormal degree, rendering her speechless and causing her great difficulty in breathing. Her entire body has assumed a livid hue. This is her third similar experience, although the others were not so severe.

Boy Killed by Fall.

Cornwall, Aug. 4.—A fatality is reported from the North Branch, a few miles from here. Lawrence Fraser, aged 11, the young son of John Fraser, fell off a lumber wagon, his head striking a stone, death resulting two hours later.

Blown to Bits Splitting Wood.

Easton, Pa., Aug. 4.—Milton Shive, of Pattenburg, N.J., on Monday was splitting discarded railroad ties when a terrific explosion occurred, and he was blown to pieces.

It is believed that a dynamite cap had been concealed in the tie.

Friendless Man's Death.

London, Aug. 4.—Charles Wadge, aged 70, claiming to be of Toronto, died yesterday morning. Wadge got in a crowd on the train at Toronto station about July 19 and did not get off the train until he reached London. He said he had no home or friends and as he was very ill, he was taken to the hospital.

Toronto Girl Leads Strike.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—When Miss Alma Murray, superintendent of the City Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Grand Rapids, Mich., left that institution, every patient and nurse in the sanitarium went on a strike and walked out of the hospital with her.

Miss Murray was formerly a Toronto girl.

Taft to Meet Diaz.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 4.—President Taft of the United States and President Diaz of Mexico are to meet in Elpazo, Mexico, on Oct. 16.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

N.B.—Unauthorized publications of this advertisement will not be paid for.

GEO. GANO, MURPHY UP, WINNER OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

George Gano, the syndicate pony, won the Chamber of Commerce stake at Detroit in hollow fashion, his time being 2:04¼, 2:05¼ and 2:06¼.

The Gano horse is one of the speediest side wheelers on the American turf. All last season he raced in select company, being second time and again to Minor Heir 1:59¼, and The Eel 2:02¼.

Just keep your eye upon George Gano, He has bushels of speed and, small as he is, the strength to carry on a bruising contest. Handled by that good teamster, T. W. Murphy, the little son of Gambetta Wilkes will sneak home in front in many a rich stake this summer. It would not surprise the knowing ones if he finished the season close to 2:00. He was able to travel much faster than he did at Detroit, but finished each heat pulled up.

"PIRATES" WON NAME BY SWIPING PLAYER

"Unless the benzine buggy blows up, that Pittsburg bunch is going to cop the National league flag all right," ventured Owney Ghagan to half a dozen listeners. "That Pirate gang is going so fast right now you couldn't catch them with a Bleriot monoplane, whatever that is."

"I've often wondered why they call them the Pirates," said the a tist, who is always wondering something. "It was because they used to wear black uniforms on the road, wasn't it?"

"No, you're wrong, my son," answered Owney, to whom all hands had turned at the interrogation. "It was because Pittsburg had a wise guy named Horace Phillips, as manager, that the name was hung upon the Smoky City bunch.

"Way back in 1888, when I was directing the destinies of the Cherry Pickers, Philadelphia had Louis Bierbauer playing second, and Bierbauer was about as fast as they made 'em. The American association and the National league had an agreement in those days, by which the clubs could not reserve more than 15 players at the close of the season. The management of the Athletics wanted to reserve 16 men, but under the agreement could not do so. The only way open was to reserve 15 men and leave one name off the list and take a chance.

"So the name of Bierbauer was omitted when the reserve list was sent in, with a prayer that the managers would not wise up to the omission.

"Everything would have been all right but for Manager Phillips, who made a trip down to Washington to see Nick Young and get a peek at the official list. When he saw the original, with Bierbauer's name missing, he hopped the rattler and landed in Erie, Pa., where he made such a tempting offer that Birbauer signed.

The proceedure was legal and legitimate, but it raised hob in base ball circles. The Pittsburg club was within its rights, and Bierbauer remained there for years, playing grand ball.

"The Athletics and the Philadelphia newspapers took up the cry that the team had been robbed and one writer termed the kidnapping a case of base ball piracy, whereat the Pittsburg team was promptly named "Pirates" and the term has stuck ever since.

TORONTO NOW IN SECOND PLACE
ATHLETICS CLOSING UP THE GAP

Playing errorless ball of the gilt-edge variety Toronto, with Jim McGinley in the box, went up to second place yesterday, by defeating Providence 3-1, and are now 77 points below the steady-going Hustlers of Rochester. The Leaf pitcher allowed only two hits, pitching in grand ball and being accorded the best of support. Newark defeated Buffalo, helping to put them in third place. Rochester won from Baltimore, Barger being all too good for the Orioles. A glance at the standing in another column will show how hot the race is at present. If Rochester could take a try at the tobaggon for a few days the situation would be even merrier. It is one of the best races seen in the Eastern League, and following the rapid changes of the teams in first position in the earlier stages this year it is up to Rochester to vacate the top of the pole.

At Boston—Boston pulled Detroit's percentage down still lower by winning two exciting games, the first 2 to 1, the second 8 to 7. The paid admissions amounted to 29,721. The first game was a pitchers' battle between Wood and Killian, the locals winning in the seventh innings on poor work by Killifer, following a two-base hit. Free hitting marked the second contest. The locals tied the score in the ninth, with one out, and had men on second and third. Willett was taken out, and Donahue, a pinch hitter, singled cleanly to right, winning the game. Scores:

| First game | | | R. | H. | E. |
| Detroit | 1 | 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 | 1 | 3 | 2 |
| Boston | 0 | 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 | 2 | 7 | 4 |

Batteries — Killian and Schmidt; Wood and Carrigan. Umpires—Connolly and Egan.

| Second game. | | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Detroit | 0 | 0 1 0 0 4 0 1 1 | 7 | 17 | 2 |
| Boston | 0 | 1 0 1 2 1 0 1 2 | 8 | 13 | 3 |

Batteries — Willett, Speer and Stanage; Collins, Karger and Carrigan. Umpires—Connolly and Egan.

American League.

Philadelphia made a big stride to Detroit's heels as a result of the latter's two losses. Philadelphia defeated the White Sox in two games, the scores being 2-1 and 10-4. That leaves the Athletics only 21 points behind Detroit.

Pittsburg, Chicago and New York won their games in the National League.

Mahling, Toronto's shortstop, had 9 chances yesterday, accepting them all.

Mickey Ions Surrenders.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Mickey Ions, the lacrosse player, gave himself up to Detective Nat Guthrie yesterday afternoon when he learned that there was a warrant out for his arrest, on a charge of committing an aggrevated assault on George Kalls during the lacrosse match between the Torontos and Tecumsehs on civic holiday.

He was allowed out on his own bail of $200 and an added $100 by Chas. Querrie, manager of the Tecumsehs.

The case will be called in the Police Court to-day. Ions, who is the goalkeeper of the Tecumsehs, deliberately kicked Kalls in the face while the latter was tieing his shoe strings.

PREPARING TO LEAVE FOR WEST

Several Young Men From Fraserville Preparing to Go—Other News From That Vicinity.

Special to The Examiner.

Fraserville, August 3.—Miss Olive Timlin and Miss Clara Robison were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham on Friday last.

Some of the Fraserville young men are preparing to take a trip to Manitoba for the harvest. It would be advisable for them to mark carefully, the location of North Dakota, before commencing the trip.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Arthur Rodgers, of Peterborough, formerly of Fraserville, has won the first prize offered by the Times, also that Miss Olive Timlin won the Times second prize. (Gold watch).

The berrying season is now at its best, the number of pickers is increasing, several coming from outside points.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kidd left Saturday afternoon to visit friends in Lakefield.

RHEUMATISM IN THE SYSTEM

SIX YEARS CURED IN SIX DAYS

TO MFRS. "NERVILINE."

"The suffering I endured for six years with Rheumatism is beyond description. Every time I was exposed to cold or dampness meant that I had to go to bed. My muscles stiffened, my joints swelled, and any attempt at exertion brought on excruciating twinges. The pain shifted from one part to another and I was scarcely ever free from misery and sleeplessness. I took all kinds of liquid medicines, but they nearly all depressed my heart and I had to stop them. Then I was told of the wonderful power of Nerviline.

Nerviline

"If Nerviline had been made specially for my case it couldn't have been more successful. It sank right into the core of the painful part, gave me ease, allowed me to sleep, gave me the use of my arms and limbs—in fact, made a new man of me. I urge all Rheumatics to use 'Nerviline.'

A. E. TRAYONER.
"Justice of the Peace, Lancaster."

The most wonderful pain-subduing substances in the world are in Nerviline—that's why it penetrates so quickly, why it instantly cures pain that other remedies can't even relieve. You'll be surprised how quickly sciatica, lumbago, or rheumatism are cured by Nerviline—seems almost magical the way it will cure a cold or sore throat. When the chest is sore and it hurts to draw a long breath, one rubbing with Nerviline is sufficient. So highly valued is Nerviline by those who use it, that many families consider it quite as good as a doctor for aches, pains, and minor ailments of every kind. Large 25c bottles are sold by all dealers.

MENACE TO HEALTH

A Foul-Smelling Corner on Simcoe Street, Next to Bethune Street.

Complaints are becoming numerous the past few days of the foul smell eminating from the ruins of the burnt elevator store house on the corner of Simcoe and Bethune streets. To-day it is becoming worse and residents in the vicinity are surprised that the health authorities have allowed it to continue so long.

Besides the piles of rags and junk stored in the place, there was a large quantity of peas. These, after having been soaked with water during the conflagration are now swelling and rotting, causing a very offensive smell.

Immediate steps should be taken to remove this menace to public health.

The question has also been asked, whose duty it is to see that the ruins of the old elevator is torn down?

People passing on the south side of Simcoe street at this spot do not seem to be aware of the great danger that exists, as the end of the building is likely to fall out any time.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE THOMAS DEYELL

The remains of the late Thomas Deyell, of Mount Horeb, were conveyed to their last resting place on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, and the funeral was largely attended by friends and relatives. It was the largest ever held in this vicinity, over 250 vehicles being in attendance from all parts of the surrounding townships. A large number of Lindsay citizens were also present.

Services were held at the house by Rev. Mr. Snowdon of Janetville. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. H. Hart, Thos. Skuce, P. Clancy, W. Porter, Thos. Irwin, and J. Sluggett.

The relatives and friends from a distance were: Messrs. W. Brown, W. Deyell, Omemee; R. Deyell, G. Deyell, S. Deyell, S. Franks, Fowler's Corners; R. Deyell, Bailieboro; D. Deyell, Centreville; J. Deyell, W. Woods, Millbrook; J. Ruther, Peterborough; G. Hambury, H. Deyell, S. Deyell; R. Deyell, Otonabee, and F. Stinson, and son John, of Hamilton.—Port Hope Guide.

Scrofula cured by Miller's Compound Iron Pills.—Wm. Madill, Druggist.

PLAYING BALL IN WILMINGTON, N. C.

The Examiner has received a copy of the morning Star, of Wilmington, N. C., giving a report of a ball game between Wilmington and Goldsboro, in which Mr. Walter Jayes, nephew of Mr. Jack Jayes, of the Munro House, figured prominently. Mr. Jayes who visited with his uncle here last summer and who is well known here, plays on the Wilmington team, at left field. On Friday last Wilmington defeated Goldsboro, the score being 4 to 0. He is playing great ball this season. His team stands first in the league.

FIRE IN EAST CITY THIS MORNING

The fire brigade was given a run to Ashburnham this morning. Fire broke out in the shed of the residence of Mr. Frank Magee, 426 Rogers St. No damage of any account was done and the services of the brigade were not required to extinguish the blaze.

WEDDING BELLS

DOIDGE—HAZLETT

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's father, T. G. Hazlett, Otonabee, in the presence of about forty relatives and friends, on Wednesday noon, July 28th, when his daughter, Clara Bell, was married to Mr. George A. Doidge, of North Battleford, Sask. Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Kate, and the bridegroom by his friend, Mr. R. R. Kidd, of Lakefield. The happy couple left on the 4:46 C. P. R. train for their future home in North Battleford, Sask.

YOUNG—BROWNLEE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at half-past six, at the residence of Mr. James Brownlee, Chamberlaine street, when his eldest daughter, Miss Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. William Young, of Owen Sound. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Bennett, who is supplying at St. Andrew's church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride looked very pretty in a dress of blue voile.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Young left on the 8 o'clock train for Owen Sound, where they will in future reside.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS A. ROBSON.

Thomas A. Robson died at Norwood on the 28th of July, aged seventy years. Deceased had been ailing for the past six months, but especially since the death of his only son, Alfred Robson, four months ago.

Mr. Robson was married to Elizabeth MacNaughton in 1879, and she now lives to mourn his loss. Two daughters, Theresa and Jean, also survive him.

Mr. Robson was, for a number of years a trustee of the High and Public School, Norwood.

The funeral took place on Saturday and was largely attended. Rev. G. A. MacLennan officiated.

Mrs. Robson and daughter have the sympathy of the whole community in their double bereavement, that of the son and brother, Alfred Robson, four months ago, and now of the husband and father.—Com.

Canada Will Control Fleet.

London, Aug. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, with reference to The Times' suggestion that a cruiser squadron on the Pacific be established by Canada, Hon. L. P. Brodeur was emphatic in asserting that if it aimed at the formation of an imperial squadron to be controlled by the admiralty, it was losing time to suggest it, as Canada "will never consent to such control."

Nearly Broke Jail.

London, Aug. 4.—Robert Colby, who was brought in from Candeboye on July 24, made a sensational attempt to escape from the jail yesterday morning. He climbed up a water pipe and managed to get on the wall, which is 19 feet high and is covered with broken glass. While running along the top of the wall he was seen by the turnkey. Colby had been committed to the asylum at Orillia.

How Is Your Watch Running?

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts—jewels, springs, wheels, etc.—be just right, or good timing is out of the question.

SPECIAL NOTICE

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE. Up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST here.

'A Hasty Tempered Father'

This is a very interesting and pathetic dramatic picture, showing how a hasty tempered father causes the ruin of a good daughter, and also the death of a good and honest lover. It is a picture with a good moral, and should please everyone.

"LESSONS IN CYCLING"

A very funny picture, showing how a peasant tries to learn to ride a bicycle. He succeeds in a way, but you should see the fun before he sees his finish.

"THE CRYSTAL BALL"

A most powerful clairvoyant drama. You will see a convict escape from prison and by accident set fire to a house which he enters; you will see the owner of the house looking into a Crystal Ball and seeing his wife burning to death, he takes a ride for a life and saves her. It is a most thrilling picture and the best fire scene ever shown in Peterboro'.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest illustrated Songs entitled: "That's Why I Love No One But You."

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

CHURCHMAN PASSES AWAY

Eminent Clergyman Who Has Been Identified With Educational Institution for 6 Years, Dies at the Age of 82 Years—Was Moderator of General Assembly in 1894—Was Born in Carlton County.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Rev. William MacLaren, D.D., ex-principal of Knox College, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at the residence of his son, Rev. David MacLaren, 57 St. George street, who with his daughter, Mrs. Mowat of Edmonton, were with him when the end came.

THE LATE DR. MACLAREN.

The venerable clergyman, who had held the highest position in the gift of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was a few weeks ago arranging for a sojourn at the seaside. He was then in the best of spirits, and visiting the church offices at the Confederation Life Building. In speaking of his health at that time he said that the hot weather was affecting him, but despite his 82 years he hoped to be greatly benefited by a trip to the sea shore. Before he could complete his arrangements for the projected trip he was taken seriously ill.

The late ex-principal of Knox College had a distinguished career both as a minister of the Presbyterian Church and as an educationist. He was a native born Canadian, the town of Torbolton, Carlton County, claiming him as its most illustrious son. He was born on Jan. 26, 1828. His parents, David and Elizabeth MacLaren were natives of Perthshire, Scotland. He was the fifth son.

At the Ottawa Grammar School and Toronto Academy, William MacLaren gave early promise of distinction in the sphere of learning, and availed himself of the opportunity to take a theological and arts course. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1853, and inducted minister of the Presbyterian Church at Amherstburg, Ont., where he remained for four years. The young preacher's fame had become widely recognized to the people in Canada and the United States, and in 1857 he was induced to accept the pastorate of Knox Church, Boston, Mass., since known as Columbus avenue Presbyterian Church. An invitation from the Belleville, Ont., Presbyterian Church to the pastorate there led to his return to Ontario, and he remained at Belleville for eleven years.

In 1870, the Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, succeeded in securing him as pastor, and he ministered there until his coming to Toronto as a member of the faculty of Knox College in the year 1873. During these three years he lectured in apologetics in the Montreal Presbyterian College.

For the past 35 years he has been closely identified with Knox College, and the demise of the late Principal Caven in December, 1904, became acting principal and chairman of the Senate of the college, which position he held with great acceptance until the appointment of Rev. Alfred Gandier, as principal in November, 1908.

During these four years he was also ex-officio a member of the University Senate.

His professional chair at Knox College was that of systematic theology, his best energies being devoted to a course of lectures on the gospels and the life of Christ. He received the degree of D.D. from Queen's College, Kingston, in 1883, and of LL.D. from Toronto University in 1906.

Rev. Dr. MacLaren was a picturesque figure, and acting member of the Presbyterian General Assembly. He was for 16 years convener of its foreign mission committee. In 1884 he was elected moderator of the General Assembly of Canada.

ANXIETY FELT IN SWEDEN OVER LABOUR SITUATION

Stockholm, Aug. 5.—The labor conflict in Sweden showed sign yesterday of becoming more acute and the ranks of the strikers were considerably swelled. But the general strike called for yesterday has not yet become entirely effective. Many organizations, although sympathizing with the strikers, hesitate to join them actively.

The employes of the street car lines and the cab drivers stopped work. Troops are protecting the gas works and the electric lighting plant, and this step has incensed the workmen, whose leaders threaten to call a strike unless the soldiers are withdrawn. The printers' union held a meeting yesterday, but resolved to postpone for the present any decision in the matter of going on strike.

A corps of workmen, some thousand strong, is being organized with the object of maintaining order and the people generally, bankers, merchants, etc., are arming themselves for self-protection. The gun shops of the city are practically denuded of revolvers and small arms.

All the tourists have left Stockholm, and the number of visitors now in the city is smaller than for many years past.

The streets of Stockholm present a curious appearance. They are filled with idlers who promenade back and forth, noting the changed conditions and chaffing the volunteer street cleaners, many of whom belong to the better classes. All the saloons are closed, and only the best restaurants are permitted to remain open, and, even then it is possible to get wine only by ordering a solid meal.

All the ferries have stopped running, and there is little communication between Stockholm and the suburbs reached by water routes. This fact will result in a further diminution of food supplies. Trouble is expected when stocks of foods begin to run low.

PRISONERS BEING EXECUTED WHOLESALE IN BARCELONA

London, Aug. 5.—The Barcelona correspondent of The Telegraph says that for the present quiet is restored, yet there are certain doubts whether the revolution has received its death blow. Martial law is still in force. The civil guards and police, armed with rifles, still patrol the streets. The wholesale shooting of prisoners after court-martial still goes on at the Fortress of Montjuich. Rumor states that the revolutionists will recommence outrages unless the remaining prisoners are released. Arrests continue on a large scale. Prisoners are constantly seen with their hands tied behind their backs and escorted by civil guards. Two well known journalists of Anarchistic tendencies were arrested Monday. Many officers and soldiers are deserting and crossing the frontier. Many bodies have been found under the ruins of the convents. Members of the Red Cross can be still seen transporting charred remains. Optimists should not omit to note the large bloodstains on the uniforms of the Red Cross men.

The correspondent, in a despatch dated Monday, describes children playing at revolution, shooting at each other with toy rifles, and crying "Viva la Republica." He declares it would take volumes to describe the desolation now spreading its cloak over Barcelona. In speaking of the convent Church of the Magdalen, he says: "The whole place is a heap of ruins, which are still smoking, although the place was set on fire five days ago. In the garden there were thirty vaults where dead sisters were buried."

Killed by Tight Lacing.

Cincinnati, Aug. 5.—Miss Elsie Gasser, eighteen years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gasser of No. 2,419 West McMicken avenue, is dead. Dr. Gustave Strohbach, the family physician, says her death was caused by the tight lacing of corsets and clothes.

Miss Gasser was stricken about ten days ago with what appeared to be appendicitis. An operation followed, but the surgeon could trace no harm to the appendix. All of the consulting physicians who attended her joined with Dr. Strohbach in saying that the young woman was a victim of fashion.

Caused Collision to Prevent Arrest.

Sebastopol, Russia, Aug. 5.—Lieut. Aquilonoff, in command of the submarine sunk off Sebastopol last June, by collision with a battleship, with the loss of twenty lives, has been sentenced to five years' penal servitude for embezzling naval funds. The newspapers accuse Aquilonoff of intentionally causing the collision to hush up the embezzlement charges.

A Pastor Accused.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 5.—Thirty-one indictments against Rev. John J. Holtgrave, pastor of the Catholic Church at Plaquemine, La., were returned by the grand jury of Iberville parish yesterday. Twenty-eight of the counts charge grave crimes and the other three allege criminal libel.

Colleges Cause Race Suicide.

Boston, Aug. 5.—Prof. Emerick of Smith College, a leading educator here, says that the modern college is responsible for race suicide and for the prudence of families which bars infants.

Surgeon's Opinion

OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sir Henry C. Burdett, K.C.B., of London, England, in a recent address, said, "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom to be conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext."

Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife at every opportunity. The rewards to them are rich, but think of the suffering of body and mind, the enormous expense and the risk of life itself. An operation should be the last resort, for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtaining cure.

Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better but my old trouble returned and again I lost much blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

LESSONS FROM DENMARK

From Farm and Dairy.

Lessons that were to be learned from a study of Danish methods formed the subject of an address given by Mr. D. Cuddie, Dairy Commissioner for New Zealand, at a gathering of dairy factory managers and butter makers held recently at Auckland. It will be remembered that Mr. Cuddie also visited Canada. Some extracts from Mr. Cuddie's address at Auckland follow: In Denmark the majority of the farmers own their own land, only about one-fifteenth being on leasehold. One of the most instructive chapters in the history of agricultural progress is the rise of the dairying industry in Denmark. One of the first things that struck a visitor was the close settlement; the whole country looked like one extended village. The conditions under which milking was carried on were superior to those in New Zealand. The utmost attention to details was observed, and at least 75 per cent. of the dairy farmers cooled the milk during summer. When dairying commenced in Denmark the cattle were of a poor stamp but to-day Denmark has one of the most useful breeds of dairy cows in the world obtained by most careful selection and breeding. There were nearly 11,000 farmers owning 190,000 cows, who had the milk regularly tested for butter-fat, and the testing associations had improved the yield of the cows by 1000 lbs. of milk a cow per annum, or 40 lbs. of butter a cow.

There was no home separation in Denmark, and few creameries. The great bulk of the produce, something like £11,000,000 worth per annum, was made in the dairy factories. In point of equipment the factories in Denmark were not ahead of New Zealand except in pasteurising plant, and the great reason why Danish butter was ahead was because of pasteurization. About 20 factories in New Zealand had established pasteurizing plants and he hoped to see many more very shortly. He strongly recommended pasteurization in every case.

The Danish people were just a little bit ahead of New Zealand in the making of butter. Lime was used everywhere most extensively, and he strongly recommended a freer use of it in New Zealand. No special secret "starter" was used for cream; the Danish people had no trouble with the starter, simply observing scrupulous cleanliness. There was a tendency in New Zealand to ripen cream at too low a temperature. As a general principle the temperature should be between 63 and 65 degrees. There were about 45 co-operative dairy companies belonging to one association in Denmark, and sending all the butter to the one grading depot. The result was a great uniformity in the butter. The system would not be practicable in New Zealand, but the point to be learned was that the keeping quality of the butter was being continually tested. This was a matter that New Zealand dairy factories should take up.

In answer to the chairman, Mr. Cuddie said there was not a dairy factory in Denmark which was not compelled by law to pasteurize both the cream and the skimmed milk, exhaust steam being used for the skim milk and direct steam for the cream. The pasteurization of the skimmed milk was enforced, so as to lessen the risk of spreading tuberculosis, and the results were certainly satisfactory.

The medicine with a record of cures extending over 65 years. Yon don't experiment when you buy it.

MRS. JOSEPH MATCHETT, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "It gives me much pleasure to write you of the wonderful benefit I have found in your medicine. Last summer it saved the lives of my three little ones. They all took the summer complaint and were very sick with it. The baby would take fits, and after trying many remedies, which were of no use, I suggested we should try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. After giving them one bottle I found a great change, and now my little ones are as well as ever. We have never been without it since, and I have recommended it to my friends."

MRS. S. A. HARRISON, Napanee, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure to send you this testimonial of what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done in our family. My daughter's little girl, three years old, took summer complaint and was nearly dead. After all other remedies failed I thought of your remedy. The first dose gave relief and the third cured her. My son had diarrhoea and a few doses stopped it right away. I advise all mothers to have a bottle of Dr. Fowler's on hand all the time. It is a grand medicine for young and old, and I cannot recommend it too highly in all trouble where the bowels become too loose. A few doses will check the trouble at once."

We make Sunshine Furnace firepot in two sections—so constructed with fins that they throw off every unit of heat, so constructed with straight walls that it is impossible for ashes to gather and intercept the heat, so constructed that the upper section can expand independent of the lower, thus making it impossible in a Sunshine Furnace for any heat to loaf around the fire-pot, any heat to be nullified by ashes, any cracks to take place as a result of the shock following contraction or expansion.

This fire-pot has greatest weight & longest life

The fire-pot naturally bears the brunt of a furnace's work, and it bears it just in proportion to its original strength.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

Because steel is more powerful than gray iron, we make Sunshine Furnace firepot of semi-steel. This is an exclusive feature, and indicates that in Sunshine Furnace firepot alone you find smooth-as-glass surface, secure maximum fire-resisting strength, can rely on only minimum disintegration and can be assured of long life.

HONOR OF THE TENTH

By EILEEN MORETTA.

The honor of the Tenth had been smirched. The rank and file growled it out in barracks, the officers whispered it to each other, and as the colonel sat on the veranda of his bungalow and admitted it to himself he laid much of the blame on his own shoulders.

The robber bands of India, known as dacoits, had been busy around Ahwal, and squads of British cavalry were being sent out every few days to destroy them. Your true dacoit is not only a robber, but a fighter as well. He robs his own race whenever opportunity offers and fights the British whenever and wherever he meets them. He is a good shot, a brave foe, and there are honor and promotion to be had in wiping him off the face of the earth. Young Danforth had lately joined the Tenth. He had family and political influence and a fortune behind him, and he had a personality which made friends. There could be no greater privilege than to be sent out at the head of a detachment to give the dacoits a whirl. When the time came that the colonel could do young Danforth this favor he had a long and quiet talk with him. He posted him as to the characteristics and tactics of the foe and warned him of the pitfalls that even veteran officers might fall into. He was to find the enemy and destroy him, but he was cautioned against impetuosity and useless sacrifice of men. This expedition was to be the young officer's "tryout." He had never been under fire, and he could not claim full kinship with the regiment until he had.

They gave young Danforth a British sergeant and corporal and thirty-eight Sikh troopers. Under an officer in whom he has confidence there is no better soldier than the Sikh. His only weak point is that he must have his foe in front of him. Danforth had the luck to strike a band of robbers within twenty miles of the post. They had captured a village and were pillaging. It was testified to by a dozen Sikhs that he was as cool as an old veteran. He sent scouts forward to ascertain the strength of the enemy and the lay of the land, and at the head of his forty men he charged into the village and routed out the band of 150. He lost two men and killed a dozen, and it was a little affair to be proud of. He held his men well in hand and was on the watch for trickery, and had all the troopers been Europeans all would have gone well. As the robbers retreated over broken ground men were flung off from either flank to create an ambush. They were few in number and only half hearted, but as they opened fire the Sikhs bolted. There were confusion and a rout, and the pursuers became in turn the pursued. When the flight ended the sergeant and corporal were missing.

A court martial was demanded by young Danforth. No sooner had the detachment returned than the remnant of the Sikhs began to whisper about incompetency and cowardice. They praised the officer for his fight at the village, but they declared that his cowardice when he found himself in a tight place had brought about disaster. His defense was straightforward and clear. There was not an officer who doubted one of his statements, and he was honorably acquitted of the charge, but a stain had been left behind. It was felt by men and officers that to be even suspected of cowardice was a smirch on the name of the regiment. It was agreed that the Sikhs had lied to excuse their own cowardice, and there was the verdict of the court martial, yet the cloud was not dissipated.

Young Danforth could not fail to notice the change in the attitude of his brother officers. They did not cut him, but they had to make an effort to be friendly. Pretty soon hints were thrown out that it would be well for him to transfer or leave the service. Then he went to the colonel and said:

"I was charged with cowardice by the Sikhs. Had my sergeant and corporal lived to come back with me I could have had witnesses to prove to the contrary. The court martial took my word, however, and I was honorably acquitted. I realize that I am tainted. There are hints that I ought to transfer or resign. With your permission I shall remain right here and hope for something to happen."

"I believe that the Sikhs perjured themselves," quietly replied the colonel, "and perhaps it will be the wisest thing you can do to stay on."

The words were kind and fair, but no grip of the hand accompanied them. In his heart of hearts the colonel had hoped the subaltern would go away, though at the same time he realized that only an innocent man would have cared to remain. Young Danforth led no more expeditions, and months rolled away before anything happened to put his case in a more favorable light. Then a number of dacoits were captured. Among them were two or three who had fought him that day. They boasted of how they had driven his Sikhs; they praised the courage he had exhibited in seeking to rally them. There was an increase of cordiality after that, but the subaltern gave no sign that he noticed it or was pleased over it.

A few months later there arrived a party of civil officials and their wives who were on a junket. They had several elephants with them for tiger hunting, and within twenty miles of the post was the game they were after. Young Danforth was one of the three officers detailed to arrange and manage the hunt. With the civil commissioner of Nepal and his wife was Lady Clifton, and the two ladies were by no means novices in the sport of tiger hunting. When the hunt had been fairly entered upon, they occupied a howdah on the back of a big elephant together and would not admit any one else. A tiger had been driven by the beaters into a swamp a mile long by half a mile broad, and into this spot, grown up to reeds and bushes until the eyes could scarcely penetrate, crashed the elephants and horses. The idea was to drive the tiger out upon clearer ground to the west, where he could be reached, and everybody made as much noise as possible. He was a crafty beast, and for two hours he refused to break cover.

The elephant on which the two ladies were mounted had taken the lead and been steady enough, but after awhile something rattled him, and he bolted across the swamp toward the trees. His mahout used every exertion to stop or turn him, but the old fellow was in a panic. To the surprise of everybody, the tiger followed at his heels, though in a furtive way, as if bent only on escape. With the elephant making a mad rush for a low branch tree that he might get rid of the burden on his back, Lady Clifton took swift aim at the tiger and wounded him. The wound provoked his anger, and he sprang forward on the elephant's rear just as the tree was reached and the branches swept the howdah to the ground. A second later and the two ladies lay on the earth among the fragments, both stunned by the fall, and the tiger stood with his paws upon the body of Lady Clifton and growled and snarled at the dozen spectators.

Fortune had given young Danforth his opportunity. As a sort of terror held everybody else helpless, he flung himself from his horse, grabbed a hog spear from the hand of a chattering native and advanced upon the beast. He had to cover sixty feet of clear ground, and those who looked on said that the tiger's eyes blazed fire and every hair on his back stood up as the officer walked steadily forward. A dozen voices called to him to look out, but he made no halt. As he drew nearer the beast crouched for a spring, and when he was within ten feet the spring was made. Down went the man on his knees and up went the spear, and when the onlookers glanced again the man was on his feet and unhurt and the tiger was rolling over and over on the earth with the point of the spear sticking out of his back.

The ladies had not been seriously hurt, but at least one of them had been saved from the tiger's maw. Young Danforth was the hero of the hour. Every officer in the regiment took him by the hand and offered congratulations, and his colonel patted him on the shoulder and said:

"My dear boy, it was the coolest, bravest thing I ever heard of, and it makes us all proud of you."

"But the Sikhs swore that as a leader I got rattled and lost my head," replied the officer. "I was honorably acquitted, but I have been made to feel that I smirched the honor of the Tenth. Until I can wipe that out I am an outcast."

The civil commissioner wanted to show his gratitude, and Lady Clifton had influence she wanted to bring to bear, but the subaltern remained the subaltern. He was biding his time, and he had not long to wait. The dacoits came down from the hills again, and he was given the chance he so longed for. This time his fifty troopers were all Englishmen, and he not only attacked Mooltan, the greatest robber chieftain of them all, in a chosen position, but routed his force and captured the leader. That would have been a deed to boast of, but the subaltern was not satisfied. Leaving part of his force to hold the position and the prisoners, he pressed on into the foothills with the remainder and attacked and captured a camp and brought off the sergeant and corporal who had been made prisoners in the first affair. There was a second court martial at Aliwal on the return of the troop, and when the sergeant and corporal had proved that the Sikhs were liars and cowards the old Tenth held a jubilee and declared that its honor was never so bright. At the dinner they toasted "our comrade and hero."

A New Invention.

There is a new invention in the house furnishing department which notches the top edges of the two grape fruit shells when the half shells are to be used for receptacles of salad or jelly. A knife fixed in the bottom of a shallow wooden trough does the work as the fruit rolls over it. The price is 40 cents.

GROWING THE AZALEA.

Varieties of This Beautiful Plant Found in Many Countries.

The hardy azaleas, cultivated in English gardens and now receiving the attention of cultivators both in Europe and this country, originated from the Mediterranean Azalea pontica, the North American and the Chinese and Japanese azaleas. These have been much intercrossed, and the respective types are now connected by so many intermediate forms that it is not easy to classify them under their respective species.

They were first popularly known as American azaleas and subsequently, after they had received much attention in Belgium, became known as Ghent azaleas. Now they are being cultivated so largely in Japan that they are frequently termed Japanese azaleas. A collective term for them is hardy hybrid azaleas. Turkey has a beautiful native azalea, which is in the form of a deciduous shrub with brilliant yellow flowers. You often read of this beautiful flower in descriptions of Turkey.

Our native azalea, with its wealth of bloom, varying in tint from white to bluish pink, rose, red and scarlet, is suggestive both in shape and color and also in fragrance of the honeysuckle, under which name, with the prefix wild, it is commonly known.

While the wild azaleas are not as strikingly brilliant as the ones the florists offer us, they possess a fragrance and delicacy that we find entirely lacking in the cultivated ones.

As the white honeysuckle another American species (Azalea viscosa) is familiarly known in its native home, where it is chiefly found in swamps near the coast in the northern and eastern states. This materially differs from the other varieties of native azaleas in that it produces its flowers after the leaves have fully expanded, and, though the plant is beautiful, it does not present such a mass of coloring as the other varieties. The shades have not so wide a range, being confined to white or yellow with a rosy tinge, but the flowers are borne in large tufts and are very fragrant.

Some of the Japanese azaleas have been cultivated to a great extent, and some of these varieties at the present time excel all others in size of the individual flowers; but, as is the case with all the cultivated varieties, they are entirely lacking in fragrance. However, they are extremely handsome and are imported by the many thousands for the Easter season.

When one purchases an azalea from the florist it is usually in the height of its beauty, being a mass of bloom. Now, the thing desired is to keep it in this condition as long as possible. In order to do this keep the plant in as cool a place as possible and well watered.

An Abrupt Proposal.

The reported fashion of the famous Dr. Abernethy's courtship and marriage is very characteristic. It is told that while attending a lady for several weeks he observed those admirable qualifications in her daughter which he truly esteemed to render the married state happy. Accordingly on a Saturday, taking leave of his patient, he addressed her to the following purport:

"You are now so well that I need not see you after Monday next, when I shall come and pay you a farewell visit. But in the meantime I wish you and your daughter to seriously consider the proposal I am about to make. It is abrupt and unceremonious, I am aware, but the excessive occupation of my time by my professional duties affords me no leisure to accomplish what I desire by the more ordinary course of attention and solicitation. My annual receipts amount to £——, and I can settle £—— on my wife. My character is generally known to the public, so that you may readily ascertain what it is. I have seen in your daughter a tender and affectionate child, an assiduous and careful nurse and a gentle and ladylike member of a family. Such a person must be all that a husband could covet, and I offer my hand and fortune for her acceptance. On Monday when I call I shall expect your determination, for I really have not time for the routine of courtship."

In this manner the lady was wooed and won, and it may be added the union was felicitous in every respect.

Burns and Tam Samson.

Tam Samson was a gray haired veteran sportsman who on one occasion when out moor fowl shooting and, feeling the weight of years begin to press upon him, expressed the belief that the expedition was to be his last and desired, in somewhat tragic style, that he might die and be buried in the moors.

Burns, hearing of this, immediately composed his famous elegy, in which he related at length the exploits and skill of his hero, ending each verse with the plaintive line, "Tam Samson's dead."

Some one having told Samson that Burns had written a poem, "a gey queer ane," about him, he sent for the poet and in something like wrath asked him to read what he had written. On hearing the recital of his exploits he smiled grimly and seemed by no means displeased. "But," he exclaimed, "I'm no' dead yet, Robin. Wherefore should ye say that I'm dead?" Burns retired for a few minutes; then he returned and recited to Tam the following verse, which he had composed in the interval:

PER CONTRA.

Go, Fame, an' canter like a filly
Through a' the streets an' neuks of Kilie.
Tell ev'ry social, honest billie
To cease his grievin',
For yet, unskaith'd by Death's gleg gullie,
Tam Samson's livin'!

Samson laughed gleefully and exclaimed, "That's no' bad, Robin; that'll do." And the poet was received once more into his good graces.—Chambers' Journal.

Linen of Snowy Whiteness

The real beauty of linen lies in its whiteness. It must come from the washing spotlessly clean. So, naturally enough, it is always rubbed twice as hard, and so wears out twice as fast.

But here is a new way to wash linen as well as other fabric—a way that saves half the rubbing and doubles the life of the garment.

This new way is the way of Taylor's Borax Soap. For no other soap saves both labor and garments as does this wonderful soap—it saves its own cost many times over.

Taylor's Soap

Here is the Taylor way: Place the white clothes in warm, soapy water and let them soak over night. Then draw them out one by one and rub them lightly with Taylor's Borax Soap. When well soaped, roll them up and lay them in the bottom of the tub under water. Let them soak in this way for half an hour. Then rub them gently on the washboard, rinse and wring them out. Hang them on a rope clothes line, for wire may put iron rust spots on the clothes.

Scalding is never necessary with this soap, for it removes the dirt by itself. The borax softens the water, so less soap is required, and also much less rubbing.

Colored clothes are washed the same, only they should not be left to soak over night, and never boiled.

Follow these simple directions and your clothes will come out fresh, clean and free from any "soapy smell." The white goods will be whiter, the colored goods brighter and the woolens softer than ever before.

Borax not only softens the water, but also softens the hands—it leaves them even whiter than ever before. Also it purifies and sweetens—it destroys every germ and prevents the possibility of contagion.

Don't be satisfied with common soaps that make it necessary to rub your clothes doubly long. Such soaps are more expensive than you ever imagine. This wonderful soap costs no more to buy than the ordinary—so why not have the best when you pay no more? Order a bar today.

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

DR. PELKEY.

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odourless, and the patient inhales this. So healing in its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis coughs

A gauge registers the amount of oxygen taken by the patient.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier, and building up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifiying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Goverment officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

SWIMMING, IDEAL SPORT for GIRLS

Practical Hints for Those Who Are Trying to Acquire the Agreeable Art.

Not a Swimmer, but a Surf Bather

Breast Stroke

The Diving Girl

SWIMMING is more than a showy accomplishment which permits young girls to play the part of graceful sea nymphs. It is a thoroughly practical exercise and one which improves the physical condition perhaps more than any other sport, while it has few equals in the degree of enjoyment to the swimmer.

Learning to swim is easy if the art is acquired in the proper manner. Many girls think that they can get the stroke sufficiently well by trying it in an amateurish way at the seashore or in some swimming pool. They depend on the assistance of a friend to hold them up in the water and, thus buoyed, they attempt the strokes as they imagine they should be made, or as they are told to make them. While this is better than not learning at all, it is by no means as satisfactory as taking a few lessons from a professional and thus acquiring a thorough understanding of the various strokes and how to make them rhythmically.

IT is astonishing to the beginner to find how easily the body holds itself up in the water without making a single movement, and as soon as the pupil learns this it is many times easier to make the different motions with the arms and legs. Where lessons are given professionally in a pool apparatus for suspending the swimmer on the surface of the water is used during the first lessons. A wide belt fastens around the body under the arms, and this is attached to a rope which runs on a pulley over a re parallel and close to the ceiling. The instructor holds the loose end of the rope and walks along the side of the pool as he watches the strokes of the swimmer. The rope and the belt give confidence yet they add to the swimmer's difficulties when she has progressed sufficiently with her strokes to be sent into the pool unhampered, for she has learned to depend on the support to such an extent that keeping up in the water now seems an increased hardship.

Another advantage the beginner has over the regular sea bather is in her costume, for when taking lessons a girl usually dispenses with a skirt in order to have more freedom for her strokes and to allow the instructor to see how she takes them, but as soon as she is admitted to the outdoor and regular pool class she dons skirt, stockings, sandals and all the other seashore bathing equipment.

The first lesson after learning how to keep up in the water usually includes the breast stroke, and while this has less speed in it than the side stroke, it is one of the most attractive for young women. It is easy, graceful and an excellent exercise because it develops both sides of the body equally. There are few chest exercises of greater benefit than the breast stroke. The arms are first extended, fingers touching, straight out in front over the head, a position which gives wonderful expansion to the lungs. Then as the arms are brought around to the sides and finally doubled and thrust forward again every muscle in the upper part of the body is brought into play.

GIRLS who swim feel that there is no way of loosening up the joints as in taking this particular stroke. It makes them supple and graceful while it gives an added self-confidence which nothing else will impart in the same degree. Outside of the enjoyment of being in the water and the exhilaration of the sport the swimmer feels a sense of rejuvenation that no other exercise seems to give.

The side stroke is reserved for the girl who has become fairly proficient in the water; at least she can float and make headway with the breast stroke. There is more than one style of side stroke, the different motions giving more or less speed than the others. One simple stroke for the girl who likes swimming for the sport and the exercise and does not care so much for speed is taken on either the right or the left side, the right side being easier for beginners, and with the right arm being thrust forward and down under the water, while the left one paddles in a small circle with the shoulder as the centre. This is an easy stroke and one that will rest the swimmer after she has exerted herself for several minutes making the breast stroke. Even if a girl did swim this stroke entirely there would be little danger of her developing one side of the body more than the other, because each side is made to work equally, although in different motions.

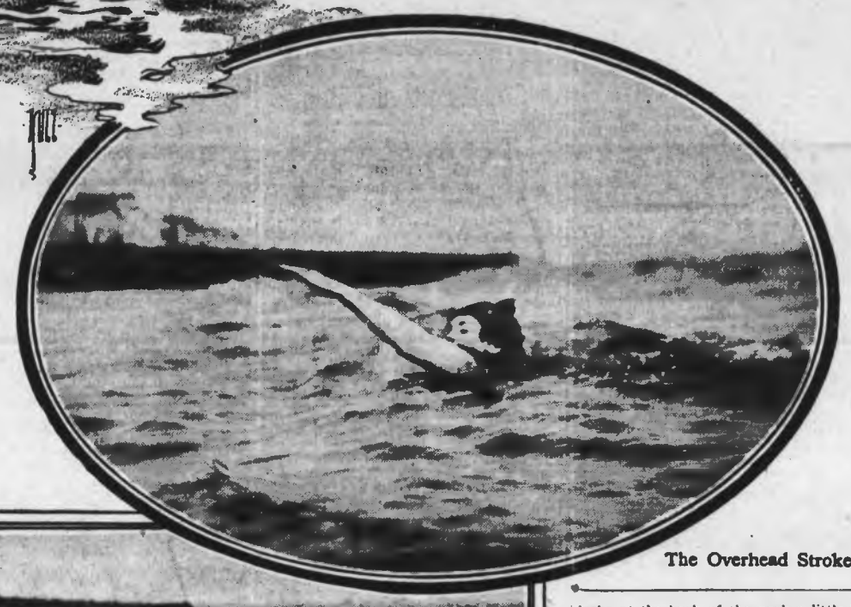
SWIMMING sometimes reduces the figure and again it fills out the hollows where such exist. The girl who would like to get rid of any superfluous breadth of hip should try swimming. A course of constant exercise of this sort will work wonders in the way of reducing about superfluous flesh or too great hip girth, but when fashions are so eccentric and insist on unusual slimness there are times when it is an advantage to know of some simple and wholesome method of reducing.

DIVING is not especially popular with girls. They learn to take an ordinary dive when they are mastering the various swimming strokes, but few of them really enjoy this sudden immersion. In the first place it is almost impossible to keep a rubber cap on the head in diving. Perhaps it will stay on during one or two of these quick headforemost plunges, but that is more by accident than by planning. While an occasional drenching does not harm the hair, constant wetting does, and this is one of the reasons for the unpopularity of this feature of the sport. It is a charming exercise to watch, and those who dive in a number of fashions really enjoy the plunges, but it is a bit too vigorous for the average constitution.

There is very little science in floating, yet it is one of the essential movements in swimming. When swimming a long distance floating is restful, and as it is one of the easiest features of the water sport to learn every girl should master the trick of lying flat on the top of the water without making a motion. A rubber cap is a wonderful help in this accomplishment and will keep the head clear of the water, although it will not keep the body afloat. There are different floating positions—with the feet apart and the arms outstretched at right angles to the body; with the arms doubled under the head and with the body apparently standing straight up in the water and the head thrown back, so that only the head is visible. This is an unusual style of floating and quite difficult to maintain without the assistance of the rubber bathing cap.

Breast Stroke

kind will make the fat seem to melt visibly, and it will not return as soon as she abandons the water sport for more conventional pleasures in town. It may be that the flesh is hardened by the exercise and does not soon soften up, but whatever the explanation may be it is a positive fact that swimming is one of the quickest and most satisfactory reducers known. Not many young girls need to worry



The Overhead Stroke

THE overhead stroke, which buries the head under the water and brings only one arm out while the other is submerged and propels the swimmer forward, is one of the swiftest strokes known. It is seldom mastered by girls, and even those who do learn it from their brothers or boy friends rarely try it except on occasional long distance swims. The exercise is quick and exhilarating, yet few girls like keeping the head submerged. It is quite possible, however, to swim this stroke for some time without drenching the hair entirely. In fact, girls have been known to practise this overhead stroke half an hour at a time, with, of course, a few pauses for rest, and then to emerge from the water with only the locks at the back of the neck a little bit damp.

There is a trick in adjusting the swimming cap so that it stays firmly in place and is tight enough to protect the hair. First, an all rubber cap should be put on, covering the hair completely. These are better when they are made rather small, either flat Tam o' Shanters or those with the top pleated into the band. They are made entirely of rubber, with a band that fits the head closely. When this is properly adjusted a fancy silk cap may be put on over it. A large Peter Thompson silk square, practically a handkerchief of extra size, makes a good covering. It can be doubled in a triangle and the bias centre turned over again to make a thick, firm band around the head. Then the handkerchief ends may be brought around to the left side just in front of the ear and tied there in a bow knot, leaving ends that are long enough to make another knot. When worn this way the knots make a full rosette, which is rather jaunty and becoming to girls.

Practical caps made ready to adjust can be bought in some shops, but these should be fitted to the head and should be made of thin material. The great trouble with the majority of made up fancy caps is their clumsiness, which makes them come off much more easily than the silk square does.

Colored bathing suits are a delight to the eye when fresh, but any girl who has tried wearing one for an entire season knows that there are few suits quite so satisfactory as black or dark blue. These do not fade, they look well both in the water and on the beach, and they are more becoming, generally speaking, than unusual shades. This season's beach costumes are made in princess effect, with a panel in front and a pleated skirt. Buttons may be used for decoration, but even these are placed sparingly, while braid seems to have been ousted from its place on collars and sleeves. Practical suits are collarless, or if they have this style of neck finish it is small enough not to interfere with the movements of the bather in the water. It is fashionable to wear a black or dark blue silk suit with white sandals and a white tie, or perhaps plaid footwear and cap to match.

A PAGE for MISSES

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

THIS is the season when those of us who have not country places exchange the privacy of home life for the rather public one of hotels and boarding houses, wherein we are always more or less under inspection and should be at great pains to conduct ourselves in an attractive manner.

One of the most important things to bear in mind is proneness to loud talking. Out of doors there seems to be a natural tendency to raise the voice, which leads many girls to fairly scream their remarks on the piazza and about, which is not only unattractive, but most annoying to those who are around, particularly if they are reading. Try to remember that the piazzas, the rotunda, office, or wherever the guests assemble, is common ground on which each person should feel and show the greatest consideration of others.

Do not transgress the rules of etiquette by calling out to your friends, or your relatives, or your chaperon, even from a short distance. Many girls lazily do it to save themselves the trouble of leaving the place where they are sitting or standing, and if they are so rude the person whom they are addressing should administer a rebuke by refusing to reply. Some girls have a reprehensible trick of inevitably thinking of a last remark after they have started off and calling it back to some person sitting on the piazza, or whatever spot they have left. This is shockingly bad form and any girls who have the habit should break it at once.

The dining room of a hotel or a boarding house offers excellent opportunities for good breeding. If one is eating at a public table one has to bear in mind that there are others to be waited on, that all are entitled to equal service from the servants and that much patience must be exercised where there are a number of persons to be looked after at a time. Much confusion is saved, and it is better form, if you do not personally give your orders to the servant at meals, but express your preferences to your mother and let her do the ordering for you all. If something brought does not please you and you wish it changed, have the courtesy to wait until the others at the table have been served with their first order. Show consideration to your waiter. Mistakes he may seem to make are often not his fault, and he has more than you have any idea of to contend with at the kitchen end of things. To show irritation toward servants is unladylike at any time in any place.

Do not allow yourself to get the habit of criticising the management of the place where you are staying. It is easy to find fault, but so much more gracious and charming to praise, and the difficulties of keeping everything up to the highest standard in summer housekeeping are such that allowances should be made for small shortcomings. And if there are big ones it is proper of course to request that they be rectified, but make your complaint to your parents or your chaperon, who will take the matter up with the manager, and on no account complain to the guests. There is a type of boarder who makes a practice of complaining of everything, but she is an underbred person and you certainly do not wish to belong to her class.

When the weather is excessively warm one of the nicest things you can do is to avoid commenting on the heat or mentioning the registration of the thermometer. When every one is feeling the heat talking about it just fans the flame and running a moment to look at the thermometer keeps a whole piazza in a feverish condition. Directly after breakfast, before the day has quite declared itself, do not suggest that it is going to be hot. There is an enormous influence in the power of suggestion, and when you anticipate heat as well as when yo comment on it, you throw out little heat waves that inflame the imaginations of those about and cause unnecessary irritation. The truly charming girl strives to be a soothing, not an irritating companion, and she will immensely add to her summer attractions by refraining from comment or complaint about the heat.

STANDS FOR DRESS AND HAT BOXES

TAKING care of one's gowns and hats in a convenient and attractive way is always something of a problem, and it is often especially so in summer. This is true for two reasons—first, many country homes do not have as many closets as one would like, and, second, the majority of a girl's dainty summer dresses can be kept in much better order folded than hanging up, and she is apt to have in summer more hats to take care of.

A new scheme for solving this question, and a most satisfactory one, is to have wooden racks of different sizes to hold boxes, which slide in and out very easily. These racks can be bought in some of the New York shops all fitted out with boxes or a girl can have them made by any carpenter. They have an upright post of wood at each corner, and strips of wood holding the uprights together, on which the boxes slide. The whole thing is painted with white enamel paint.

Some of the stands have boxes large enough to hold a dress, others are the size for shirt waists and still others for hats. Each stand holds from four to six boxes, one over the other, and each box has a little tab of tape at the bottom of one side by which to pull it out when wanted.

The boxes should all be covered with a flowered paper to match the coloring of the room—just like the wall paper is a good plan. In a room that is large enough two or three of these stands will make a very pretty effect arranged in different parts of the room, and if one uses a dressing table and no bureau with drawers they are almost indispensable. One stand can be made quite small and have boxes for the little accessories, like collars, belts, handkerchiefs and gloves. Indeed, there is no limit to the uses one may find for these boxes. A girl with ingenuity can elaborate the idea to any extent and have sets of them made up according to her own measurements and to fit in corners of her own room.

Dainty Ribbon Slippers for the Boudoir.

MORE attractive than any that have been invented for many a long day, and withal delightfully simple for a girl to make up herself, are the new bedroom slippers fashioned from flowered or brocade ribbon. These slippers rival in daintiness even the most elaborately embroidered satin mules.

Nor are these newest negligée slippers in any way costly, all the materials necessary for their manufacture being one pair of slipper soles such as are used in knitted bedroom slippers, three-quarters of a yard of plain colored silk or satin ribbon, four inches in width, or the equivalent in silk; three-quarters of a yard of pretty flowered or brocade ribbon, one and a half yards of narrow silk cord and one spool of sewing silk.

To commence with, the fleece or wool side of the leather soles is covered with either silk or ribbon—pink, blue, yellow, green, mauve, white or whatever shade is desired. This is done to make the slipper less warm, while keeping it soft and comfortable, the pretty lining incidentally adding greatly to its beauty. Next, in the strip of flowered ribbon, thirteen and a half inches long, two tiny tucks are run just above the selvage at one end, this end being then taken and bound to the sole over the toe and extending down an equal distance at each side. The thread with which the tucks are run is now drawn in almost imperceptibly to give somewhat of shape over the toes. The cut ends of the ribbon having been neatly hemmed, the upper part of the ribbon is then drawn into a pretty rosette, the thread securely fastened, and the result is as dainty a little mule as could be imagined. Last, the sole of the slipper is bound all around with a piece of silk cord the color of the silk lining, so that any large stitches where the ribbon toe is attached to the leather sole may be hidden.

Just how much of the ribbon is to be gathered in in the tucks at the end of the shoe and just how wide the ribbon must be left over the instep before being caught into the rosette must depend upon the wearer, but the slipper will be found far easier to fit than expected.

Already there are numerous different variations in color and materials to be seen in these negligée slippers. Sometimes the model is carried out all in one shade, or, again, the flowered silk is used for lining as well as for the small front piece which forms the slipper. To give a firm foundation the ribbon too may be lined with a fairly heavy satin, or, again, lace may be placed over a plain colored ribbon, this last being exceptionally pretty in effect.

FLOWER HOLDERS OF NATURAL RAFFIA

WITH the profusion of flowers that the gardens of a country home generally produce and the beautiful wild flowers that one is always tempted to bring home from a walk or drive, it is often a difficult matter to take care of them all, and this duty is apt to fall to the daughter of the house. Of course she can take it as a burdensome task, but she need not do so; it can be made a real pleasure. One thing that helps to make it enjoyable is to have plenty of vases ready for use.

A specially convenient and effective way to arrange many flowers is to hang them up around the living room and porch, and one of the best ways to do this is to make raffia holders for vases and deep bowls. Any girl can make these herself. She can buy charming bowls and vases at any pottery or Oriental shop, in dark green or ox blood red, and make the covers of the natural raffia, which will give a very pretty contrast.

To make a cover begin by knotting together at the bottom a number of strands of the raffia. Draw them up over the vase, knotting two or three together in a fancy knot. Then separate these and knot them with the next group on each side, in this way making a network all over the vase. At the top draw all the strands together and tie them firmly far enough above the vase to hang it up and leave room for the flowers. If a girl is in the country where she cannot buy the vases she can make them for herself by using old wine bottles. To break off the neck of the bottle with a good even line soak a piece of twine in alcohol and tie it around the bottle just below the shoulder, then set the twine on fire and when the fire has run around the bottle plunge the whole thing into cold water. The glass will break under the twine.

A simple but attractive holder can be made by using the straw case of a wine bottle, instead of raffia. This must be securely fastened at the top with several cords which are knotted into a loop. The straw makes a very effective background for bright colored flowers.

An Ostrich Plume Curler.

A NOVEL accessory of the toilet which is certain to appeal to the seaside sojourning girl is an ebony coated wood handled and nickel plate bladed hand device for the curling of wilted ostrich feathers. After shaking the drooping plume over a kettle of steaming water and thoroughly drying it, six or eight flues should be drawn lightly between the thumb and the blade and slightly pressed toward the curler. When all the flues have been thus treated the feather need only be lightly combed in order to work out any flues that may have been too tightly curled or any ends that have become entangled.

IMPORTANCE OF COOL CURING ROOM

From Farm and Dairy.

Cheese made from sound milk by the most skilful makers will not stand temperatures ranging from 70 to 85 degrees, and be the finest quality when cured. Aside from a depreciation in quality, much loss results from shrinkage in cheese cured at a high temperature, hence the great argument in favor of curing at lower temperatures and the importance of good curing rooms.

Cool curing is gaining in favor in Western Ontario. Particularly is this true of the district in the vicinity of Woodstock—one of the very best dairy districts in Ontario. Mr. Jos. Burgess, of Woodstock, who now has charge of the cow testing work for Ontario and who formerly since 1902 has been most intimately connected with the work carried on by the Government in their cool curing stations, last week in an interview, gave Farm and Dairy some convincing facts and figures in favor of cool curing. In addition to Mr. Burgess' experience at the cool curing stations, his work as official referee at Montreal, two years ago, and while in charge of the iced car service last year, have fitted him to speak with authority upon subjects relative to dairy products.

COOL ROOM IN OXFORD.

"The Woodstock district has gone largely in for cool curing rooms," said Mr. Burgess. "Six factories, Sprink Creek, East and West Oxford, Bright, Tavistock, Innerkip and Cassel, grouped closely together, have installed cool curing rooms. Cool rooms are probably more numerous at Woodstock on account of the Government cool room having been located there. Some of the factories now having cool rooms used for a number of years the coldstorage provided by the Department. It will be remembered that the cold storages established in 1902 were made use of by those factories who chose to do so and pay the Department market prices for the saving in the shrinkage of cheese cool cured in their stations. The factories paid this each month. The saving effected by cool curing was marked, and it soon became apparent to the companies using the Government's storage that it would pay them to have their own. In four years, Spring Creek factory paid the Government $970 for the shrinkage saved in cool curing this cheese in that period. It cost them only $570 to put in their own cool curing room complete. The saving in shrinkage in five years from the cheese stored by the East and West Oxford factory amounted to over $1200. Their cool curing room, lately installed, cost between $600 and $700.

BENEFITS THE PATRONS.

The cost of installing a cool curing room depends much upon the condition of the old curing room. Many old curing rooms were unnecessarily large. In such, the ice chamber can be built right inside of them. The whole matter of cool rooms depends on the patron. If they would come out for cool rooms and say, "build and we will pay one-eighth cent a pound on cheese cool cured,' hundreds of cool rooms would be built. If buyers would pass a resolution to pay one-quarter cent more for cool cured cheese, then also, we would get cool rooms. The benefits resulting from cool curing are reaped largely by the patrons, hence it is largely up to them to build the cool curing rooms, though I have heard men say they would not be without cool rooms if they, personally, had to stand the cost of replacing them.

"There is a great difference in the texture and quality of cheese cool cured, over those cured at ordinary temperatures. The amount paid the Department for saving in shrinkage at the factories in the Woodstock district above mentioned, shows conclusively the amount cool rooms save in shrinkage. It was largely this that induced factories in that district to install cool rooms. Once installed, there is little additional expense, practically nothing need be allowed for depreciation of plant. The cool room at Woodstock, which has now been running eight years, is as sound as possible. It has not depreciated one cent."

BE A CHARMING WOMAN

You never saw a beautiful woman who didn't have beautiful hair. The charms of a beautiful woman lie in her hair. Many women do not realise the attractions they possess because they do not give proper attention to the care of the hair.

The women of the "400" are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other women, but because they know how to keep young by supplying vigour, lustre, and strength to the hair.

Up to a few years ago Parisian Sage coul dhardly be obtained in America. But now this delightful hair restorer can be had in every town in America. Wm. Madill sells it in Peterborough for 50 cents a bottle, and he guarantees it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching scalp. Understand, Mr. Madill will give you your money back if it fails.

SOME FEATURES OF DAIRYING

From Farm and Dairy.

L. J. Hankinson, Elgin Co., Ont.

One of the first questions that confronted me and one that confronts most young men about to launch out in farming for themselves, was, what particular line of agriculture am I to pursue? After considering the matter for some time, and experimenting a little in a small way I came to the conclusion to follow mixed farming with dairying as a specialty.

A man must have a liking and an adaptability for the particular branch of agriculture he undertakes. Some men are born horsemen; others breeders of beef cattle, while still others are born "with a milk pail in their hands." This perhaps is one of the principle reasons why I decided to undertake dairy farming. No matter what one undertakes, that which he most likes is where he generally makes the most success.

A CASH BUSINESS.

One of the outstanding advantages of dairying farming is that it is what we might call a strictly cash producing business. No matter whether we run a home dairy, patronize a creamery or cheese factory, or the condensed milk factory, the outcome is the same. We receive our remuneration weekly, or monthly, as the case may be. And just here is where dairy farming has a great advantage over most other lines of farming. In most other lines we receive our income once or twice a year, while in dairying our income is divided evenly throughout the entire year; thus enabling us to meet our obligations as they appear, or in other words doing a cash business.

PITS IN WITH SWINE.

Another important feature of the dairy farm is its adaptability in connection with other branches of farming. It is almost indispensable to the swine breeder and feeder. The by-products of the dairy being utilized in the breeding of swine. The farmers to-day that are making the money feeding bacon hogs, are those who are growing hogs in connection with their dairy, skim milk or whey being almost indispensable in compounding a profitable ration for growing and fattening swine. This is a secondary, but none the less important source of income from dairy farming that no other branch of farming affords.

There is no line of farming by which I can maintain the fertility of the soil as through dairy farming. The dairy cow consumes large quantities of roughage which insures a large quantity of manure. The ration of the dairy cow is made up of clover, ensilage, and mill by-products, all of which have a large value as fertilizers. These feeds after being consumed by the cow are partly secreted as milk and partly returned to the land as manure. The milk by-products being returned to the land when fed to calves and pigs in the form of skim milk and whey.

STEADY EMPLOYMENT.

Another feature in connection with dairy farming that has appealed to me, is that it gives employment for the hired help the year round. The average farmer only retains his help while the busy seasons are on, thus being put to the necessity of hiring each spring, while the dairyman can profitably find work for the help the year through. He is then able to retain the good workmen from year to year, making an advantage to himself and furnishing employment to the laborer who would otherwise be idle through the winter months.

These features of the business have so manifested themselves to me that I feel no hesitancy in saying that, providing one has the adaptability, that there is both pleasure and profit in the management of a well equipped dairy farm.

NEGLECT OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

From Farm and Dairy.

Neglect to properly house their implements costs farmers fabulous sums annually. In the rush of farm work, implements are left where they were last used. Where implement sheds are provided, they are often inconveniently situated, have doors difficult to open, and are incommodious. As a rule, the shed offers little inducement to any one to make the use of it for which it is intended. Oftener, however, the implement shed is lacking, and the barn floors furnish the only storehouse. As space is required for storing hay and grain, the implements are summarily turned out and allowed to suffer from the ravages of the elements. Such, in one sense, is good business for the manufacturer and his agents. It is extremely bad business for the farmer.

One of the best appointed farms in regard to this matter of storage for implements that it has been our privilege to inspect is that of Mr. E. Terrill's, one of the farms in Northumberland County, that is entered in the Dairy Farms Competition. Mr. Terrill has two long implement sheds, conveniently situated near the barn, one on either side of his farm lane. He makes use of them. Anything in the shape of an implement with wheels must be brought to the shed each night. No excuse is allowed for leaving them in the neld. A good wide lane, with wide, well hung gates in each field, makes it an easy matter to bring the machinery to the sheds. Mr. Terrill is very particular about having his machinery housed and quickly reprimands his men for any neglect in this respect.

Others may well adopt Mr. Terrill's policy in this particular. Those who have houses for their machinery should use them, while those now using make-shifts, ranging from the hen coop to the barn floor, will serve their best interests by providing suitable accommodation for their machinery.

New Fisheries Regulations.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Information has been received by the Government to the effect that the new international regulations to govern the fisheries of Canada and the United States agreed to by Prof. E. E. Prince and Prof. David Starr Jordan will not go into effect until 1911. They will be published simultaneously in December next, so that a full year's notice will be given to all concerned.

Child Killed by Train.

Hagersville, Aug. 5.—Yesterday morning about five miles from Hagersville, the two-year-old son of Mrs. J. Fyfe, while playing on the railway track, was struck and instantly killed by a train.

About 18 months ago the child's father, during a snowstorm, was killed about the same place by the train.

The crossing is a level one.

Loses Hand In Threshing Machine.

St. Mary's, Aug. 5.—At the farm of W. H. Graham, when John McMaster, employed by R. S. Laug, implement agent, had his left hand taken off just above the wrist in the cutting box of a new threshing machine which was being put in operation for the first time. McMaster was helping to put up the machine.

I.C.R. Loss by Fire.

Halifax, Aug. 5.—The loss to the I.C.R. as a result of fire at Richmond will be under $10,000. Twenty-four cars were burned, including 1 box cars, one flat car and ten coal hoppers. There was between 1,000 and 1,500 tons of coal in the shed, and half of it was lost.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A very slight earthquake was felt in San Francisco yesterday.

Twenty thousand garment workers are on strike in New York City.

The purchase price by A. E. Rae of the Lindsay Co. of Ottawa is put at $500,000.

George Gould of Brantford was fined $50 and costs for slashing Wesley Scott with a razor.

King Manuel of Portugal has accepted an invitation from King Edward to visit England in the early autumn.

William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R., will be allowed to remain in the service until he is 67, or two years over the regular superannuation limit.

Percy Woodruff, an aeronaut, who has figured in several sensational balloon ascensions in the east, was drowned by the upsetting of a launch in the Hudson off Yonkers, N.Y.

The plans for the visit of Lord Charles Beresford, with Premier Whitney, the Cabinet Ministers and other members of the Legislature, include a seven-hour daylight visit to Cobalt.

Winnipeg and western labor men intend to run W. J. Bartless, ex-president of the Trades and Labor Congress, for president of the Dominion Trades Congress, which meets in Quebec in September.

Prince Hermann of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, the heir presumptive to the Grand Duchy of Weimar, has renounced the succession of himself or his heirs to the throne of the Grand Duchy or its property in consequence of the prince's extravagance.

The Nipissing Mining Co. has devised a means to stop the illegal sale of liquor in their part of Cobalt. In the new leases one of the clauses reads that if one conviction has been registered against any of the lessees of the land or any of his tenants, the lease will be promptly cancelled.

Prohibition Bad for Cities.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—"That the establishment of prohibition in Chicago, or other large cities, would be impracticable and would put a premium on the illegal sale of intoxicating drinks," was the opinion expressed yesterday by Cardinal James Gibbons of Baltimore.

Coming from the only cardinal of the Roman Church in America, and in Chicago at a time when fifteen thousand Catholic total abstinence advocates are gathering here to adopt measures for a further advancement of their cause, the observations of Cardinal Gibbons are considered of especial importance.

"In the rural parts of the country and in the smaller towns and cities there are signs of progress which must mean widespread prohibition. However much I am in favor of total abstinence, though, I fear that in the larger cities like Chicago it would not prove feasible," he said.

Suicides After Whipping.

Harrisburg, Aug. 5.—Because she had received a whipping in the morning, thirteen-year-old Clara Braithwaite last evening hanged herself in her father's orchard.

She chose a tree which her father, G. J. Braithwaite, an hotelkeeper, would pass on his way home.

Neighbors, however, discovered the body about 7 o'clock, when it was thought there were signs of life, but as telephone wires were out of order it was not for over an hour that doctors could be secured.

The little girl had hanged herself with a strap, and she had drawn her legs up to be clear of the ground.

It appears the girl had been chastised by her stepmother yesterday morning. She was around the village yesterday in a despondent mood, and was seen in the vicinity in which the body was found. She had been out gathering apples previous to this at a neighbors.

Perhaps Fatally Hurt.

Guelph, Aug. 5.—Arthur Skinner, commercial traveler, brother of Dr. Skinner, sustained serious injuries yesterday morning and may not recover. Falling from a load of hay, he was trampled under the feet of the frightened horses.

With the intention of working on the farm for a short time for his health, Skinner had gone to the country. Yesterday morning was his first on the farm.

New Cable Line.

New York, Aug. 5.—The Colonia, the cable-laying steamship of the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance Co. of London has arrived in port, having just completed the laying of the Commercial Cable Co.'s new cable from St. John's, Nfld., to New York.

Long before the Colonia's big gray hull loomed up through the mist of the early morning the cable was carrying messages through the station at Cuckhold Cove, near St. John's, at the rate of 50 words a minute, and, according to the experts of the cable company, was showing excellent electric qualities.

According to Engineer Petley, the shore end of the cable weighs about 16 tons to the mile, while the deep sea cable, but an inch in diameter, weighs one-eighth as much. In the sweep of the circle made from St. John's here to avoid shoals the cable lies for more than 150 miles in 3,000 fathoms, or 18,000 feet, of water.

French Gold for Canada.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Lemoyne De Martigny, a French Canadian banker, who has for twenty years resided in Paris, where he also represents L. J. Forget & Co., is now in the city and says that the time is very ripe for educational work amongst French capitalists as to the resources of the Dominion.

They are, he says, particularly well disposed towards us, and all they want is the knowledge that the investment is safe.

He says it was a great pity that C.P.R. shares had not got into the hands of French investors, when they went to Hollanders many years ago for such a transaction would have been a great "ad" for Canada all these years on the French money market

HAIL RUINS WHEAT.

Heavy Damage Done to Crops in the Province of Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—Great damage by hail was done during the past twenty-four hours throughout Manitoba. Around Thornhill over seven thousand acres were thrashed out entirely. A large area around Strathclair suffered similarly, while Birtle, Carman and Stonewall also report severe damage. Around Pierson it is estimated that 175,000 bushels have been destroyed.

At Glenboro, Man., wheat cutting has commenced, L. McFadden having started his binder on Tuesday in a forty-acre field. He reports a good crop, and the sample promises to be of high standard. Numerous farmers are busy cutting oats and barley. Farm laborers are scarce, and the demand is great.

Portage la Prairie—Wheat-cutting started yesterday near Burnside. Barley and oat thrashing also begins this week.

Carman—Farmers are busy harvesting barley in Dufferin, and some expect to start in on wheat next week.

ANOTHER STRIKE FEARED.

Trouble Expected From Miners at North Sydney, N.S.

North Sydney, N.S., Aug. 5.—An official of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. is authority for the statement that the company look forward to a strike of the U.M.W. miners in their collieries as inevitable in the near future.

An active supporter of the U.M.W. said last night that there would be no strike at Sydney Mines. At No. 3 colliery, where he is employed and where about 90 per cent. of the men are U.M.W. supporters, there is no talk at present of such a step. There is a good deal of dissatisfaction among the men with the recent award of the conciliation board. The chief issue is recognition of the union, which the company is not disposed to grant.

Manager T. J. Brown is at present in New Glasgow, where a conference is being held by the chiefs of the Nova Scotia Steel Co.

The U.M.W. have very little strength in Sydney Mines, Florence being the only point in which they outnumber the F.W.A.

Aviators Will Be Cautious.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 5.—So rapid has been the progress of assembling Baddeck No. 1 that unless something unforseen happens the new aerodrome will be completely set up by Friday. The framework is ready for the motor, one wing and bow control have been attached, and the other wing is nearly ready.

A feature of the new machine is the entire absence of parts which cause any air resistance. The conical shaped gasoline tank is not seen, and the space formed by the construction of the double surfaces is utilized for the purpose. The radiator, common with all automobile motors, is inserted at the side. Wood has been displaced by steel and aluminum for the body.

Stories that flights over the Ottawa River may be attempted are fictitious. All tests will be developed when the performance of the aerodrome is seen. The aviators will proceed with caution.

Elopes With Heiress.

New York, Aug. 5.—It became known yesterday that on Saturday Miss Dorothy Lehrmann of Montclair, N.J., and Harry E. Marten of Calgary, Alberta, were married by Rev. Dr. Houghton of the "Little Church Around the Corner."

The fact of their elopment was made known by a letter received here yesterday by her sister, Mrs. Henry J. Lehrmann. The bride wrote the facts en route to her Canadian home.

The bride is an heiress, having inherited considerable money from her father's estate. Mr. Marten owns a large wheat farm near Calgary, and is also known to society in Toronto. The bride is well connected, pretty and a skilled musician.

Somnambulist Plunges to Death.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 5.—Victor Nicholson, a 15-year-old boy, plunged from a third storey window last night and fell 40 feet, crushing his skull, from the effects of which he died.

Nicholson was a somnambulist and arose from his bed while asleep. His mother heard a noise in his room and rushed in to find her son climbing out of the widow. She attempted to catch him but could not.

Boy Beats Sister to Death.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 5.—While Jos. Isset and wife (colored) of Boylston, Guysboro County, were away on a picnic Tuesday, a son 11 years of age, tied his six year sister to a ladder, and beat her to death.

The boy who is charged with the deed, was arrested. Two brothers, one younger and another older, are held as accomplices.

Hay at $200 Per Ton.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—C.P.R. Colonization Agent Armstrong, who is just back from the mining country, states that contracts have been made for the delivery of hay at $200 per ton in Gowganda. The contract is held by the Bisco-Gowganda Transport Co. and Mr. Armstrong says that the company considers the price on the low side.

To Enlarge Thorold Smelter.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 5.—So greatly has its business grown that the large smelter at Thorold is to be enlarged so that all the ore offered it can be attended to. The ore all comes from Cobalt, and before it gets there is refined to some extent.

Bisley Team Near Home.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—The steamer Tunisian, with the Canadian Bisley team on board, passed through the Straits of Belle Isle yesterday. The officials of the Allan Line expect the vessel to reach Quebec at 2 o'clock to-morrow morning and Montreal in the evening. While no official reception has been arranged there is every indication of a rousing welcome.

Fortune for Eva Strangway.

New York, Aug. 5.—The Herald says: If Eva Fox Strangway, a young English woman, who in September, 1907, was arrested in Toronto and was sentenced here to ten years' imprisonment, charged with having given dressmakers worthless checks, will go to the Tombs and ask for Rev. George Sanderson, chaplain, she will be placed in possession of information by which she may come into a large legacy, left by a relative in Ireland.

Centenarian Dies.

London, Ont., Aug. 5.—Alex. M. Scott died last night, aged 100 years and two months. He served under Papineau in 1837, was in California during the gold rush and was a veteran of the American civil war. He had lived here 40 years.

His father lived to be 107, and a sister died in Scotland three years ago aged 102. Of a family of six, the youngest to die was 96.

Smelting of Ores.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 5.—Dr. Haanel, director of mines, has prepared a report on the electric smelting of ores, which from experiments in Sweden and at Sault Ste. Marie, he believes can be carried on to great advantage in Canada. In Sweden the process costs $12.40 per short ton, and Dr. Haanel believes that the figure will be lower in Canada where great water powers exist.

TEMPORARY HOSPITAL FOR SCARLET FEVER PATIENTS

Board of Health Appoint Medical Health Officer With Alderman Bradburn to Deal With the Question, Giving Them Power to Act—Discussed Matter This Morning.

TO RELIEVE EXPENSE

A meeting of the Board of Health was held this morning with Dr. Burnham in the chair and Messrs. Edgar, Murty, and Mayor Rush present. The most important subject discussed was a temporary hospital for scarlet fever patients. It was felt that something should be done until the isolation hospital is constructed. It was finally moved by Messrs. Edgar and Murty that Dr. McPherson and Ald. Bradburn be left in charge of the matter and be empowered to take action. Dr. McPherson felt that some provision should be made in order to relieve the expense suffered by those families from whose residence a patient is taken. The structure would be a cheap affair if decided upon, and would be built on the Hilliard property. The cost would not be great as the idea is to erect only a temporary affair. A meeting of the property committee will likely be called in a day or so, and the question will be discussed by the committee with Dr. McPherson.

CANADA TO BEGIN AT ONCE TO CO-OPERATE

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

London, Aug. 5.—Sir Frederick Borden, speaking at the United Service Club dinner, said: "They, in Canada, were going to begin at once to do their duty to lay the foundation in the building up of a navy which would cooperate with and be part, when trouble arose, of Great Britain's navy.

FOUND LOST DOG

P. C. Newhall Recovered Dr. Halliday's Yorkshire Terrier Yesterday.

Dr. Halliday's famous little Yorkshire terrier, which strayed from home the other day, was found yesterday by P. C. Newhall, at 116 Sophia St., where the parties claimed the dog followed them home. However, it is said, that a case in the police court may yet develop out of it. The dog was bearing the name of the owner on the collar, and this should be a warning to people who harbour dogs that are not their own.

STONY LAKE REGATTA

On Monday Next—A Fine Programme Arranged

The annual Stony Lake regatta which will be held off Juniper Island on Monday next, commencing at half-past one, promises to be a bigger success than ever before. A fine programme of aquatic sports has been arranged and the different events will no doubt be very keenly contested.

In the evening a programme will be given from nine to ten o'clock, after which dancing will be enjoyed.

The programme of events is as follows:

1.—Men's single canoe, silver cup, presented by H. T. Woodroofe.

SEQUEL OF VISIT OF THE REGIMENTS

Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., is the Examiner's authority for the statement that on behalf of his client, Alf. Kingscote, he has written a letter to Ald. J. J. Turner to the effect that by virtue of his relations to the contract with the city for the decorating of the streets on the occasion of the visit of the Brantford Rifles and the St. Catharines regiment, he has invalidated his position as alderman. In the letter Mr. Poussette stated that Ald. Turner had jeopardized his position on the Council and asked him to resign. His client states that he will take the case to court if his demand is not complied with. The grounds of Mr. Kingscote's action is not alone confined to the case of May 24th. It is learned that an alderman who has any contract with the city through the Council, invalidates his position.

EVERYTHING BUT GAS

Galt Syndicate Struck Salt, Sulphur and Pure Water.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 5.—A Galt citizen returned to-night from the neighbouring village of Plattville, and reports the extraordinary experiences of a local syndicate formed to bore for natural gas. With a capital of $10,000 and the services of a Petrolea expert, operations were begun in the east end. At a depth of 1,000 feet a salt vein was struck. Fresh boring was then undertaken at a point west, with the result that a sulphur well developed. A third effort to reach gas was made, at what was pronounced the most likely spot, but only an artesian well of great volume and force was the result.

Sent To Jail For A Month

Theresa McGrath, Charged With Vagrancy, at the Police Court —Refuses to Stay at House of Providence.

SHE PLEADED GUILTY

Theresa McGrath, the poor unfortunate woman who, about two months ago, was struck by the C.P.R. train near Maria street, East City, has fully recovered from the injuries received on that occasion but is without a home, or any means by which she can support herself. She refuses to stay at the House of Providence and this morning appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court, on a charge of vagrancy. She pleaded guilty and was given one month in the county gaol.

Will Erect A New Theatre

Mr. W. A. Edwards of the Crystal to Erect a Fine New Moving Picture House—Have Seating Capacity of 800.

TO BEGIN AT ONCE

Mr. W. Edwards, manager of the Crystal theatorium, returned yesterday from Berlin, where he had been consulting his partner, Mr. Oscar Rumple. Mr. Edwards informed an Examiner reporter this morning that it was their intention to erect a handsome new moving picture theatre here in Peterborough, with a seating accommodation of eight hundred. Mr. Edwards was not prepared to state just where the new place would be situated. They were considering several locations. The theatre would be commenced just as soon as a suitable property was secured. No time would be lost as it was intended to have the play house ready for opening this fall.

The Crystal would be still run on and the programme at the new theatre would be along the same lines as that presented at the Majestic in Toronto. It will be an up-to-date moving picture show.

PETERBOROUGH POPULAR AS AN OBJECTIVE POINT FOR OUTINGS

Excursions Here This Summer Have Averaged Almost One a Day—Alderman Speaks on the Matter of Appointing a Commissioner.

FOUR HERE THIS WEEK

Peterborough as the objective point for excursions seems to have most cities of its size in Ontario greatly outclassed, judging from the large number that has been here during the past two months. There has not been a week go by in the time that has not seen three or four excursions come. This week, however has probably eclipsed all others. Monday there were two, bringing over fourteen hundred people and each day since there has been one. "Peterborough is getting to be quite an excursion town," is a remark that has been frequently made by numerous citizens during the past few days. This summer, more than any other, has seen some large excursions come from such places, as Toronto, Barrie, Coldwater, Fenelon Falls, Port Hope, Lindsay, Tweed, Bowmanville and numerous other places and it is the most striking evidence of the very wide reputation that Peterborough enjoys as an ideal place for an outing.

An alderman remarked to an Examiner reporter the other day that he thought there was no reason why there should not be an excursion here daily. It was the best advertisement that could possibly be given the city, and in this connection he spoke in hearty approval of the suggestion made at a Council meeting early in the year, pointing out the advisability of having a city commissioner whose duties would be those of a publicity agent, to endeavour to bring excursions, and conventions here.

That Peterborough possesses many attractive features that are not in common with any other places, there is no doubt, and the alderman who expressed himself on the matter, firmly believed that it would be in the city's best interests to appoint a commissioner as suggested. Peterborough is ideally situated and a holiday can be spent most advantageously here. For those who come sightseeing, this town has plenty to offer. The largest Lift Lock in the world has brought many tourists from all parts of the world to see it, and the Otonabee river and the Kawartha chain of lakes affords one an opportunity to take in some of the most beautiful scenery in Canada. With the splendid boat service that is given, the Lift Lock and the lakes are probably the most attractive features that induce people to come here. The parks conveniently situated are very pretty and those desiring to hold sports are provided with most suitable places for doing so.

A very pleasing fact is that excursionists always go away well satisfied with a day spent here and with but few exceptions are loud in their praises of Peterborough as a place to enjoy a holiday.

WILL NOT GRANT DAMAGE CLAIMS

At the meeting of the Board of Health this morning several bills were received from parties who had members of their families confined in the isolation tens on the Hilliard farm. Messrs. LeBar and Larone asked for compensation for lost time owing to the quarantine they had to be placed under, and for other expenses incurred through the illness. The Board have had a number of requests of this nature before this morning and with each and every one they decided to take no action. One of the members stated that in Kingston the citizens, who had been received at the isolation hospital had to pay the expense which they had cost the town. This included their board and other incidentals. This it was stated should be the condition in Peterborough, but in reality the situation is reversed and the people are trying to collect from the city. The Board is a unit in their decision to make no payments to these parties.

PARTY HAS RETURNED

From a Two Weeks' Outing on the Otonabee—Caught Some Fine Fish

The jolly party who have been occupying the C.G.E. Anglers' cottage on the Otonabee river for the past week have returned to the city after a most enjoyable outing. Those who comprised the party were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Davis, Misses S. N. Sabin, of Cleveland, L. Whitcroft, Julia and Aggie Sabin, Mabel Williams and Messrs. Ernie Poole, Walter and Olmer Greenwood and Master Donald Sabin.

The party caught over one hundred pounds of lunge, Miss C. N. Sabin landing a twelve-pounder, and Miss L. Whitcroft, two smaller ones.

BRUTAL LACROSSE

Lacrosse is perhaps the best of all games to watch. Certainly it has been one of the most popular in Canada. It affords great scope for athletic prowess—for alertness of mind, quickness of eye, accuracy of aim and fleetness of limb. The fact that it was played by the aboriginal inhabitants and is, therefore, indigenous to the country appeals in a measure to the patriotic instincts of its devotees. The national game deserves to be preserved and popularized, and for that reason every effort should be made to keep the rowdy element from getting control of it. Such exhibitions of roughness and extreme bad temper as occurred in the Toronto-Tecumseh match must be suppressed if the game is to hold its own and to be seen at its best. The police can do something to prevent brutality on the field, but chiefly it rests with the National Lacrosse Union to make the pastime clean and above reproach. No player who cannot control his temper within reasonable bounds should be allowed to enter a contest.

The steamer Stoney Lake will leave Juniper Island at 11 o'clock p.m. (after the concert and dance) for Lakefield, where connection will be made with a special train for Peterborough. 1d-29.

PETERBOROUGH MEN IN THE GYPSY CASE

Messrs. Mitchell, Dunlop and Williams Testify in Regard to Marriage Supposed to Have Been Held Here—What They Expect to Get for Going to Ottawa to Give Evidence.

CHARGE OF PERJURY

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—The gypsy cases were resumed in the Hull court yesterday. The first to come up was the perjury charge against the Stokes and Alexis Miguel and wife. There were present as witnesses for the Mexicans, three men from Peterborough, Constables George Mitchell, Thos. Williams and Darcy Dunlop. Constable Mitchell was called this morning. In his evidence, he stated that he was present at the Mexican camp when a ceremony took place which he was told was the marriage of the girl, Katrina Alexis, to a boy named Sterio.

He was at the camp in the capacity of a special constable appointed by the warden of the county. He said that the gypsies had not offered him money to come to Ottawa, but they said that they would make it right with him. For coming to the court to give evidence, he hoped, he said, to receive his railroad fare and expenses and about $2.00 per day from the gypsies. Williams and Dunlop will be called to testify to the effect that they were also present at the alleged wedding of the girl and boy.

On the table in the court room today was a big brass tray on which was a wine bottle covered with a silken cloth, and around the neck of which was a great string of gold coins. The gypsies allege that on this brass tray they placed the $1,000 that they paid for the girl before she was married into the tribe. It is their custom, it seems, to drink wine out of the bottle on the day after the ceremony. There are many witnesses to call and it is very probable that the cases will last for two days at least.

FOR STEALING APPLES

Two Youths Fined $1 in Police Court This Morning.

Two youths appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, on a charge of stealing apples. They pleaded guilty and each was fined one dollar to be paid in two days. Another charge was preferred against them, that of throwing stones at a little boy. His Worship, however allowed them to go on this, imposing the fine in the first case only.

IN AGONY WITH PILES

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

CURTISS---HE MAY OUT-WRIGHT THE WRIGHTS; HE DODGES THINGS LIKE A HUMMING BIRD

By W. G. Shepherd.

Mineola, L.I., Aug. 4.—While the Wrights have been testing and retesting their machine at Fort Meyer a young man here has been making flights nearly every day in an aeroplane, which may soon become a powerful rival of the machine of the Dayton brothers.

He is Glen H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N.Y., 30 years old, protege of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell.

While the Wrights at Washington were complaining about the size of the field at Ft. Myer, Curtiss was flying at Morris Park, N.Y., amid surroundings that would have made the Wrights shudder.

At Ft. Meyer I saw the soldiers remove three telephone poles, on the edge of the field, at the order of the Wrights, and cut down scores of small trees that lined the testing ground. I heard the Wrights continually complain about the size of the field.

But at Morris Park I saw Curtiss in his aeroplane sail over fences and sheds, past flagpoles, trees and posts. The great grand stand did not daunt him, and when he approached it he dipped down below its roof so that every person there seated might view him and his machine as they swept through space. At this particular moment, on one side of him was a mass of high trees, surrounding a shed.

So perfectly was his flyer under control that he moved in and out between the obstructions, darting about like a fire fly.

The Wrights would not have attempted, under any conditions, a flight amid such surroundings.

Curtiss will also seek honours abroad, for at Rheims, France, in the autumn, he is to fly, as representative of the American Aero club in the international contest.

"My machine weighs less than the Wrights'", says Curtis, "but it carries only one passenger. My engine weighs only 85 pounds, and develops 25-horsepower. Their engine is very much heavier than mine.

"The Wrights will have to show in court that my machine is an infringement on theirs. I have talked with both Wilbur and Orville about the matter. They claim that my warping apparatus the action of which, in the air, has to be offset by the action of the rudder, is an infringment on their patent. Their patent covers a combination of warping apparatus and rudder. I know they have to use their rudder to keep their balance when warping. But I don't have to do that. I can use my warping planes without touching my rudder.

'Tis Not Easy to Fly, Says New Competitor of Wrights.

"It's not easy to fly in an aeroplane," says Glenn H. Curtiss. "There are so many things to do that it takes some time to learn how to do them. Rub your stomach with a circular movement with your right hand and pat your head with your left hand. Try it! You can learn to do it, if you practise enough. Well that's the same difficulty you face in learning to fly. You may have to move your shoulders one way, turn your steering wheel another, and at the same time, either push your wheel away from you or draw it toward you.

"The only way to learn to fly is to learn these motions separately and then learn them together, remembering that any mistake is likely to be dangerous."

In Stopping, Curtiss' Machine Beats Wrights'.

One decided advance in the Curtiss machine is its balance, which is so

PRINTERS' PIC-NIC PERPETRATED ON CIVIC HOLIDAY, AUGUST NINTH

Good printers always make a good "impression," both in the press room and with the public in the matter of picnics. They have given "proof" of this in the past, and the next picnic, on Civic Holiday, August 9th, will be of the best.

This picnic, will, in printers' parlance, be a "pick-up," that is a clean gain in the way of enjoyment, a stroke of good luck for those wise enough to attend.

The picnic, which will be made a "sample copy," will be managed with a single eye to making it a success, such as has never been scored in the way of picnics.

Everything that can possibly be done to win pleasure for its patrons, the public, will be done—a good, staunch steamer to carry the excursionists, plenty of room, so that there will be no need for "thin-spacing." A beautiful steam down the winding Otonabee to beautiful Ilyl Wyld.

Here first class arrangements insure the best of meals.

Excellent music will be provided to brighten the delights of the voyage—music to cheer the souls of the sober minded and music to stimulate the heels of the hilarious.

At Idyl Wyld, in addition to the usual picnic delights, there will be run off a splendid "take" of sports, and games, and for beautiful and varied prizes.

THE prize—in "caps"—will be a splendid dinner set offered by Hon. J. R. Stratton. The winning of this is open to the world, and it will be a prize worthy of a printer's "set up."

There will be prizes to suit all sexes and conditions, such as parasols, brooches, pins, etc., for the ladies; and pocket knives, pen knives, pipes, and other articles of bric-a-bac appealing to masculine possession.

There have been provided at great expense—prizes open for competition by printers only. There will be the grand prize, a beautiful runabout (commonly designated a wheel barrow) and secondly, a curry comb and brush, value 20 cents, and a handsome cheque (-overdraw)-.

The Printers' Picnic has always been a popular outing, and this year it will be better than ever.

The "first edition" of the Picnic "will go to press" at the Wolfe Street wharf at 8 o'clock sharp on Monday morning, Aug. 9th, (Civic Holiday), and the second edition at 8.30, at the Street Railway wharf.

Subscription, payable strictly in advance—only 50 cents. In the case of children, the subscription has been reduced to 25 cents. The committee of arrangements and management are "live matter" and not a "stone" will be left unturned to make the Printers' picnic of 1909 a "super-royal," "full-leather" bound, and "gilt-edged" success.

Then come with the Printers to fair Idyl-Wyld—
Come lover and sweetheart; come parent and child.
The Printers will dish up abundance of "pi."
And the "font" of enjoyment will never run dry.
Fifty cents for an adult, half-less, girl or boy,
Will furnish a treat overflowing with joy.
Then come to the Picnic on August the ninth,
Be in with the first, not with the behindth.

TEMPORARY HOSPITAL FOR SCARLET FEVER PATIENTS

Board of Health Appoint Medical Health Officer With Alderman Bradburn to Deal With the Question, Giving Them Power to Act—Discussed Matter This Morning.

TO RELIEVE EXPENSE

A meeting of the Board of Health was held this morning with Dr. Burnham in the chair and Messrs. Edgar, Murty, and Mayor Rush present. The most important subject discussed was a temporary hospital for scarlet fever patients. It was felt that something should be done until the isolation hospital is constructed. It was finally moved by Messrs. Edgar and Murty that Dr. McPherson and Ald. Bradburn be left in charge of the matter and be empowered to take action. Dr. McPherson felt that some provision should be made in order to relieve the expense suffered by those families from whose residence a patient is taken. The structure would be a cheap affair if decided upon, and would be built on the Hilliard property. The cost would not be great as the idea is to erect only a temporary affair. A meeting of the property committee will likely be called in a day or so, and the question will be discussed by the committee with Dr. McPherson.

CANADA TO BEGIN AT ONCE TO CO-OPERATE

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

London, Aug. 5.—Sir Frederick Borden, speaking at the United Service Club dinner, said: "They, in Canada, were going to begin at once to do their duty to lay the foundation in the building up of a navy which would cooperate with and be part, when trouble arose, of Great Britain's navy.

FOUND LOST DOG

P. C. Newhall Recovered Dr. Halliday's Yorkshire Terrier Yesterday.

Dr. Halliday's famous little Yorkshire terrier, which strayed from home the other day, was found yesterday by P. C. Newhall, at 116 Sophia St., where the parties claimed the dog followed them home. However, it is said, that a case in the police court may yet develop out of it. The dog was bearing the name of the owner on the collar, and this should be a warning to people who harbour dogs that are not their own.

STONY LAKE REGATTA

On Monday Next—A Fine Programme Arranged

The annual Stony Lake regatta which will be held off Juniper Island on Monday next, commencing at half-past one, promises to be a bigger success than ever before. A fine programme of aquatic sports has been arranged and the different events will no doubt be very keenly contested.

In the evening a programme will be given from nine to ten o'clock, after which dancing will be enjoyed.

The programme of events is as follows:

1.—Men's single canoe, silver cup, presented by H. T. Woodroofe.
2.—Dinghy race, silver cup, presented by Hon. Geo. A. Cox.
3.—Open sailing race, silver cup, presented by Hon. J. R. Stratton.

SEQUEL OF VISIT OF THE REGIMENTS

Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., is the Examiner's authority for the statement that on behalf of his client, Alf. Kingscote, he has written a letter to Ald. J. J. Turner to the effect that by virtue of his relations to the contract with the city for the decorating of the streets on the occasion of the visit of the Brantford Rifles and the St. Catharines regiment, he has invalidated his position as alderman. In the letter Mr. Poussette stated that Ald. Turner had jeopardized his position on the Council and asked him to resign. His client states that he will take the case to court if his demand is not complied with. The grounds of Mr. Kingscote's action is not alone confined to the case of May 24th. It is learned that an alderman who has any contract with the city through the Council, invalidates his position.

EVERYTHING BUT GAS

Galt Syndicate Struck Salt, Sulphur and Pure Water.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 5.—A Galt citizen returned to-night from the neighbouring village of Plattville, and reports the extraordinary experiences of a local syndicate formed to bore for natural gas. With a capital of $10,000 and the services of a Petrolea expert, operations were begun in the east end. At a depth of 1,000 feet a salt vein was struck. Fresh boring was then undertaken at a point west, with the result that a sulphur well developed. A third effort to reach gas was made, at what was pronounced the most likely spot, but only an artesian well of great volume and force was the result.

Sent To Jail For A Month

Theresa McGrath, Charged With Vagrancy, at the Police Court —Refuses to Stay at House of Providence.

SHE PLEADED GUILTY

Theresa McGrath, the poor unfortunate woman who, about two months ago, was struck by the C.P.R. train near Maria street, East City, has fully recovered from the injuries received on that occasion but is without a home, or any means by which she can support herself. She refuses to stay at the House of Providence and this morning appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court, on a charge of vagrancy. She pleaded guilty and was given one month in the county gaol.

Will Erect A New Theatre

Mr. W. A. Edwards of the Crystal to Erect a Fine New Moving Picture House—Have Seating Capacity of 800.

TO BEGIN AT ONCE

Mr. W. Edwards, manager of the Crystal theatorium, returned yesterday from Berlin, where he had been consulting his partner, Mr. Oscar Rumple. Mr. Edwards informed an Examiner reporter this morning that it was their intention to erect a handsome new moving picture theatre here in Peterborough, with a seating accommodation of eight hundred. Mr. Edwards was not prepared to state just where the new place would be situated. They were considering several locations. The theatre would be commenced just as soon as a suitable property was secured. No time would be lost as it was intended to have the play house ready for opening this fall.

The Crystal would be still run on and the programme at the new theatre would be along the same lines as that presented at the Majestic in Toronto. It will be an up-to-date moving picture show.

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

CURTISS---HE MAY OUT-WRIGHT THE WRIGHTS; HE DODGES THINGS LIKE A HUMMING BIRD

By W. G. Shepherd.

Mineola, L.I., Aug. 4.—While the Wrights have been testing and retesting their machine at Fort Meyer a young man here has been making flights nearly every day in an aeroplane, which may soon become a powerful rival of the machine of the Dayton brothers.

He is Glen H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N.Y., 30 years old, protege of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell.

While the Wrights at Washington were complaining about the size of the field at Ft. Myer, Curtiss was flying at Morris Park, N.Y., amid surroundings that would have made the Wrights shudder.

At Ft. Meyer I saw the soldiers remove three telephone poles, on the edge of the field, at the order of the Wrights, and cut down scores of small trees that lined the testing ground. I heard the Wrights continually complain about the size of the field.

But at Morris Park I saw Curtiss in his aeroplane sail over fences and sheds, past flagpoles, trees and posts. The great grand stand did not daunt him, and when he approached it he dipped down below its roof so that every person there seated might view him and his machine as they swept through space. At this particular moment, on one side of him was a mass of high trees, surrounding a shed.

So perfectly was his flyer under control that he moved in and out between the obstructions, darting about like a fire fly.

The Wrights would not have attempted, under any conditions, a flight amid such surroundings.

Curtiss will also seek honours abroad, for at Rheims, France, in the autumn, he is to fly, as representative of the American Aero club in the international contest.

"My machine weighs less than the Wrights'", says Curtis, "but it carries only one passenger. My engine weighs only 85 pounds, and develops 25-horsepower. Their engine is very much heavier than mine.

"The Wrights will have to show in court that my machine is an infringement on theirs. I have talked with both Wilbur and Orville about the matter. They claim that my warping apparatus the action of which, in the air, has to be offset by the action of the rudder, is an infringment on their patent. Their patent covers a combination of warping apparatus and rudder. I know they have to use their rudder to keep their balance when warping. But I don't have to do that. I can use my warping planes without touching my rudder.

'Tis Not Easy to Fly, Says New Competitor of Wrights.

"It's not easy to fly in an aeroplane," says Glenn H. Curtiss. "There are so many things to do that it takes some time to learn how to do them. Rub your stomach with a circular movement with your right hand and pat your head with your left hand. Try it! You can learn to do it, if you practise enough. Well that's the same difficulty you face in learning to fly. You may have to move your shoulders one way, turn your steering wheel another, and at the same time, either push your wheel away from you or draw it toward you.

"The only way to learn to fly is to learn these motions separately and then learn them together, remembering that any mistake is likely to be dangerous."

In Stopping, Curtiss' Machine Beats Wrights'.

One decided advance in the Curtiss machine is its balance, which is so

PRINTERS' PIC-NIC PERPETRATED ON CIVIC HOLIDAY, AUGUST NINTH

Good printers always make a good "impression," both in the press room and with the public in the matter of picnics. They have given "proof" of this in the past, and the next picnic, on Civic Holiday, August 9th, will be of the best.

This picnic, will, in printers' parlance, be a "pick-up," that is a clean gain in the way of enjoyment, a stroke of good luck for those wise enough to attend.

The picnic, which will be made a "sample copy," will be managed with a single eye to making it a success, such as has never been scored in the way of picnics.

Everything that can possibly be done to win pleasure for its patrons, the public, will be done—a good, staunch steamer to carry the excursionists, plenty of room, so that there will be no need for "thin-spacing." A beautiful steam down the winding Otonabee to beautiful Idyl Wyld.

Here first class arrangements insure the best of meals.

Excellent music will be provided to brighten the delights of the voyage—music to cheer the souls of the sober minded and music to stimulate the heels of the hilarious.

At Idyl Wyld, in addition to the usual picnic delights, there will be run off a splendid "take" of sports, and games, and for beautiful and varied prizes.

THE prize—in "caps"—will be a splendid dinner set offered by Hon. J. R. Stratton. The winning of this is open to the world, and it will be a prize worthy of a printer's "set up."

There will be prizes to suit all sexes and conditions, such as parasols, brooches, pins, etc., for the ladies; and pocket knives, pen knives, pipes, and other articles of bric-a-bac appealing to masculine possession.

There have been provided at great expense—prizes open for competition by printers only. There will be the grand prize, a beautiful runabout (commonly designated a wheel barrow) and secondly, a curry comb and brush, value 20 cents, and a handsome cheque (-overdraw)-.

The Printers' Picnic has always been a popular outing, and this year it will be better than ever.

The "first edition" of the Picnic "will go to press" at the Wolfe Street wharf at 8 o'clock sharp on Monday morning, Aug. 9th, (Civic Holiday), and the second edition at 8.30, at the Street Railway wharf.

Subscription, payable strictly in advance—only 50 cents. In the case of children, the subscription has been reduced to 25 cents. The committee of arrangements and management are "live matter" and not a "stone" will be left unturned to make the Printers' picnic of 1909 a "super-royal," "full-leather" bound, and "gilt-edged" success.

Then come with the Printers to fair Idyl-Wyld—
Come lover and sweetheart; come parent and child.
The Printers will dish up abundance of "pi."
And the "font" of enjoyment will never run dry.
Fifty cents for an adult, half-less, girl or boy,
Will furnish a treat overflowing with joy.
Then come to the Picnic on August the ninth,
Be in with the first, not with the behindth.

AN ISOLATION HOSPITAL

The importance of the neglect of the city authorities to provide an isolation hospital is emphasized by the enforced action of the Board of Health in providing temporary accommodation rendered necessary by the continued prevalence of scarlet fever. It is proposed to erect a plain wooden structure and furnish it with necessary equipment at a total cost of $150. Now $150 for, at the best, a makeshift, represents the interest at 4 per cent. upon a capital of $3,750—for a building that will be worthless when it has served its temporary purpose; whereas a little more than double that expenditure would build a permanent isolation hospital available for all time and for all purposes for which such a building is intended. The city decided upon erecting an isolation hospital before a public library building was much more than thought of. The public library building is now in course of construction, though we have a home for the public library which has served us for more than a generation and could have been made to answer a little while longer. The conveniences of a modern public library could have been foregone for a little time without subjecting the public to any more inconvenience than they have been subjected to for years, without putting the public to large expense and without risk to the public health or even the life of our citizens. If we are to have an isolation hospital at all we should have it at once.

CORPORATIONS HAVE SOULS

We quote Coke as an authority and precedent for the commonly accepted statement that "corporations have no souls." But as in the case of almost everything, there are exceptions. A notable exception is the Metropolitan Life Assurance company. Recently the company revised its scale of benefits; considerably increasing them. Living policyholders, of course, share or will share in these increased benefits, and the management of the company was struck with the idea that in equity these increased benefits should be retro-active. Consequently in thousands of cases on policies which had become claims between Jan., 1907, and June, 1909—the insured having died and claims paid, the company has apportioned the share due under these policies and cheques for the amount of the increased benefits have been sent to the beneficiaries. Mr. J. Rothwell, local representative is today engaged in delivering these cheques to some six or eight beneficiaries in this city; and in the district the extra amounts paid in post mortem benefit under the increased schedule is $300. The company may not take this course out of pure philanthropy, but from motives of policy; but nevertheless it is practical philanthropy and good business, for it is always good business to do the fair and equitable thing, and money expended in this way is invented to good advantage—a good name is better than riches.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With Britain, France and Russia, forming a triple alliance, offensive and defensive, any possible bellicose aggression by Germany is not greatly to be feared.

The United States is on the down grade of decay. The Government receipts from the tax on whisky fell off $5,290,773. That's what comes of watering whisky—prohibition.

Silver should be plentiful and easy to get in the Gowganda district, where hay costs $200 per ton. Contracts have been made for the delivery of hay at Gowganda at this modest figure.

Toronto City Band, infected to some extent, perhaps, by the example of the big drum, is on strike because a lady was employed to sing who did not belong to the union, though she was a married lady. The matrimonial union is not recognized by the musical union.

Canada may easily aspire to be the granary, the bread basket of the Empire, and it is also able to do something for British agriculturists. One English farmer sowed selected seed of barley sent from Canada, and the result is a crop that has never been equalled for yield or quality in fertile England. He met with like success with Canadian wheat and oats.

One by one exploration and exploitation develops resources hitherto unknown, and in hitherto unknown places. The immense field of lignite—an immature sort of coal—situated on the lieu of the Grand Trunk Pacific, between the Saskatchewan and the Yellowstone Pass, has taken on a new value. Government experts have discovered that an engine operated by gas produced from this lignite has a great deal more power than an dinary steam engine.

It is held to be axiomatic that no one who is unable to swim should go out in a canoe, and it seems that the same restriction should apply to gasoline launches—in the St. Lawrence waters especially. Recently there have been many instances of launches of this kind going astray, taking fire, or misbehaving in some other way, that compelled the occupants to swim, or sink, or roast. As with most other accidents these things are doubtless due to carelessness, and not to causes inherent in the launches themselves or their mechanical equipment.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the famous Labrador surgeon and missionary, has had a most profitable summer visit in the United States. Not only has he received academic honours at Williamstown and Cambridge, but the announcement now comes of his engagement to Miss Anna MacClanahan, daughter of Mrs. E. B. MacClanahan, of Lake Forest, Ill. The couple have known each other about a year, and Miss MacClanahan's interest is raising funds for Dr. Grenfell's work ended in the personal attachment. She is wealthy, has studied medicine and domestic science, and would seem to be fitted to be a helpmate. If the wife is a real mate for Dr. Grenfell they will make a splendid team. He is supposed to be wedded to his great work but if he becomes wedded to as great a worker as himself, his usefulness will be doubled.

In one particular, at least, says the Halifax Chronicle, the new Franco-Canadian trade convention gives Canada a distinct advantage over the United States in the French market, and it is this which is causing the trade experts at Washington so much uneasiness. Under the new arrangement, Canadian manufacturers will have a substantial advanatage over their American competitors in the market for harvesting machines in which the trade is large. Out of 81,000 of such machines imported into France in 1907 there were 85,000 of American make, and 11,000 of Canadian. In the new situation made by the Canadian agreement, Canadian makers will have an advantage of $3.85 on a mower, $4.82 on a reaper, $8.20 on a binder and $1.93 on a hayrake. One probable effect of this preference to Canada may be that American manufacturers will be induced to build new plants in this country or to add to existing ones, but in any event, Canada stands to profit from the new arrangement.

THE WAY OF THE WEST

The Canadian West is the Great West. The Lethbridge Herald thus refers to a new western town, Carmangay: "This town started less than sixty days ago, and there are now about fifty buildings, three general stores, two hardwares, a $2,000 building for the Canadian Bank of Commerce, five restaurants, a blacksmith shop, a harness shop, and residences and other buildings." This is but a type of hundreds of villages springing into vigourous being in the wake of railway construction. The West is veritably the land of promise, and what is better, performance and success for those who work wisely. A gentleman is at present living in Peterborough, who a few years ago went to the West, with little more than his hands and a good wife who proved a helpmeet, has shown what the West and work will do. He worked hard, saved well, added to his land holdings and was able to retire from active work and enjoy the fruits of his industry. He, however, still retains his interest in his lands. This year in the West he has 900 acres under wheat, which he estimates will, with continued favourable conditions, and judged by precedent in his case, yield 20,000 bushels. The magnitude of such farming operations can be somewhat realized by the fact that it will require about 3,500 lbs.—a ton and three-quarters—of binder twine to tie these 900 acres of wheat into sheaves, while 25 to 40 pounds serves to bind the average Ontario farmer's crops of all kinds. There are thousands of robust young men earning small wages—a mere living—in Ontario who if they had the energy and enterprise could make themselves reasonably rich in the West in a few years. They would not only enrich themselves but would leave openings to others in communities where congested employment conditions exist. Go West, young man, go West.

HON. MR. DRYDEN'S DEATH

(Weekly Sun.)

In the death of Hon. John Dryden, Ontario loses a man who has served her well.

Mr. Dryden was not a showy minister; he was not, as he frequently said himself, much of a politician, as the term is generally understood; but he has left behind a record of solid achievement that any man might envy. The Agricultural College existed before he became Minister, but it was under his administration of the Department of Agriculture that this college was transformed from the position of the least to the most popular of our educational institutions; it was during his period of office that the Farmer's Institute system and the Guelph Winter Fair (with its invaluable object lessons) were introduced; while he was Minister the dairying industry was, by means of the system of instruction organized, given an upward lift; and it was while he was in office that a beginning was made in developing co-operation in fruit-growing and in the formation of a forestry policy for older Ontario. Indeed, it is not going too far to say that the Department of Agriculture as we have it to-day was almost wholly created in his time. Not only this, but what has been achieved in Ontario has served as a model for almost every State in the neighbouring Union.

Mr. Dryden did not accomplish all this by himself. Most of the work—the greater part of it, indeed—was done by the able corps of assistants he gathered about him. It is not the least, it might almost be considered his best title to fame, the fact that he did gather such an able staff and that he was able to increase the enthusiasm of these officers in work for the promotion of the agricultural interests of the Province.

Ontario is much the richer for the labour performed by Mr. Dryden as Minister of Agriculture.

JUST TWO ALTERNATIVES.

Cobalt Citizen.

However you look at it, the sale of the Gillies Limit is a reputation buster.

Referring to a sensational discovery made last week on one of the lots purchased from the Government at the recent disposal by the Department of Lands and Mines of the mineral portion of the famous timber district, the Cobalt Nugget says:

"Making a discovery of an eight-inch vein of cobalt, carrying high-grade silver values, within a period of less than a month after the purchase of the property, and, above all, with an expenditure of less than $1,200, used in the clearing of surface, trenching, and the erection of quarters for the working force, is a record hard to equal."

It is indeed. Fortunately opportunities for the making of such a record do not occur very frequently. The discovery of high-grade silver ore in a month is going some at any time, but when one considers that this same property had already been prospected for a period of from three to four years by the most noted experts in the Province, in command of unlimited resources, the feat is a world-beater. One month is not a very long time in which to locate a discovery which is compared in the newspaper reports to the Lawson vein, but when one remembers in addition to the mere fact of making a hit, that men who are authorities on prospecting worked for years with every facility and failed, the achievement appears sensational.

Nor is even this statement of the case entirely fair. The month referred to was not by any means all used in prospecting work. That was the time which elapsed between the purchase of the property in Toronto and the making of the discovery. The actual work of looking for mineral commenced within a week prior to the finding of the vein.

And yet when one considers the further facts given, the week of work seems sufficient for the making of the hit. The vein is said to be traceable for a distance of 120 feet and to vary from three to eight inches in width along all that distance. The crossing of the vein at any point in the 120 feet was all that was necessary to the making of discovery. The wonder is, not that the vein was unearthed so soon, but that its uncovering was delayed so long.

The sum of $1,200 is not an extravagant amount at any time, or under any circumstances, for the hitting of the real thing. It is an almost trivial expenditure for the finding of a vein which could be spoken of in the same breath with the Lawson Silver Sidewalk. More particularly is this the case when it is further borne in mind that the $1,200 includes the cost of camps for a force of about sixty men as well as the clearing away of the brush and digging of the trenches. The sleeping quarters which will accommodate sixty men must be modest indeed did they not cost almost that entire sum. If the newspaper reports are at all correct, the finding of that vein must have been a cinch. It must have been so easy that one cannot but wonder where the $50,000 went which the Government is said to have spent in prospecting this same immediate locality. There is a vast difference between $50,000 and the residue of a week after camps are built. Such work as that should be a reputation maker for some one, but it's a reputation smasher for others.

From a public point of view, there are only two alternatives possible. If the original assumption is correct and the location of the veins was known to the insiders before the calling of the bids, those responsible in the Lands and Mines Department should be dressed in striped clothes. If the presence of valuable mineral, which had been turned up by others with a couple of days scratching, was not known to the mining experts in charge of the Government work, they should have been employed as bootblacks, not as prospectors. There are just the two alternatives and those who must stand the brunt may do the choosing.

In this connection, too, it is interesting to note that the Company owning this lot and four others, for which the Government received somewhere between $2,000 minimum and $10,000 maximum apiece, is to be capitalized at $2,500,000.

HE DOES THINGS LIKE A HUMMING BIRD

finely adjusted that when the motor is stopped in mid air the planes turn up against the air like birds' wings and stop the flight. The whole machine then gently glides to the ground. From the standpoint of the beholder the stopping is a miracle, for, while the machine is dashing at a 40-mile rate one minute, it is gently fluttering to earth the next.

Curtiss' machine runs on wheels and every start is made from the ground. This is a decided advance over the Wrights' method of sending their machine into the air by means of a falling weight and a monorail.

Gyroscope Next Step in Aeroplaning, Says Competitor of Wrights.

"What's the next thing needed to improve aeroplaning?" Glenn H. Curtiss was asked.

"Automatic balance and warping," he replied. "I think that this will be gained some day by means of the gyroscope. Aeroplaning will not be successful and popular so long as the operator must balance himself in the air at the risk of his neck. It will be possible, however, to secure an automatic balance, so that whenever the wind tilts the aeroplane one way a shifting of weight will tilt it back to its proper position immediately.

"It would not surprise me if some one were to apply the gyroscope—two fly wheels moving in opposite directions—to the aeroplane, shortly, and find that they keep the machine balanced perfectly."

BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

From Farm and Dairy.

British Columbia has long been noted for the energetic way in which her Agricultural Department grapples with questions relative to the health of animals. Regulations have recently been put into force for the eradication or control of bovine tuberculosis. Under the system formerly in vogue where testing was made compulsory and compensation was made for condemned animals, much trouble and friction existed between the Department and the people. It was difficult to have a test made. Owners of animals would fight against it. Should an animal reach to the test, instead of slaughtering it, the owner would try and sell it somewhere else. Since the regulations, as outlined elsewhere in this issue, came into force, some two months ago, many applications have been received by the Department to have the tuberculine test applied. Already several herds have been tested.

A commendable feature of this system of controlling tuberculosis is that each dairyman forces the other dairymen to keep their premises in a sanitary condition and their herds in a healthy state. The man who has his herd tested and his premises sanitary, will receive the trade, as the Department makes a practice of publishing the standard of dairies.

THE MONKEY PEOPLE.

Experiences of a Resident of Natal With the Little Animals.

A correspondent of The Natal Witness relates an uncommon experience he had some years ago at Umgeni, a suburb of Durban, at the pretty house, high up among the trees, where Mr. Bradley at that time superintended the manufacture of bricks. He writes: We were most hospitably treated, and rested ourselves in long chairs, while the soda sizzed in the glasses, and one of us persuaded Mrs. Bradley to call the monkeys out of the bush for our entertainment. When all was ready, Mrs. Bradley and her little girl took a basket of fruit and went out to the lawn and sat down. Obedient to instructions, we crouched in cover, and Mrs. Bradley commenced calling.

"Monkeys, monkeys," she called, in a high monotone. The tree to my right rustled, and a big monkey pushed aside a branch to reconnoitre. A moment afterwards, a tiny bold beast galloped out of the undergrowth, and went up to be fed. The example had an instantaneous effect, the bush swarmed with lithe, furry life, and a vanguard drew cautiously out into the open. Mrs. Bradley called again, and the monkeys, satisfied that all was well, trooped out in numbers. They squatted amicably round the lady and the child, and begged, stole and snatched sections of banana. They reminded me irresistibly of the shameless Neapolitan "lazzaroni"—they were such brazen, yet irresistible mendicants.

One was an ancient rogue, of considerable size and inconceivable impudence. He had lost a hand somehow, but managed to purloin more than his share of the fruit with none the less adroitness. With him came a giant and muscular consort, to whose lean belly clung a squealing and turbulent baby. Big monkeys, little ones, fat ones, skinny ones, nice ones, rude ones, jostled each other in a crowd, and took food as of right from the hands of the two humans. The little girl treated with them as with dolls, and the monkeys treated her with startling familiarity. One tapped on the head for another's sins, protested almost humanly, and while reparation was being made the others plundered desperately.

I never saw anything like it in the least. The scene was elemental, primeval. The humans and the beasts treated on common ground, as Mowgli treated with Bagheera and Baloo. It was grossly spectacular, like the pictures of the child leading the lion, or Daniel in the den, and as little real for the time being. The actors in the scene knew one another, understood one another, and had matter in hand that equally belonged to both.

Finally, the bananas were at an end, and Mrs. Bradley rose.

"That's all," she said to the congregation. "Go away."

"Not much," returned the congregation, as plainly as gestures could speak. Then they saw us, and fled.

Mr. Bradley didn't think very much of it.

"They hang around us," he complained; "they behave as if the place belonged to them. If you leave a window open at night, they waltz in and take possession."

Snubbing H.R.H.

It is not often that a prince is snubbed, but this happened once, at least, to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

During his first visit with the princess to Australia he was out walking one Sunday afternoon with his host, an important official. They happened to pass a Sunday school just as the scholars were coming out, and naturally, the children followed the distinguished pedestrians.

At last the host asked them to run away, and all except one little girl did so. This tiny tot continued to gaze with innocent awe at the prince. At last the latter took her hand, walked some little distance, and then said:

"Now you have had a walk with me, run away and play."

Immediately came the quaintly-severe retort:

"Please, sir, we don't play on Sunday!"

WILL HER LOVE SURVIVE?

She loves me dearly, she declares,
This maid so sweet and pure.
All joys and griefs with me she shares.
Of that I am quite sure.
But as Time urges his career
From day to week and month to year
A small voice whispers in mine ear,
Say, will her love endure?

Me she cajoles with all the wiles
Her woman's wits contrive—
Embraces, kisses, tears and smiles—
But will her love survive?
Alas, I fear the years to be
Will change her attitude to me,
For at the present day, you see,
I'm fifty—she's just five!

A MEDAL FROM CONGRESS.

Awarded to Miss Mary McCann, the Girl Heroine of the Slocum Disaster.

Five years ago in June a little, pale faced, fourteen-year-old girl was sitting weakly in a big chair on the veranda of a cottage on North Brother island, near New York city.

She was just recovering from an attack of scarlet fever. Her parents in New York had sent her over to the island to have the sea breeze help her recover her strength.

The child sat looking out over the blue waters and watching a big excursion boat. There were children on board, hundreds of them. She could see their white dresses, bright and pretty in the sunlight. They waved their white handkerchiefs toward the shore. The girl on the shore could make out even the name of the boat—General Slocum.

But even as she was spelling out the name a fearful thing happened. Smoke and fire sprang up from the bow and stern of the boat at once, it seemed—great rolling clouds of smoke, black and terrible. The girl on shore could hear the cries of the children.

The steamboat turned toward shore, grated on the sand, stopped. The cries were much louder now. People began to gather at the bank. A few had the coolness to get boats and go to the rescue. More just run foolishly up and down the beach, crying and wringing their hands.

The little invalid on the veranda—no, she wasn't on the veranda. Where had she gone? Why, there she was halfway down the beach, running, her blankets and pillows forgotten, her little white face flushed now from the exertion.

The doctor's orders were that the child should remain absolutely quiet. He was sure they would be obeyed, for she was too weak to do anything else, he thought.

And here she was running furiously to the water's edge. Now she was in the water—wading, running, paddling toward the boat which lay burning, helpless and stranded on the sand.

One of the many children who had leaped or been pushed from the deck of the boat drifted by close to the little invalid girl. The next minute she was being dragged ashore, and the invalid was back braving the waters again, rescuing another child.

Nine times the little sick girl plunged into the water on her rescue mission. Each time she risked her own life among those twisting, hurrying currents and from the strangling grips of the half drowned children she was trying to save.

But she succeeded, and in nine homes in Greater New York that night fathers and mothers with choking voices prayed for the unknown little sick girl who had saved their own darling from death.

The next day the whole city was ringing with the story, and lessons were told and sung and preached about the name of Mary McCann.

For this was the name of the brave little sick girl who had forgotten her own troubles and weakness in the face of others' peril—just plain, unpretending Mary McCann.

This was five years ago, and Mary McCann is a grownup girl now. She is a student at the Florence Crittenden training school at Washington.

The United States house of representatives has just discovered that Mary McCann is a heroine. It has voted her a silver medal for bravery, and Speaker Cannon presented it himself to her recently, and his voice trembled as he did it. Thinking of her bravery, he bent over and kissed the girl and uttered a little blessing on her.

To Polish Brown Boots.

Brown boots that have become soiled through exposure to the weather may be renovated by the following method: Damp a clean piece of flannel in warm water and a very little soft soap. Rub gently all over the boots, frequently turning the flannel until all the dirt is removed. Put them to dry, not too near the fire. When dry take some good cream, apply very little, then polish. The result will be astonishing. A piece of cotton wadding makes an excellent polisher.

Clever.

"She's a very clever woman."

"Is that so?"

"Yes. She can keep her husband at home evenings without resorting to any of the tricks suggested by the women's magazines."—Detroit Free Press.

Without a friend the world is a wilderness.—German Proverb.

SOME CLERICAL BULLS.

Recent Bad Mixups That Have Disturbed Grave Ceremonies.

The proceedings at a recent Church Congress were enlivened by the intrusion of several very fine bulls, of which the following are samples. At one meeting Canon A. W. Robinson, in his opening remarks, warned his auditors that his speech would be "pointed to the verge of bluntness." while later in the evening Sir A. Coote, explaining his presence at such a gathering, said that he was like "one of those satellites of Jupiter which, when they were visible, were always obscured."

The late Mr. Spurgeon was a keen collector of mixed metaphors, finding a rich field in the correspondence that daily overwhelmed him. A lady, enclosing a small contribution for his schools, wrote: "I hope this widow's mite may take root and spread its branches until it becomes a Hercules in your hands." The pulpit prayers of ambitious probationers added something to the great preacher's store.

One prayed that "God's rod and staff may be ours while tossed on the sea of life, so that we may fight the good fight of faith and in the end soar to rest." "We thank Thee for this spark of grace; water it, Lord," was the sententious, almost imperious entreaty of another promising young man. Still another prayed, "Gird up the loins of our mind that we may receive the latter rain." "As if we were barrels whose hoops were loose," was Mr. Spurgeon's laughing comment.

It was an Irish clergyman who remarked, sadly, "This is a sad and bitter world; we never strew flowers on a man's grave until after he is dead"; while another Hibernian cleric, preaching a funeral sermon while the corpse lay before him, exclaimed, "Here, brethren, we have before us a living witness and a standing monument of the frailty of human hopes!"

Equally unconscious of his humor was the parson who, at the close of his sermon, said: "And now let us pray for the people on the uninhabited portions of the earth"; as also the minister who, pleading for funds for a parish cemetery, asked his parishioners to consider the "deplorable condition of thirty thousand Christian Englishmen living without Christian burial."

Even more unfortunate was the clergyman who was addressing a woman's missionary meeting. "My sisters," he said, solemnly, "it is terrible to think that thousands of gallons of rum go into Africa for every brother who is sent there." "Rather a large allowance for one missionary," was the whispered comment of one of the sisters to her neighbor.

New Wives for Old.

Viscount Wolseley, one of our ten field marshals, completed his 76th year of life recently.

During his long military career, Lord Wolseley has met with many experiences, amusing and otherwise. One of the most comical was after Cetewayo, the conquered leader of the Zulus, had been sent by him into exile.

Cetewayo had wives by the hundred, but the British general set most of them at liberty, permitting the native to take only three with him. Again and again Cetewayo pleaded to be allowed to take all; but in vain.

The climax came when Lord Wolseley's departure for England was announced. Cetewayo sent a last despairing message to ask that, if the general would not send him more wives, he would at least exchange the three he had for three others!

£. s. d. of a London Season.

In the brief spell of a London season, society spends some $3,000,000 on theatres and concerts. Ascot week represents "$14,500 per minute of actual racing," and Henley Regatta and the University match cost society $250,000 a piece. The visitors to a royal garden party spend $250,000; a drawing room means to whose who attend it an extra outlay of $200,000; the dresses at a state ball represent $150,000; and a state concert costs $75,000 to the guests.—Harold Macfarlane, in The Lady's Realm.

Rejected by Manchester.

Mrs. Asquith is one of the most successful and elegant of London hostesses. Invitations to her luncheon-parties are much sought after, and it was at one of these that Mr. Winston Churchill was seated next Miss Maud Allan. The Cabinet Minister seemed moody and abstracted. Presently the dancer turned to him and said: "Do you know, Mr. Churchill, we have one unique thing in common?" "Indeed!" he exclaimed, with some surprise. "Yes," she went on; "we have both been rejected by Manchester."

DIAMONDS IN ONTARIO.

Peterboro Man Holds Secret of Precious Jewel Mines.

The Peterboro Examiner says: That there are diamond mines in Ontario has been stated, but the fact is known only by one man, and that man is O. S. Ferguson, who has for the past five years conducted a tin shop on Hunter street. To have something in the neighborhood of five hundred real, sparkling diamonds in his possession is the good fortune of Mr. Ferguson, and an Examiner representative the other day was shown several of these precious stones. They are are at present mostly in their raw state, only two having been finished, and are ready to be set in a piece of jewelry. They shine very brilliantly and are fine samples of this precious stone. The unfinished ones are just as they were found, some being very small, while a number of them are as large as a quarter of an inch in diameter. That they are diamonds, Mr. Ferguson has satisfied himself. Careful tests and examinations of them have been made by Tiffany of New York, and other prominent diamond dealers in the United States and in Toronto, and Mr. Ferguson has been assured that they are diamonds, and worth considerable money.

Where the precious stones were located, the discoverer of them alone knows. He refuses to give any clue as to their location, but says that they were found some place in Ontario sixteen years ago. Mr. Ferguson was at one time engaged in mining, but it was not diamonds for which he mined. His discovery of the costly stones was, strange to say, not while making any search, but at a time when he little thought of finding such things. One evening, at sunset, he said, after he had finished his work, he stood for a while watching the crows picking up the little stones that, to him, presented a bright and glistening appearance. He picked up several and kept them, deciding to find out if they were of any value. They were evidently washed out of the ground by rain, Mr. Ferguson stating that he found them all on the surface, never having to turn a bit of earth. The diamonds in their raw state, resemble very much a piece of alum. The land on which they were found has never been known to grow anything and it is quite rocky and rough.

About five years ago, on the occasion of a visit to Cobourg, the great prima donna, Madame Albani, tried to purchase the diamonds from him. She was giving a concert there and during her stay in the town learned of his possessions. Mr. Ferguson was at that time a resident of Cobourg. The great singer visited him and offered him a large sum of money for the stones. She said that she wanted them to make a necklace, but he would not sell and if he continues in his present mind, he never intends to dispose of them. At different times he has had good opportunities to do so, receiving splendid offers. Neither does he intend to disclose the place where they were found. He remarked that he would leave it for some one else to find out the same as he had done.

At the marriage of his daughter Mr. Ferguson presented her with a diamond ring, which cost him three hundred dollars to have finished. He also gave others of them away to relatives. He has two that he placed in the dark in order to show their brilliancy. One time he placed them alongside two that were purchased at a big price by a Cobourg gentleman. The man did not see Mr. Ferguson arrange them, and when asked to choose his own he could not do so. He picked the others.

Didn't Care For Scotch.

On her trip to the Arctic Circle last summer Agnes Dean Cameron found that food was the main, in fact almost the only object in life in the uncultivated "barren lands" of the north. On her long boat journeys through the Great and Lesser Slave Lakes and on the Slave and Mackenzie rivers, records of the Hudson Bay Co. that stretch back more than two hundred years were open to her at every post. Poring over one of these closely written diaries she found narrated from day to day the story of an especially hard season. Driven desperate by hunger two Indian women attacked a couple of mail carriers on the Mackenzie, killed them, partially devoured the bodies and made the rest into pemican. Charged with the crime, they confessed.

"We asked," wrote the Hudson Bay fact in his prosaic way, "what the flesh was like, and they replied that one of the men was very good, but the little red Scotchman tasted of tobacco."

Politician and Amateur Actor.

Those who were at the Tercentenary celebration in Quebec last summer will long remember the superb appearance of the man who played Champlain. Standing in the Don de Dieu, the ship modelled on that in which Champlain weathered the Atlantic and the perils of the gulf of St. Lawrence, or seen on Plains of Abraham in the various historical scenes of the pageant, he was a fine figure. Made up with a Van Dyke beard, with the sweeping hat and black velvet costume of the seventeenth century, he was dramatic, striking alike in bearing and declamation. Most of the visitors who saw the pageant assumed that he was some paid actor brought over by Mr. Frank Lascelles. As a matter of fact it was Hon. Charles Langelier, the sheriff of Quebec, a noted Liberal politician in his day, an ex-member both of the Quebec Legislature and the House of Commons, and a former Minister in the Cabinet of the late Honore Mercier.

Lord Aylmer Turns Farmer.

Lord Aylmer, formerly Inspector-General of Militia Forces, has moved to Queen's Bay, Lake Kootenay, B.C., with his family. He has purchased land on the lake shore, which he intends to devote to the cultivation of fruit.

Fleeing From Death.

In one of our seaport towns lives a mother who determined that, whatever happened, her son should never be drowned. Her father was a sailor and was drowned at sea. She lost her husband and her brother in the same way. The terror of the great deep was upon her. Only those that have lived by the sea know what this terror is. To guard her only son from a watery death became a real passion with her. The thought qualified all her plans for his future and kept her in ceaseless watch of his movements.

As the boy grew he was not allowed to paddle in boats or to learn to swim, and when he was old enough to earn his own living his mother sent him to an inland town in the neighborhood of Boston.

"When you get started," she said, "I will come and live with you. I don't ever want to see the water again."

It was not long before the young man found work as a teamster. His work was satisfactory to him and to his employers, but one day the horses took fright and ran away. The heavy wagon swerved and upset a plank bridge, under which a little stream flowed. The driver was struck and, becoming unconscious, was buried into the brook. The water barely covered him. He was drowned.

A Tiny Traveler.

Annie Brown, a five-year-old girl, has just reached Calgary after a journey of more than 5,000 miles made absolutely alone from the start to finish, says The Calgary News. During the trip she was well cared for by passengers on boats and trains who became interested in her artless story of how she was going to Canada to meet her daddy, who preceded her eighteen months. Annie's father, James Brown, is living on a homestead five miles south of Calgary and could not spare the time to cross the ocean to act as escort for his little girl. Consequently he decided to have her make the long journey alone.

Wanted a Rebate.

These are the days when city folk endeavor to find suitable and cheap summer board for the women and children, and when father looks forward to a summer of lonesomeness or of liberty as the case may be.

A farmer living near Toronto had enquiries made of him and named his rates. He got a reply from the Toronto family saying that the prices he quoted were not unreasonable. "But," continued the communication, "our little boy does not eat butter, and for that reason we think you should let us have a rebate."

An Inventive Genius.

There is a student in the University of Pennsylvania whose inventive genius, if directed in the right direction, is likely to bring him fame in after life. This youth was called before one of the professors, charged with being absent from more than the permitted number of classes. After lecturing him thoroughly and telling him the penalties that would have to be imposed, the professor asked the youth if he had any excuses to offer for his continued absences. "This hour comes from 9 to 10," said the youth, "and I am so peculiarly constituted that I can never get up for a 9 o'clock hour." "That is no excuse," replied the professor indignantly. "Why don't you get an alarm clock?" "I did try that," answered the student, "but it was no use. I never could hear the alarm go off. I have a weak heart and as a result am forced to sleep all the time on my right side, and I am totally deaf in my left ear." The professor knew full well that this statement was not confined to the strict truth, yet he thought one who could invent such a tale was deserving of better things and decided to give him another chance.—Philadelphia Record.

Caviare.

Caviare is the roe of the sturgeon prepared as a table delicacy. As a dish too rare to be known by the generality of people and the flavor of which would not be relished by an uneducated palate, Shakespeare makes Hamlet speak of it.

Central Ontario Power Co.'s Title To Power At Burleigh

Letter From R. J. McLaughlin in Reference to Alleged Statements Regarding Their Title — "As Good As Any Real Estate in City of Peterborough."

AGREEMENT WITH GOV'T

Toronto, August 4th, 1909.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have been told that statements have been made in the city of Peterborough that the Central Ontario Power Company's title to Burleigh Falls Power is a lease and that the city might get this cancelled and obtain the power from the Dominion Government.

I am well satisfied that no underhand work would be thought of by the Aldermen of Peterborough, but to allay all doubts I wish to distinctly say that the original title of the company is a patent in fee simple from the Crown issued more than fifty years ago. An agreement was made since between the Company and the Dominion Government for the use by the Government of water for lockage purposes, and the use by the company of the dam at the head of the rapids for sixty years, including any rights that the Government might have.

This agreement was made between the Company and the Government in lieu of the company receiving cash damages for abstraction of water for canal purposes.

For instance the owners of the Nassau Power received some twenty-three thousand dollars cash damages for abstraction of water for canal purposes. The owners of Burleigh Power instead simply accepted the agreement of the Government to maintain the dam at the head of the rapids for sixty years and allow the Company the use of it.

The title of the Central Ontario Power Company, Limited, to Burleigh Falls Power, is good against the Crown and all other persons, just as good as the title to any piece of real estate in the City of Peterborough. The City Solicitor can easily verify this.

Committee Sends Franchise Question To Whole Council

Matter Finally Discussed by Manufacturers' Committee and This Decision Arrived at — Thirty Years Seems Long Time to Some of the Aldermen—Meeting Last Night.

NO CHANGES IN PROPOSAL

Whether or not the people will get an opportunity to grant or reject a thirty-year franchise to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, depends upon the council. The Manufacturers' Committee met again yesterday afternoon with Messrs. Larmonth and Stuart, and finally decided to send it on to the Council to consider.

In all probability the Council will hold a special meeting in a few days so as to either pass the by-law the two readings and send it on to the people or throw it out altogether. The company desires to have the question settled at once so as to get a vote of the people taken about the first week in September.

Mr. John Stuart, of Chicago, remained in the city, and he and Mr. Larmonth again met the Manufacturers' Committee in reference to the thirty-year franchise for the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and more particularly the rates for the light.

The progress made the day before was gone over for the benefit of those who were not present at the former meetings. Then the aldermen talked the matter over among themselves, and Alderman Hicks said that one great point in favour of the franchise was that the city was getting a greater control over its streets. He did not think, however, that the council should be rushed in the matter, as thirty years was a long time to be tied up for.

Alderman Morrow agreed with that also. If it was only for a ten-year franchise he would not hesitate for a moment to grant it.

Alderman Bradburn thought that the company should state publicly if the railway extension depended upon the granting of this franchise.

It was moved that the report be referred to othe Council to be dealt with. This was moved by Alderman Morrow and Alderman Duffus.

The members present at the meeting were: Alderman Gillespie, chairman; Aldermen Duffus, Hicks, Morrow, Bradburn and Mayor Rush.

In yesterday's report a mistake in some manner crept into the synopsis. The meter rates is more economical to the consumer than the company. What it should have read was, the meter rate is more economical to both the consumer and the company.

School Teacher Supposed To Get Increase In Salary By Trick

At the meeting of the Board of Education held yesterday afternoon the members present were very much annoyed over the manner in which they had been treated by a classical teacher, who applied for a position at the Collegiate Institute.

A short time ago an ad. was inserted in the Toronto papers by the Lindsay board for a specialist in classics, with a maximum salary of $1,600 per year, and the minimum salary to be agreed upon. This teacher sent his application and testimonials to the board stating that he would accept the position at $1,400 a year. He also had a few of his friends speak to some of the members of the board on his behalf. After due consideration and inquiry he was appointed to the position at the salary he had stated within three days after his application had been received.

The acceptance of his application was wired to him, and asking him to reply confirming his appointment, and after a delay of a day he replied declining the position with thanks. In the meantime he had consulted some of the members of his own board, and in all probability used the Lindsay board's figures as a lever for a promise of an increase in salary in the future.

The members of the board were put to considerable annoyance and trouble over the disappointment, and a number of the members severely censured the teaching profession for using such methods as this in obtaining an increase in salary from the board by which they are employed.—Lindsay Warder.

Table Of Distances On The River And Kawartha Lakes

During the winter the Examiner published a table of distances on the Trent which was of more than passing interest and value. They have probably been forgotten by this time, but are republished by request of a number of launch owners on the Otonabee and the Upper Lakes. The Examiner obtained the information from Mr. D. Easson of the Canal Department and the figures are authentic. The distances are given in a decimal of miles, those on the Otonabee to Rice Lake having been obtained by an actual survey over the ice, those on the canal by measurement and those on the upper lakes were taken from a map and are equally exact. The list is as follows:

On the Otonabee.

From the C. P. R. bridge to the G. T. R. bridge, 1.2 miles.
From Wolfe St. wharf to the lower end of the locks, 1.4 miles.
From Wolfe St. wharf to Rye's, 1.75 miles.
From Wolfe St. wharf to north side of Crawford's Grove, 2.77.
From Wolfe St. wharf to Hale's Bridge, 9.8.
From Wolfe St. wharf to Bensfort Bridge, 13.7.
From Wole St. wharf to Wedlock's, 18.7.
From Wolfe St. wharf to wharf at Jubilee, 21.2.
From Wolfe St. wharf to upper end of eastern channel, 21.

Upper Waters.

Fenelon Falls to Bobcaygeon, 14.5.
Bobcaygeon to Buckhorn, 16.5.
Buckhorn to Burleigh, 7
Burleigh to Young's Point, 9.
Young's Point to Lakefield, 5.
Lakefield to Peterborough, 10.
Chemong to Buckhorn, 13.8.
Chemong to Bobcaygeon, 8.5.
Young's Point to upper end of Clear Lake, 4.
Young's Point to Juniper Island stone, 6.
Youngs' Point to Boschink, 9.
Young's Point to Crowe's Landing, 12.
Young's Point to head of the lake, 15.
Juniper Island to Burleigh, 3.35.
Crowe's Landing to Burleigh, 8.5.

They Sell All Kinds of Hair Preparations, and Fear to Discriminate.

Druggists sell all kinds of hair preparations, and as a rule they are wisely chary of giving preference to any particular one, but many of them have come out plainly for Newbro's Herpicide, the new treatment that absolutely kills the dandruff germ. H. Swannell & Son, Champaign, Ill., say: "One customer of ours who did not have a hair on top of his head when he began to use Herpicide, now has a fair start towards a good head of hair. We believe Herpicide to be by far the best preparation of its kind on the market." Hundreds of similar testimonials from everywhere. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's drug store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

REQUEST NIGHT

Citizens Will Select Programme for 57th Band Concert.

The programme for Friday night's band concert will be selected by the citizens. It will be request night and those interested in the band are asked to send in the numbers which they wish played to the Examiner or to the Conservatory of Music. In this manner Mr. Gliddon strengthens the bond between the 57th and the citizens. They feel a strong personal interest in its work and there will no doubt be a large number send in selections. All will not be able to be played, but a programme will be chosen from the entire number received.

LATEST PSYCHE COIFFURE

Yes, you DO see bangs in these pictures. Yes, bangs are in to stay. Many of use have been trying to avoid it, hoping that the fad would soon die out—but we're in for it!

These pictures give two views of the newest way to do up a psyche knot. The hair is parted and curled a little in front, and has many large and small puffs in the centre of the back, surrounded by a loose flat braid. It is really one of the prettiest of the many styles of psyche knot, and one that will be universally becoming to old and young.

Presentation To Miss H. Howson At Peterborough Business College

To-day at noon before the students of the Peterborough Business College, adjourned for luncheon, they took advantage of the opportunity to make a presentation to Miss Helen Howson, teacher of stenography, who leaves on Friday for Calgary, Alta., where she has accepted a position with the Garbutt Business College. Miss Howson will be greatly missed by the students. By her patience and ever genial disposition she won the esteem of everyone who attended the college and her place will be hard to fill.

An address was read by Miss Amy Lake and a beautiful gold ring was presented Miss Howson by Mr. Jas. Mather.

The address was as follows:

Dear Miss Howson:

We the teachers and students of the P.B.C., have learned with much regret that you are about to sever your connection with the institution. Therefore, we take this opportunity of testifying to the high esteem in which you are held by us and we ask you to accept this small token of our high regard for you both as a teacher and a friend. Our relations have been of the most pleasant kind and we deeply regret that you are about to leave us, but we trust and hope that you will meet with the greatest measure of success in your new sphere of usefulness. We shall ever be pleased to hear of your success and trust that in the future we may often meet again.

Signed on behalf of the P.B.C.

Miss Howson made a suitable reply, thanking her friends for their kindness. She will leave on Friday for Sarnia, and from there by boat to Port Arthur, where she will visit Mrs. Pringle, formerly of Peterborough, before going to Calgary, where she commences her new duties on September the first.

Building Roads And Fencing Property In The Northwest

One of the most important bits of information obtained from Mr. L. S. Downer, of Frobisher, Sask., who is visiting friends in the city, was that the western country is not only being settled and the land broken up for seeding, but it is being developed by the construction of good roads, properties fenced in and by other means of a similar nature. The farmers are beginning to give some attention to the development of the country. In the past communication was along trails that made poor highways for travelling. The present feeling is veering to improvement and with the wealth that will come into the country, the westerners will be in a position to do extensive work in this regard. The wages that are being paid now to harvesters do not reach three dollars a day as previously stated. This is paid to carpenters, but not to the ordinary labourers. Frobisher is one of the examples of the western towns that spring up as if by magic. When Mr. Downer first went west nine years ago, the place did not exist. On his next trip it had been started, and in a short time it rapidly took on proportions of the village size. There are now four elevators in the own and the other institutions of modern life are found there to a certain extent.

ROYAL ROMANCE; OCEANS OF TROUBLE

PRINCE ALPHONSO AND HIS BRIDE.

Another example here of the fact that there are some compensations to being born outside royalty. Here is a royal couple whose marriage has made all sorts of complications—for them and other people.

Prince Alphonso of Spain, a cousin of the king, and son of that Infanta Eulalie, who visited this country during the Columbian exposition in 1892, wanted to marry Princess Beatrice of Cobourg. So he did marry.

Then watch and see what happened:

Prince Alphonso was in wrong for marrying a Protestant, and Princess Beatrice for marrying a Catholic. They had to flee to Paris.

King Alphonso was in wrong with the church party for permitting the marriage, and in wrong with the opposite party for banishing the royal lovers from the country.

A near revolution, yards of diplomatic correspondence among European courts, official anger among people who are personal friends—these are some of the results of Alphonso and Beatrice being titled people instead of folks like us.

W. A. BAILEY CALLS COL. DENISON

Peterborough, Aug. 4, 1909.

Sir, — Your contemporary, "The News," last night gave Colonel Denison's views after visiting England. To talk of the legislation of the British Parliament as revolutionary is impertinent, especially from a colonial colonel, who is also a paid magistrate in a British city. What does Colonel Denison know of English politics? His time should be fully occupied over the inefficient police force of Toronto and throughout Ontario.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

BRITISH EXHIBIT FOR THIS YEAR

Spreading Fame of Canadian National Agitates English Press.

London, August 5.—That the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, has become world-famed is evidenced by the large place it is occupying in the columns of the leading British dailies. The discussion over the place it occupies in Empire building commenced when Earl Grey arrived in England and handed out to the press an invitation to the leading Chambers of Commerce to make collective exhibits this year, and great newspapers like the London Daily Mail urged the compliance of the invitation. Then came the announcement that Admiral Lord Charles Beresford would cross the ocean to open the Exhibition and that gave the subject fresh interest. It is now beyond a doubt that a British exhibit will be a feature of this year's Fair and that the Canadian National will speedily be held to its promise to provide a special building for British exhibits when the demand for space is large enough.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

WILL THE STRATHCONAS BREAK WINNING STREAK OF PARK STREET?

Saturday's games in the city league on Saturday will be opened by the Strathconas and Park Street in the first, followed by the West Ends and T. A. S. These games are as doubtful as the races, in fact are considered more so. At any rate there is no figuring on the winners on Saturday. Park Street, after last Saturday's showing, should nose out over the Straths, although the Strathconas are capable of putting up a good article of ball, and may prove a long shot, beating out the favourite on the bookies' cards. Of the other game Jim Davidson is not sure of his team for the West Ends and may have a strong line-up to face the Abstainers. He will trot along the best he can get together and that may be surprising before the contest is over. The T. A. S. will have a strong lineup and are picked to win, thus leaving them tied with Park St., the present standing. However, there is not much satisfaction in trying to dope out these games, as the favourites have gone to the bad of late and the piker's bets went to the good last Saturday. Manager Motherall's Commissioners may let themselves out to their best form, which, when it does appear, is about good enough for anything in the league.

JACK CHESBRO DRAWS $4500 BECAUSE NOBODY WANTS HIM

JACK CHESBRO.

This Manager Geo. Stallings' high-priced hangnail.

Drawing $750 a month, or $4,500 for the season, "Happy Jack" Chesbro is worth about as much to the New York American league team as 15 cents wor thof Swiss cheese after the rats get through with biting the edges away from the holes.

Time was when Jack was as good as a certified check, and during this period he received a long term contract which bound the New York management too tight to permit it to Houdini on him.

Stallings has been trying to kick Jack into the clear, but no major league team wants him, and George hasn't found a minor league outfit willing to invest $750 per month and shoulder the contract. Meanwhile Chesbro reports for duty daily and draws his stipend, a performance he will doubtless repeat until the contract loses its power or the club settles with him to vamoose to greener fields.

Tribute To Harry Pulliam Champion Of Clean Ball

Poor Harry Pulliam! Loved as it falls to the lot of few men to be loved—but a suicide! Honoured by having been elevated to one of the highest positions of honour and trust in the people's most popular game—but a victim of self-destruction! With a salary generous enough to permit him to live in luxury, and indulge every whim; with devoted friends ready, almost, to give him their heart's blood if necessary to aid him, he ended his life in the awful fashion of one of life's wrecks, for whom there remains no gleam of hope.

The tragic end causes less surprise than sorrow. The sorrow is genuine and deep, and thousands will mourn Pulliam like a brother, but those nearest to him have feared and dreaded this deed for months. Keenly sensitive, the soul of honour, Pulliam let the troubles of the base ball organization of which he was chief rest upon his brain and his heart as if he were the man responsible.

When, after a torrid outburst against the National League men he believed were hounding him, Harry dashed hatless and coatless from a Chicago hotel one night last February and boarded a train for some unknown destination, mumbling inarticulate anathemas against his supposed enemies, the end was not hard to anticipate.

Pulliam's one fault—if fault it could be called—was supersensitiveness. He championed clean ball, and he fought those magnates who looked lightly on diamond rowdyism. He wanted to put the National League on the highest plane of sportsmanship, and he grieved over the quarrels and bickerings in that organization. For four or five years he carried out the fight with a stout heart, but the battle finally broke him. Brain sickness, most terrible of afflictions, came upon him and resisted the efforts to effect a cure.

Some of the forms in which this illness manifested itself were lavish gifts of flowers—$100 worth to his dearest friends; letters, filled with quotations from Byron and Scott and Wordsworth, to his supporters, and then, on occasion, a story denunciatory of some of the men who had opposed him.

Pulliam will be sorely missed. Even the men who opposed him honoured and respected him for his integrity and his ideals.

Over Pulliam's grave may appropriately be written:

Died of a Broken Heart.
Poor Harry Pulliam!

TORONTO TIED FOR THIRD PLAGE AS RESULT OF LOSS YESTERDAY

Toronto lost to Providence yesterday and drops back to third place tied with Providence. Buffalo had no game and remains in second position and Rochester, with two wins over Baltimore increased its lead.

In the National League the Cubs came up on Pittsburg by defeating Boston, and by Brooklyn trimming the Leaders.

A slight change is also noticeable in the American League. Detroit came down a few points and Philadelphia is now only 15 points behind the Tigers.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 4.—Barry and Newton engaged in a great pitchers' battle this afternoon, with honours about even. Both were touched up for hits at various points of the game, but tightened with men on bases and held the plate safe when it looked as though runs must go over. Barry showed lots of class in the fourth when he struck out Mahling, Mullen and Frick, and again in the sixth, when Toronto filled the bases with nobody out and got but one run. Anderson saved the game for Provi dence in the seventh by a great one-hand catch for the third out, jumping high in the air and pulling down the ball with one hand with a man running in from third.

|---|---|---|---|
| Toronto | 0 | 0 | 0—1 |
| Providence | 1 | 0 | 0—2 |

Baltimore, Aug. 4.—Baltimore lost two games to Rochester to-day. The Hustlers won the first game by hitting the ball all over the lot. Pearson and Schmidt both proved easy marks. McConnell was also hit harder than the score indicates. The second game was a pitchers' battle in which Henley came out first best. The score:

| First game— | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rochester | 12 | 16 | 0 |
| Baltimore | 4 | 8 | 1 |
| Second game— | R | H | E |
| Rochester | 2 | 8 | 0 |
| Baltimore | 1 | 4 | 1 |

National League Scores

At Chicago—Reulbach won his twelfth consecutive game by beating Boston, 8 to 3.

| Score— | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 8 | 11 | 1 |
| Boston | 3 | 7 | 4 |

Batteries—Reulbach and Archer; Tuckey, Ferguson and Smith. Umpires—Kane and Klem.

At Pittsburg—Pittsburg could secure but four scattered singles from McIntyre, and Brooklyn won by 1 to 0. Willis pitched a good game.

| Score— | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pittsburg | 0 | 4 | 1 |
| Brooklyn | 1 | 5 | 2 |

Batteries—Willis, Phillippi and Gibson; McIntyre and Bergen. Umpire—O'Day.

At St. Louis—St. Louis' young pitchers were batted hard in spots, and Philadelphia won, 4 to 1. Corridon was invincible in pinches. Raleigh, a California recruit, had one bad innings.

| Score— | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| St. Louis | 1 | 8 | 2 |
| Philadelphia | 4 | 9 | 0 |

Batteries—Harmon, Raleigh and Phelps; Corridon and Dooin. Umpire—Emslie.

American League Scores

At Boston—Detroit and Boston broke even, the visitors winning the first game, 10 to 3, and the home team the second, 2 to 1. Detroit batted hard in the first, knocking two pitchers out of the box. The second game was a pitchers' duel, Boston winning by bunching hits in the fourth. Manager Lake and Lord were put off the field in the first game for disputing a decision.

First game—

| Score— | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Detroit | 10 | 18 | 1 |
| Boston | 3 | 8 | 3 |

Batteries—Speer and Stanage; Schlitzer, Wolter, Nourse, Carrigan and Madden. Umpires — Connolly and Egan.

Second game—

| Score— | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|
| Detroit | 1 | 7 | 0 |
| Boston | 2 | 3 | 4 |

Batteries—Donovan and Stanage; Karger and Carrigan. Umpires—Egan and Connolly.

At Washington — Washington won both games from Cleveland, 1 to 0 and 6 to 2. Delehanty's fly, which Flick lost in the sun, went for two bases and resulted in the run that won the first game. Hughes lasted one innings of the second, but Oberlin was a puzzle thereafter, while Booles was hit and given poor support.

First game—

| Score— | R | H | E |

| Cleveland | 2 | 7 | 3 |

Batteries — Hughes, Oberlin and Street; Booles, Sitton and Clarke. Umpires—Evans and Kerin.

ARE THEY OMENS?

Does this mean anything untoward?

During an electrical storm lightning struck the pennant pole, at Detroit, knocking off 15 feet of the top and virtually wrecking the handsome column. As the 1908 pennant was so badly torn the day it was raised that it has never appeared since, superstitious Detroiters fear the omens may bode ill for the American league champions.

A FIRST LESSON IN BASEBALL ART

Question—Is it good base ball to get the runner nearest the plate?

Answer—Yes.

Question—Then why do so many players always try for the man going to first on a bunt, instead of making an effort to get the runner approaching second?

Answer—For the same reason that some teams never win pennants—they don't play brainy base ball. Some men always throw to first on a bunt instead of to second or third. But you don't see men with brains doing this. The idea prevails in some quarters that because a first baseman wears a big mitt he is easier to throw to than a second or third baseman, despite the fact that in many cases the man fielding a bunt is farther from first than from either other sack. Get the man nearest home every time it is possible is mighty good base ball.

MATINEE AT THE DRIVING PARK ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

Arrangements are being completed for the holding of a grand matinee at the Driving Park Civic Holiday, and it is expected that many horses from outside points will start. The programme will be the best that has been offered at the Driving Park for some time. There will be a race for the 2:50 class, one for the 2:30 class, and a free-for-all. In the latter race Harry Direct and Billy W. will be seen in action for the first time this season. It will be the first appearance of Billy W. in this city, and as he has a splendid record on the track, the race should prove an interesting one. The track is being put in first-class shape for the events on the holiday, for which suitable prizes will be offered. As has been stated before, the officials in charge have always insisted that events at this place be put on in a creditable manner, and there will be nothing allowed which would be objectionable for those who patronize the matinee, which will start at 2 o'clock.

TY COBB WEARS UNIQUE SHOES

Ty Cobb, the Detroit speed merchant, who is leading the American league in base stealing this season, wears shoes made especially for this purpose. When he goes to bat Ty changes the shoes he wears in the field for featherweight footgear bristling with spikes, which give him perfect footing and permits of the highest speed the Georgia peach is capable of.

SPORT BREVITIES

Cleveland seees to have the best of the three-cornered deal of last winter. Cy. Young continues to deliver the goods, while Cheeh and Ryan have been turned back to slower company by Boston.

John T. Brush has sailed for Germany and before leaving declared the Giants poor contenders for the National League championship.

Many contestants will take part in the grand programme of sports, to be held at Riverside Park, Monday, (Civic Holiday).

CAN PIRATES REPEAT 1902 PERFORMANCE?

Can Pittsburg, now leading the National League, duplicate the performance of the Pittsburg team of 1902, which won the National League flag with a percentage of .741?

The major league season is nearly two-thirds over. Pittsburg has played, including yesterday's game, 92 games, and has won 65 and lost 27, which gives the team a percentage of .714.

This is not .741, but the Pirates are going mighty fast, and they have time to duplicate the feat of seven years ago. They are leading their nearest rivals, the Cubs, by over 40 points, and at the rate both outfits are travelling, will not be headed by Murphy's thrice champions.

In 1902, when the Pirates set the winning average at .741, they won 103 games and lost 36. The season is longer now, 154 games being scheduled, and to repeat the trick the Pirates will have to win 114 games out of 154.

Constantinople Appears Beautiful But Is Putrid

White Walls, Towers and Turrets Invite the Approaching Traveller But the City is a "Whited Sepulchre."

FILTH AND DIRT PREVAIL

The great city to which the eyes of the civilized world are at the present time so anxiously directed, Constantinople, is—from a distance—perhaps the most beautiful city to be found anywhere upon the face of the earth. Approached from the sea, especially at sunset, it is indeed a fascinating and attractive spectacle. The slender, tapering minarets and rounded domes of innumerable mosques—there are several hundreds of them—towering upward to the sky, are lighted up with a roseate glow, some of the latter apparently covered with burnished brass which glitters strangely in the horizontal rays of the setting sun; while the windows of the extensive mansions and lofty buildings on each side of the roadstead glister and sparkle with a vivid fiery glow; the fine hospital above the graveyard of Scutari, where lie the remains of so many British soldiers who died of wounds and disease in the Crimean War, appearing as if a crimson fire were raging within its walls. In the Golden Horn and in the Bosphorus—that lovely channel bordered on each side by gardens, and forests, and ornate villas with grounds sloping down to the water—fleets of feluccas and other craft lie at anchor, adding to the interest of the scene.

But upon landing, what a transformation! Instead of beauty and grace, squalor, mire, and garbage. The narrow streets reeking in malodours; some nearly ankle-deep in fetid mud; unclean mongrel dogs—the scavengers of the city—trooping about in droves and raking out and devouring the putrid offal; dilapidated, mud-bespattered houses with broken windows and decaying woodwork—though it is fair to admit that a few of the streets in the better portion of the city are kept in somewhat better order—while crowds of human beings, nearly all men, slouch along, some of them clothed—if such a term can be used—in patchwork and rags. Even in the squares facing some of the mosques—and some of these are certainly most ornate and handsome erections, the internal decorations of the mosque of St. Sophia especially being magnificent—pools of stagnant water are allowed to fester in the sun, and to provide a congenial breeding ground for mosquitoes; while roadmaking is apparently scorned with disdain.

And ever there have been of ourselves those who are "like whited sepulchres, beautifully outwardly but full of all uncleanliness, even the blood shed upon the cross by the Saviour of the world; and, in the words of the old hymn, "Sinners plunged beneath that flood, lose all their guilty stains." For by that Astonement all who will but accept the benefits offered are "justified from all things."

Construction Work In City Of Winnipeg Is Very Brisk

Mr. Fred Scrimshaw, of Winnipeg, at one time full-back of the Quaker football team, is in the city visiting friends on his way back from Petawawa, where the Winnipeg battery gave a splendid account of themselves in the recent contests. He is a range taker with the Winnipeg artillery which acquitted themselves so well that many words of praise were extended towards them for their work which is said to be the best ever seen at the northern camp grounds. Since taking up residence in Winnipeg Mr. Scrimshaw has met with good success and states that there is plenty of work for everybody and particularly in the building lines. The city is going ahead at a rapid rate and the wages are of the best. Prosperity is the by-word of the Western Metropolis and all the resident seem to be sharing in it.

Mr Scrimshaw has been visiting his friends and intends to remain in the city until Saturday, when he will leave for home.

How Is Your Watch Running?

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts—jewels, springs, wheels, etc.—be just right, or good timing is out of the question.

"SPORTING BLOOD"
One of the finest—the young husband gets a telegram from Mr. Rose reading: "Put your blanket on Sweet Marie, she looks good to me, bring your roll"—Signed, Rose. His wife gets it and thinks Rose and Marie are girls. One is a horse, the other a man. Come to the Royal and see the horse race and the fun before and after.
"MR. BUTTINSKI"
This is very funny. The innocent Mr. Buttinski tries to put his nose into everything and of course is forever in trouble. He becomes an eternal peacemaker with the usual result. It is a laugh from start to finish.
'A Hasty Tempered Father'
This is a very interesting and pathetic dramatic picture, showing how a hasty tempered father causes the ruin of a good daughter, and also the death of a good and honest lover. It is a picture with a good moral, and should please everyone.
"LESSONS IN CYCLING"
A very funny picture, showing how a peasant tries to learn to ride a bicycle. He succeeds in a way, but you should see the fun before he sees his finish.
Mr. Loftus will sing a very good song entitled: "I Love You Forever More."
Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

TRAIN IS WRECKED

Several Are Hurt, But None Very Seriously, In Disaster to Train West of North Bay—Four Coaches Are Piled Up In a Heap and Traffic Is Delayed Some Hours—Details Are Meagre as Yet.

North Bay, Aug. 6.—The C.P.R. Atlantic Express, due at North Bay at 8.55 last night, was ditched at Woman River, 200 miles west of here, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Details are meagre as yet but it is known that the express was speeding along at good rate when, without warning, the passengers were startled by terrible shocks and the crash of smashing timbers as the cars left the rails, buckled and reared, and then rolled down a six-foot embankment.

Two Pullmans, one observation car and a first-class car were piled up in the ditch and investigation revealed a number of passengers injured, but none seriously as far as has been ascertained. The names of the injured passengers cannot be obtained yet.

The cause of the accident is unknown here. Traffic was delayed from five to ten hours.

YIELD A MILLION

Big Find on Nipissing Will Yield a Million.

Cobalt, Aug. 6.—The biggest find of the season has been made on the Nipissing property where exploration on an unworked portion of the ridge across from the town of Cobalt has uncovered a vein carrying 4,500-ounce ore. The vein is 5 to 6 inches wide. In one place decomposed matter has been uncovered, carrying leaf silver of great richness. It has already been stripped for a distance of several hundred feet, and mining engineers who have seen the new find say it will yield the company at least $1,000,000.

FOUR GIRLS INJURED IN SERIOUS RUNAWAY

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Aug. 6.—A serious accident, caused by a runaway, occurred yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. Four girlrs, namely, Misses Smith, Miss Susa Huston, and Miss Bertha Bryans, were driving into Havelock on the Norwood road, the latter having been visiting at the Misses Smith, the past week, and they were driving her home to Havelock, when the accident occurred. Just here it might be mentioned that last evening (Wednesday) two girls and two boys drove down from Norwood, and after considerable driving around started for home, and when only a short distance on their way, the animal fatigued with the journey, and probably the extra load became exhausted and fell dead. Instead of having the animal removed from the wayside it was left there, and this was the cause of the runaway. The four girls were driving along, and did not notice the dead animal, but the horse took fright, and started, first to back off in the ditch, and suddenly made a leap and started at a furious rate. Bertha Bryans, a little girl only thirteen years old, jumped as soon as the horse backed up, thus saving herself from injury, but the other three remained in the vehicle, thus receiving severe injuries. The elder Miss Smith was driving, and she was pulled out over on the wheel, and dragged some distance, and it is thought she is hurt inwardly, the other Miss Smith received cuts and bruises on her limbs, while Miss Huston was cut about the head and face. The clothing of the three girls were also badly torn. The horse was also injured seriously, and the carriage very much damaged. The three injured people were taken to Mr. Primrose's residence, and a physician was called to attend to the injuries. As yet it is not known how serious these are.

PROVINCIAL MINE TO BE SOLD TENDERS ARE CALLED FOR

Toronto, Aug. 6.—The sale of the provincial mine on the Gillies' Limit, which comprises some 30 acres immediately south of the Nipissing mine and Cart Lake, has been decided on by the Ontario Government.

The other portions of the limit, which have not been previously disposed of, about 350 acres in extent, will also be offered for sale at the same time. These have been divided into 20 parcels. Surface prospecting has been done on these.

Public tenders will be received for the purchase of the properties up till September 13.

The conditions of sale include the payment of 10 per cent. royalty at the mouth of the pit, which should net a substantial revenue to the province.

An official prospectus of the condition of the mine, with particulars of its operations and the results achieved is being prepared by Thomas W. Gibson, Deputy Minister of Mines, after conference with Hon. Frank Cochrane for the guidance of intending purchasers.

It is understood that the Government experts thus set free from actual mining operations, will be utilized to make further explorations on the limit.

Diamond drilling in July on a vein in the provincial mine on the eastern boundary of the property near the Savage claim, resulted in a strike of ore at a depth of 125 feet, while two or three other veins were cross cut deeper down. A shaft has been sunk here to a depth of 70 feet.

There is also another shaft 140 feet deep on another vein, with levels at 65 and 125 feet respectively.

There are good buildings and a good boiler and compressor plant on the property, with all the other machinery necessary for the working of the mine.

Three carloads of ore have been shipped to date, two of cobalt and one of silver, and there is still some ore in stock.

ALLEGED BANK SWINDLER TO APPEAR ON FORGERY CHARGE

Toronto, Aug. 6.—John E. G. Anderson, the young Bank of Montreal clerk, who was arrested in Vancouver, B.C., charged with forging checks in various parts of the world, was brought back to Toronto last evening by Detective Alex. Murray. To Murray he has admitted having forged two checks cashed by the T. Eaton Co. for $50 and $75.

Anderson says the toughest proposition he ran up against was a pawn broker in Chicago. He was pawning some articles and suggested that if he could only find a bank open he'd be alright, as he had a marked check for $200.

The markings and other endorsations satisfied the broker and he said he'd cash it, but insisted on a 10 per cent. discount. After considerable parley, Anderson got $180 for the paper and bought the broker a cigar in the bargain.

He says he had a good time in his various rambles, and met City Treasurer Coady at the Hotel Cecil, London. His itinerary included Buffalo, New York, Liverpool, London, Paris, back to New York, to Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, one day in Toronto, when he cashed the checks, Detroit, St. Paul, Denver, Seattle, Victoria, and finally Vancouver. He was trying to pass a $180 check when caught.

His success was due, he told Detective Murray, to two rubber stamps, "Entered" and "Marked" which he had made in the States.

In the Police Court this morning his counsel, T. C. Robinette, K. C., reserved election and plea and asked for a week's remand. He appears in good spirits and in splendid health.

Proposed Increase In Rates Of Catholic Order Foresters

Principle That Increase is Necessary is Generally Accepted, But the Question Arises, Is the Time Opportune?—Considerable Opposition Yesterday.

CONVENTION IN MONTREAL

Examiner Special.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—The third and most important session of the C.O.F. convention took place yesterday morning, all the delegates being present, and the High Chief Ranger, Thos. H. Cannon, supported by the high chief officers, occupying the chair.

The various committees made reports, chief amongst which was the recommendation of the constitution committee that a fifty per cent. increase in assessment rates go into effect, taking the initial premium of entry into the association as a basis whereon to compute said increase in percentage.

The question was hotly discussed, the deliberations taking up the whole session. Dr. Martin Powers, of Rockland, Ont., endeavoured to introduce a proposal whereby the increase would be 43 per cent. instead of 50.

Another motion was made, asking for certain privileges for those in the hazardous class whereby members with fifteen years' connection with the order to their credit, might engage in prohibited occupations.

These were laid over, discussion centring itself chiefly around the original question.

Bad Time to Change Rates

A prominent Canadian delegate expressed the opinion that the measure calling for an increase in rates, would be worsted on being put to a vote. He said that this measure was all right as far as it went, it was what might be called a necessary move, However, the fact that the Government of both Canada and the United States, either had or contemplated having particular legislation governing fraternal societies would, in event of the adoption of this resolution of increase, entail much inconvenience. He spoke for Canada and emphatically asserted that the measure, if passed, would simply bring with it trouble without end, and within a very short lapse of time a complete rearrangement would be absolutely necessary. "In fact," said he, "The regulation and equalization of the rates of fraternal associations is a project looming large in the minds of Canadian legislators to-day. I know whereof I speak when I make this assertion."

Explanation of the Raise

One of the delegates, and a man who has had vast experience in mutual society work, when seen this morning explained that the C.O.F. was but following in the footsteps of the Independent Foresters, the French-Canadian Artisans' Association, the C. M. B.A., and other societies. "By no means," said he, "in the C.O.F. and

GO THOU AND DO LIKEWISE

The Examiner has received from the State Board of Trade a large and well illustrated pamphlet—"California's Resources and Possibilities." It is not necessary to refer to this in more detail than to emphasize the enterprise of this particular Board of Trade. When such an excellent advertising medium finds its way across the continent into the heart of Ontario one gets an idea of its very wide distribution. This is principally mentioned as an example to our own Board of Trade to go and do likewise—likewise meaning to give the greatest and best, the most widespread publicity to Peterborough; its resources and possibilities. To spare printers' ink is to neglect sowing the seed that will grow and ripen into results. The people we want to reach should be systematically prodded with pamphlets bristling with facts which we can make good; illustrated with pictures that mean what they say. Our advantages are of little practical value unless they are made use of; they will not be made of use unless they are known and how will they be made known unless the story is told where it will be listened to?

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

In his speech at the Dominion Day dinner in London Earl Grey said:

We have to receive a very large number back from the United States before they have repaid to Canada the advance which Canada made to them in the past. (Hear, hear.) I cherish and welcome every American who comes into Canada because I have seen enough of the Dominion to be aware that the political, the industrial, and the social conditions are such as to cause every American after he has bene here a short time to become as enthusiastic and as patriotic a Canadian as formerly he was an American. There is another reason in addition to the character of our political conditions, and that is there is an old scientific law which has decreed that the nearer the northern limit of production an article is grown the better is its quality. We find that true of our grain, of our apples, of our cattle, of our horses, and, if I may say so without offence to our neighbours across the frontier, we believe it to be true of our men and women. (Cheers.)

I was informed once by an American friend of mine, Dr. Weir Mitchell, a poet, novelist, and scientist, who holds a high position in the States, that he considered it was the chief function of the Governor-General to flap his wings and crow. (Laughter.) I do not wish to indulge in that pastime here, but while I am referring to the quality of the men we grow in Canada I should just like to tell you what came to my experience the other day. In inspecting a corps of cadets of St. Andrew's College, Tooronto, I was informed that tenders had been invited for the supply of their uniforms, and that a Glasgow tailor had submitted the lowest tender, but, on being supplied with the measurements, he begged leave to be excused because he said that the measurements of the cadets of Toronto were greater than the measurements of the Scottish Militia. (Laughter.)

There is another reason why any man who is fortunate enough to make his residence in Canada must feel bound by every tie of sentiment and ambition to maintain his position as a citizen of the British Empire. It is not only because of the privilege—I know no higher privilege than to be a British citizen. (Cheers.) It is not only because of British traditions, because of what the British Empire has achieved in the past; but because every Canadian knows that it is only a matter of time before Canada becomes the most populous and the most wealthy and if they live the right life, the most important portion of the British Empire. (Cheers.) Provided Canada keeps her judiciary pure, her politics clean, and her administration honest, nothing can prevent her one day becoming the controlling factor in the Empire of self-governing nations. (Cheers.)

LIGHT AND POWER FRANCHISE.

The granting of a thirty-year franchise to the Light and Power Company is a proposal in which the interests of the citizens and the company are mutually concerned. It is a matter that should be approached in a reasonable spirit without prejudice. The company should not be dealt with as an enemy seeking undue advantages at the expense of the public, but as a company to which the city is indebted, and bound to be further indebted, for many conveniences absolutely essential to the enjoyment of the benefits accruing from scientific advance in meeting the requirements of the public.

The question of municipal franchises has assumed an entirely different aspect from that which obtained some yeras ago. Coroporations endowed with franchises granted under loose conditnons, or under any conditions, have been deprived of the power to play a free hand, even if they wished to exercise it. The creation of the Dominion Railway Commission and the Provincial Railway and Municipal Board, amounts to an absolute control of public utility services in the matter of rates and other things affecting the public interests. By these means the public are protected against extortionate charges in a way that affords an effective guarantee of the safeguarding the public welfare.

These considerations should weigh in considering the extension of a franchise to any public utility corporation; but they have especial bearing in connection with the application of the Light and Power Company. The city owes the Quaker Oats Company, as it is popularly known, a good deal. The presence of this company in enterprising operation here means a solid advantage to the prosperity of the city. The fact that the mill gives employment represented by a pay roll of $500 a day, or $150,000 a year, practically all spent with city merchants and business houses, and the fact that the operation of the mills gives employment to other industries subsidiary to its business, are worthy of appreciative recollection.

It is to the Quaker Oats Company that we owe the revival and successful operation of the Street Railway, which not only represents a great convenience to the public, but gives the city the credit of possessing an indispensable element of advanced civic position, though the city was incidentally deprived of the unique glory of possessing the only underground railway on the continent.

The successful operation of the company's light and power plant is our chief dependence for electric energy for power purposes, civic lighting. Though these are shared by another company, their importance cannot be denied.

In view of such facts as these the citizens will readily see that the City Council should approach the matter of renewal of the Light and Power Co. franchise with an open and even liberal view, recognising that the advantages sought by the company with the safeguards that exist will be largely shared by the citizens. The company itself shows a disposition to be liberal and fair, and should be met in a similar spirit. With five years of the present franchise to run the company voluntarily offers to advance the rate of rebate on bills paid, from 25 to 30 per cent., for the next five years, equivalent to an extra 25 per cent. rebate, for one year, and at the end of that period to submit the rearrangement of rates to the Ontario and Municipal Board, thus insuring a "square deal" to both the company and the public.

The reasons for the company applying for a renewal of their franchise five years in advance, are reasons that will appeal to every business man. A merchant will not wait for arranging the renewal of his lease, or seeking new premises till the day his lease expires. The Light and Power Company naturally desire to be placed in a position of surety, so that preparations for improvements and extensions can be made with reasonable safety.

In this connection the length of term of the renewed franchise is placed at thirty years, no more objectionable than a term of three years, if the franchise is surrounded with the conditions which the City Council is in a position to require. To improve the light and power system and extend the street railway, money will have to be procured by the company. Everybody knows that bonds based on long-term franchises, greatly facilitate, if not entirely make possible the raising of money.

So much for the general principles associated with the company's application. There are detail matters to be considered, which involve a benefit to the city. If the city exacts the conditions necessary the placing of the company's wires underground in the business section of the city, will be a boon of the highest value. In addition to the assurance presumably to be placed in the conditions of the franchise that there will not be advance in rates, we have the power of the Municipal and Railway Board to adjust rates upon a fair basis, a power that makes anything like monopolistic oppression impossible. Besides the Company does not ask an exclusive franchise, and nothing can prevent the city from undertaking municipal lighting on its own account.

At present Peterborough enjoys as favourable rates for power and lighting as any other city in the province. Other systems in other cities may have a lower rate per 1,000 watts, but take into consideration the metre rate of twenty five cents per month, and the resulting rates will be even higher than those prevailing in Peterborough.

It is hoped that the City Council and the citizens will take a broad view of the matter and deal fairly and even liberally with the application of a company to which the city owes much for what it has done and for what it can do in the future for the material advancement of the city—which is a part of the city, and cannot be injured or hampered without corresponding reaction upon the general public interests.

BARGAIN DAY FOR TIMBER BERTHS.

Under the above hedaing the Globe has the following pertinent and timely article:

By an order in Council dated the 20th July the Minister of Lands and Mines asks for tenders for 109 timber berths, totalling in area somewhat over 2,000 square miles. Tenders must be made for these numerous parcels of property by the 15th September. Many of them are situated in remote and inaccessible portions of the Province. A lumberman therefore, who desires to ascertain the value of any berths would have to get very busy. He would just have about six weeks to choose a land-looker, to equip him for his journey, to have the berth properly examined, to have a report made, and then draw out his tender.

Nor is this all. What chance has he getting a responsible, reliable, and qualified land-looker when 108 other lumbermen are seeking for men of that calling at the same time? There are probably not 109 men wholly equipped for doing work work of that kind in the Dominion of Canada.

The Department of Lands and Mines has indeed set the lumbermen of Canada an impossible task. Only those who, for one reason or another, are already familiar with the berths can bid on them, for in the case of many of them no one who is a stranger to their value could venture to put in a bid. Is this advantageous to the revenue of the Province of Ontario? Mr. Cochrane himself cannot sincerely answer that question in the affirmative. The Government which preceded the present, and which the electors have been told was a waster and squanderer of the public estate never sold a batch of timber limits without giving from six to eight months for an examination of the parcels to be sold. Why should six weeks be considered time enough now?

Where is the need for such great haste and why is such an enormous area offered for sale? Is the Province hard up? There never was a time when the Treasurer had unearthed so many sources of revenue. The opening up of the silver territory of Northern Ontario has brought revenues to the Treasurer of which his predecessors never dreamed. The succession duties are brining in a constant and unprecedently large stream of gold. Notice has been given that the corporations will be tapped again with a fresh imposition of taxes. Why then this throwing of an unheard of area of timber lands on the market, and with such haste that it is humanly impossible to get a free and spirited bidding on the berths?

We venture to put these questions to Sir James Whitney, the Premier of the Province. The matter, of course, must have come before him, but surely he is not merely a placid and unthinking concurrer in the recommendation of his Minister of Lands. Certainly the 15th of September will be bargain day for timber berths at the Lands and Mines office in the Legislative Buildings. We respectfully but pointedly draw the Prime Minister's attention to the matter.

The foregoing article derives peculiar significance from the fact that the sale therein dealt with follows closely upon the fiasco in administration represented by the Government's exploitation of the Gillies' Limits mineral property of the province. In the Gillies' limits case private purchasers at the recent sale had so keen an insight, without opportunity of inspection, as to bid upon veins of such remarkable value as to justify the origination of a company with a capital of two and a half millions to work them. Would this valuable limit have been sold for a song if the government had known its value and arranged its reserve bid accordingly? This discovery was made with a few days' effort; in contrast with the prospecting by Government experts for months. If the government prospecting had been bona fide or effective, the government would have been able to set a reserve bid, which would have insured approximate value for a rich section of the limits. As the Globe points out, the lack of opportunity for lumbermen to inspect and appraise any area covered by the proposed sale, will result in low prices; speculative bids, will be the order of the sale. And, if the government know as little about their value as they appear to have known about the Gillies' limits property, they cannot fix an upset price that will protect the interests of the provincial revenue, and somebody, by good luck, good guessing, or some sort of inspiration, may get a bonanza at the expense of the public treasury.

This magnificent island, situated at the head of Clear Lake, just at the entrance into Stony, has been laid out into some twenty five building lots, the plan of which may be seen at the Examiner Office. The location is the very best in the Kawartha Lakes District. The property is exceptionally well wooded. There are good landings, excellent points for buildings, and deep bays for the reception of large and small crafts. Call at the Examiner Office, or J. T. O'Connell's Real Estate Office and see a plan of Island. dw1e

"LITTLE DIGESTERS" SURPRISE PEOPLE

They Make Even Chronic Dyspeptics Forget Their Stomachs

When a man who for years has been unable to eat a square meal without being thoroughly miserable afterward—who has tried doctors and medicines without relief—who is, in fact, a chronic and almost hopeless dyspeptic—when this man finds that by taking a "Little Digester" regularly he can eat 3 hearty meals a day, and feel good over it, he is nearly as much surprised as delighted.

The number of those who have had this experience with "Little Digesters" is steadily growing. More are hearing of them—trying them—being cured by them—every day.

The makers have such complete confidence in them that they guarantee them to cure any case of Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Indigestion or Dyspepsia—or you get your money back.

"Little Digesters", with this absolute guarantee, cost 25c a box at your druggist's, or by mail from the Coleman Medicine Co., Toronto. 28

A New Spain And Moors' Revenge Cause Of All The Spanish Tumult

In the Spanish revolts now stirring Spain and threatening to drive the boy king Alphonso, into exile, are two big facts, both significant.

One is the story of a magnificent historical revenge. It is the story of the Moors. Spanish soldiers drove the Moors from Spain some four centuries ago with sword and the newly invented powder, burning, plundering, killing. Now it is the Moors who are driving back Spanish soldiers from Morocco, the Moors who have given rise to the revolt in Spain.

Boabdil coming back to avenge the wrongs done his people by Gonsalvo de Cordova and Ferdinand and Isabella—1909 evening up the score of 1491—this is a dramatic side light on the present revolt.

Two wars against the Moors in four centuries—one drove the Moors across the Mediterranean, the second shakes the Spanish throne.

The other big fact is that it is the new Spain which is lighting the torches of revolution, and crying "Down with the king."

Barcelona, with its 300,000 people in the busy manufacturing city, and all but a million in the province—Barcelona, progressive, commercial, close to France, and much like France in its spirit—here's where the rebellion broke out.

Not the grape growers of Valencia, not the sheep herders of Murcia not the old-fashioned peasantry of Castile—not the hardy ignorant mountaineers—these weren't th people to lead a rebellion.

Spain has long groaned under the government's imperial policy. In the Spanish-American war, as in the Moroccan expedition, were seen the same pictures of the ignorant peasants—the most ignorant of any of the so-called great peoples of Europe, driven into army transports, crying, beating their breasts.

White faced scared boys in uniforms there they were, as easy opponents for the American Mausers as for the rader weapons of the Moslems across the Mediterranean.

Their wives and mothers and children followed them to the landings, crying bitterly. They didn't know anything about these foreign lands where their boy soldiers were being exiled—they didn't know anything about imperial policies. They only knew that it was wrong and brutal and heart breaking.

But they didn't revolt. For centuries they had been used to being downtrodden and oppressed. They took what they got and though it broke them, they never thought of striking back.

But the people of Barcelona and Catalonia were of a different fiber. They were in touch with the outside world. They had had the liberal education that comes to a manufacturing and trading people. To be successful in business, they had to know the world. And knowing the world, they reserved the right to judge for themselves whether the government's policy was right or wrong, just or unjust.

They have good reasons to distrust the Spanish foreign policy. As a ruler of peoples across the seas, Spain has ben the most inglorious failure in history.

They ruled a mighty empire across the seas once, nearly all South America, Mexico, Central America, the West Indies, the Phillippines.

But those colonists were of Latin blood, like themselves. Volatile, changing, impetuous, indolent, impatient of control, inconstant, people who thought of revolutions as national pastimes.

So one by one Spain was stripped of her colonies, while the people paid the bill in specie and blood. Colombia, Arigentine, Mexico, Central Americas, by revolution, Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines, by conquests.

So when Spain wanted to conquer the proud Moors, the Catalans and Barcelonans, who had read history, rose to say No. An increase in the already heavy taxes, and new levies of troops were the spark necessary to bring discontent to open war.

Successful Students At Late Matriculation Exams.

The results of the junior matriculation examinations were made public to-day, and Principal Kenner's pupils of the Collegiate Institute have most creditably acquitted themselves.

The following list contains the names of two classes of candidates:

(1) Those who have written upon and fulfilled the requirements of the University of Toronto in a sufficient number of subjects for complete pass junior matriculation.

(2) Those who have written upon one or more papers or part papers of this examination, and have obtained 40 per cent. on each paper written.

Matriculation candidates who also wrote on the Normal entrance examination, in whole or in part, should note that the fact of their names appearing in this list indicates only that they passed on the actual matriculation papers taken.

The matriculation value of the standing obtained on the Normal entrance examination can be ascertained only by presenting the certificate of standing to the Registrar of the university or college concerned.

The certificate containing the marks will be sent to the principals of the high schools and the inspectors in about a week. Candidates will apply to these officials, not to the department, for their reports in detail.

'ROUND THE STORES

Peterborough Made Goods should be advertised throughout the world on mailing and advertising matter as often as possible. Local manufacturers when printing their announcements and mailing them to their customers should affix the words "Made in Peterborough." This kind of civic pride would secure to Peterborough world-wide publicity. With the co-operation of business men along this line, Peterborough should secure a reputation for being a City of Progress. When a community reaches the state of prosperity—both industrially and commercially, that this city has attained, it warrants a setting forth of the facts as often as the opportunity is afforded.

What may be accomplished in making a handsome jewelry store out of a small premises has been demonstrated by the firm of Messrs. Clarke & Son, corner George and Brock streets. This store looked at one time as if it was too small for displaying any line of goods to advantage; but by good taste and ingenuity it has been transformed into as pretty and compact a jewelry store as may be found in a week's travel. Recently additional improvements have been made, including the installing of two large oak wall cases with elevating glass doors, finished in a dark grain. The store has been newly grained throughout and beautifully decorated with new wall paper effects, the upper combination consisting of white figured design representing the Goddess of Light, shown on a warm green ingrain paper.

A considerate husband has been trying to keep it quiet, but the facts leaked out. He happened to be detained at the house for a part of the day, and handed his wife, who was going downtown, a quarter of a dollar and requested her to get him three cigars for it.

When she returned she handed him the package, remarking exultantly: "That shows that women can beat men all hollow when it comes to making purchases. I found a place where I could get eight for a quarter instead of three. Isn't that going some?"

And the poor man, as he took his medicine, merely remarked: "It certainly is, dear."

The closing of a portion of the stores on Thursday afternoons at 12:30 o'clock during July and August does not reveal a great deal of harmony in the minds of our storekeepers. It is to be regretted that in this matter all had not decided either to close or remain open. There can be no doubt that, as it is now worked, the movement is an injury to business, and detrimental to our civic appearance.

• • •

Your clothes win or lose. A man may be "a man for a' that," as Burns said, but people, very unwisely in many cases size you up according to your appearance. First impressions are said to be lasting. Appearance—dress, creates these impressions. Cressman's display of "Semi-Ready" garments for men have that cheerful winning look that should make men willing to be judged by their appearance. Not merely because their quality is guaranteed, but because the patterns, the cut, the style, have all received the most careful consideration, and are the result of the efforts of experts who have had long experience in their line.

• • •

The rapid sale of the Automatic Electric Smoothing Iron made by our local electrical novelty firm, The Collier-Cunningham Co., of 668 Spencer street, is the result, not only of a meritorious article, but of good advertising and well arranged publicity. The firm are preparing to make a special exhibit at the Toronto Exposition, consisting of all their electrical appliances—Automatic Irons, Table Toasters, Radiators, Heaters, Curling Tong Heaters, Warming Pads. Photo Mounters, etc. Here is a sample of Collier's optimism:

Leave on the bright side every time,
Don't waste your days repining;
Hitch on your Automatic Iron,
Enjoy your weekly ironing.

Smile, be cheerful, bright and glad,
Don't swelter in hot weather.
With Collier Automatic Iron,
Ironing is really pleasure.

Poultry still remains very dear; in fact, one seldom sees any kind of poultry in the stores or market except chickens and hens, and these only on Saturdays. Every bird is so promptly picked up on Saturdays, that it is impossible to buy them through the week until the following Saturday again. Chickens sell at 35 cents each, and young hens at 30 and 35 cents. Better leave your orders with S. A. Oke, next the market, if you want to be sure of poultry for Sunday.

• • •

Civic Holiday falls due next Monday, August 9. The storekeepers are planning to make Saturday shopping particularly attractive for "go-aways." Messrs. R. Fair & Co., will make Saturday the "banner day" of their midsummer clearance sale. Those who desire to make provision for appearing with something new on at the annual Civic event should consult the Golden Lion's advertisement on the first page of to-day's Examiner.

• • •

The Nelson Music Co., on Simcoe street, west of George, make an effective display of pianos, which are ticketed at prices seldom seen on new instruments. This store is conveniently located for a quiet business visit of enquiry regarding pianos, and is managed by a musician well qualified to explain every detail.

• • •

The "extra specials" for to-morrow at Richard Hall and Son's covers a wide range of summer goods. Women who practice economy cannot overlook the savings, which gives most dependable qualities. The counters and shelves ar full of dress lengths of every conceivable summer weave. White blouses, hair pads, summer underwear, ribbed hose, whitewear and other allied lines, are marked in most cases at a quarter off the usual prices. Read the Advt.

• • •

James R. Bell, grocer and fruiterer, Simcoe street and East City, reports the receipt of early shipments of plums, a fruit which is said to be scarce this season. Mr. Bell has also, fine stocks of other fruit and fresh garden vegetables, as well as groceries.

• • •

The Turnbull Co. are preparing for another sensational remnant sale. It begins next Wednesday and each day is to be made of rare interest to economical shoppers. The heavy selling done by this firm leaves hundreds of "twos and fews"—short lengths, odd lots, etc., which will constitute special value giving. Watch for their page advertisement to-morrow.

You Can Defy The SPRING FATIGUE

And nervous exhaustion, if you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood.

Are you going to go through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system?

It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blood, overcomes the fatigue, the weakness, the feelings of depression, and discouragement which come with spring.

The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest spring medicine because it is the greatest of nerve restoratives. It forms the new, rich, red blood from which vigor, energy and nerve force are created.

If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, sharpen the appetite, improve digestion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint.

Mrs. John P. Shannon, Whiteside, N. S., writes: "I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down system."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THIS BABY, ASLEEP IN ITS CARRIAGE, SHOULD BE PROTECTED BY A THIN VEIL.

HOW TO DRESS BABY IN SUMMER

By Josephine Hill

In the care of babies in the summer weather, you need not only knowledge, but vigilance, and common sense. It is safe to leave on the baby's undershirt—the sleeveless kind, that is now used for infants—during the summer, as the baby's lungs, stomach and abdomen are, in this way, covered with thin flannel. In fact, all the vitals of life (except the brain), are safely tucked under this flannel shirt, and so are guarded against dampness and any draughts, or sudden changes of weather.

Dampness is especially bad for infants; it chills them; it gives them croup if exposed; it gives them cold in the head, and it makes them fret. If you keep the baby's feet warm in damp weather, and keep the chest and abdomen covered with the undershirt, it will be the best precaution against illness.

If you send the baby out in its carriage, put a thin veil over its face, so that it may get the air, but the dampness does not get into its lungs, as the veil acts as a sieve. After sunset is the time to be more careful; the baby should be indoors by 3 or 4 p.m., and if necessary, a small fire, or artificial heat of some kind should be used to dry off the room.

Have fresh air in the room during the night, but let it come through a second room, or have a thin blanket tacked over the part of the window which is open. But if the weather turns suddenly and oppressively warm, don't let the baby suffer by being overdressed, or too well protected. It is perfectly safe to take off the baby's clothes—all except the undershirt—and let it cool off and kick its little feet unhampered by clothes.

Never bathes the baby in cold water. For the morning bath use warm water and soap, and later on during the day, if the baby seems fretful and restless, undress it and bathes it off with tepid water and alcohol. (Be sure ta use pure alcohol—known as 95 per cent.) Use one-half water and one-half alcohol.

In warm weather always undress and sponge the baby before bed-time. Remember they cannot rub their backs, or get the wrinkles out of their clothes, and you must do it for them.

Give your baby proper care and attention, and you will be rewarded by having a healthy and happy child.

Conversation Between The Escaped Prisoner And His Friend, As Told By P. C. Newhall

Wesley Howell and Robert Wilson Committed for Trial, Howell on Charge of Escaping From Custody of Police, and Wilson for Harbouring the Prisoner.

IN COURT YESTERDAY

At a special sitting of the police court yesterday the preliminary hearing in the cases of Wesley Howell who escaped from the police station last Friday and of Robert Wilson, who took him into his home, East City, thus assisting him to escape, was heard and both men were committed for trial. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on their behalf. The one who harboured the prisoner was granted bail.

Some startling evidence was given by P. C. Newhall who, all unknown, to his prisoners, had listened to a conversation between the two in a back kitchen on Mark street, East City, last Friday night.

P. C. McGinty

P. C. McGinty was the first witness called. He testified to having allowed the prisoner out to telephone to some friends. It was about fifteen minutes after twelve when the prisoner asked if he might speak to his brother at Matthews. He had allowed him out three or four times previous to that. When the accused was at the telephone he called McGinty saying someone wanted to speak to him. While the officer was at the telephone the prisoner got away.

McGinty stated that he chased him along Simcoe street to the Peterborough Cereal, where he climbed into a window and hid. Witness searched diligently all day for him but did not see him until he was again arrested.

The Conversation

P. C. Newhall called, stated that he received a telephone message from P. C. Adams about 2 o'clock last Friday afternoon that the prisoner had escaped He came on duty at seven and at ten, he ascertained the prisoner's whereabouts. Accompanied by Police Officers Meharry and Meagher he went to 314 Mark street and saw the fugitive and his friend sitting in a back summer kitchen. The officers remained there until twelve o'clock listening to the conversation

The escaped man said to his friend: "Say, did you get my collar?"

"No I could not find it. I will get you one. What size is it?"

The friend then went upstairs and got one.

The fugitive taking a drink said: "Didn't we give old Charley a g.d. fine back seat."

"Yes, but I would rather it had been that Newhall. You have no enemies in this town for what you did last night. With another kick you would have killed him. I wish you had."

"He is a bad one to get in with. I only wish I could meet him to-night," said the fugitive.

"I thought it was all up with you to-day, but we worked it alright," continued the second man. "They will never suspect me getting your clothes and no one was in your house."

"How did you get in?" asked the fugitive.

"The door was unlocked. The only thing I am afraid of, is that when you get to Toronto, they will be on the watch for you. Those detectives make no friends. One time they are like hoboes and the next like gents. Shave off your moustache, but what about that scar on your lip. It is too big to hide."

"Just let me strike Alice street, and to h—— with the scar," replied the fugitive.

"I am afraid they will telephone and if they should find out I had you here it will make it bad for me. Nobody knows you are here for I never said a word to anybody. A fellow asked if they had got you yet and whether I had seen you, but I told him that I had not."

The escaped man then took out his watch and said: "Well, I must be moving. It is half-past eleven."

His friend replied that he had better not go too soon for one never knows, he said, where one will meet that sneak.

The runaway replied that he wished he could meet him.

"If you should get caught to-night or any other time and you want witnesses, several told me to-day that if they got you again, they would swear they saw Newhall strike you four times on the head with a baton."

"I was near caught when I went for my money at the mill. A little girl told me Meagher rode by me on a wheel and old Charley passed me not two feet away. I was hiding in the grass. I had a good mind to give myself up."

"You would have been a d—— fool to do that. You have a good chance now. Let old Charley look after his own business."

"Well, here goes. I won't forget you. In another twenty minutes they will never see me again."

"For God's sake don't go near the station. Hit a freight. The whole bunch will be there."

They both then had a drink out of a flask. The East City resident gave the fugitive two flasks, tobacco, and matches, shook hands and said goodbye. The escaped prisoner then opened the door about two inches. Newhall and Meharry pulled it open. He tried to get away and the harbourer ran into the corner throwing up his hands saying: "I'm caught. I will go quietly."

At 2 o'clock they returned and got the second man who remarked: "It is too bad that I made such a fool of myself. I would not have had him here had I thought I would be found out. You would have done the same for a friend yourself."

Paid $5 To Bombard Farm Hand With Ancient Eggs

Lindsay, Aug. 6.—An interesting egg case was held in police court on Wednesday afternoon in which a young Woodville farmer was charged with assaulting a hired man from a neighbouring farm. The plaintiff, a young Scotchman, had been in the habit of calling at the accused's father's home where he had worked for some time. One evening last week he paid one of these visits to the home of the accused, where he spent a most enjoyable evening with friends. At 11 o'clock the Scotchman started for home. The road looked clear, but he had not gone far before he felt something strike his head with a biff, bang. Something soft and juicy had caught him on the back of the neck, which he stated were eggs. The eggs continued to come, and before the poor chap could escape his assailant had given him a pretty severe bombardment. The eggs, he stated, were by no means fresh ones and they sent forth an odour which was more than the Scot could stand.

His clothes were ruined and when he arrived home he was in a terrible condition, and next day entered an action against his assailant with the result that Magistrate More imposed a fine of $5.00 and costs on him.

Mr. L. V. O'Connor appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. Holmes Hopkins for the accused.

Young Lady And Little Girl Were Badly Hurt In Runaway

While coming from the Grove School at Lakefield into the village yesterday afternoon, Rev. A. W. McKenzie's Shetland pony ran way, throwing the occupants of the buggy into the ditch, inflicting rather serious injuries to two of them.

Miss Philippa Dela Fosse, of this city with Miss Winnie McKenzie and her four-year-old sister were driving in the vehicle when the animal became frightened and the young lady driving was unable to control the spirited pony. All were thrown out and were more or less injured. The little girl's arm was broken and Miss Dela Fosse was cut about the head. Medical aid was summoned and the injuries were attended to.

Can't Stop This Street Car Strike And Sidewalks Are Wearing Out

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 5.—Evansville is the victim of one of the most stubborn street car strikes that has ever been called in the United States. For several weeks the business of the city has been paralysed, people have been inconvenienced and amusement parks have been closed, all because 78 street car men could not effect a settlement of their difficulties with the Southern Indiana Traction Co. the corporation that controls practically all the street car lines in Indiana.

Gov. Marshall and Mayor John J. Nolan have tried every known means to bring the dispute to a close, but without success. Mayor Nolan has practically played lackey boy to both sides in order to relieve Evansville of the burden the strike has placed upon her. Mayor Nolan made a trip to Indianapolis a few days ago, bearing a message from the strikers to the company, promising to waive all demands and to return to work under old conditions. The company refused to consider the application.

Then the Mayor succeeded in bringing the company officials to Evansville for a conference with the men. At the morning conference the men agreed to return at old time and old pay. The company officials said they would give an answer in the afternoon. In the afternoon the question of five preferred runs came up and the men left the hall. They announced that they had gone back to their old demands, higher wages and a recognition of the union.

So the strike is still on and most of Evansville people are walking.

After the 16th of August services will be held in the tent on George street, next to the Customs House until the hall is finished.

GIRLS GOT INTO A FISTIC ENCOUNTER

An incident that caused quite an excitement occurred on Robinson street yesterday at noon, when a number of girls were returning to their work at the Quaker Oats Co. Two of them got into an argument that finally resulted in a fistic encounter. They became so angry, that they pulled each other's hair, and false creations that are much worn in the hair by ladies were seen flying in all directions. Their clothes became torn in the melee and they fought like demons. Several witnessed the scuffle and were greatly amused. No injury was done save that both girls were pretty much ruffled in their appearance.

Six Months In The Central For Assaulting P. C. Newhall

Six months in the Central Prison was the sentence meted out by Magistrate Dumble at the police court yesterday afternoon to Wesley Howell, the man who pleaded guilty of assaulting P. C. Newhall, causing him grievous bodily harm. The prisoner who afterwards escaped and was captured, pleaded guilty last Friday morning to the charge and was remanded for one week.

Mr. G. N. Gordon asked on behalf of his client that he be allowed to withdraw that plea but His Worship refused.

P. C. Newhall gave evidence as to the nature of the assault made upon him.

In passing sentence His Worship stated that the prisoner was getting no more than he deserved. The act that he committed was that of a brute. He sentenced him to six months in the Central and on the charge of escaping from the custody of the police he was sent up for trial.

COLONIAL GLOOMY.

Delegate Says Defence Conference is Not Going Well.

London, Aug. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A colonial delegate to the Imperial Defence Conference remarked yesterday, "All we are doing is so far absolutely secret. All I can tell you is that things are going the wrong way, and I'm sorry for it."

At the United Service Club dinner to the Imperial Defence Conference delegates, Major-Gen. Arbuthnot presided. Sir Frederick Borden, Canadian Minister of Militia, speaking in response to the toast, "Our Guests," said that some few years ago the forces of Canada were an unorganized mob; now they had got their different departments of the army in the Dominion, and could at once put 50,000 men in the field, and in a few weeks another 50,000. They were also going to try to do their duty with regard to the navy at the moment.

They in Canada were convinced that if there was danger or risk they would do as they did at the time of the South African war. They would come to the rescue of the Empire with all the money they could get and all the men that might be necessary in order to help this country man its fleets. They in Canada were going to begin at once to do their duty to lay the foundation in building up a navy which could co-operate with and be part when trouble arose of the great British navy. (Cheers.)

Gen. Smuts of South Africa said blood was thicker than water, yet in another sense there was something that was thicker than blood. The tie of honor was even greater and stronger. (Cheers.) He hoped that as time went on it would be more and more realized that it was no tie of blood which held them together, but the tie of community of interests, justice, fair play and equality.

Boy Charged With Murder.

Guysboro, N.S., Aug. 6.—The preliminary enquiry into the charge of murder against Andrew Joby Issard, a colored boy, for beating Maggie Ash to death, in the absence of his parents, was held yesterday. He was sent to the Supreme Court on the murder charge.

It appears that Joseph Issard, father of the boy, was paid by the overseers of the poor for Manchester district, to look after Annie Ash and her two children, Maggie, aged 6, and a younger sister, aged 2, all being parish charges.

On Tuesday the boy's parents left to attend a picnic. As soon as they had gone, the boy attacked the mother of the children, Annie Ash, who is a cripple, and beat her brutally. He then turned on Maggie, knocked her down with a stick and then struck her on the head with a rock, killing her.

The dead child's mother and the boy's young brother were eye-witnesses and gave evidence.

Gun. Otter to See Trials.

Petawawa Camp, Ont., Aug. 6.—The aerodrome "Baddeck No. 1," was taken from the assemblying shed yesterday afternoon. The wings are set up, but the motor remains to be installed and small adjustments made. The preliminary trial may be commenced this afternoon. Gen. W. D. Otter, chief of general staff, and Col. Gwatkin, director of operations and staff duties, with other staff officers are expected to visit the camp next Monday.

The first practice in Canada with 18-pound quick-firing field guns has been held with good effect. The guns worked easily and the drill is simple and gave satisfaction to both officers and detachments. A departmental trial of fuses for these guns was held yesterday.

Thaw to Be an Author.

New York, Aug. 6.—Harry K. Thaw will devote his life to literature if he wins his fight for freedom from the Matteawan Asylum, and, anticipating such a victory, his mother, Mrs. William Thaw, and her daughter Alice, the former Countess of Yarmouth, have spent about $25,000, it is reported, in fitting up a corner of the new Thaw home on Fifth avenue, Pittsburg, as a literary den for Thaw.

Alice Thaw has also decided to cast her lot with her brother in his literary career in case he is liberated, and she has already shown herself a good business woman by making contracts for Thaw's writings.

Sockeyes In Canadian Waters.

Seattle, Washington, Aug. 6.—Dr. David Starr Jordan, the American fishery expert, and Prof. Prince, the Canadian commissioner, announced yesterday that the sockeye salmon are all Canadian hatched. This point, it is said, will be brought forward by the Canadians if the American fishermen, protesting against the Canadian hatcheries, carry out their threat to procure retaliatory measures forbidding export of fresh salmon.

Ninety Men Fell to Ground.

Chatham, Aug. 6.—Two serious accidents happened at the barn-raising on the farm of Hector Johnson, River road, Raleigh. A beam fell, throwing 90 men to the ground, but only five were slightly injured. Alex. Rice, while working on the barn, fell 12 feet, breaking his collar bone and injuring a lung. His condition is serious.

Etruria and Umbria for Sale.

New York, Aug. 6.—The day of the single screw liner is done. The once crack Cunard racers, Etruria and Umbria, which first cut under the six-day record, are tied up for sale at Birkenhead, England. They cost nearly $400,000 each to build, but no reasonable offer will be refused. They were launched in 1888.

Payne Tariff Bill Signed.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 6.—In the midst of a heavy thunderstorm, President Taft late yesterday afternoon signed the Payne tariff bill, adding to his signature, "signed five minutes after five o'clock, Aug. 5, 1909. W.H.T." He used a pearl pen sent from the Phillipines for the purpose, and which he presented to Congressman Payne.

The President joked merrily with those who were present.

The new tariff becomes law to-day. The President issued a statement last night declaring that while the measure is not by any means perfect, it is a sincere and honest effort to carry out platform pledges and embodies a real revision downward.

Entitled to Month's Notice.

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 6.—Judge Finlayson yesterday decided against the Dominion Coal Co. in a test case brought to evict Angus Young, one of the U.M.W. miners, from one of the company-owned houses. Young's defence was that he was illiterate and had been unable to read the agreement he signed with the company and which he believed was simply an agreement to pay $3.50 per month rental. The judge held that the agreement was not a lease and that the tenant was entitled to a month's notice of removal.

Two Marine Accidents.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 6.—After lightering about 500 tons of pig iron from the cargo of the Canadian steamer Mapleton, ashore on Grave Island shoal, near Detour, the vessel was released with her fore peak full of water. The accident occurred in a dense fog, the boat being on her maiden trip up the lakes.

The steamer Gargentwa, belonging to Ganley Bros. here, struck something while making the turn near the dark hole yesterday morning, and it was necessary to beach her.

Bribing Deposed Shah.

Teheran, Aug. 6.—It is understood that the Government has now offered Mohammed Ali, the deposed Shah, an annual pension of $75,000 on condition that he will deliver up the jewels enumerated in the Nationalist inventory, or inform the Government how he disposed of the missing gems. It is believed that Mohammed Ali will accept this new offer, and his departure from Persia, probably for Russia, is expected within a fortnight.

Boy Killed by Thresher.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—At Vanessa, the nine-year-old son of Isaac Roberts, farmer, was run over by a threshing machine and killed. He was playing tag with his brother and a little girl and attempted to run under the machine. The girl made a lunge at him, frightening the horses, which started to run away.

Ottawa Boy Drowns.

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—Edmund Normoyle, aged 11, son of Patrick Normoyle, Cumberland street, was drowned in the Rideau Canal last evening. He took cramps. His little brother and two other youngsters saw him drown.

4,500 Men at Work.

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 6.—The general situation at the collieries of the Dominion Coal Co. is considered satisfactory by the company, which has now 4,500 men at work, all told. Of these 3,000 are at work in the collieries, 2,200 being underground. The output Wednesday was 9,400 tons, an actual increase in the quantity taken from the collieries. The falling off is in the amount taken from the banks.

Fourteen men were arrested at No. 2 for loitering.

Earl Grey Sails for Yukon.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 6.—Earl Grey sailed yesterday afternoon for Skagway en route to Dawson. He expects to return to Vancouver about Aug. 30, and remain on the coast a week or ten days, after which he will go to camp in the valley of Upper Columbia River, East Kootenay, where he will be joined by Lady Grey.

Politics In Jail.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—G. A. Pratt, deputy governor of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, has resigned after 10 years' service in that post. He was trained in the Royal Irish Constabulary, is a strict disciplinarian and has had friction with some political appointees.

Big Steel Plant for Mexico.

Mexico City, Mexico, Aug. 6.—A gigantic steel plant will be established in this city within the coming year by French and American capitalists. The outlay will be $50,000,000.

The steel will be made by a secret process.

Stockholm Famine Grows.

Stockholm, Aug. 6.—Stockholm today is suffering seriously from a shortage of food, a result of the labor conflict. Bread is held at terms practically prohibitive, the restaurant prices for meals are very high.

The strikers themselves are living practically on fish. Thousands of them are camping out and spend their time in angling.

Soldiers are distributing milk in limited quantities and supervising the sale from milk cars at the railroad stations. Deliveries of ice have ceased.

Paupers from the state poor houses have been enlisted to replace the striking grave-diggers and undertakers, and instead of hearses, stretchers are being used to carry corpses through the streets to the cemeteries under military escort.

FARMERS LOSE HEAVILY.

Hail In West Is Devastating Small Areas of Wheat.

Winnipeg, Aug. 6.—The present are anxious days with the western farmer, Mid-August frequently sees night frosts, which occasionally do great damage, but so far the lowest temperatures have been well up in the forties. However, a danger peculiar to extremely high temperatures is violent rain, which is not infrequently preceded by hail. Manitoba and Saskatchewan are being daily visited by these storms, traveling erratically. The areas affected usually are small and individuals are sufferers rather than communities, and the aggregate will not materially suffer from this cause.

Rosthern, in central Saskatchewan, had 2,000 acres devastated by hail on Wednesday, while yesterday Langham, Yorkton and Hanley, in the same province, suffered, four townships in the latter and two in Langham being reported totally destroyed, Yorkton's loss being appraised at a thousand acres.

The rain will invigorate and help to fill the later grains. It will delay the maturing of riper grains, giving rust and fungoids a chance to attack the grain, but this is not likely to affect anything seriously, and with the settling of the weather it is safe to say that better than an average crop will be garnered.

The heaviest rain of several seasons fell here yesterday afternoon, preceded by hail.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Edward Goring, aged 14, was drowned at Bracebridge.

Grave-diggers at Stockholm have joined the general strike.

Zeppelin's air ship circled the tower of Cologne Cathedral yesterday.

The initials of the designer of the new Lincoln (U.S.) pennies are to be removed.

The Southern Pacific Railway will use oil-burning locomotives exclusively in Nevada.

Gen. Charles Louis Tremeau has been appointed commander-in-chief of the French army, in succession to Gen. De La Croix.

"Bob" Burdette, humorist and Baptist preacher, who is seriously ill at Los Angeles from an injury to the spine has been placed in a plaster cast.

The National Council, Knights of Columbus, will meet next year at Quebec. James A. Flaherty was elected supreme knight, and M. H. Carmody, D.S.K.

John Level, master mechanic of the Buffalo mines concentrator, Cobalt, met with a painful accident, necessitating the amputation of his right foot. He used his foot to straighten a belt and slipped.

The Militia Department has issued certificates to 6,573 South African veterans and warrants have been issued by the exterior department to 6,259 ex-soldiers, 2,000 of whom have definitely located on the land.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, who have been in Europe for some weeks, will sail for Quebec on the Empress of Ireland, on Friday, the 13th, and should reach Ottawa about the 21st. Mr. Oliver will then go to Seattle.

Four Men Drown.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Aug. 6.—A drowning accident, resulting in the loss of four lives, occurred here yesterday. A party of eight left the city for a pleasure resort opposite Charlottetown, in a lobster boat to prepare for a picnic to be held next Monday. It was necessary to land in a punt, a leaky craft. Seven of the men were on board it, and when half the distance had been traversed, sank. The drowned are: Ephraim Gallant, Harry Gallant, James Barnett and Daniel McAuley. Ephraim Gallant leaves a widow and one son. The others were from 20 to 25, unmarried.

Half-Buried Rancher Dies.

Lethbridge, Alta., Aug. 6.—Norman Lewis Johnson, aged 36, single, a homesteader in Porcupine Hills, dug a hole beside a huge boulder, with the intention of burying it. The boulder, however, slipped in prematurely, half burying Johnson and forcing his pickage into the leg from ankle to knee. He was pinned there forty-eight hours before neighbors found and rescued him. He was hurried to Pincher Creek Hospital, where he soon died. His brother is a doctor in Toronto.

Sewer Laborers Strike.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—Thirty-five employes of Reid and Mitchell, contractors doing sewer work in West Brantford, have struck for $1.75 per day. They get $1.50.

Delicious Preserves

No housekeeper need again apologize for "store" goods when guests arrive unexpectedly.

It is easy to make appetizing, wholesome and less xpensive preserves with St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar, that every housekeeper is putting up her own stock this summer for next winter.

Their reward will come when they delight their friends and guests with preserves of thier own make. And what just pride can they take as these delicious home-made preserves are praised!

The children too, will enjoy the pure luscious fruit as it is preserved by St. Lawrence Sugar.

St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar is made from pure cane sugar, and contains more saccharine substance, than sugar made from other natural products.

In preserving a smaller quantity of St. Lawrence Granulated is required. It is therefore more economical for the thrifty housekeeper.

It is sold in bulk in smaller quantities at your grocers, but we recommend the 20-pound cotton sacks, put up at the refinery specially for the home. This quantity is convenient for preserving time, and besides, you can be sure of the genuine brand, by buying it in these original packages.

Ask your grocer to supply you with St. Lawrence Granulated in these 20-pound sacks, and get clean sugar and strictly full weight.

If he cannot supply you with these 20-pound bags send his name and address to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will tell you where it can be obtained.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catologue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance:—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

HEYDLER TO HEAD NATIONAL LEAGUE

JOHN HEYDLER

John Heydler will be elected president of the National League to succeed Harry Pulliam.

No man is better fitted for the position than the quiet, unassuming secretary who ever since Pulliam became head of the oldest base ball organization has carried upon his shoulders the burden of $10,000,000 business.

For months before Harry Pulliam shot himself, Heydler was to all intents and purposes president. He acted as president during the long vacation given Pulliam by the league, when his resignation was refused last winter, and had he desired he could have continued in the office, for he has been tested thoroughly and was not wanting.

As secretary of the league for years, Heydler knows better than anyone else the inside workings of the organization. He is a trained man of business, with a great capacity for work and of a temperament not easily upset.

The National League will meet in extraordinary session within the next few days to officially elect Heydler to the office vacated by a bullet, and Heydler will succeed the best friend he ever had—poor, gentle-hearted Harry Pulliam.

WHAT WINNER DID AFTER M. AND M.

How would you feel if you won the world's greatest harness horse race and $40,000 with it?

What sort of celebration would you indulge in?

There have been some riotous scenes following the M. and M. Often its finish has been the office for the owner of the winning horse to make a descent on the wine room and surround all the bubble water in sight. Often these celebrations have been continued down town, only to wind up when nature rebelled.

Somewhat different was the celebration which S. A. Fletcher, jr., the Indianapolis banker who owns Margin, chose.

From the stand Fletcher watched Margin finish her third heat. He ducked to the telegraph office. There, without hesitation, he filed the following telegram which, for terseness, eloquence and sentiment would be hard to equal in literature.

"Mrs. S. A. Fletcher, jr., Indianapolis, Ind.: We have won the M. and M. and all that goes with it. I would give it all if you were only here."

THE MANAGERS OF THE SENIOR BALL TEAMS AND THEIR DUTIES

With the Senior Baseball League in the most critical and interesting situation of the summer there seems to be lack of wisdom and good sense shown by the managers of the four teams and their supporters who, by the way, are more valuable when they are not talking, and like little Willie, should be seen, not heard. The four teams commenced the season with the understanding that they were to join forces principally to keep the League securely together and of course to individually fight hard for the championship. T. A. S. got away to a grand start and it looked as if they were not to be overtaken. But like the best of fillies they had an off day or two and Park St. came up alongside of them in first place.

Not so long ago the managers held a curb meeting when they decided to forsake Riverside Park for reasons of their own. No provision was made in regard to finances for paying the umpire, nothing was ventured as to how the crowd was to be policed and as the League had been supplying balls, the teams having put up the money, some consideration might have been given this question as the life of a base ball is all too short. A gate was collected the first Saturday and was encouraging, but none of it was handed to the League. The managers divided it among themselves, exactly the same result as if they had sent it to the League.

At a recent game there were no new balls and those which were used are alleged to have not been fit to give to a back yard team. Some one suggested a grounds umpire and a grounds umpire was employed. The new innovation was not a howling success. There was enough talk about it, but it was entirely complimentary. After taking these steps themselves, of their own free will, the officers of the League are asked to settle several difficulties which have arisen as a result of the managers cutting their own trail and at present it is growing rough and a bit thorny. There appears to have been a lack of harmony among the managers of late. They are really the executive of the League and from their numbers they constitute the majority of the officers. On the baseball field they seem to forget their double position and of their responsibility to the League as well as to their own team. The manager that suggested the double umpire was perfectly aware of the fact that he had been one of those to decide that Dan McCabe should be the official umpire for the season. Yet the change was made and following that game no protest was made in regard to the decisions. Now, however, there are those who want only the single umpire and it may be stated that the general opinion was that Dan could not have been improved upon for the position he kindly accepted and the change is looked upon by outsiders as uncalled for. It it up to the managers to take hold of the situation which they have brought upon themselves.

FIRST LESSONS IN ART OF BASEBALL

Question—Suppose men are on first and second, and one has been retired, should the batter try for a long hit, or a long fly?

Answer—Why not bunt?

Question—Wouldn't a long hit or a long fly be better?

Answer—Not necessarily. It's almost certain that under the conditions suggested, the defense will be on the lookout for a hard drive and a well-executed bunt, which has not been telegraphed in advance, will cross the infield and send them up in the air. It's a 10 to 1 shot that neither the pitcher nor first baseman will be expecting a bunt, and the chance for the runner to reach first is excellent, while if a fast man is on second he will have a chance to score by a daring sprint. This play was pulled off in the National League by one of the best batters in the game, and his action so rattled the opposing team that what had been an airtight game became an easy victory.

GIANT PITCHER CUBS' RELIANCE

ED. RUELBACH

Once more "Big Ed" Ruelbach, the Cubs' giant pitcher, has worked to the fore among the National League pitchers. For the past three years the big fellow has led the old league pitchers, but Chance tried to trade him early this season when he was wobbling, and not a club would take him.

Seemingly Ruelbach was an applicant for membership in the once-was club, but when everything seemed darkest he began winning and his splendidly consistent work has kept the Cubs in second place, when had he wavered, nothing would have held the team up.

Ruelbach defeated New York July 22, having won nine straight games, during which he allowed but 42 hits and seven runs. Instead of going back he is better than ever, and Chance is now using him in the games likely to be most desperately contested.

THE TRIGGER

The regular shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club was held yesterday afternoon at the Driving Park, when the following scores were made at 25 birds each:

|---|---|
| L. Hall | 19 |
| H. Routley | 17 |
| C. Lech | 14 |
| C. Wood | 13 |
| M. Miller | 11 |

The next shoot will be held on Thursday, August 19th.

CIVIC HOLIDAY MEET

The Civic Holiday meet of the Victoria Harriers' Club promises to be a big success. The entries closed last night and the list shows some good men in the hundred yards and other closed events. Brogrammes are being prepared and will be procured on Monday. Competent officials have promised to take charge of the races and the affir gives promise of a decided success. The open events are particularly emphasized. The prizes are good and the Club points out that they would like to see many take part. For instance in the married men's race they do not intend to allow professionals or recognized fast sprinters to enter, as that robs the race of the interest it should have to the general public. Full particulars of the events will be given in to-morrow's issue.

TO COBOURG FROM CAMPBELLFORD

A big excursion passed through the city to-day from Campbellford to Cobourg. A special train of six coaches arrived here about half past ten. The excursion is under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church of Campbellford. They will return to-night, leaving Cobourg at ten o'clock.

OPERATIONS OF AN UP-TO-DATE PLANT

From Farm and Dairy.

The Kerwood Cheese and Butter Factory is situated in the village of Kerwood on the Sarnia branch of the G.T.R., 26 miles west of London and is at present owned and operated by Wm. Waddell. Nine years ago this plant was a small cheese factory operating for six months in the year and making less than 50 tons of cheese a year. At present the factory is in operation for the full 12 months and the output for the present year will reach 75 or 80 tons of cheese and nearly 100 tons of butter.

This increase in the business is attributed to the fact that both butter and cheese are manufacured. Milk or cream is received and the business carefully managed with a view of giving patrons the best possible returns which are promptly paid.

Butter is manufactured 12 months in the year from milk received at the factory. It is separated by three De Laval power separators. The skim milk is returned to the patrons. Cream is also received from those patrons who have hand separators and prefer to skim the milk at the farm, the cream being delivered daily in individual cans by the same waggons that draw the milk. Cheese is made from May 1st to October 31st for all patrons who prefer to patronise the cheese factory. The whey is also skimmed and butter manufactured from the cream, the butter being sold as a distinctly separate brand from the creamery.

Butter and cheese are sold and shipped weekly. Patrons are paid monthly on the 15th to 18th of each month for the preceding month. In May of the present year a Eureka refrigerator was installed which is giving good satisfaction and when kept reasonably well closed can be kept at a temperature of 38 degrees with an economical use of ice. At present, the butter is nearly all being marketed in one pound prints, the bulk of it going to the London market where careful attention to quality for years has secured a splendid market.

Iron Moulders' Excursion To Hamilton On Saturday, Aug. 14

One of the most inviting excursions of the year is that which is slated for Saturday, August 14, under the auspices of the Iron Mounders' Union No. 191. It is being held to Hamilton, where on that day there will be a grand demonstration in honour of the 50th anniversary of the Iron Moulders' Union of North America. A special train leaves the G.T.R. station in this city at 6 a.m. on Saturday, the 14th and stops at Port Hope, Oshawa and Toronto, arriving in Hamilton at 10.55 that morning. Twelve hours are allowed to those who wish to return the same day, as the train does not leave Hamilton until 10 p.m. All tickets are good to return on regular trains up to and including Monday, August 16th. The unions will hold their demonstration at Mountain View Park, where attractions, numerous and varied, will be found. The tickets from Peterborough are $2.40.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mr. Henry Morris, of Springfield, Ohio, is visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. Jas. Brandon of Toronto, and her daughter, Dorothy, are visiting friends in the city.

Miss Maud Watts of Lakefield, is visiting in Peterborough at her sister's, Mrs. Bryne, Water Street.

Miss Reta and Lillian Williamson, of Sonya, are the guests of Miss Olive Elliott, 53 Olive Ave., Peterborough.

Miss Amy Adams of Henry street, Lindsay, is visiting Miss Gladys and Ola Mulligan, 804 George street, city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scott and Miss Edith Scott leave to-morrow morning for Chicago, Ill., where they will in future reside.

Miss Violet Shepherd entertained a number of her friends last night at her home, 560 Albert street, on the occasion of her birthday.

At the time of going to press this afternoon the pleasing intelligence was received from St. Joseph's Hospital that Mr. George Riley is steadily improving.

Among the Canadians registered at the Canadian building in July at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle was Mr. F. J. Might, Merchant, Peterborough.

During the absence of the rectors of St. John's and All Saints' churches, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt is answering the sick calls of the members of these respective congregations, and will respond to all the work connected with them.

Misses Maud Adams and Mary McWilliams, East City, leave to-night on a two-weeks' boat trip to Sault Ste. Marie and Mackinaw. They joined at Toronto to-morrow morning by Misses Ada Graham and Lena Aikens.

Mr. John Crowley, who has conducted a blacksmith shop in Otonabee for some years, leaves on Tuesday for the Northwest. He will take up residence near Edmonton and will engage in sheep raising and chicken farming. He will be much missed by his many friends.

Rev. J. G. Lewis, formerly pastor of the Mark Street Methodist Church, but at present pastor of the Main Street Methodist Church, Picton, is in the city on his holidays, and will spend a month in Peterborough and the vicinity. Mr. Lewis' family preceded him by a week and will share his visit to this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. John Braden, of Shuter street, Toronto, former residents of Peterborough, after spending ten days visiting Mrs. Wm. Carter, and other relatives in Keene and vicinity, have come to the city for a few days, the guests of Mr. G. W. Mulligan, 804 George street, whose wife is a sister of Mr. Braden.

William Hutchison and wife celebrated the 40th anniversary of their wedding day on Thursday, July 29. They were pleasingly surprised by the presentation of a cabinet of handsome silver knives, forks and spoons from their son and daughter, Melvin J. and Leah Hutchinson. Their numerous friends join in heartiest congratulations. — Bowmanville Statesman.

MUST REMOVE THE OLD RUBBISH AT ONCE

Chief Rossel served a notice on D. Florence to have the old rubbish removed from the burnt warehouse on Simcoe street. The neighbours are complaining of the foul odour coming from it and Chief Rossel gives the owner twenty-four hours to remove it.

FEELS CONFIDENT OF STRIKING OIL

Mr. Jas. Peat, who is sinking a gas well on the Kincaid farm, states that owing to a mishap work is suspended. He says that in a few days it will be resumed. The well is now down 900 feet, and Mr. Peat expects to strike oil or gas before 600 feet is reached. He further added that the geological formation there indicates that gas or oil exists. The only thing he fears is that the Trenton rock may not be sufficiently deep. It appears that the rock becomes more shallow as you approach the west. He thinks better results might be obtained a few miles further east. By this he does not mean to convey the idea that gas or oil will not be found here. He is hopeful that this test will produce satisfactory results. It may be necessary to sink other wells, as the wealthy Pennsylvania syndicate, who are operating here have every confidence that they will be completely successful.

THE VALUE OF TURPENTINE

When all else fails the physician recommends his wealthy patient to take a trip to the turpentine grove as a cure for throat and lung troubles. The turpentine of commerce cannot very well be used but by adding Minard Dr. Chase succeeded in getting up the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that was ever discovered. It is known as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

KEEPING WATCH ON CITY'S COIN

Ald. Morrow Endeavouring to Keep the Expenses Within Appropriations.

At a recent meeting of the Council Alderman Morrow, chairman of the Finance Committee stated that he intended to see that none of the appropriations were overdrawn. The condition is now favourable as none of the appropriations have been exceeded, and the indications are that the expenses will be kept within the estimated amounts. Alderman Morrow stated that he had authorized City Treasurer Adams not to issue any checks in the case of an appropriation that is overdrawn. The Finance Minister has been keeping a close tab on the expenditures of the various committees, and the aim is to complete the year without any of the estimates being exceeded.

FEARED PARALYSIS

Mr. F. A. Kreta, Schwartz, Que., writes, "For one year I was a complete nervous wreck, could not rest or sleep, had indigestion and terrible headaches and constantly feared paralysis. Six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food made me well and strong. There is no treatment in the world so good as this for building up the nervous system."

Pittsburg Bakers Strike.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—A strike of the Hebrew bakers in the city is beginning to assume considerable importance. Wednesday five of the strikers were arrested and yesterday morning seven more warrants were sworn out, as the result of the wrecking of a bakery by a mob. Yesterday morning a bread wagon was demolished in the street and the driver assaulted. Another wagon was stoned. The situation is a serious one, for the eight or ten thousand Jewish residents of the northeast quarter of the city, as many families are unable to get any bread at all.

Stolen Bank Bills Circulating.

Kingston, Aug. 6.—Some of the Traders' Bank bills stolen a few months ago from the Dominion Express car between Ottawa and Toronto are being put in circulation in the northern part of Frontenac County, and station agents, storekeepers, etc., have been notified to be on the watch for them. Detectives are at work. The bills are all of one denomination, namely, $5, and are only partly signed.

Rabies Will Be Fatal.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—Advices have been received from the Pasteur Institute, New York, that there is no hope for the three-year-old son of Bert Martin, Elgin street, bitten here by a mad dog, owing to the lapse of time before treatment was administered.

It was three weeks before the analysis of the dog's head was made, determining that it had had rabies.
